$4 Million Hospital Expansion Under Way

Northwest Carries Full Patient Load

by HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

More than 50,000 patients — one of every three residents were cared for at Northwest Community Hospital durings i first three years of service to the northwes suburban community

But last year — except for emergency cases — the hospita saw 344 days when at least one area resident was turned awa for lack of bed space.

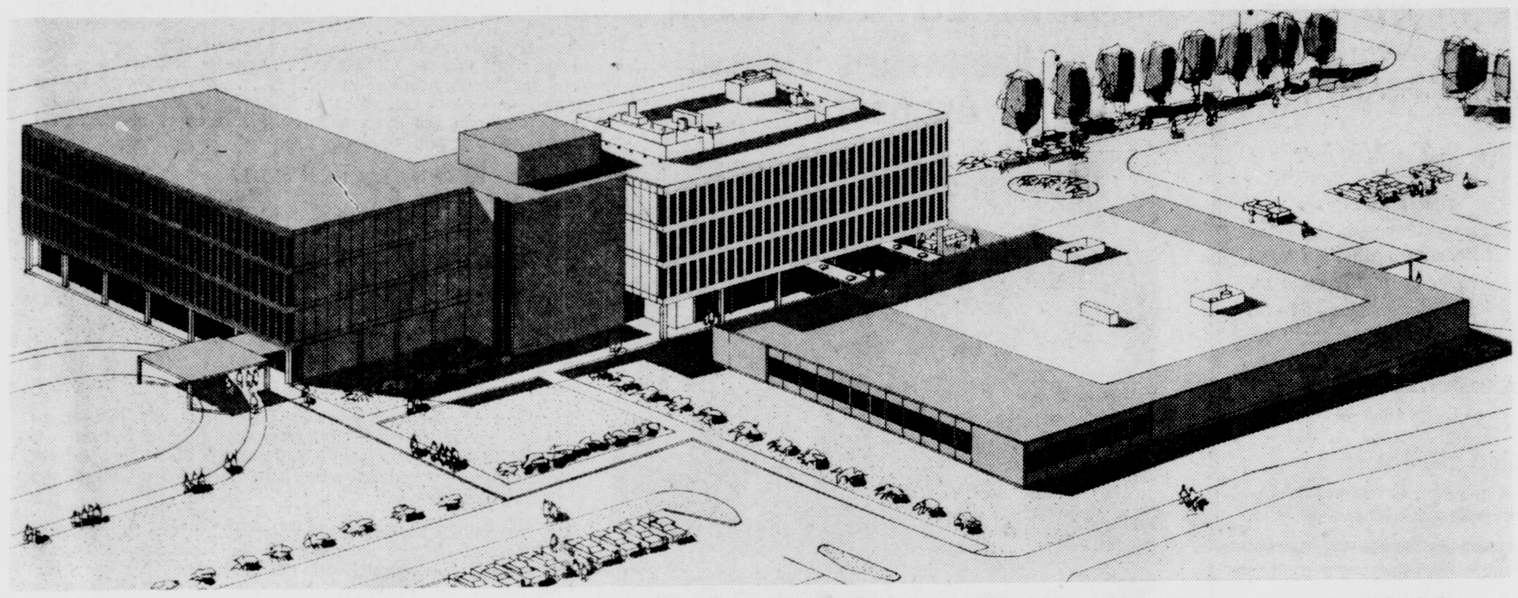
Hospital records show there were 3,544 surgical procedures in 1962, but except for emergencies an average of 42 operations had to be canceled each month due to overcrowding of facilities.

To meet the growing shortage of hospital space in an area of rapidly-increasing population, a massive $4 million expansion program is being announced this week by A. C. Buehler, chairman of the hospital board of trustees.

Nicholas M. Lattof, board o trustees vice chairman, h· been unanimously chosen by the hospital trustees to direct th financial campaign as general chairman, the same position he held in the initial hospital fund campaign.

"To provide, periodically ex- Buehler.

Expanded facilities are planned for the X-ray and laboratory facilities; for emergency and out-patient rooms; for post-surgical recovery room; employees' cafeteria; equipment sterilization room; office space; medical records; and cast room. Waiting areas out of the hallways are included for X-ray, laboratory, emergency and cast-room patients.



Architect's conception of proposed $4 million building expansion for Northwest Community Hospital. Additions shown in darker-shaded areas.

New hospital areas, in addition to the 100 new beds, are to be included for therapeutic radiation room; special nursing care unit for critically ill patients; mental health facilities; research laboratories; meditation room; fathers' waiting room; classrooms and meeting rooms; and executive health program section.

The expanded facilities are adequate to care for an additional 160 beds, report hospital spokesmen. The 160-bed addition will be the third phase of the total hospital building program and is not slated until sometime from 1968 to 1972.

One indication of the overcrowding at the hospital, according to statistics of the Chicago Hospital Council, is the maternity occupancy rate at Northwest Community — consistently the highest in the entire Chicago area.

The lack of bed space is understandable, explained Lattof, since there were 40,000 people in the hospital service area when the first plans were made — today there are more than 140,000.

Project of Chamber

Free Safety Program For Cars Is Saturday

Announcement of Arlington Heights third annual Auto Safety Check program was made this week by Jack Heintz, co-chairman of the Chamber of Commerce safety committee.

The program will be conducted free of charge for all local auto owners.

"If we can save just one life or prevent just one accident on the highways we'll feel it has been a successful venture," Heintz told the Herald.

A COMPLETE auto inspection service will be operated for three days at the Arlington Fender and Body Shop, 910 W. Northwest Hwy.

Schedule is this Saturday, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., Wednesday, May 15, 12:30 to 5 p.m., and Saturday, May 25, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The program is sponsored by the Chamber with the cooperation of the Arlington Heights Woman's Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 981, Lions Club, Arlington Heights Safety Council and police department.

INSPECTIONS WILL include checking auto front end alignment, chassis, brakes, lights, exhaust systems and other auto parts pertinent to good safety, Heintz said.

Safety stickers will be distributed by the woman's club and coffee and doughnuts provided by the Chamber during the three days of the program.

Last year, Heintz noted, more than 1,000 autos went through the safety check lanes. The check takes from 10 to 15 minutes.

MEMBERS OF this year's Chamber safety committee are Curt Kenyon, co-chairman of the program, Robert Heller, Albert Volz Jr., Harold Nebel, Robert Flood and Pat Randall.

Those interested in volunteering their time any of the three testing days are asked to telephone CL 3-1703.

Equipment available at Arlington Fender is the same used in state inspections of school buses and trucks.

Ten trained auto mechanics will be at work during the program.

Motorists will be under no compulsion to have faulty parts replaced or repairs made, Heintz stressed.

School Board

The District 25 Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the district office building, 301 W. South St. The meetings are open to the public.

Oral Polio Makeup Is Scheduled

A special makeup "clinic" for Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine will be held next Sunday, May 12, at Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst Roads.

Hours set for the vaccine program are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The oral vaccine will be given without charge to all persons six weeks of age or older. A 25-cent donation will be requested.

The original Oral Polio Sunday on May 5 saw 82,601 persons given permanent polio immunity for the Type I virus. Last Sunday there were 16 "clinics" throughout the northwest suburban area.

The large number of telephone inquiries at Northwest Community Hospital on Sunday evening and Monday brought the decision to have the special makeup "clinic" on a limited scale. The Northwest Communities Oral Polio Sundays are being sponsored by the hospital and its medical staff.

The second Oral Polio Sunday is slated for June 16 when the Type III vaccine will be given. Type II vaccine will be distributed on Sept. 8. Hospital spokesmen stressed that no makeup clinics would be planned for the Type II and III programs.

Swimming Passes For Sale May 20

Season passes to the two Arlington Heights Park District swimming pools will go on sale Monday, May 20, it was announced this week by William Appleby, superintendent of recreation.

The park district offices at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, and Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner, will be open every day of the week except Sunday from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4:30 p. m. for purchase of passes.

Season passes will be limited to residents of the park district. Non-residents wishing to use the pools may do so by paying a daily fee. Persons purchasing season tickets will be required to show proof of residence, such as a driver's license, Appleby said.

SEASON PASS rates will be the same as they have been since 1960. A family pass will be $15, an adult pass $8, a child's pass $6 and a wader pass $3.

Daily admission rates at the pools will be 75 cents for adults, 50 cents for children, and 25 cents for waders.

Residents of the park district also are eligible to purchase a family activities pass at $25, which entitles them to a family season swimming pass, two child swimming instruction sessions, one adult swimming session, one synchronized swimming instruction session, one handicraft session, and one tumbling and trampoline session for all members of the family.

"RESIDENTS are urged to register early for the activities, because enrollment in various classes is limited," Appleby noted.

The park district brochure describing the complete swimming program will be mailed to all village residents next week. Further information may be obtained by telephoning the park district administration office, CL 3-0620.

Arlington Heights fathers, sons and daughters are reminded that Sunday, May 12, is Mother's Day.

Process Hundreds In Safety School

Arlington Heights bicycle safety and testing program opened this week, with hundreds of bicycles being inspected at three schools Tuesday and Wednesday.

The program, sponsored jointly by the Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, the Cook County Traffic Safety Commission, and the police department, will continue through May 15.

Schedule is as follows:

THURSDAY, 1:15 p. m., Park School; Friday, 9:30 a. m., Kensington School; Friday, 1:15 p. m., South Junior High School; Tuesday, 9:30 a. m., Ridge School; Tuesday, 1:15 p. m., Westgate School; Wednesday, 1:15 p. m. Windsor School.

The program consists of a testing lane, lecture on rules of the road, sale of bicycle licenses and red reflectors, distribution of reflector tape, and explanation of a new policy of issuing traffic tickets to bicycle riders who violate safety rules.

Accordng to Mrs. John E. Gross, 121 S. Kennicott Ave., program coordinator and PTA council safety chairman, the police department has issued 64 tickets to bicycle riders in the last month.

PARENTS OF those receiving tickets are asked to telephone the police department for an explanation of the violation.

"We feel this annual program is a significant contribution to students' education in traffic safety," Mrs. Gross said.

Three Others Take Office

Arlington Heights municipal government underwent a significant change Monday night as three members of the board of trustees stepped out of office.

"Retiring" after serving four years were William E. Sauer, 1215 Watling Road, and Samuel Wit, 643 S. Newbury.

Also ending was the one-year appointment of Justin A. "Buzz" Nelson, 120 S. Reuter Drive.

None of the three sought election April 16.

They were replaced Monday by Carl F. Mees, 408 E. Euclid, John J. Walsh Jr., 404 E. Marshall St., and George C. "Bud" Beacham Jr., 1516 N. Kennicott Ave.

Caught both coming and going was Engene F. Schlickman, 712 N. Fernandez Ave., whose first term ended Monday. He was sworn in again for a second tour of duty.

SO WAS Robert C. Buckley, 222 N. Derbyshire, re-elected police magistrate last month.

Significantly, the outgoing trustees' final vote concerned a directive empowering the village attorney to oppose construction of apartment units southeast of the village.

All voted in favor of the opposition, and the motion passed 5-0.

The newly-completed board adopted resolutions commending retiring trustees for their contributions toward "making Arlington Heights a better community in which to live."

IN BRIEF departure messages, the retiring trustees tossed bouquets at their associates and offered bits of wisdom for incoming board members.

Sauer, 52, a resident here for 16 years, said: "It's difficult to differentiate between the last four years and the 12 before that.

"I am vain enough to feel a sense of satisfaction when I hear Arlington Heights referred to as a 'prestige community.'

"Excellence in purpose, effort and accomplishment will be needed to continue Arlington Heights' reputation. And there is no substitute for intelligence.

"THIS IS A community of some 35,000 distinct and individual men, women and children whose rights and properties are always to be respected."

Wit, 50 years old and a resident for 12½ years, said it is difficult to offer advice. He did, however, admonish the new trustees never to lose their senses of humor.

"If you keep this in mind, the next four years will be enjoyable," he prophesied.

"Looking back four years, it seems like a very short time. Looking ahead the time seems longer. The unsung heroes are those who serve on the village's boards and commissions."

NELSON, 43, who was appointed a year ago to fill a vacancy created by Richard Glantz's moving to New Jersey, cited what he considers to be the four major problems facing the board:

1. Completion of the Park Manor Subdivision redevelopment program. 2. Continued orderly growth of the village. 3. Improvement of the downtown commercial area. 4. A good job of zoning.

"I have very much appreciated having an opportunity to serve," Nelson commented. "The full-time village employes have made the job of being a trustee much easier."

Nelson did not seek election, he said, because his employment as coordinator of accounting for branch offices of the Quaker Oats Co. requires too much traveling.

FELLOW trustees observed that Sauer's term was characterized by his stress on maintaining Arlington Heights' prestige image, and Wit's by his tireless efforts in behalf of launching the Park Manor improvement plan.

Couple Is Surprised By Burglar

"Nothing can equal the feeling you have when you wake up at 5 a. m. and see a burglar standing in your bedroom," Mrs. M. Jerome Winters, 1015 N. Princeton Ave., told the Herald this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Winters were awakened early last Friday morning by a burglar who was fumbling through Winters' wallet.

The unidentified intruder fled the house when Winters made a move to call police.

Mrs. Winters said she felt the burglar was a bit too optimistic. The Winters have 13 children.

Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

Beaufort, S. C.—

As we crossed the border into the United States we found that there was no reason for worry. In order to prove our honesty we had prepared a custom declaration which totaled more than the authorized free entry.

We had given up trying to record the dollar value of each article we listed, which had been purchased during our four months stay in Mexico. It was too late to list in English the purchases we made. We compromised by giving the place of purchase, placing the amount in pesos.

We found that the custom officers were not Spanish linguists, any more than we were. They finally picked out the more expensive items, deducted their value from our total. We discovered that the amount of the import duty was almost insignificant pand, and maintain an up-to-date hospital, large and modern enough to care for all the people in the Northwest Community Hospital service area, is one of the most important civic obligations we have," stressed Buehler.

The $4 million expansion cost will be met through $200,000 donations by the medical staff; $400,000 donations by the board of trustees $100,000 pledged by the Women's Auxiliary; a tentative $900,000 grant of Hill-Burton federal funds; business and industrial gifts of $1.3 million and residential gifts of $1.1 million.

The expansion will provide 100 beds for patients, with a vitally needed enlargement of other hospital areas to match the growing demands for more thorough and better research, testing and medical care, said on some of the items. We had our worries all for nothing.

At the start of the examination we determined that when we next go to Mexico we will do no buying. After tipping off the young man who had handled our surplus baggage, we drove off happy to be again in the United States—free from troubles that never occurred.

of Landwehr's TV and Appliances

Mothers love Ed Landwehr! It's true . . . just stand in a corner of Landwehr's TV on an average day and watch the women hurrying in and out . . . here's one carrying her iron, another lugs a vacuum cleaner, still another needs new vacuum cleaner bags. They love Ed Landwehr . . . because he's the man who can fix those appliances in a hurry . . . every woman knows that appliances break down at the most crucial time, so the man who can get them back on the track of uninterrupted house cleaning is a friend.

Appliance repair is a small part of Ed Landwehr's business. It was just a year ago that he celebrated the grand opening of his enlarged store with the addition of Hamilton laundry equipment and GE refrigerators, washers and dryers. Ed features Motorola, Zenith, RCA and DuMont TV, radios and stereos, Fedders, Carrier and GE air conditioners, Hoover vacuums and small appliances.

The Landwehr TV repair truck is a familiar sight on northwest area streets; TV repair is an important part of his business and requires a staff of 4 repair men. A call to CLearbrook 5-0700 promises fast and expert service.

After working for some years for Don Hager, who had an appliance store in the same block, Mr. Landwehr opened his own business in 1956. His present location at 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, is the culmination of several moves within the same business block.

Mr. Landwehr's business is the result of his faith in the future of Arlington Heights as a bustling business community. He believes that his central location coupled with the services and merchandise offered by other Arlington merchants is more beneficial to him than a location in an outlying shopping center. He supports this belief with active work with the Chamber of Commerce and has also served as a member of the Arlington Heights Planning Commission.

Ed Landwehr is an Arlington old-timer, part of the large Landwehr clan dating back to the early days of this area. Actually, he was raised in a home legally in Bensenville but just across the street from Arlington Heights. He and his wife and their 5 children are now Arlington residents.

Mr. Landwehr is well-qualified as a TV technician, having a Bachelor of Science degree from the American TV Institute of Technology in Chicago and a life-long interest in electronics.

DOCTORS AND TV

by ED LANDWEHR

Maybe you read that electronic ad that stated doctors have an advantage over TV servicers because they only have two basic models to work on while TV servicers must be able to repair hundreds of differing electronic equipment.

We might add that the patient tells the doctor where the pain is, and we must search it out with our meters. But, enough of this foolishness, the comparison is too far-fetched to make any real sense.

But, just like the human body, it is advantageous for your TV set to have a periodic check-up for minor adjustments to avoid more serious trouble later on. So, write down our telephone number — CLearbrook 5-0700 next to your Doctor's. You never know when you might need them. And if you should have an emergency, we hope it's only the kind LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, can cure.

Wit, holder of a degree in electrical engineering, is district sales manager for Lukens Steel Co., Chicago. He and his wife, Kay, have four children.

They were elected to office on April 21, 1959, on the second successful Caucus Party slate. Sauer garnered 3,032 votes and Wit 2,811.

THEIR FIRST votes as trustees were cast in favor of tabling for two weeks a decision on whether or not to annex a parcel of land to the village.

First vote participated in by new trustees Mees, Walsh and Beacham involved declaring the house at 518 W. Campbell St. a public nuisance.

Mees has seen service as a member of the District 25 Board of Education, Walsh has served on the zoning board of appeals, and Beacham recently stepped down as president of the Hasbrook Civic Association.

EDITOR'S COLUMN

It took us two days of travel to get out of Texas—we certainly were "Deep in the Heart of Texas." Passing through three states, and well into the fourth, we had a carpet of flowers on each side of the highway—Texas Blue Bonnets, Indian Paint Brush, wild morning glories and other gay small flowers.

It was rather a shock to us to find that the average American service station attendant had little of the courtesy we had found in Mexico—unless, of course, we were buying gasoline as we inquired of the correct route.

This column is always happy to recognize merit awards. Here in Beaufort, S. C., we were present when the County Library gained the recognition of being named the outstanding small library in the United States by the Book-of-the-Month Club. John Mason Brown was the guest speaker, among other dignitaries. The Book-of-the-Month Club distributed over $56,000 in cash to 48 small libraries. Beaufort received $5,000 as the first prize. Nine other libraries each received $1,500 and the balance went to one outstanding library in each of 38 states.

The award here was in recognition of the service the library has given to the community, which includes branches for the colored people. These grants were originated some five years ago as a memorial to Dorothy Canfield Fisher. The Beaufort Library occupies a rather small but attractive colonial building, much smaller than the library buildings in Mount Prospect, Palatine or Arlington Heights.

It seems rather good to be on our way home. We wanted to absorb so much of the U.S. atmosphere that we are taking the long way home. While in Mexico we did miss a few English TV programs. We felt like saying: "Hello, Paul," when we saw and heard U.S. Sen. Paul Douglas on a program early this week.

(The Village of Arlington Heights' recent approval of eight-story apartments has established a precedent in the northwest suburbs. In the interest of more fully explaining the project of Chicago Construction Co. — Regent Park — the Herald offers the following information.)

The 232-unit Regent Park planned development, a composite of high-rise apartments, townhouses and single family homes, has brought a host of comments from members of this suburban community of 35,000.

Some express their pleasure at the fact Arlington Heights has been "chosen" as the site for such a revolutionary project. Some attack the development on the basis of density, saying multiple units are not in keeping with the village's basic "character."

Most observers, however, view the project from a neutral position. They want to wait and see, recognizing a great potential but also noting dangers inherent in the project's very nature.

THE VILLAGE'S board of trustees voted to approve the project April 22. Favoring it were Trustees Norval Stephens, Samuel Wit, Justin Nelson and William Sauer.

Trustee Eugene Schlickman passed his vote, Trustee William Moore's hospitalization prevented his attendance at the April 22 meeting, and Village President John G. Woods was not required to cast a vote.

Precedent - setting features of the development are (1) the high - rise nature of two eight - story apartment buildings and (2) the condominium selling premise for individual units of the multiple structures.

The development is to be situated on about 45 acres of land across (north) Kensington Road from Prospect High School, which is itself the equivalent of a four-story building.

EACH OF the high-rise apartment buildings will include 42 living units. Townhouse units will total 114, and 34 single - family dwellings will border the project on the east and west, buffering it from the two "open" sides.

Plans call for the improvement of an eight-acre lake now on the property, construction of a "common" swimming pool and tennis courts, and joint maintenance of all open space.

The condominium selling theory permits the developer, in this case Harold Friedman of Chicago Construction Co., to sell individual units. Buyers would arrange for their own mortgages and take on proportionate shares of all common property.

This theory has been approved by the Illinois Senate and is now under consideration by the House of Representatives.

UNITS IN the high-rise buildings will have two and three bedrooms. Rents will range from $275 to $450 per month, thereby attracting — at least "on paper" — high calibre tenants willing and able to shoulder the expenses of maintenance.

Apartments in the high-rise structures will sell for about $35,000 each.

Trustee Schlickman, in passing his vote April 22, cited several recommendations of the village plan commission which fell by the boards after reaching the board of trustees.

One such recommendation was that the developer provide two parking places for each high-rise unit inside or "under roof." This would mean 84 indoor parking spaces in each 42-unit building.

FRIEDMAN was successful in convincing the board of trustees that the cost of providing the 2-1 parking ratio indoors would be "prohibitive." He did not spell out exact cost of indoor parking stalls.

As it stands, each high-rise unit will have one parking place inside and one outside. The 2-1 ratio, therefore, holds true.

Schlickman also objected to not being able to see complete engineering and architectural plans for the high-rise buildings before being asked to vote on the project. Friedman's answer to this was that he needed a green light on the development before going to the expense of drawing up elaborate plans.

Schlickman questioned the need for such high-cost units in the northwest suburbs. He pointed to the builder's lack of statistical proof that there is a demand in this area for this type of housing.

"I WOULD URGE the petitioner to do some research as to his market," Schlickman said. "If he does this, we may all benefit."

Another criticism concerned Friedman's refusal to agree to reducing some of the townhouse buildings from six to four units each. He said he did not want the village determining his architecture for him; that was what he hired an architect for.

He did agree to pass on to his architect the plan commission's suggestion that reduction in townshouse units be considered.

Friedman's "image" as a local builder is excellent. His company built homes last year in the two blocks immediately north of Kensington Road on Gibbons Avenue, and village officials were pleased witn the quality of his work and his cooperative attitude.

THE FOLLOWING are direct quotations taken from minutes of the plan commission meeting of March 27.

Russell Colvin: "From what I can see right now, I think this development will add prestige to the entire area. I can see no objections to this with the amount of green space and open space shown. One-third of this site has nothing on it."

George Hauff: No comment.

Charles Cronin: "I think it is a beautiful development. High rise is something new and I don't know enough about it. It might establish a precedent."

Leo Mueller: "I have no comments other than I think this has been well done. I think it would be an acceptable development.

JOHN WHITE: "I have mixed emotions at the present time. I commend the developers for the planning which has gone into this."

William Hannum: No comment.

Charles Bennett: "I think it is a beuautiful job. I appreciate the moderation. . .two such structures and not half a dozen. I think the whole development will fit in the area beautifully."

Chairman Harold Carlson: I think we would be interested in your (Friedman's) projections on the rentability of such units in the area."

Friedman: I discussed this first with members of the Rolling Green Country Club. I would not try this development anywhere but in Arlington Heights which has a prestige name. Possibly Barrington, but it is quite far out.

"I BELIEVE the people who come into these units will come right from individual homes—not wanting the maintenances of homes any more. In this way they can get rid of the responsibility of the houses and still have luxury."

Construction on Regent Park model units is to get underway immediately. (A

May 10 has been set as an extension date for Arlington students to make reservations for the excursion train ride to Nippersink Lodge in Genoa City, Wis. immediately following the prom on May 18.

Announcement of the extra reservation time came from Gaylord Watland, chairman of the Parents' After the Prom Committee.

Dancing, singing, games and snacks are slated for students on the all-night special prom train.

Starting time at Arlington Race Track station is set at 1:30 a.m., with arrival in Genoa City slated for 6:00 a.m.

Buses will transport the students to Nippersink Lodge where food, swimming, badminton, boating, bicycling and movie-going will be on tap. Professional night-club acts will be a part of the entertainment program. (ACM-EG

Church to Note 2nd Anniversary

Grace Lutheran Church, corner of Euclid and Wolf Roads, will note the second anniversary of its first church building at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services on Sunday, May 5.

The building was designed by Charles Johnson and associates of LaGrange, and constructed by Edward Ekstrom Co. of Arlington Heights. Grace Lutheran Church, as a mission, worked closely with the Department of Church Architecture of the Augustana Lutheran Church, and the first unit is part of a master plan.

The building features a chapel and a Sunday School room, with a central core for offices and washrooms.

Much of the interior was finished by men of the congregation, it is reported, and all of the altar appointments were purchased as gifts by members. (ACM

Says Schools Need More State Funds

(This is the last of a series of five articles by William Urbanek, legislative chairman for Section 1, Illinois Education Association (IEA) and principal of Lakeview School, Hoffman Estates.

(The articles are being written in conjunction with a series of revenue workshops sponsored by the IEA, Parent - Teacher Associations (PTA) and the Illinois Association of School Boards (IASB).

(Section 1 of the Lake Shore Division, IEA, includes about 1,600 teachers in both elementary and high schools of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships.

by WILLIAM URBANEK

It has been the contention throughout this series of articles that state aid to schools needs to be increased. According to present state regulations, an elementary school district is eligible for state aid if it levies a minimum of $.54 per $100 assessed valuation as its educational tax rate.

State "equalization" aid is given to districts that cannot raise $252 per student by levying at the 54 cent tax rate. All schools are eligible for a $47 per student flat grant before "equalization" aid is determined.

As an example, a district having an assessed valuation of $20,000 per student would be eligible to receive a flat grant of $47 per student plus $97 of equalization aid. This is computed by adding the $47 flat grant to the $108 raised through the tax rate. The resulting figure of $155 is then subtracted from the $252 allowance set by the state.

WILLIAM URBANEK

THE CONTENTION that more state equalization aid is needed is based on the fact that the $252 per pupil cost is no longer possible in most Illinois school districts. Median per pupil elementary school costs in the state are currently estimated to be $344 per pupil. The average per pupil costs of our northwest suburban area are about $420 per pupill.

The rapidly - growing school districts of this area, particularly the ones that have little industry, find it difficult to meet today's school needs through the only means now open to them—increased property taxes. Some are already levying the maximum educational rate allowed them by law.

As costs increase these districts have no recourse but to lower educational standards.

THE CONTENTION has been that lowering these educational standards cannot be justified. As a state, Illinois spends more on liquor and tobacco than on education. As a state, Illinois ranks 47th in the per cent of its personal income it spends for education.

Seventy - five per cent of Illinois income is received from wages. Only about 25 per cent is income earned from properties. Even so, 75 per cent of the support for schools is derived from the property tax. This does not appear to be either fair or justifiable.

THE IEA is supporting legislation that would raise the state aid foundation level to $344 per student (the median cost per elementary student in Illinois). It also suggests raising the qualifying tax rate to 77 cents from the current 54 cents qualifying rate. The reason for the higher qualifying rate is to hold cost to a realistic level.

No school district would receive a lower amount of aid under the proposed IEA formula, but poorer districts would receive more aid. The hypothetical school district described above would receive $153 of aid per student under the IEA proposed formula as compared to the $97 under the current formula.

It is estimated that the IEA proposed formula would cost Illinois $40 to $50 million more in the next biannum than would the current formula.

THE IEA supports legislation which would:

(1) Permit classification of properties for tax purposes;

(2) Permit general improvements in tax assessments and collections;

(3) Provide for qualified supervisors of assessments;

(4) Provide that state tax multipliers should be applied by assessment unit rather than county;

(5) Give the property tax division authority to assess, where it can prove that assessments are not proper and charge the local unit for the cost;

(6) Provide for certain date changes in assessment, extension, collection, and distribution process in order to complete it more rapidly and to eliminate questions as to whether or not property was owned by a certain date;

(7) Permit corporation income tax; and,

(8) Permit personal income tax.

It is believed that all of these measures would distribute the tax load more equitably and provide the funds needed for schools, penal institutions, mental health institutions and other necessary community programs.

CITIZENS are urged to attend workshops related to revenue reform which are being sponsored by the PTA, the IEA and the IASB. Here citizens will have both the opportunity to learn more of the revenue problems of Illinois as well as to voice their opinions in regards to these matters.

Citizens also are urged to follow the legislative issues related to revenue matters and to write to their senators and representatives as these vital issues come before the legislature. (B-9

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

A group of little girls looking angelic in white dresses and veils and boys looking handsome in Sunday best were Arlington Acres' contribution to the First Holy Communion class at St. James Catholic Church Saturday morning. Members of the group were:

Marcia Longrie, 429 S. Forrest, whose grandmother, Mrs. Mary Karnocki, and an uncle came from Elmwood Park to attend the service and a breakfast in the Longrie home. The family was invited to dinner at the home of Marcia's godmother, Mrs. Jen Grossman at Fox Lake.

Susan Brunsfeld, 416 S. Phelps. Her parents hosted a dinner Saturday evening for 17 guests, including Susan's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brunsfeld and Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Kettler of Chicago.

Jimmy Post, 2105 E. Park. For Jimmy the day was marked quietly by his parents and five brothers and sisters.

NANCY BYRNES, 437 S. Phelps. A buffet supper was given in honor of Nancy's day for 30 relatives.

Jimmy Thorstad, 412 S. Phelps. His godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ways of Des Plaines were dinner guests in the Thorstad home.

Kevin Knudson, 413 S. Phelps. A buffet supper for 24 was attended by Kevin's aunts and uncles, some of whom came from Wisconsin.

Debby McCartney, 420 S. Waterman, was guest of honor at a buffet supper for 50 guests including, godparents, family members, friends and neighbors.

Marie Grafitti, 436 S. Waterman. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Marino Grafitti and Mrs. Virginia Miller of Chicago were among 25 guests at a buffet supper.

Tommy Loch, 2124 E. Park. Tommy, his parents and five brothers were among the guests for a celebratory supper.

JOAN MARIE Ganzer, 408 S. Prindle. Among the guests at an evening buffet supper were grandparents Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ganzer of Skokie and B. P. Tyler, as well as her godmother, Miss Mary Tyler, and an aunt, Miss Pat Tyler of Evanston. Two great-aunts, Mrs. Alva Biedenwet of Skokie and Miss Catherine Ganzer of Chicago were also present.

Robin Glynn, 2123 E. Grove. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Reynolds, visiting here from Sacramento, Calif., took Robin, her brother, Jim, and their parents to the Milk Pail near Elgin for brunch following the service.

Kristi Knutsen, 432 S. Prindle. Guests at an evening party for Kris included her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Huber of Chicago.

Debby Kunz, 505 S. Forrest. At a buffet supper and evening party, Debby was greeted by 20 relatives and friends.

Kathy Ehlen, 437 S. Gibbons, was guest of honor at a buffet supper. Among the more than two dozen guests were Kathy's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dumais of Palos Heights, and her grandmother, Mrs. Edward Ehlen of Evanston who had been spending a few days in the Ehlen home.

DENNIS Curtin, 420 S. Forrest, spent his spring vacation visiting his sister's family, the Ed Fords at Santa Clara, Calif. The trip did not lack exciting moments, beginning with engine trouble on the Astro-jet necessitating its return to O'Hare shortly after take-off and including an unexpected 18-inch snowfall on a trip through Yosemite National Park and the resulting drifts and slippery roads. The rain that fell constantly did not prevent the Fords from taking Dennis on a sightseeing trip to San Francisco, with its Golden Gate Bridge and Fisherman's Wharf.

A first birthday is always a special event and that of Steven Cain was no exception. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cain, 536 S. Waterman, was affectionately greeted at his dinner party Sunday by his godparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Wing, the Oscar Staabs and Clarence Teuteberg, all of Waukesha, Wis., as well as the Lloyd Henns and a great grandaunt, Mrs. Rosetta Schneider of Milwaukee.

A fifth wedding anniversary May 3 for Mr. and Mrs. Ron Brown, 432 S. Phelps, was celebrated at dinner Friday and again on Saturday when they attended a bowling-cocktail party given by the Newcomers Club.

ALSO receiving congratulations on recent wedding anniversaries were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Loch, 2124 E. Park, married nine years May 1, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gryzik, whose eighth anniversary was April 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ehlen celebrated their May 1 wedding anniversary at dinner at Kon-Tiki last Wednesday. They were joined by Ed's brother and sister-in-law, the J. Kenneth Ehlens, who in turn were celebrating their May 8 wedding anniversary.

Joanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Both, 433 S. Phelps, is adding to her reputation as an equestrienne. At the spring horse show at Epsom Stables in Palatine Sunday, Joanne took first prize and won a blue ribbon and a trophy in the English Equitation Class on her favorite mount, "Snorf."

Weekend guests of the Al Mays, 509 S. Prindle, were long time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fabian of Dayton. Saturday the two couples attended a Derby Day party and dinner-dance at the Plum Grove Country Club and Sunday were guests at a champagne brunch at Old Orchard Country Club in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of mutual friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stapleton of Plum Grove Estates.

DEBORAH Houser's eighth birthday May 2 was celebrated that afternoon at a "Peanut Party" for eight school friends, her sister, Deneen, and brother, David. The unusual theme was carried out in invitations, decorations and games, and prizes were bags of peanuts. Deborah's parents are the Thomas Housers, 416 S. Waterman.

Best wishes for a happy May 6 birthday as well as those for a speedy recovery are extended to Robert DeStephanis, 532 S. Waterman.

Debby Cook, 525 S. Forrest, celebrated her 12th birthday May 3. In honor of the event, her parents, the Don Cooks, took Debby and a special friend, her brother, Gary, and an aunt, Mrs. R. D. Hinchliff of Arlington Acres, to Old Orchard Country Club for dinner.

Friday overnight guest of the Lynn Lemons, 504 S. Prindle, was Mrs. Wendell Swenson, formerly of Arlington Acres and now or Murray Hill, N. J. Margaret Swenson, accompanied by little Lisa, was en route home after visiting her ailing father in Duluth, and happily surprised many of her old neighbors when she stopped to say hello. A

Hanlon Named to United Fund Post

The appointment of Thomas H. Hanlon as publicity chairman for the Arlington Heights United Fund was announced this week by Thomas Stewart, president.

Hanlon lives at 610 N. Wilshire. He has been active in local affairs for several years and brings a substantial amount of experience in organization work and publicity to his new assignment, Stewart said.

According to Hanlon, the Arlington Heights United Fund "is a going concern which will bring substantial benefits to the community."

"The successful activity of a United Fund will inevitably reduce the number of solicitors calling on each home." Hanlon said. "The people of Arlington Heights have proven their generosity to less fortunate people on many occasions.

"We are sure they will give the fund their whole-hearted support."

He is assistant general counsel of Encyclopedia Brittanica, Chicago, and is active locally in the Republican party. (A

Aching Fingers

Among industrial accidents last year were 380,000 finger and thumb injuries and 140,000 other hand injuries, 38 per cent of the nationwide toll of all serious mishaps.

Residence Burglarized

The home of a vacationing Arlington Heights official was broken into and possibly burglarized last Thursday night.

A neighbor discovered Friday the rear door of the Charles S. Catlin home at 1609 W. Olive St. had been forced open and a bedroom ransacked.

Catlin, an architect and member of the village plan commission left Thursday bound for a vacation in Florida.

POLICE FOUND a light on in a closet of the home and dresser drawers and their contents strewn over a west bedroom. Amount of loss has not been determined.

According to police records, Catlin did not report to the police department that he was going to be out of town. (AF

A message to men who work in air-conditioned comfort

You can have Whole-House Electric Air Conditioning in the average 6-room home for as little as 50¢ a day. (This includes maintenance as well as operating costs.) When hot, muggy weather makes you almost hate to leave your air-conditioned office for home, think how your wife feels. She's had to put up with this discomfort all day.

Nowadays there's something you can do about it. It's called Whole-House Electric Air Conditioning, and the cost is a lot lower than most people guess.

For instance, to have it installed in the average 6-room home usually costs from about $800 to $900.

Operating costs will vary, but 50¢ a day for operation and maintenance over a period of 120 days is close to the average.

Electric air conditioning is simple, doesn't require water. It adds to the desirability and market value of your home.

You get a lot besides cooling. Air throughout the house is crisp, free of excess humidity. A filter in the system removes dust, and up to 98% of the pollens, from the air.

To find out exactly what Whole-House Electric Air Conditioning would cost in your home, get in touch with the dealer, distributor, or department store nearest you. The contractor you choose will be glad to give you a free estimate and financing is easy to arrange.

Hospital Sunday May 19 Noted by Lutheran General

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, will sponsor its first Hospital Sunday May 19. Special note of the event will be made in churches throughout northwest Chicago and the northwestern suburban area.

Special inserts have been prepared for distribution with the Sunday bulletin in the churches. The inserts explain the charitable work being carried on at Lutheran General and will be distributed the week preceding Hospital Sunday.

"Each year Lutheran General needs funds to help those who can not pay the entire cost of their hospital care. These funds must be provided for in sources other than regular operating revenue," said T. L. Jacobsen, executive director.

Funds have come from the Service League's benefit and from memorials.

HOSPITAL Sunday is being observed in connection with National Hospital Week May 12-19. Over 25,000 bulletin inserts are being distributed.

"Lutheran General Hospital serves patients of all faiths. This fund provides aid for all regardless of their religion," said Jacobsen.

The inserts say:

"This is Hospital Week and throughout the nation, Americans pause to reflect on the important role hospitals play in their lives. Each year, one out of seven Americans is hospitalized. Each year millions receive life-saving care and treatment in American voluntary hospitals, the finest health care centers in the world.

"Christ teaches us to love and care for our neighbor. Through the hospital's charity fund we can be like the Good Samaritan who 'went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.' (Luke 10:34)

"NO ONE IS ever turned away from Lutheran General. The best possible emergency hospital and medical care is given regardless of the patient's ability to pay the hospital or the doctor.

"Lutheran General is an institution of the Christian church. The Christian spirit of love and compassion is fundamental in its operation.

"Adversity has no confines. It strikes people in all areas.

"Through your gift you can extend a helping hand to those who are ill and in need. Contributions to Lutheran General Hospital's charity fund can be mailed directly to the hospital." (B-9

Village to Pursue Apartment Protest

Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel was authorized Monday to continue to protest the proposed construction of 162 "duplex" apartment units at Dempster Street and Linneman Road south of Mount Prospect.

Ken-Roy Realtors has petitioned the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to rezone the 19-acre tract of land from single-family to multi-family use.

Siegel, appearing at a hearing last Thursday in Mount Prospect, asked for a continuance to May 15. It was granted.

HE TOLD Arlington Heights trustees Monday that water and sewer facilities for the project would be supplied by Salvatore DiMucci, a Mount Prospect builder, and that areas to the south, north and east of the project's site are zoned residential.

"If single-family dwellings were to be built on this property, there would be room for about 60," Siegel said. He noted the difference between 60 and 162 was "substantial."

Siegel also pointed out that witnesses testifying last week in behalf of the proposed development were the same as those speaking in favor of other apartment projects in the area.

"THE SAME 'experts' who have been used so effectively in the past," inserted John G. Woods, village president.

The village attorney said neither the Village of Mount Prospect nor Elk Grove School District 59 were represented at the hearing.

"I think the school district has just about given up hope of having its voice heard at these county hearings," President Woods observed.

THE PROPERTY in question is now being used for farming.

Upon the motion of Trustee Eugene Schlickman, the board voted unanimously to direct Siegel to continue to actively object to the apartment construction. (A

Youth Group for Recreation Center Elects Its Officers

The challenge of establishing a community recreation center for Arlington Heights teenagers was met last week by local youngsters selected to organize the program.

The plan, proposed by the Junior Woman's Club, was outlined last Thursday at the initial meeting of directors of the new Arlington Heights Youth Organization.

Mrs. Donald Carrara, women's club youth committee chairman, told the students, selected by four area schools to represent all high school age residents of the Arlington Heights Park District, of their appointment to the organization's first board of directors.

With the assistance of eight adult advisors, the 20 young directors will work toward initiating a formal, chartered youth organization by fall, according to a plan proposed by the youth committee.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Board of Park Commissioners, represented at Thursday night's meeting by Park Supt. Thomas Thornton, has granted the youth organization use of facilities at Recreation Park for activities.

The large room now being remodeled in the basement of the park building is expected to provide an ideal place for a community youth program.

Following explanation of their responsibilities, student directors elected officers from members now completing their junior class year. These students will head the youth organization until permanent officers and directors are elected in the fall.

CHUCK BOBINETTE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Bobinette, 308 S. Drury, was elected president of the fledgling organization. Chuck, who is a college preparatory student at Prospect High School, finds time for activities such as a part-time job and school football and wrestling teams.

Commenting on his election, Chuck indicated his sincere interest in the organizaton's objectives. "I hope I will be successful in carrying out the duties of president," he added.

Elected vice president was Tom O'Keefe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Keefe, 644 S. Chestnut, who is an honor student recently elected president of the student council of St. Viator High School. The new vice president said, "The youth organization is founded on a good purpose and should be successful."

Commenting on his election, Chuck indicated his sincere interest in the organization's objectives, "I hope I will be successful in carrying out the duties of president," he added.

Elected vice president was Tom O'Keefe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Keefe, 644 S. Chestnut, who is an honor student recently elected president of the student council of St. Viator High School. The new vice president said, "The youth organization is founded on a good purpose and should be successful."

PAT MUSIAL, new secretary, commented, "I feel privileged to be the only girl among the officers of the organization." Pat, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boles Musial, 424 S. Donald, is a member of the National Honor Society and is completing a term as treasurer of Prospect High School's Student Council.

She spoke of the recreation program underway in Mount Prospect and said she was glad to help establish one for Arlington Heights teenagers.

Elected treasurer was Steve Carns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carns, 522 S. Chestnut, whose special interests are in science and math and who chooses tennis as a favorite sport. Steve has represented Arlington Heights High School's experimental math classes at national conventions in California.

THE FOUR officers were assigned adult advisers who will assist them, if necessary. President's personal advisor is Bruno Waara, Arlington High School principal. Adviser assigned to the vice president is Thornton. Mrs. Carrara will act as advisor to the new secretary, and Will Schwantz, who represents the Chamber of Commerce, will advise treasurer Steve Carns.

"Every one of the student directors will have important duties in the formation of their new organization," Mrs. Carrara said. "Their willingness to volunteer for committee work was most gratifying."

PROGRAM committee: Sue Herbeck, Sue Mallon, Chris Gerts, Jean Hansen, Diane Roeske, Greg Inman and Chuck Hood. Publicity: George Wilcox and Gregg Inman. Chaperone chairman is Jane Johann.

Adult advisers assigned to these committees are: By-laws, Mrs. Roger Ericson; membership, James Pinney; program, Mrs. Elmore Lechelt, and chaperone, Mrs. Richard Johnson.

The publicity committee will be responsible for school publicity and may work with youth committee publicity chairman, Mrs. Robert Staebler, as well as the other committees and their advisors.

SINCE THE youth organization will study information on other youth center operations in the county, youth committee member Mrs. Byram Dickes was asked to describe progress made by the Corral youth center in Western Springs.

She told of the success of the Lyons Township Youth Organization during its 15 years of operating the Corral, which now has a membership of over 31,000.

Members of the Corral board have offered to attend a local youth meeting and asked Mrs. Dickes to extend an invitation to the Arlington Heights directors to visit the Corral and see the operation for themselves.

YOUTH GROUP directors decided to ask Corral representatives to attend their next meeting on May 28. The visit to the Corral was postponed until after the close of the school term and examination period.

Committee meetings are planned before the May 28 meeting to begin the job of laying organization framework and planning a program of summer events to publicize and promote interest in the youth center organization. (A

Squadron Meets At Recreation Park

Civil Air Patrol, an auxiliary o fthe United States Air Force, has re-named Pal-Waukee Cadet Squadron to Arlington Heights Cadet Squadron, and now meets at Recreation Park, Belmont and Miner Streets, on Monday evenings, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Civil Air Patrol is open to young men and women 14 through 18 years of age interested in modern aviation. Classes held every Monday include military drill and courtesy, dawning space age, airways and electronics, navigation and weather, radio.

One week encampments during the summer is available to qualified cadets at Chanute Air Force Base where jet orientation flights are part of the program.

Civil Air Patrol Cadets wear the United States Air Force uniform and are taught by qualified instructors from books specifically published by the Air Force.

Inasmuch as the organization has a military "touch" the program is followed on a civilian basis—members are not bound by selective service or compelled to remain as members.

Interested young men and women are welcome to attend any Monday night for further information. (A

Reject Apartments On Kaspar Avenue

The Arlington Heights Board of Trustees voted to concur with the village plan commission Monday in turning down a rezoning request and a plat of subdivision.

Trustees rejected the petition of A-W Prime Land Inc. for rezoning from single family to multiple family nine lots on the west side of Kaspar Avenue between Miner and St. James Streets.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel pointed out that a previous court case involving the land resulted in a declaration that it was suited for single-family residences.

The property, known as 210 through 242 N. Kaspar Ave., is bounded on the west, north and south by single family homes. It faces existing multiple units to the east.

Trustees also rejected a preliminary plat of subdivision submitted by E. J. Harris, 1408 E. Kensington Road. The plat showed 16 lots on the east side on Windsor Drive between Miner Street and Kensington (Foundry) Road.

Objections were raised to the fact 11 of the lots were substandard, street dedication was not shown and sidewalk right-of-way was missing.

Harris told the board he had submitted a new plat to the plan commission and that the commission approved it. He added that he has sold the land. (A

Organist To Play Wednesday

Frank Stitt, noted popular organist, will appear at the Little Theatre, Arlington high school, Wednesday, May 15, at 8 p. m. sponsored by Roy Baumann Studio, 24 E. Northwest Hwy.

A native of the West Coast, Stitt first gained fame there for his sprightly organ styling. He majored in organ at the University of Redlands and began his professional career as a church organist and supper club entertainer in the Los Angeles area.

HIS TRADITIONAL organ training began in childhood, along with piano instruction. During his service in the Air Force, he entertained other service personnel in the Philippines during the last stages of World War II.

After the war, Stitt became the first Baldwin staff organist, traveling the country giving concerts, TV performances and civic engagements of various kinds. His most recent recording was made on a Baldwin Organ in the famous Organ Loft at Salt Lake City.

Trustees Defer Street Action

Upon the motion of newly-seated Trustee George Beacham, the Arlington Heights village board Monday voted to defer to May 20 passage of an ordinance for improving George Street by special assessment.

The paving project includes George, from State Road to Bristol Lane, and sections of Bristol and Belmont Avenue.

Cost of the project is estimated at $62,537. The street will be constructed 28 feet in width.

The board of local improvements originated the project on March 14, and on April 25 passed an adhering resolution. (A

Hospital Picks Honor Patient and Employe

Arlington Heights-area residents have been named as "Patient of the Year" and "Employe of the Year" by Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Selected as "Patient of the Year" is John J. Whitt, 43, of 1815 E. Park Place. The "Employe of the Year" is Abilene Villarreal, 31, of 2505 Busse Road.

The two men have been entered in the eighth annual contest to select the top patient and employe of Chicago area hospitals. The selection is sponsored by the Chicago Hospital Council, with top winners to be named at the Council's annual luncheon on May 15 at the Pick Congress Hotel during the celebration of Hospital Week in Chicago.

DRIVING home from his job as a machine operator for a firm in Evanston last September 27, Whitt landed in Holy Family Hospital. A victim of an automobile accident, he was suffering from multiple fractures and internal injuries. For 4½ months he was in skeletal traction. Because his left leg did not heal properly in traction, he returned to the hospital March 12 for bone-graft surgery.

During the seven months of his hospitalization, Whitt maintained a remarkably cheerful attitude with minimal complaint" hospital spokesmen say. According to another hospital statement, "He is always grateful for any service rendered to him, and manages to help his roommates accept and adjust to their hospitalization."

IN SELECTING the "Patient of the Year," the Chicago Hospital Council lists three major considerations:

1) A patient whose illness has been such that he might be expected to be difficult and demanding but instead maintained his cheerfulness and cooperativeness with the nurses, hospital staff and fellow patients;

2) A patient who is selected for his own character, not for his wealth, fame nor importance;

3) A patient who is remembered by the staff and fellow patients for what he contributed to them.

A native of Paducah, Ky., Whitt has lived in the Chicago area for 22 years. His family consists of his wife, two children of his own and four stepchildren.

CRITERIA FOR selecting the "Employe of the Year" as listed by the Chicago Hospital Council include a warning that "this is not a popularity contest. . . but having the respect and confidence of co-workers is important."

Prime consideration for selecting the "Employe of the Year" should be the setting of a "standard of excellence at which to aim." In addition the employe should "be responsible, reliable, considerate of patients and fellow employes and have given to the hospital more than is required from his job alone."

Holy Family Hospital says that Villarreal is such a person.

"Hardships and serious family problems (personal illness and the death of a twin baby) have not deterred Abilene in his determination to get the job 'well done.' "

THE HOSPITAL stressed Villarreal met the contest judging criteria of an employee "who is responsible, reliable, considerate of patients and fellow employees and who has given to the hospital more than is required from his job alone."

The hospital praised his job performance and stressed his loyalty to the hospital is "unsurpassed."

With public transportation lacking at the hospital, Holy Family Hospital found a problem on its hands last winter. The hospital laundry crew resides in Chicago and had no way of getting back and forth to the hospital.

VILLARREAL, who lives near the hospital, volunteered to drive 60 miles a day to pick up the laundry crew and return them to their homes each evening.

The crew was on tap, even during the coldest weather. Villarreal many times got up during the night to start his car motor so that he would not be stalled in the morning. In their nominating letter, the hospital noted "Such devotion to duty is rare."

Villarreal will be a guest at the hospital council luncheon along with the "Employee of the Year" nominees from other Chicago area hospitals. (B9

ABILENE VILLARREAL of Busse Road, Elk Grove Township, was named as "Employee of the Year" by Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. Villarreal was cited for his service to the hospital. He will be entered in the Chicago Hospital Council "Employee of the Year" contest which includes all Chicago-area hospitals. (B9

Railroad OK's Route Of Sewer

The Village of Arlington Heights received permission from the Chicago and North Western Railroad to run a portion of the comprehensive storm sewer through the railroad park between State Road and Evergreen Avenue.

The village is also negotiating with Douglas Dodds of St. Louis, Mo., for permission to extend the sewer through the parking lot north of the Arlington Heights National Bank, between Evergreen and Dunton Avenue.

The sewer will ultimately proceed west to Vail Avenue, where it will hook up with that portion of the project already installed in Wing Street.

State Road was expected to be cleared for regular traffic this weekend.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Christenings 'n communions were high on this week's activity list . . .

Following his First Holy Communion rites at St. James Catholic Church Saturday, Danny, son of La Rue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, enjoyed a special breakfast celebration at the Pancake House with his family. Later in the day he was guest of honor at a family buffet party attended by his grandmother, Mrs. Ann Reed, uncle, John Reed, and godparents, Ed Micetic and Miss Carol Reed.

Under the impression she was attending the usual weekly meeting of the sewing circle, Mary Soby was surprised last Wednesday at a circle-turned-into-a-stork-shower, held in her honor at the home of Lorraine Ninneman, 1212 N. Chicago. The crafty circlers included Kay Roden, Irene Pedersen, Margaret Noon, Sue Caprara, Stephanie Broisus and former Terrace resident, Libby Caldwell.

ANOTHER first communicant from the Terrace was Tommy, son of Audrey and James Ostler, 1216 N. Yale. Following the ceremonies, a family party was held at home in Tommy's honor.

Returning to the Terrace last week were Harriette and Frank Moore, 1401 N. Illinois, and their children, Allen and Donna, after several weeks of vacationing in Arizona. In addition to an extended stay in Tucson, the Moores visited Phoenix, where they saw the annual rodeo. Side trips to Tombstone, which included a tour of Boot Hill; and El Paso, where they rode horseback, visited the Desert Museum and almost inaccessible Indian ruins. As an added fillip of excitement, the Moores "rode out" several tornado alerts en route home, but, thankfully, managed to avoid any face-to-face confrontations.

RECENTLY Frank and Shirlee Pircher, 1330 N. Illinois, joined former Terrace residents, Addie and John Fairfield, for dinner at the Pheasant Hills Restaurant in St. Charles. More Pircher social notes include Shirlee's recent luncheon at the Milk Pail in Dundee with Joan Wendt, Charlotte Kallas and Charlotte Osowski.

Birthday cake and ice cream were served when Laura, daughter of Howard and Audrey Miller, 1222 Illinois, celebrated her 10th birthday recently. Guests included Sue Herbert, Janae, Greg and Dean Schafer, Tommy Miller, Kathy Ann Roden, Michael Caprara and Laura's sister, Wendy.

Michelle, daughter of Dick and Shelba LeFort, 1246 N. Yale, was christened Sunday in the First Methodist Church by Dr. Huhes Morris. Following the ceremonies a family party was hosted by the LeForts and attended by Michelle's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Holley of Cameron, and great-grandmother, Mrs. Hilma Johnson of Galesburg, whom the LeForts had as their houseguest for two weeks.

Saturday Robert, son of James and RoseMarie Amann, 1409 N. Wilke, followed his First Communion at St. James with a family dinner party. Guests included his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Amann and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Weidner, his aunts and uncles, the John Amanns, the Richard Amanns, and the Misses Carol and Rosemary Amann, and his great-grandparents, Mrs. Marie Nolting and John Schaefer.

A CHANGE - of - pace social note comes from Dean and Virginia Arnold, 1410 N. Race, who attended the Kentucky Derby with a party of 12. During their four-day stay in Louisville, the highlight, insofar as Virginia was concerned, was the fact she was the only member of her party to hold a ticket on Chateaugay, the Derby winner. Meanwhile, back at the ranch in the Terrace, Virginia's mother, Mrs. Sarah Stoner, was here visiting with her grandsons, John and Jimmy, from her home in Garrett, Ind.

More First Communion news comes from 1504 W. Oakton, where Barbara, daughter of Eileen and Ray Brown followed the Saturday ceremonies with a brunch attended by her friends, Ellen Frisbie, Terry Trummer and Lisa Yates. Another guest on hand for the rites was Barbara's aunt, Mrs. Louis Green of Chicago.

Returning to 1614 W. Oakton this week were Bob and Rae Martin and children, Sara Ann and Brian, from a flying business and pleasure trip to Des Moines last week. While Bob was attending a convention, Rae and the children visited his folks, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Martin.

April 28 Jo Anne, daughter of Janet and Paul Krewer, 1256 N. Illinois, was christened in St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church. Godparents, Robert and Karen Murphy, and their children joined the Krewers at a dinner celebration following the ceremonies.

Wayne, son of Jo Anne and William Herndon, 1333 Wilke, celebrated his fourth birthday April 27 with a luncheon party attended by Steven and William Bracht and their mother, Dolores.

FOLLOWING the First Communion ceremonies Saturday Mark, son of Vivian and Robert Weber, 1508 Oakton, celebrated with a family get-together attended by his brothers and sister, Bob, Bruce and Cathy, and his grandmother, Mrs. Clarence McIvoy.

More christening news comes with the rites concerning Melissa Susan, daughter of Carol and Edward Vogt, 1340 N. Hale, which took place recently in St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church. Following the ceremonies, godparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stapleton of Chicago, who also are Melissa's grandparents, along with her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Vogt, adjourned to the Vogt home for a celebratory dinner.

Gail and Jimmy Murphy and their parents, Janice and Jim, attended a recent noontime performance of Bozo's Cirus television show. The Murphys live at 1326 N. Chicago.

Eileen Brown, 1504 W. Oakformance of Bozo's Circus telerace shortly, was recently surprised with a farewell party, held in the guise of a regular monthly bridge meeting. Clever cardplaying guests included Jane Coleman, Mary Funk, Janice Borland, Kathleen Dunne, Rita Talaber, Dorothy Henneman, Audrey Ostler, Pearl Trummer and Vivian Weber.

Another first communicant from the Terrace was Colleen, daughter of Jane and James Coleman, 1411 Clarendon, who celebrated the occasion with a family brunch attended by her grandmother, Mrs. Michael Coleman, and her aunt, Miss Kathleen Coleman, from Mount Prospect. (A

THE WORLD OF MOTHERS

Mother's Day is for a truly special person. It is her guidance, understanding and wisdom that day after day binds the family closer together. Mother and family health are synonymous. Every sniffle, cough, running nose, bruise and ache are her personal responsibilities.

To mother we extend our best wishes on her day and we resolve to help make life easier by always having available the things she may need in the pharmacy.

Greenbrier Patch

Carole Israll Phone 392-0896

According to the calendar, it's Spring, and Greenbrier is not without its own sign of the season. A wedding was held Sunday in the home of Ernest and Beryl Hamersley, 2227 N. Champlain. The bride was Mrs. Hamersley's sister, Miss June Fischman, and the groom was Jim Hailey, both of Chicago. Mrs. Hamersley was matron of honor, as well as being hostess for the wedding and reception which followed, and the Hamersleys' 6-year-old daughter, Roberta, was flower girl. Among the 80 guests present were Mrs. Hamersley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fischman of Chicago.

Moving from their home in the area are Ruth and Fred Murray, 2319 N. Lafayette. They and their children, Brenda, 6, and Brian, 10, will leave Saturday for Towson, Md., a suburb of Baltimore, where Mr. Murray has a position as a furniture buyer. The Murrays came to Arlington from Annadale, Va., so had lived in that general area before moving into Greenbrier.

VISITING Norm and Ruth Richards from April 20 through 23, were Mr. Richards' mother, Mrs. Raymond Moore of Worcester, Mass., and Miss Harriette Webster of Greenfield, Mass. Mrs. Richards and the children, Gary, 6, Gayle, 5, and Greg, 3, did most of the entertaining of their guests. Mr. Richards was unable to return from a trip to Palm Springs until the evening before their departure. The Richards family lives at 2209 N. Verde Drive and prior to residency in Prospect Heights for the past year, lived in Natick, Mass. Mr. Richards is editor of the Mainliner Magazine for United Air Lines.

Naples, Italy, is the former residence of a new family in the Greenbrier area, Dick and Jan Howe and children, Barbara, 11, Suzanne, 12, Ken, 16, and Bob, 19. Bob is in the Air Force and stationed at Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha. The Howes moved to 2323 N. Champlain on April 26. Mr. Howe, who is with U. S. Gypsum in Chicago, recently retired from the Navy.

BOYS IN THE Greenbrier area have been successful in forming a baseball team, called the Greenbrier Raiders, under the management of Al Sutherland, 2004 N. Verde Drive. Captain for the team is Terry Doulton; co-captain and secretary, Thad Mikols; and co-captain and treasurer, Eddie Stroz.

Team members include Tim Sutherland, Bill Bird, Mark Ulcek, Bruse Ipsen, Bob Long, Gary Swanson, Brian Murray, Kevin Barber, Dick Belzer and Dick Toepke. The boys hope to become part of the Rolling Meadows League and their immediate plans are to purchase green and white uniforms to match Greenbrier's colors.

Boys wishing to join the team may contact Terry Doulton at 392-0525.

A PLEASANT May 3 evening brought a large turnout for the meeting of the Greenbrier Civic Association. Committee chairmen reported on results of investigations of situations in Greenbrier and the village pertinent to area residents. Guest speaker of the evening was Bud Beachum, past president of the Hasbrook Civic Association and presently a trustee on the village board.

Mr. Beachum spoke briefly on the problems and advantages of an association and encouraged residents to attend meetings of the various civic boards and committees. Dan Revak, presiding over the meeting, introduced guests, Bill Meschner, president of the Winston Park Civic Association, Andy Van Sickle, president of the Hasbrook Civic Association, Carl Pasquale, vice president of the Hasbrook Civic Association and Mrs. Alberta Foerster, village clerk.

IT WAS reported by the membership committee chairman that about 75 per cent of the residents of Greenbrier had joined the association, as of the conclusion of the meeting Friday evening. Plans for the forthcoming "Getting to Know You" social were presented by Mrs. Beryl Hamersley, chairman of the social committee. Mrs. Hamersley stated that the affair would be open to all residents of Greenbrier and would be held at the Colt Restaurant on Rand Road on Friday, May 31. A midnight buffet will be served by the social committee and tickets are available from members of the social committee or by calling Mrs. Hamersley at 392-2922. Following adjournment of the meeting, coffee and cookies were served by members of the social committee, Barbara Isbell, Merry Kay Karr, Carmen Bird and Phyllis Locker. (A

Delay Vote on Engineering Bills

Arlington Heights trustees Monday postponed a decision on whether or not to pay two bills submitted by Consoer, Townsend and Associates, consulting engineers.

The engineering firm has submitted two statements, one calling for payment of $949.39 and the other for $8,949.13.

Vote on honoring the bills was postponed to May 20 so that Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson may have an opportunity to meet with representatives of the company to discuss details of the work completed.

The smaller bill, according to the engineers, was incurred in deleting Douglas Avenue from the Hickory, Hawthorne and Frederick special assessment project.

The bill of $8,949 is based on 25 per cent of the cost estimate of the first Arlington Heights Park Manor redevelopment plan. The plan was scrapped.

Lad Finds 34 Coins

Mrs. George Morrow, 1011 N. Evergreen Ave., reported to Arlington Heights police Saturday that her six-year-old son found a bag containing 34 foreign coins on Oakton Street east of State Road.

Police have not yet been able to locate the owner of the coins.

Tuesday, May 28, is Registration Day for all kindergarten children. Parents are asked to bring the child's state birth certificate at that time. (A

9 Tracts Zoned for Parking

Arlington Heights trustees Monday concurred with the village plan commission in reclassifying nine parcels of land from commercial and public use to off-street parking zoning.

Reclassified were the parking lots on the north and south sides of the Chicago and North-Western Railroad tracks, the Dunton Court Shopping Center parking area, and the parking lot east of the municipal building. (A

The only range better than a good old gas range...

is a good new gas range

"Exciting" is the word that best describes the many new features on today's gas ranges... features that make your time in the kitchen more pleasant, more productive. Best proof is to see the new ranges firsthand. When you do, you'll find features like these—yours only with a great new gas range.

• "Program Cooking"—automatic oven controls that start and stop the cooking process, then keep food at serving temperature for hours.

• Automatic top burners—Precise control of selected temperatures; makes any cooking vessel an "automatic" appliance.

• Smokeless broiling—You broil with the broiler door closed. The gas flame consumes greasy smoke that otherwise would escape into the kitchen.

• Precise control—Countless shades of heat between high and low—instantly. And when you turn gas off, it's off. No hangover heat to raise kitchen temperature.

• Beauty—The modernity of gas range cooking features is matched by handsome, up-to-the-minute styling that brightens your kitchen like a jewel.

• More for your money—You know gas cooks better for less. Now see the new gas ranges, including models with the built-in look that don't have to be built in.

Stop this week at your appliance dealer's or Northern Illinois Gas Company showroom and see why a good new gas range is the only range better than a good old gas range.

Special Camp Periods For YMCA Youngsters

Special camp periods 3-42 ital

A special "early bird" period has been announced for Northwest Suburban YMCA youngsters who wish to attend Kroehler YMCA Camp, according to Charles McClellan, local 'Y' executive.

This scenic Northern Wisconsin camp, donated by Delmar Kroehler, president of Kroehler Furniture Co., normally operates on a 3-week basis for $145. However, the first period for boys and the last period for girls have been designated as Northwest Suburban YMCA periods and will be 12 days in length at a cost of only $59.75 (including transportation).

KROEHLER YMCA Camp is located near Hayward, Wis., on Lake Couderay, a lake approximately the size of Lake Geneva. Boys will leave for camp by train on June 23 and return July 5. Girls will leave Aug. 18 and return Aug. 30.

Outstanding in the camp activities is a wide variety of water sports, including water skiing, sailing, canoeing and canoe trips, swimming, diving fishing, and boating. An added attraction for boys will be the presence of Jim Pollard, basketball "great," who will be on the staff for this period.

ALL BOYS and girls, 6 to 16 years of age, whether members of the 'Y' or not are welcome to attend.

McClellan said, "The YMCA has pioneered in the camping field and is in its 80th season. It was my privilege to be the first camp director of Kroehler Camp in 1953, and I cannot recommend it too highly. I have sent my own son and daughter to this camp and heartily endorse every aspect of its administration and program."

A pictorial color folder is available and will be sent upon request. Those interested may call the 'Y' at CY 6-3376 or stop in and ask for McClellan.

Library Has Timely New Baseball Books

by BETTY AINSLIE

What's one of the most important heralds of Spring and a favorite of every young boy and his dad? Why baseball, of course, whether it be Little League or Major League — the sound of ball hitting the bat means spring has officially arrived.

Arlington Heights Memori a l Library young people's department has a number of new books on this sport, along with other new ones which makes the reader think of sunny days, balmy breezes and fun.

"ONCE A Slugger" by Wilfred McCormick is another in the series of Bronc Burnett stories. This one takes our hero to Alaska where Bronc has gone with the team for exhibition games.

The catcher for Bronc is Fat Crompton who hears the shattering news that his mother and father are separating. Bronc hears of the problem facing the catcher and gets into a great many problems himself trying to protect Fat from bad playing because he doesn't have his mind on the game.

This is an excellent sports story written by a sports enthusiast.

For the Little Leaguer just fearning the thrill and fun of baseball, there is a new book just out called "Little Major Leaguer" by C. Paul Jackson. The hero of this story finally gets his chance only to have his family be transferred and Bruce has to start all over in a new group.

This book contains all sorts of advice for the new ball player on how to play different positions. The story has lots of baseball action for the younger reader.

"HOW TO Play Baseball" by Robert Fitzsimmons is loaded with action photos which illustrate the concise instructions of the text. The basic skills of baseball are pictured.

The beginning player is told how to slide and run bases, how to make a double play and how to throw a curve. A sure hit with any Little Leaguer.

There are some other books new to the shelves of the junior department of the library which will make the young reader think about summer fun.

"Tommy, Soap Box Derby Champion" by C. Paul Jackson is a book which contains first hand information about the annual soap box derby in Akron, Ohio.

The author himself took a trip to this derby to have true background for this story. He stayed at the camp where the derby contestants stayed and really gets into his book the fun and the excitement of derby day.

"SHOW Ring Rogue" by Patsey Gray is a different horse story. A short novel about a crippled girl who regains her faith and courage through the love of a horse. A horse named Rogue that had been a picador's horse in the bullring has been badly treated but learns of love and trust in humans after he meets the girl. There are lovely drawings in this book.

Another horse story is "Stallions Foe" by Glenn Balch. Here is the story of finding a lost horse and the attempt to restore this favorite stallion's faith in himself.

A new boating book is called "A Boy and His Boat" by Edward C. Jones. The book is intended for the beginner in boating. Rowboats, canoes, outboards, sailboats are all discussed with suggestions made for your own choice of a boat.

There is a chapter on fishing, the basic methods and equipment and another on water skiing and water safety.

DOUBLEDAY has two new books out for the beginning rock collector and the birdwatcher.

One is "First Guide to Birds" by Sabra and Heathcote Kimball which is for the young bird watcher — points out special markings so that the young hobbiest can easily identify birds, full of pictures of course.

The other, called "First Guide to Rocks" by Dorothy Shuttlesworth, is a perfect little book to carry on trips to the park or seashore. Simple text and illustrations give the history of how rocks are formed and what they look like. (A

Says Stubborness Delays Park Manor

Lawyer Tells Wallach Views

(Following is the complete text of a statement issued April 25 by Gerald M. Chapman, attorney for George Wallach, owner of a majority of undeveloped property in the Park Manor Subdivision. The statement was presented to the board of trustees and board of local improvements.)

Since the late fall of 1961, Mr. Alfred S. Druth and I have been engaged in negotiations with the corporate authorities of the Village of Arlington Heights with respect to the redevelopment of the above - mentioned (Park Manor) subdivision on behalf of our client, Mr. George Wallach, who has acquired a substantial amount of vacant property in the area.

A little over a year ago, we reached what we thought was a definitive agreement with the Board of Trustees relative to this redevelopment. Since that time, for various reasons, the implementation of our agreement has been delayed, repeatedly.

LAST February, Mr. Druth and I attended a meeting of the joint steering committee of your two boards, held in the village hall, for the express purpose of finally determining any remaining issues so that the special assessment project for streets, sewer and water, which is the next step in the redevelopment plan, could be initiated forthwith.

As a result of that meeting, at which we made certain substantial concessions regarding the payment of special assessment installments on Mr. Wallach's property which have resulted in his having to earmark a substantial sum for this purpose, we were assured that no further obstacles existed to the rapid implementation of the program.

SINCE THAT time, the initiation of the special assessment proceedings has been delayed repeatedly because of the fact that the Board of Trustees and the Board of Local Improvements have been unable to agree on whether Cleveland Avenue should be 28 or 36 feet wide between Fairview Street and Central Road.

In our opinion, this question could have been resolved quite easily, on technical grounds, if both boards would have agreed to submit it to a qualified civil engineer who had not been employed by the village previously, on the basis of the material already accumulated in the file and by Messrs, Consoer, Townsend and Associates, Toberman and Baughman, with the understanding that they would both accept his decision.

Apparently, however, the width of this portion of Cleveland Avenue is not the real issue involved. Your village attorney has ruled that the Board of Local Improvements possesses sole jurisdiction to determine street widths, but that the Board of Trustees has the authority to either accept or reject, but not amend, special assessment ordinances submitted to it.

THE BOARD of Local Improvements has taken the position that it will not proceed with the special assessment project until it has an unconditional 25 per cent guarantee for the engineering fees and until the vacation ordinances for the peripheral streets are passed.

They have further taken the position that they will instruct the engineers to prepare the project on the basis of a 36-foot width for this portion of Cleveland Avenue.

At its meeting of last Monday night, the village board reiterated its position that it would only guarantee the engineering fees on the basis of a 28-foot width for the above-mentioned portion of Cleveland Avenue.

THERE SEEMS to be a fair inference from the debate preceding that action that the underlying, and real, issue is whether the Board of Local Improvements will defer to the Board of Trustees in the matter of street widths.

Since the action taken by both boards represents an attempt to accomplish indirectly that which they cannot do directly, we see no reason, particularly in view of the repeated delay, to anticipate that this problem will be resolved with the foreseeable future. We hope, however, that such will not be the case.

Mr. Wallach has substantial sums invested in his holdings in this area and has had to hold additional sums available in preparation for the performance of his various commitments to the village in connection with this project. He does not feel that he can continue to tie up these funds in a non-productive project indefinitely.

THEREFORE, Mr. Druth and I regretfully advise you on behalf of Mr. Wallach that, unless the issues between your two boards are resolved prior to May 21, 1963, so that the special assessment proceedings may be commenced prior to that date, we shall, effective as of May 21, 1963, withdraw any and all commitments made to the corporate authorities of the Village of Arlington Heights in connection with this project.

We believe that our record during our extended negotiations indicates our good faith, sincerity of purpose, and willingness to cooperate in connection with this project.

We are extremely reluctant to terminate our collaboration on a project which promises to be of mutual benefit to the village as a whole and to our client.

HOWEVER, WE do not feel, either in law or in fairness, that we can be required to continue to carry a financial burden indefinitely while awaiting a solution to a deadlock which may continue ad infinitum.

We trust that you will communicate these views to your respective boards and incorporate them in your official records. (A

Search Begins for 'Father of the Year'

Two men from the northwest suburban area with eight children between them have been re-elected and newly-elected to the board of directors of the Chicago Area Father's Day Council, according to an announcement made this week by Edward A. Grossfeld, executive director of the Council.

Re-elected for a third consecutive year is Don H. DeMichaels of Park Ridge, father of two children, who is a member of the Chicago's American Sunday department.

He has been an active member of the board of directors of the Campfire Girls of Park Ridge, the Park Ridge Parent-Teacher Association, the Park Ridge library; and is a member of the men's club of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Park Ridge Lodge 988 AF and AM Masons, Greater Chicago Lodge No. 3 Loyal Order of Moose, and the Chicago Press Club.

NEWLY-ELECTED is Donald W. Gormley, 742 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, father of six children who is state news editor with the Chicago Daily News and a member of St. James Parish in Arlington Heights.

The two are among 26 Chicago area men with a total of 51 children and 16 grandchildren, who will assist the nonprofit Council in its 5th annual city and county-wide "Father of the Year" contest.

The search for "Father of the Year" is conducted by the Council through a letter-writing contest among all school children, with the aid of teachers, principals, and superintendents in the Chicago and Cook County public, parochial, and private grade and high schools.

OBJECT IS TO increase integrity in the home by increasing each child's awareness of natural father, stepfather, foster, or guardian and his accomplishments, achievements, and relationships as they affect the child, family, and community.

Mayors and village presidents of all Chicago and Cook County communities are urged to participate in this civic project by proclaiming May 13-25 as " 'Father of the Year' Contest Time" for their respective areas.

The contest runs for that two-week period, which begins right after Mother's Day. Children and mothers should discuss entry with teacher or principal.

The awards banquet this year will be held June 11. Father's Day is June 16.

Council headquarters is at 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1.

Park Manor Project Moves Again

Trustees Give Fee Guarantee

Enough agreement was reached last Thursday between the Arlington Heights Village Board and the board of local improvements to get the Arlington Heights Park Manor project moving again.

The village board approved a guarantee of 25 per cent of the professional fees involved in preparing a special assessment for the area.

After being informed of this action, the board of local improvements directed Consoer, Townsend and Associates, engineers, to proceed speedily to prepare engineering plans and specifications.

The engineering plans are a necessary preliminary to holding a formal public hearing on the proposed assessment.

The village board backed down from its previous decision that the guarantee of a portion of professional fees be conditional on agreement to pave Cleveland Street at a 28-foot width.

THE BOARD of local improvements did not get all it wanted, either. Trustees refused to pass vacation ordinances Thursday night.

President John G. Woods took the lead in questioning the need for immediate vacations. Engineer William Townsend was called from the BOLI meeting downstairs to explain his request for immediate vacations.

Townsend said, "When we start we have to know on what basis we are proceeding. If we design the project, and then there is a fly in the ointment and a valid objection, then we have to revise the plans or start from scratch."

IN ANSWER to a question, Village Atty. Jack Siegel disagreed with Townsend. He said that possible future lawsuits would not succeed in overturning a vacation ordinance. They might collect damages, he declared.

Siegel also said it would not make a difference if the street vacations were delayed a month or so, because objectors probably would not file their suits promptly to suit the convenience of the village or its engineers.

Lyle W. Ewing, president of the board of local improvements, said Tuesday that BOLI would proceed on the assumption that streets would be vacated as planned. He expressed a fear that future objections to street vacations might cause the assessment to be split.

IF THIS happened, he foresaw the possibility of a large, low-cost assessment and a small, high-cost assessment.

"We are trying to do this in a way to save those who are assessed the most money," he stated.

Ewing reported that the attorneys for George Wallach, builder who owns many of the lots in the subdivision, were pleased with action taken Thursday.

The attorneys, Gerald Chapman and Allan Druth, had written in a recent letter that if the project continued to be stalled, Wallach would withdraw commitments he had made, the chief of which was to make $140,000 in cash available to pay for assessment work, thus attracting lower bids, and reducing the cost for all who are to be assessed.

The village board, at the beginning of its session, adopted a resolution proposed by Trustee Samuel Wit, which urged BOLI to expedite the Park Manor assessment project, to notify trustees as far in advance as possible of the formal public hearing, and to inform trustees of steps taken.

Neither Trustee Wit or other members of the board discussed the need for the resolution before adopting it.

AT A RECESS in the meeting, some persons who have been close to the Park Manor situation and the controversies connected with it suggested that the resolution might be the basis for punitive action by the village board in case of future clashes with BOLI.

A particular issue between the boards has been the width of Cleveland Street. Two weeks ago, Trustee Wit said, "I don't know why the state law permits the board of local improvements to have so much authority in these matters."

Trustees cannot amend details of an assessment project, such as the width of a street. They must accept all or nothing of what BOLI proposes.

BOLI members are not elected. They are appointed by the village manager. (A

Announce Bridge Winners

First place winners at the duplicate bridge game at Pioneer Park on May 3 were:

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Springer of Mount Prospect, P. R. Cornell, of Arlington Heights, H. L. Warren of Mount Prospect, Leslie Kent of Des Plaines and R. J. Stein of Park Ridge.

This was a 21-table game which was played in two sections. Tied for first and second position were:

Mr. and Mrs. Whitford J. Kuhn of Long Grove, Frank McAndrew of Prospect Heights, and Ray Cohen of Des Plaines. Those in second place were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Megrew of Mount Prospect, Robert Doughty of Chicago, Sally Leonard of Park Ridge, Kay Reece and Ursula Roberts of Rolling Meadows.

There will be a master point game Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the Northwest YMCA held as a benefit for the YMCA building fund.

Duplicate bridge games are held at Pioneer Park on the first and third Fridays at 8 p.m. The next game at Pioneer Park will be on May 17. The bridge games at both places are directed by Chester P. Rumpf, and all games are open to the public. (A

Principal To Handle Registration

The Arlington Heights public schools, for the first time, will be staffed throughout the summer vacation to take registration of new students.

The board of education acted April 22 to employ one elementary school principal to handle this task. All registrations will be taken at the Administration Building, 301 W. South St.

IT WAS pointed out to the board that previously parents new to the community had to wait until the elementary schools opened about Aug. 15 to complete enrollments, and this placed a heavy burden on the offices of some elementary schools.

The principal employed will also help with the enployment of new teachers and other administrative tasks, it was reported. (A

Klehm Gets Contract For Maples

Charles Klehm and Son Nursery of Arlington Heights was awarded a contract Monday for planting Norway Maple trees in parkway areas.

Klehm's bid of $17 per tree was second lowest of five received April 25.

The low bidder, Tri-R Evergreen of Rolling Meadows, was rejected when Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson was unable to locate the firm.

HANSON reported to village trustees that the company was not listed in the telephone book, the address was that of a private residence, and that Rolling Meadows had not issued a . The village will pay for 100 business license to the company. to 150 trees as a part of its tree replacement program. (A

Driver Judged Not Guilty

A 25-year-old resident of Wilmette, charged by Arlington Heights police March 24 for driving while under the influence of alcohol, was found not guilty last week by Judge Robert C. Buckley sitting in Police Magistrate Court.

Robert Marshall was arrested after his southbound auto was involved in an accident in front of 511 S. Beverly Lane. He was charged with intoxication, wrong lane usage and leaving the scene of an accident.

The defendant's father testified in court that his son's legs were broken during surgery two years ago and that it was therefore difficult for him to walk a straight line.

The father also testified that the vehicle young Marshall was driving had faulty steering.

Houseguest of the John Mundells of N. Beverly Lane for the past two weeks has been the grandmother, Mrs. Lulu Mundell of Arcadia, Ind. The senior Mrs. Mundell ended her visit on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson of E. Olive returned last Tuesday from a three-day visit to Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa. They toured the campus and enjoyed their stay at the guest house.

Six-year-old Peter Damiano of N. Pine Court celebrated his birthday Wednesday with a supper picnic party. Sixteen neighborhood classmates and friends joined him at a nearby forest preserve area. Initiating the outdoor cooking season, they roasted wieners and marshmallows in the open fire and enjoyed romping in the woods until sunset.

Another birthday celebrant last week was 4-year-old George Leuhrs of E. Clarendon. Fourteen neighborhood friends attended his luncheon party on Friday. Later in the day, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Leuhrs of Park Ridge joined the family for an evening birthday observance. Missing the celebration by just a couple of days was his great-grandmother, Mrs. Hertha Keck of Riviera Beach, Fla., who arrived early this week to begin her summer visit with the Leuhrs.

MARY MEEHAN of Clarendon Court, celebrated her fifth birthday on Monday with a backyard luncheon party for 12 neighborhood friends and a cousin who first admired and then enjoyed the teddy bear birthday cake.

Monday of last week ended a 10 day stay in St. Paul, Minn., for the Thomas Barrett family of N. Hickory. They enjoyed their spring visit with the grandmother, Mrs. L. J. Barrett, except for the surprise and unseasonal two-inch snowfall that mantled the twin cities for two or three days. On April 27 Mrs. Barrett was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of her brother, James Faricy, to Kathie Hagen in Minneapolis. They joined a number of friends and relatives at a reception later in the day.

The O. J. Baileys of E. Clarendon motored to Toledo on Friday for a weekend visit with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cross.

Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Rafferty of N. Beverly Lane were the George Robys, Floyd Kingstons, Don Schreiners and the John Mundells. Later in the evening the group attended their Calypso Club gathering at the local VFW Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Miller of N. Hickory returned Sunday from a 10-day vacation trip south. As guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Teer in Greenville, S. C., the foursome enjoyed sightseeing in the nearby Smoky Mountain area, including a tour of Ghost Town in the Sky and Maggie's Valley.

MR. AND MRS. Seymour Recht of Clarendon Court arrived home Sunday from a week's stay in Louisville, during one of their most festive times of year, Derby Week. During the early part of their stay, they toured the State Capitol at Frankfort, Abe Lincoln's birthplace and the Calumet Horse Farm. Among the sightseeing musts were the river boat races on the Ohio and the Derby Parade on Thursday. Attending the big race on Saturday ended their busy week's schedule.

Saturday morning was First Holy Communion Day at St. James Catholic Church. Among the communicants were a number of Greens young people. A dinner party on Saturday observed the First Communions of Alan and Janet Olson. Guests included the E. L. Morris family of Waukesha, Wis., an aunt and uncle; grandparents, Mrs. Gert Borofka of Wheeling and the senior George Olsons who reside with the family on E. Oakton.

James Meehan of Clarendon Court celebrated the occasion with breakfast at Rapp's after the ceremony. Joining the family was his grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hengels of Sagunay Lake, Ind., a weekend guest in the Meehan home. A supper party was attended by Mrs. George Kern and daughters of Park Ridge and Miss Rita Meehan of Chicago.

Breakfast after the ceremony observed the occasion for Roberta Finch of E. Oakton. Joining the family at Aunt Jemima's were the Vince Cunninghams. A dinner party on Sunday observed both the First Communion for Roberta and the 16th birthday of her sister, Vianne. Home for the occasion was their eldest sister, Kathy, a student at Northern Illinois University. Dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiszely of Morton Grove and Mrs. Ann Peterson of Skokie.

FAMILY celebrations observed the occasions for Kevin Roby and Ken Schreiner of N. Beverly Lane and Barbara Jean Lindsey and Judy Lasher of N. Douglas.

A dinner party on Saturday attended by a number of relatives observed the occasion for Thomas Cooney of E. Olive.

Godparents, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Toole of Western Springs and grandmother. Mrs. George Utter of Chicago, were guests at the luncheon marking the occasion for Bill Bunnelle of N. Belmont.

Grandmother Mrs. Henry Testa Sr. of Orlando, Fla., was on hand to help celebrate the First Communion of Tommy Testa, N. Beverly Lane. Also home for the occasion were his brother, Bobby, and sister, DeeDee, who had arrived earlier in the week with their grandmother after a four-month stay in Florida.

Joining the Testa family for brunch at Old Orchard after the ceremony was the family of First Communicant Doug Harrison, also of N. Beverly Lane. A dinner party in the Harrison home later in the day was attended by Miss Gertrude and Edward Dahm of Skokie and the William Buchmiller family of Palatine, aunts and uncles.

A BUFFET supper on Saturday observed the First Communion of Audrey Ann Wirtz of N. Douglas. Among the 16 relatives and friends attending were grandparents, John Exum of Sparta, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. John Wirtz of Douglas Ave.

Brunch at the Milk Pail observed the occasion for Mary Margaret Ponter of E. Oakton Joining them were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Portner, the John Bossharts and Grandmother Bosshart.

Observing First Communion for Julie Ravas of N. Beverly Lane, Grandmother Mrs. Anne Kelly of Evanston joined the family for a luncheon party at the Oasis.

A supper party in the Weirich home on E. Clarendon observed the occasion for Philip. Godfather, James Weirich and family of Batavia and grandparents, the Peter Weirichs of Chicago, were among the 42 relatives attending the affair.

HICKORY MEADOWS

Is $25,000 Necessary?

Compare School Districts' Property Values per Pupil

by MARTIN KLINGMAN

A state-wide survey made by the Board of Education for District 68 (Skokie) said "The necessary assessed valuation per pupil in the state of Illinois is $25,000 in order for an elementary district to operate properly.

If this theory is accepted as being true, it might be interesting to know that several elementary districts in Cook and DuPage County have been functioning sometimes effectively and sometimes not so effectively, with a below-recommended valuation.

Arlington Heights, with the largest enrollment in the area, only has an assessed valuation per pupil of $17,427.75.

THE TOTAL assessed valuation of the school district is $110,160,827 and citizens are charged $1.50 per $100 as Educational and Building Tax Rate.

A total listing of valuations, tax rates, class sizes, salary schedules and enrollment of the western suburban area was published in a summary from West Suburban Superintendents' Club salary study for 1962-63.

Arlington Heights' education tax rate is close to the top along with its average class size of 29, which is near the top of amount of children per room.

The smallest of all the districts considered, Feehanville District 26 near Randhurst shopping center, only has a total assessed valuation of $13,960,813 and yet does not have the smallest assessed valuation per pupil.

IN THE Feehanville district, the assessed valuation per individual is $16,424 but strangely, perhaps, the average class size is larger than Arlington Heights, with 29.3 students per class.

Barrington supports two school districts with a total assessed valuation of $19,267,510 for District 1 and $51,500 for District 4.

District 4, with the larger assessed valuation, has only 23 students per class, while District 1 has 27 students per class.

District 2 in Bensenville has an individual assessed valuation $20,998 per pupil and its class size is 28.6 students in each class.

BLOOMINGDALE'S District 13, DuPage County, with its assessed valuation of $24,878 per pupil, has an average class size of 25 pupils per class.

Elk Grove's District 59, with 26 students per class, has an assessed valuation of $17,653.85.

Finally Itasca, DuPage County, with a total enrollment of 1027 has an assessed pupil valuation of $17,553 and an average class size of 27.75 students per class.

Total enrollments for the considered districts individually are: Arlington Heights, 6,321; Barrington, District 11, 755 and District 4 1594; Bensenville, 2,149; Bloomingdale, 350; Elk Grove, 4,067; Feehanville, 850; and Itasca, 1,027.

CERTAINLY facts, figures, and statistics are dull and uninteresting but it may be interesting to know after these facts, figures, and statistics have been sifted and digested that it isn't impossible to operate an elementary school district with an assessed valuation of less than $25,000 per pupil as is suggested by the Board of Education for District 68 in Skokie.

It may be that Skokie is an exceptionally wealthy district, it may be while taking their survey, they dealt with other wealthy districts, and it simply may be that they are wrong.

However, it must be pointed out that the survey states, "Operating an elementary district with less than the $25,000 per pupil in assessed valuation would and must be considered difficult." (A-14

Federal Money Available Again

Dr. Noble J. Puffer, Cook County Superintendent of Schools, announced today that Suburban Cook County High Schools are eligible to receive $150,260 from funds allocated by the Federal Government through the National Defense Education Act.

Cook County High Schools which can demonstrate that their guodance and counseling programs have improved during the 1962-1963 school year, and can show that their counselors have met the accepted professional standards and qualifications, will receive an allotment based on $2 per pupil plus $50 per high school building.

Superintendent Puffer indicated that nearly all high schools in Suburban Cook County would share in this allotment.

HIGH SCHOOL District 214 which operates Arlington, Forest View and Prospect High Schools has applied for NDEA funds for their counseling program next year. The district has participated in the full NDEA program since it was initiated several years ago.

Palatine - Schaumburg High School District 211 will consider application for NDEA counseling and guidance funds soon, according to Supt. G. L. McElroy. While the school district has participated in the guidance phase of NDEA since its inception, last fall the school board turned down NDEA funds for science, foreign language and mathematics programs.

THE FIRST PLACE trophy in the Catholic Forensic League contest last week went to Sacred Heart of Mary High School. The freshman individual speech event was entered by 15 girls from the Catholic school, now using temporary quarters in St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. Seated are Donna Colomatteo and Theresa Kratzer, with Sandy MacArthur, Linda Polales, Michaline Ignatius and Lynn Fraser standing behind them. (Staff Photo)

GIRLS FROM Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Girls High School, now under construction on Central Road in Rolling Meadows, entered the Chicago-area Catholic Forensic League for the first time this year. In the final contest, the girls took home the first-place trophy. Part of the group are shown here with their prize. Lynn Rosenhauer and Sue Brune are seated, with Tara Dowd, Coleen Reedy, Donna Tarpey, Pat Reilly, Virginia Mungenast and Mary Kennedy ranged around them. (Staff Photo) (B9

Theatrical Veteran Directs Elks Frolics

The director for the Arlington Heights Elks Frolics is Ohio-born Robert Gregory, it was announced this week by Arden Purvis, Elks publicity chairman.

The Frolics will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 16, 17 and 18, at Arlington High School gymnasium.

Gregory has been in show business since the age of 14, and has experience in all phases of the business. He studied theatre arts under Evelyn Choate of Northwestern University, Martha Douglas of Philadelphia, and Lorraine Winkelman in New York City.

HE HAS HAD his own television show in Dayton, Ohio, and has appeared in many radio and television roles. He has directed celebrations in both Elmhurst and Glenview in the past.

The Frolics will be in two parts, the first being a series of musical comedy sketches and the second being a minstrel show.

Eighty-five local residents, all members of the local Elks Lodge, will take parts in the Frolics.

Tickets for the Frolics may be obtained by telephoning Bob Sabin, CL 5-2338; Norb West, CL 9-3829; Tony Tomaso, CL 5-4102; and Sheldon McCandless, FL 8-3247. (B8

'Amateur' Thiefs Are Avid Readers

LIBERTYVILLE (UPI) — Five sacks of mail were stolen last week by three young men police described as "amateurs."

Police said the sacks contained copies of the "Libertyville Independent Register," the local weekly newspaper. The trio escaped despite the efforts of a mail truck to block their getaway. (B8

Hospital to Tell Laboratory Role

The second public program explaining the role of the laboratory will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, May 20, in the Lutheran General Hospital auditorium. Sponsoring the meeting will be the Men's Association of the hospital.

The program will include a discussion of the chemistry, serology, microbiology and parisitology laboratories. Those attending the meeting will get a chance to view exhibits and visit the laboratory areas.

Dr. Sanford Franzblau, consultant in chemistry to the clinical laboratories, will be in charge of the program dealing with the chemistry laboratories.

Dr. James Shaffer, director of microbiology and hospital epidemiology, will be in charge of the program on serology, microbiology and parisitology.

DR. SHAFFER will also discuss the research program he is carrying on at the hospital on air sampling and on entamoeba histolytica. Dr. Shaffer has just received a $80,849 grant to carry on the air sampling project.

"This is one of the best ways we have seen for the general public to see and learn about the behind-the-scenes work which is so vital to proper hospital care," said Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights. Hayes is a director of the association.

A program on radiology, pathology and hemotology laboratories in March attracted more than 100 people.

The program is open to the public without charge. Refreshments will be served following the meeting. (B9

Sacred Heart Girls Win Forensics Meet

The first year of participation in the Chicago Catholic Forensic League was climaxed Saturday, May 4, by Sacred Heart of Mary High School with the winning of first place in the Loyola Academy Forensic Contest.

Freshmen contestants from 12 Chicago-area Catholic high schools competed in the contest. Second place went to Regina Dominican High School. Third place winner was Loyola Academy.

The first-place honors were achieved by a group of 15 girls from the northwest suburban Catholic girls' high school, now using temporary quarters in St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

THE CONTEST was for individual speech events rather than debate teams. Five categories of public-speaking were used in judging the contestants.

Coaching the girls to prepare them for the forensic competition was Mother John Bosco of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary who operate the school.

A trophy was awarded to the school at the contest.

THE GIRLS who participated in the event wrre: Donna Colomatteo of Mount Prospect, Theresa Kratzer and Sandy MacArthur of Palatine — extempore speaking; Linda Polales of Mount Prospect, Michaline Ignatius and Lynn Fraser of Palatine — original oratory; Linda Gallagher and Lynn Rosenhauer of Palatine, and Sue Brune of Arlington Heights — oratorical interpretation.

Contestants in the serious declamation contest were Tara Dowd of Des Plaines, Coleen Reedy of Hoffman Estates and Donna Tarpey of Mount Prospect. The humorous declamation contest was the category chosen by Pat Reilly of Arlington Heights, Virginia Mungenast of Hoffman Estates and Mary Kennedy of Mount Prospect.

Sacred Heart of Mary High School is slated to move to its new building in September. The school is now under construction at 2850 Central Road, Rolling Meadows. (B9

Wisconsin Plans Park At Bong AFB

LAND O'LAKES, WIS., (UPI)— The state conservation commission Tuesday voted to spend $245,000 to acquire 1,591 acres of land at the abandoned Bong Air Base in southeastern Wisconsin.

The conservation department also was instructed to file an application with the General Services Administration to receive an additional 1,980 acres free.

Funds totaling $208,000 from the Outdoor Recreation Act program, financed by a penny-a-pack tax on cigarettes, will be used to purchase the land on an interim basis for conservation purposes.

LEGISLATION is pending which would allow the conservation commission to sell the land to the Wisconsin Federal Surplus Property Development Commission eventually slated for industrial and residential development.

The 5,540 acre air base was purchased by the federal government for about $1.6-million and more than $20-million was spent in developing the land before the project was abandoned in October, 1959. (B8

Q. When addressing an envelope to two unmarried sisters, should it be written as "The Misses Brown," or a "Miss Jane Brown and Miss Ann Brown"?

A. "The Misses Brown" is sufficient.

Q. After bridge has been played, and the hostess is setting the bridge table for salad and dessert, requiring only a fork and spoon, where should she place these pieces?

A. The fork on the left, spoon on the right.

HOW DO YOU BUY a Good Used Car?

1. Buy it from a good reliable dealer, one who enjoys an excellent reputation for honesty and integrity in his own community. One who truthfully calls to your attention the mileage on every car that is advertised.
2. A dealer that thinks enough of his own business to use his own name in large letters. OUR NAME, HARTIGAN OLDSMOBILE - CADILLAC, INC.
3. One that will not misrepresent and will back up all legitimate claims!
4. We are that type of dealer! We have a number of real good values on hand. Here is a 1962 Chevrolet Impala Super Sport Coupe, V-8 engine. This car has all the extras . . . Power steering, automatic transmission and to top it off, bucket seats. The fawn beige color is an attention getter! You can't tell this beauty from new. Driven only 9,561 miles.

Oh Boy, this is the car for you! 1963 Oldsmobile "98" 4 dr., Sports Sedan. Full power with electric windows and 4-way power seat. Many other features to influence you to drive this one home! Driven only 2,436 miles.

Didn't you always have the feeling of wanting to own and drive a Cadillac? This is the car for you! 1961 Cadillac driven only 14,062 miles. It has full power, electric windows, tinted glass, seat belts, etc. Color is Tunis beige. A Park Ridge family drove this beauty!

If you have a large family we recommend the 1961 6-passenger Ford Country Squire V-8 Station Wagon. It has automatic transmission, power steering, radio and heater; also electric rear window. The color is turquoise with simulated wood trim. Take a ride in this one. This car is sharp and driven only 24,480 miles. Spare never down.

Try this one for size! A 1961 Volkswagen Sedan with a sunroof. This car is black with a clean interior. Locally driven. No traveling abuse on this one. Fully equipped! Radio, heater and whitewalls. 21,245 miles on this car.

Passes House By Big Margin

by BOB SETLIK

Three bills, introduced by local legislators and affecting suburban school districts, are nearing the passage stage in the Illinois General Assembly.

The most important is House Bill 100, giving school districts the right "to appear and present evidence and to seek judicial review of any decision" in any hearing before a zoning board.

The bill would give school districts rights equal to those granted municipalities in zoning matters.

Sponsored by the three representatives from the Sixth District (Carroll, Simmons, and Peskin), among others, HB 100 is largely an outgrowth of the recent proliferation of apartment developments in the suburbs.

School districts are concerned about the possibilities of sharp increases in elementary school enrollment from the continual rezonings in unincorporated areas to allow multi-family developments.

AFTER overwhelmingly passing the House, the bill has come under fire from some municipalities.

Typical was the reaction of the Rolling Meadows City Council, which has adopted a resolution opposing the bill.

The city officials did not oppose the part of the bill giving school representatives the right to appear and testify at zoning hearings.

However, they questioned giving the schools the right to challenge a zoning decision in court.

THE CITY council is better able to determine what zoning uses are most desirable for a proper and well balanced development in the city," the resolution stated, "so the municipal decision should be final."

Because of reactions like these, it is likely that the bill will be amended in the senate to remove the part giving a school district the right of judicial review, but retaining the rest.

Rep. Bernard Peskin said he understood this was the agreement reached in Senate committee.

WHEN A reporter talked to Peskin Friday, the bill was on the Senate floor, still in the reading stage.

Peskin does not think the bill was a good one as written, because of the inclusion of the judicial review section, and unsuccessfully tried to get an amendment tacked on.

However, he did not withdraw his support of the bill.

With the amendment it is expected to pass the Senate easily.

The bill is of particular importance to some of the school districts in the northwest suburban area.

ELK GROVE District 59, which includes all of Elk Grove Village, and parts of Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, and Arlington Heights, is a case in point.

In the unincorporated area of the school district, some 5,000 apartment units have been or will be built, most on land that the county zoning board rezoned from single family to multi-family.

The school officials fear that the apartments will result in the assessed valuation per pupil plummeting to a point where the district's educational program will suffer.

The two other bills affecting the operation of school buses, were introduced by Senator John Graham of the Third District, which includes the towns of Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

SB 234 PROVIDES "that a school bus traveling on a highway having four or more traffic lanes shall stop for the loading or discharging of passengers only on the right side of a highway, and shall load or discharge only those passengers whose residences are located to the right of the highway."

SB 277 "requires drivers approaching a stopped school bus in a business or residence district to stop." It requires stop signals to be actuated by school bus drivers 100 feet before reaching a stop signal.

The last report is that both bills have passed the reading stage and are in house committee. (A-14

University of Wisconsin

Take 'Eros' Magazine From Library Shelves

NEW YORK, (UPI)—The editor and publisher of "Eros" Tuesday said he was "shocked and dismayed" over the removal of his magazine on love and sex from the University of Wisconsin library two weeks ago.

On campus Monday, a student group mocking the removal of the magazine asked the library to remove from the shelves and burn all copies of the Daily Cardinal, the student newspaper.

Ralph Ginzburg, who has done research work at the University of Wisconsin, said Head Librarian Louis Kaplan removed the magazine because he objected to a "series of photographs of an inter-racial couple in love attitudes."

"THAT THE University of Wisconsin should resort to censorship is a mockery of its reputation as a citadel of free speech and intellectual inquiry," he said.

"Ironically," Ginzburg said, "several contributors of 'Eros' have conducted their research in the field of sex at the University of Wisconsin Library, myself included."

Monday on campus in Madison, members of the Scrutinizers of Overbearing and Antiquated Necessities (SOAN) passed a unanimous resolution asking that the Daily Cardinal be banned from Memorial Library and burned because it performs no academic function.

SOAN requested that "copies (of the Cardinal) left in any locked case" also be removed. Kaplan, it was reported, removed "Eros" from the shelves of the library and also removed copies stored in a locked case.

Younger Set Adds Spice to Local Social Activities

The young set in Arlington Heights starred in much of the local activity last week and the variety they added to the social picture gave it the well-known spice. Birthdays, first communions and the high school play kept almost everyone busy; celebrations of same made everybody happy.

Brian Colianni, 814 S. Highland, celebrated his birthday yesterday with a never-before and never-again experience. He had his tonsils out and as of today "never again" is all right with him. Tuesday was a good day, though. Seven neighborhood and school friends joined him in his home after the day's grind in kindergarten, and whooped it up with games, refreshments and best wishes for a happy, de-tonsilled birthday.

After the curtain rang down on the final scene of Arlington High School's spring play, "The Little Foxes," members of the cast and stage crew unwound at a party given by Doug McDonald, only freshman in the cast.

JOINING THEIR 30 hard-working proteges were high school staff members Miss Gayle Beckway, the play's technical advisor, and Douglas Murphy, director. Closing night was Saturday, but it was nearly Sunday before everything was wrapped up at the school and the party could be unwrapped at the McDonald home, 215 W. Orchard.

There was some dancing, lots of refreshments and all-round relaxing for everyone. Past parent-hosts to similar groups have praised the conduct and sparkle of the high schoolers, and Mr. and Mrs. McDonald echoed past tributes, adding a few new ones of their own.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bruckman, 214 S. Fernandez, came home Sunday night after nearly three weeks in the Hawaiian Islands. Early in April, Bruckman left for a business conference in San Francisco where his wife joined him when business ended and vacation time began. They went to Honolulu by boat and between taking in all of the sights on Oahu, enjoyed "island-hopping" to Maui, Kauai and Hawaii.

The Sam Clarks hosted six long-time North Shore friends Saturday night at a dinner-and-bridge party in their home, 608 S. Walnut.

ELLEN BOSWORTH, 1220 N. Mitchell, recently celebrated her fifth birthday with six neighborhood friends at a cake-and-ice cream party in her home. There were lots of games and, it being a girl-type party, lots of giggles too.

Two small houseguests of the George Sandys, 515 S. Chestnut, left yesterday after a week with Mr. and Mrs. Sandy, alias Grandpa and Grandma. Karen and Karol Kinder, daughters of the Sandy's' daughter, Barbara, arrived from Bloomington with their Mom last Wednesday, then sent Mom on her way to join Dad for a Kentucky Derby weekend in Louisville.

Accompanied by Peoria friends, the Fred Holdermans, Mr. and Mrs. Kinder enjoyed the "nothing like it" excitement and tradition of Churchill Downs on Derby Day. For the weekend they were houseguests of Kinder's brother, Jack and his wife, of Louisville.

Mrs. Kinder rejoined her daughters here Monday, enjoyed a 2-day visit with her parents and returned to Bloomington with Karen and Karol by plane yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reeves came home to 2030 E. Lilac last Tuesday after a 2-week sightseeing tour of Florida. They also visited Mrs. Reeves' sister, Miss Jean Schwingel of Coconut Grove. Among the many sidetrips they made in the area was one of Sarasota's famed and exotic Jungle Gardens, where tropical wildfowl and plants mingle in a riot of color.

CHILDREN IN the parish of St. James Catholic Church received their First Communion Saturday at two morning services, and family celebrations of the event followed throughout the day. In the Robert McDermott home, 915 N. Pine, 43 south suburban, Chicago and Rockford relatives gathered to honor the McDermotts' son, Tommy, upon his spiritual achievement.

Guests included his maternal grandparents, the Joseph Powers of Chicago, and his godparents, Uncle John McDermott of Oaklawn and an aunt, Mrs. William McGurn of Chicago. Adding his blessings to the day was the guest of honor, Rev. John Hartnett, pastor of St. Mary's of the Lake Catholic Church in Chicago, who married Tommy's parents.

St. James communicants Margaret Knight and Ann Kamp shared an after-church celebration Saturday in the Kamp home, 1119 N. Drury. With the Knights and the Kamps were Ann's godmother, Mrs. James Helbling of Glenview and her family, and a long-time friend of both young communicants, Barbara Monti.

Ann's godfather is her big brother, Stephen, in his first year of theology in St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein. He was not able to be here Saturday but brought his blessings and congratulations Sunday when he made a brief visit home.

Margaret, daughter of the William Knights, 735 N. Dunton, was honored Sunday at a party in her home. Among her well-wishers were her godparents, Miss Jean Conway of Chicago, and her grandfather, Bert Venard, formerly of Chicago who now makes his home with the Knights.

VICKY WEIDNER, daughter of the Vincent Weidners, 1135 N. Dunton, was also among St. James children making their First Communion Saturday. Her family party Saturday evening brought her congratulations from Grandpa Engelbert Weidner and Grandma Emma Klages, and her godparents, Uncle Norbert Weidner and an aunt, Mrs. George Folz, all of Arlington Heights.

Sunday, Vicky's Grandpa Weidner was on the go again, attending the First Communion party of his grandson, Gregory, son of the Ferdinand Weidners, formerly of Arlington Heights and now of Palatine.

Nineteen Chicago and suburban relatives were guests Saturday in the James Hahn home, 919 N. Ridge, at a celebration marking the first communion of the Hahns' daughter, Mary. Sending their congratulations long distance were Mary's godparents, Prof. and Mrs. Ray Wagner of the University of Wisconsin.

A NEIGHBORHOOD buddy, Tommy Nickson, was with relatives of Terry Stefanik Saturday evening at a buffet supper party celebrating Terry's first communion in St. James Catholic Church. Other guests in the Stefanik home, 720 N. Pine, included Terry's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Franciskovich of Chicago, and Grandma Stefanik who also makes her home at 720 N. Pine, and his godparents, the Paul Wulbeckers of Mount Prospect.

An after-church celebration with immediate family members marked the day of his First Communion for Steven Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carr, 314 E. Frederick.

Another of the St. James communicants, Kathleen Hofer, daughter of the Erwin Hofers, 905 N. Pine, celebrated her big day Saturday with a family dinner-out party that included her godmother, Mrs. John Hofer of Chicago.

A FESTIVE breakfast for 18 immediately following church services brought family congratulations to Nancy Wotruba upon the occasion of her First Communion. Aunts and uncles from Chicago and Skokie joined Nancy's godparents, the R. Smiths of Prospect Heights, and her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Koepke of Chicago, for the celebration in the Wotruba home, 912 N. Belmont.

The First Communion of Tommy Crise, 1010 N. Belmont, brought his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Babcock, here from Culver, Ind. to witness the event and enjoy a weekend visit with the family here.

The Columbus Hospital School of Nursing held its annual spring ball Saturday night in the Grand Ballroom of Chicago's Hotel Knickerbocker, and the Clarence Loechls, 1213 N. Dunton, were among parents of local nurses-to-be who attended the gala affair. Their daughter, Pat, a senior in the school, welcomed her parents and their guests, the Eugene Doughertys, 1212 N. Dunton.

After-the-ball-is-over refreshments and more dancing in the Loechl home ended the night for the "old ones" who modestly admit being able to dance circles around the younger generation. Pat, confined by her duties to the hospital, was not available for comment.

THE LEONARD Rateike family, 717 N. Evergreen, the Wayne Swearingen family, 1806 S. Patton and the Elroy Hogreve family, 2214 E. Palatine, returned recently from a 2-week camping-sightseeing tour of Kentucky and Tennessee. They left here at their individual convenience, meeting at Mammoth Cave in Kentucky.

With completely ideal weather and the invariably beautiful springtime scenery of that area, the three families enjoyed leisurely motoring through the Cumberland and Great Smoky Mountains, and exciting explorations of caves along the way. They missed by a day the dubious pleasure of being in the right place to greet de-hibernating bears whose alarm clocks apparently all go off at the same instant.

For the Rateikes there was the added enjoyment of a reunion with friends from Rateike's army days, Lt. Col. James Hill and family, at Fort Campbell Military Reservation in Kentucky. Again on the not-so-enjoyable side, tornado warnings in New Salem had the travelers tented-in and hanging on tight on their homeward trek. One of Arlington Heights' windiest days awaited their return.

THE MELVIN Kurtzes came home to 805 S. Mitchell early last week from a southern-tradition-steeped four days in Holly Springs, Miss., during the 25th annual pilgrimage to the area's famed antebellum homes, open to the public in March and April.

Climaxing tours of the renovated and well-preserved Southern mansions are the Confederate Balls, one for children and another for adults. A colorful parade of the children, all in costumes of the pre-Civil War era, preceded their celebration.

On the return trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz stopped in downstate Carbondale and Jacksonville to visit their sons, Kent at Southern Illinois University, and Kerry at Illinois College.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Luster, 704 W. George, hosted a pre-nuptial shower and get-acquainted party for 11 Sunday afternoon, honoring their future daughter-in-law, Helena Mitchell. Miss Mitchell, formerly of Enfield, Ill. and now of Evanston, will become the bride of the Lusters' son, Donald, Saturday at ceremonies in an Enfield church.

GUESTS SUNDAY were Chicago area relatives of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Luster's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Crocker of Detroit, and her aunt, Mrs. Ethel Anderson of Adrian, Mich. Mrs. Crocker and Mrs. Anderson arrived last Friday and are remaining here to visit for the week and accompany the family to Enfield for the nuptials.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rideout, 906 N. Pine, returned from Kentucky Sunday after a 4-day stay with the Walter Naumans of Louisville, a time partly spent at Churchill Downs of course. They attended the races Friday and Saturday and although they have attended the Kentucky Derby before, they report that the drama and pageantry this year "was the greatest." The man of the house echoes his wife's comments enthusiastically. He had a small wager going on Chateaugay.

An impromptu party, the best kind everyone later agreed, celebrated the birthday Friday of Mrs. Howard Garrison, 1108 W. Miner. Neighbors kept dropping in during the evening to give the birthday girl best wishes and good advice on how to stay 29, and the first thing everybody knew, there was a party.

LOCAL FRIENDS of former Arlington Heighters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stroud, now of Delmar, Calif. will be concerned to learn that both Mr. and Mrs. Stroud have been recently hospitalized. In a letter to Miss Lucile Paddock, Mrs. Stroud says that she is now at home in the care of a nurse, gradually recovering from a severe skull fracture suffered in a fall April 1. Mr. Stroud has also just come home to recuperate from eye surgery, always a slow and easily disturbed process.

The Strouds are well remembered by old friends here as well as by local fishing enthusiasts for whom the Strouds' fishing tackle store was like a second home. Anyone interested in writing them may address mail to: Mr. and Mrs Paul Stroud, Route 1, Box 197, Delmar, Cal.

THE 25th WEDDING anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Starnes Jr., 605 Burton, was celebrated April 23 at a dinner in Milwaukee given by their son, David, and daughter, Debby.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Starnes received congratulations and a white orchid corsage from a group of neighbors at a coffee given by Mrs. Richard Manatt.

Miss Barbara Ballard was here from Columbus, Ohio, for a weekend visit with her parents, the Everett Ballards, 407 E. Rockwell.

Mrs. August Burnier, 516 E. Fairview, went to Memphis last Thursday to represent the Bowling Lanes Classic League in the Womens International Bowling Congress. Mr. Burnier flew down to meet her for the weekend and they returned home by way of St. Louis, stopping off to visit the Gas Light Square.

Mrs. Burnier's mother, Mrs. Lillie Baugh, who makes her home here with the Burniers, celebrated her 76th birthday Tuesday. Here for the occasion was her sister, Mrs. R. D. Willard, and her brother and sister-in-law, the Ernest Lincicomes of Detroit.

THE CHARLES E. Skinners, 721 S. Beverly, attended the Independent Order of Foresters dance Saturday at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Joining the Skinners were her brother and sister-in-law, the Anthony Lees of Des Plaines.

The William Balls, 454 Banbury, were hosts to a large group of friends at a brunch Sunday in the Anvil Club of Dundee.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McQuillon are back in Arlington Heights after a 3-month stay in "Howey-in-the-Hills, Fla.

The Louis Neckars, 516 E. Mayfair, and their daughters, Barbara and Susan, returned home last Monday from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where they vacationed for two weeks and spent another week attending the Prudential Insurance Company convention in the Diplomat hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Colburn, 535 Burton, joined friends for a week's business and pleasure trip to New York City. Before returning home, they drove to Boston to spend several days visiting relatives.

MRS. DONALD Strathearn, 720 Bristol, and her mother, Mrs. Arthur Brown of Brookfield, Wis., were in Greencastle, Ind. for the Mother's Day weekend at DePauw University, as guests of the former's daughter, Julie.

Among the special events for the mothers was a luncheon, student art auction, and crowning of the May Queen, and a special event for Julie, was going with her mother and grandmother to Indianapolis for dinner.

While Mrs. Strathearn was spending the weekend at DePauw University, Mr. Strathearn and their son, Don, flew to Florida to attend the convention of the American Home Laundry Manufacturers Association in the Boca Ratan Beach club and hotel. During their stay, they went deep sea fishing, bringing in a 7-foot sailfish.

The Fred Utterbacks, 116 S. Pine, gave the rehearsal dinner Friday, in the Pantry in Park Ridge, for their son, William, and his fiance, Miss Betty Browne of Midlothian, and members of the wedding party. Mr. Utterback and Miss Browne were married Saturday in the Methodist Church of Arlington Heights.

MR. AND MRS. Theodore Kleisner, 602 E. Park, were in Florida last week for a week of business and pleasure. Joining the Kleisners in Palm Beach were the James Loudons of Arlington Heights.

The Kleisners arrived home in time to spend the weekend with their college-age daughter, Maryjane and sons, Ted and Fred. Mrs. Kleisner went to Champaign to be with Maryjane for the Mother's Day weekend at the University of Illinois, while Mr. Kleisner remained here with Fred, who had leave from St. Mary's of the Lake Seminary, and Monday left for Loras College in Dubuque, Iowa, to attend an Athletic Award Dinner at which young Ted received his major letter and sweater for wrestling.

Eugene Lukasik, 526 E. Central, recently celebrated his 50th birthday at a large family dinner party.

THE LEAF Olsens and their 8-month-old son, Yesper, arrived in Arlington Heights last Denmark, to stay through October. During their stay, they will occupy the home of Mrs. George Carlson, 614 S. Pine, and Mr. Olsen will study Screen Education at Northwestern University, where he has received a scholarship.

Mrs. Carlson plans to fly to Denmark May 23, where she will meet her daughter, Ann, a teacher in the college of Adult Education in Aarhus, and they will occupy the home of the Olsens during their stay. Mrs. Carlson and Ann plan to travel about Europe.

Almost as exciting and just as much fun as being in Louisville for the Derby, was the Kenilworth Infant Welfare League benefit "Run for the Roses" party Saturday in the Gold Coast Room of the Drake Hotel. Among those from Arlington Heights attending were the Ian MacLachlans, the Wayne Kindricks, Eldred Koenigs and the Jerry Johnsons who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Stead of Hinsdale.

Cocktails, including mint juleps, and dancing followed running of the Derby.

THE THOMAS Hamiltons, 111 S. Dryden, returned from St. Louis Sunday, where they spent four days attending the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers convention in the Sheraton-Jefferson hotel.

While in St. Louis, they enjoyed visiting Gas Light Square.

Mrs. Robert W. Carey, 103 S. Derbyshire, gave a coffee Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan, new resident of Stonegate. Co-hostess with Mrs. Carey was Mrs. Allyn Bengtson.

Mrs. H. Bruce Rasmussen, 202 S. Windsor, joined her daughter, Babs, at DePauw University for the Mother's Day weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Simandl, 221 S. Stratford, came home Saturday from a week's vacation in Jamaica, dividing their stay between Ocho Rios and Montego Bay. Before returning home, they stopped in Miami for a short stay with her grandparents, the Karl Kochs.

David Coobs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coobs, 401 S. Carlyle, marked his fourth birthday Saturday with a party for four friends. His guests included Margaret Todd, Ricky Kreckel, Diane Bonthron and Laurie Simpson. (A

Ridge Park–Sherwood

Showers Saturday failed to dampen the spirits of several Ridge Park children who made their First Communions at St. James Catholic Church. Among them were John Kieca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kieca, 821 N. Salem. After mass, the Kiecas entertained at a family party, welcoming John's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Voegtle of Eagle River, Wis., and Mrs. Sophie Kieca of Chicago. Others included John's uncles and aunts, the Tom, Matthew and Philip Voegtle families of Chicago and Crystal Lake, Robert Derenskis of Glenview, the Philip Mahers of Rolling Meadows and Miss Mary Voegtle of Park Ridge. Twenty-nine children meant a party John will never forget.

A surprise visitor at the Kiecas' was Barbara's brother, John Voegtle of Albany, Calif., who came unexpectedly, not realizing it was the weekend of the communion, and wound up in the midst of the family reunion.

FRIENDS AND neighbors of Mrs. Ralph Ehlers, 928 N. Salem, are wishing her a speedy recovery. She was taken Sunday to Highland Park Hospital, and the date of her return is indefinite.

John O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien, 820 N. Salem, made his First Communion Saturday also. Afterwards, the O'Briens entertained Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray of Chicago, the Van Herrero family of Lisle and John's grandfather, Joseph A. Delgado.

Summer plans for the John Raitt family have been a bit up in the air as Chicago Symphony Orchestra negotiations have been going on. John, the assistant first bassoon with the orchestra, has been waiting to learn if the orchestra will be appearing at Ravinia. Meanwhile, the Raitts celebrated the First Communion of Barbara. Her aunt, Mrs. Jean McLain of Chicago, and grandmother, Mrs. Edna Lain of Joliet, came for the day.

First communion was also observed by iDane Ostrowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Ostrowski, 928 N. Kaspar. Their overnight guests, Tony Petruzzi and his son, from Bellwood, attended mass with them, followed by breakfast at the Pancake House. Thad and Marilyn held open house that afternoon and evening, welcoming the Frank Kontrims, John McNamaras and the Dave Wrights of Elmhurst.

Donnie Holmes, son of the Don Holmes, 823 N. Salem, now 3, celebrated with a backyard party for his neighborhood friends. Included were Nancy and Fritzi Grant, Laurie Juhl and Erin O'Brien.

BOTH grandmothers, Mrs. Florence Holmes of Chicago and Mrs. Agnes Chichester of Niles, came out for the party, as did Mrs. Betty Neises of Palatine, Mrs. Yvonne Hauswirth of Chicago, Mrs. Betty Lou Kerstein of Prospect Heights, Mrs. Corinne Lundell of Skokie, Mrs. Penny Fiascone, Mrs. Marilyn Lewis, Mrs. Joyce Zender and Mrs. Jack Gaske, all with their children.

Donnie's relatives, the Allan Ehrhart family of Palatine, Mrs. Judith Gembutis and Kim of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Nancy Polizzi and Michael of Chicago also gathered to wish him a happy birthday.

Stephen Kay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kay, 1008 N. Kaspar, was honored at a family party after making his First Communion Saturday. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Piner of Algonquin and Mrs. Monica Kay of Chicago, and godmother and family the Bill Barneses of Maywood, joined him for the day.

GARY SCALZITTI, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Scalzitti, 836 N. Fernandez, made his First Communion, also, and his grandfather, Anthony Scalzitti of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Scalzitti of Chicago, the Michael Roman family of Park Ridge and Mrs. Tony Ventresca and boys, of Melrose Park attended the family party.

The Jerry Winters celebrated Christopher's First Communion with breakfast at Rapp's. Baby George was honored Wednesday at a family first birthday party. Oldest son, Jerry, a student at Mt. Carmel Seminary, Niagara Falls, Ontario, spent his 16th birthday there, his first away from home. Ronnie attended the Sacred Heart of Mary father-daughter dance with her uncle, Ted Hanbrook of Westchester, as her father was working.

Danny Cunningham, son of the Vince Cunninghams, 802 N. Harvard, made his First Communion Saturday. Donna, his older sister, came home from Northern Illinois University, De Kalb, for the weekend. Guests for breakfast at the Pancake House were Danny's classmate, Roberta Finch and her family. Joining the Cunninghams at the family party were Danny's godparents, the Harry Gherkes of Berwyn, the Kenneth Daudelins of Broadview, Joseph Heindls of Chicago and the Frank Guarines of Franklin Park. It was a dual celebration for the Cunninghams, as Saturday was also their 20th wedding anniversary.

WEEKEND VISITORS in the Bulinski home, 725 N. Kaspar, were Mrs. Frank Bulinski of Chicago and Mrs. Leon Formhals of Galesburg. They came for the golden anniversary banquet of a fraternal order, which the Bulinskis also attended.

Donna Krilcic, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Krilcic, 910 N. Harvard, was confirmed last weekend in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. She entertained Susan LeBeau, Nancy Givens and Luanne Schmidt at a small party. The Krilcics, George Lurtzes and other Ridge Park couples attended the last dance of the 100 couples Club at Itasca Saturday.

Friends and neighbors of the Gus Roessler family, 914 N. Patton, are extending sympathy on the death of his mother, Mrs. Hilda Roessler.

At the George Lurtz home, 909 N. Patton, wedding excitement was in the air. Margie was a bridesmaid recently in the wedding of her cousin, Miss Lela Heim of Skokie, to David Ziemek, a mathematics teacher and coach at Prospect High School. The Lurtzes attended the wedding and reception in Chicago. (A

Eastwood Events

Among the first communicants at St. James Catholic Church last Saturday were two neighborhod young men, Mark Tatge and Andy Kanouse. Due to the large number of youngsters in the communicant's class, two services were held, with both Mark and Andy receiving at the 8 o'clock mass. Both of the boys' families entertained in their honor after the ceremony.

Mark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tatge of 814 N. Dryden were hosts at a brunch. Guests included Mark's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bergquist, friends Mr. and Mrs. Harold Strohm, great aunt Mrs. Thomas Karey and grandmother Mrs. Walter Tatge, all from Chicago. Mark's cousin, Tony Hill, who just arrived from the Philippines, was also present. Tony, the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Hill, has just completed high school in the Islands and has returned to the States to enter college in the East in September.

Festivities in the Kanouse home comprised of a buffet supper for relatives which included grandparents, the Andrew Balas of Cicero. The affair was a dual celebration for Andy since it also commemorated his ninth birthday on May 8. Andy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kanouse of 215 N. Brighton.

MR. AND Mrs. James Drake, 411 N. Beverly, were also party hosts Saturday to a group of neighbors who gathered for their annual TV viewing of the Kentucky Derby. The Paul Petersens, John Haslams, Walter Malinkes, Claude Conns, Allan Meyers and the B. L. Lerches were all there to watch the "run for the roses" and to enjoy a buffet supper afterward.

At least half of the pleasure of Bill and Rae Inman's Florida trip was the opportunity to see their son Bob play tennis at the University of Georgia in Athens. Bob was on tour with the Harvard University team with games scheduled at Drake University, Richmond, Annapolis, Clemson U. and Presbyterian University of South Carolina. Bob is very active in sports at Harvard, being co-captain of the tennis team and next year he will captain the basketball team.

After the Inman's two-week stay in St. Petersburg Beach, they returned home by way of Tuscaloosa, Ala., where they visited with former Eastwoodite, Mrs. H. Lee Watson.

Elsie and Les Moodie's Florida trip also included a visit in Tuscaloosa with Virginia Watson. The Moodies month-long stay in Florida was a climax to Mr. Moodie's retirement. They took the grand tour of the state traveling down the west coast and returning up the east coast. They visited with Mrs. Moodie's niece near Augusta, Ga., and sightsaw in the Smokies and Cumberland State Park. While in Florida the Moodies visited in Boca Raton with Arlington Heighters, the George Schnebergers and the George Hiebers.

ALL THESE former neighbors dropping in on Mrs. Watson in Alabama gave her the yen to return for a short visit to Arlington Heights, and for her week's trip back north, Virginia was the guest of the Inmans. Many of the parties planned for her were curtailed due to a sprained ankle which Virginia incurred on a downtown shopping spree, but meeting with her former neighborhood bridge club, PEO bridge club, dinner at the Moodies and the Joe Babs, and a gathering in the home of Doris Walters gave Mrs. Watson a real good chance to visit with many of her former neighbors.

The opening golf luncheon at Rolling Green Country Club on Tuesday was attended by several local golf enthusiasts. Lu Larsen, Gladys Laue and Olive Hawley were among the neighborhood women who enjoyed breakfast, golf and the luncheon.

MR. AND MRS. Wallace Hawley were hosts last Sunday at dinner at Rolling Green to Mrs. Hawley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bunge of Palatine, who were celebrating their 46th wedding anniversary.

Last week Mrs. Hawley was in attendance at the Holy Family Hospital auxiliary luncheon at the new Riverwoods Country Club in Deerfield. (A

Moley To Talk Saturday

Featured speaker at the annual convention of the Republican Workshops of Illinois to be held in Chicago Saturday will be Raymond Moley, a writer, teacher, observer, and "occasional participant in national politics."

In a letter to Raymond Chan of Northbrook, state Workshop president, he stated, "Republican politics is my hobby," although his early background would not suggest it.

While a professor of public law at Columbia University, he was tapped by Franklin D. Roosevelt, and became a policy advisor for his first presidential campaign.

Roosevelt kept him on to serve as one of the members of the original "Brain Trust" and later as Assistant Secretary of State.

HIS STORY OF his experiences in the Roosevelt administration appears in his book "After Seven Years," published in 1939.

Among his books are "27 Masters of Politics," "How to Keep Our Liberties," and most recently "The Republican Opportunity."

The topic for his speech at the luncheon session of the Workshop convention will be "The Role of the Volunteer in Politics."

RAYMOND MOLEY

SPEAKERS AT the morning session preceding the luncheon will be Hayes Robertson, chairman of the Cook County Republican Central Committee; State Rep. John C. Parkhurst of Peoria; and State Sen. John A. Graham of Barrington.

Their general topic will be "The Republican Opportunity in Illinois."

The one-day meeting will be held at the Ascot Motel, 1100 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Reservations may be obtained by calling Robert Reininga, president of the Wheeling Township Republican Workshop, at CL 9-3335. (ACM

Prospect Junior Wins Medallion

Diane DeLoncker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. DeLoncker, 1416 E. Miner, Mount Prospect, and a junior at Prospect High School, was awarded a Commander Medallion Award in the Fifth Annual Championship Color Guard Contest on April 28. The contest is sponsored by the Midwest Color Guard Circuit of the Europac Post of the Veteran of Foreign Wars in Chicago.

The award, a gold eight-pointed star, is awarded annually to the boy and girl who best exemplifies the leadership and ideals fostered by color guard competition. This year no boy was awarded the medallion.

The award is based on excellence of marching ability, sportsmanship toward other guards, instruction of own guard, and general proficiency and personality.

There are about 1,000 members of the color guard representing towns throughout the Midwest who were eligible for the award.

PRESENTATION WAS made by Commander Olson of Mundelein at the championship contest held at Maine East High School.

At Prospect, Diane is taking a college preparatory course and is planning a career in elementary education. She is a member of the Prospect Rhythmettes singing group.

Diane has belonged to the Midwest Color Guard for four years. She is a sergeant and instructs her own marching guard of 10 members, known as the "Mounties."

To receive her training, Diane attended the basic and the advanced Color Guard School in Mundelein sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. She ranked eighth in her class at the time of her completion of the course.

At present she is serving as corresponding secretary for the Junior All-American Drum and Bugle Corps Association of Illinois. (ACM EG

Approve Zoning Changes

Seven amendments to Arlington Heights Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance were approved unanimously Monday by the board of trustees.

Summary of the amendments is as follows:

1. Attached garages may be constructed without public hearing on property which conformed to zoning regulations prior to Dec. 21, 1959.
2. Spells out "hardship" zoning requisites.
3. Reduces from five to four the number of votes required to reverse or approve matters before the zoning board of appeals.
4. Permits the building commissioner to issue building permits for construction on substandard lots which meet 90 per cent of zoning requirements.
5. DEFINES "attached garage."
6. Clarifies a portion of the "Office and Research District" classification.
7. Makes substantial changes and additions in the "Off-Street Parking District" zoning classification.

Complete details of each of the seven amendments are being published by law on the Herald's Legal Page. (A

Mental Health Clinic Starts A Second Year

GEORGE MALLEY (left), staff psychologist, demonstrates a children's group therapy session at the clinic. The children posing for the photo are offspring of the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association members. A clinic spokesman explained that the doll house is a miniature replica of a child's real life situation. The dolls are instruments that the child can manipulate, and the child has control over this "miniature" environment in ways that he does not have in real life. Like all other play equipment, the doll house is used by the child to express needs through his play. In much the same way, painting is used as an expression of a child's needs, the spokesman said. Painting is "less-structured" (freer) than other play equipment. It may be "too threatening" to play doll house immediately, but the child could use painting and clay modeling to work his way to a more realistic situation. Many earlier development problems are easily expressed through work with clay and paints. (A14

Funds, Personnel Biggest Obstacles

by BILL HALLS
Staff Writer

After more than a year in operation, the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association and Clinic has discovered survival isn't nearly as difficult as all that.

Despite the odious title, which abbreviates to a still bulky NCMHAC, the association has proven that community effort is still the best defense against a potentially dangerous enemy — in this case, mental illness.

"The accomplishments that have been made were achieved by one important factor — willingness of a group of people to work together in dedication to a cause," aptly appraised Jack Julien of Mount Prospect, NCMHAC president.

PRESIDENT Julien's remarks were printed in the association newsletter last March in recognition of its year in business.

A cynic might comment: "Mental illness is here to stay."

Fortunately, so is the clinic, which is still operating in the Westgate Shopping Center, Campbell at Wilke, Arlington Heights.

The association's two biggest problems — service and funds — are still paramount. But the logic of the group's philosophy is changing.

"In comparing notes with other clinics, we have found out a clinic fact of life," says Mrs. Evelyn Wood of Mount Prospect, the group's able publicity chairman. "There is always a waiting list with a successful clinic (the Northwest's is now about 100). Even more personnel does not completely eradicate this factor, because the load continues to increase.

"In other words, additional personnel does not guarantee no waiting list. It only enables the clinic to help more people."

The problem of raising funds is a constant one. The group has seven chapters, including Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove, Rolling Meadows, Palatine and Mount Prospect, and is holding its own for the first year's budgetary allowance, about $50,000.

The association is a completely local group, confined to helping residents of the above named areas. Local contributions dictate the budget with all seven communities holding fund raising drives through either individual projects or combined appeals.

ILLINOIS MATCHES these offerings two to one, and clinic fees, based on patient's ability to pay, provide an additional small amount of income. Of the $50,000 budget, state funds supply two-thirds, or about $34,000.

Unfortunately, the association's annual drive, held in October, has been confused with the yearly May appeal of the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago (Bellringer campaign).

"So that there will be no misunderstanding this year, let us state that our local group has no affiliation with Mental Health of Greater Chicago or any other state or national organization seeking your contribution," pointed out Julien. "Our association receives no financial support and our clinic receives no financial aid from any such group."

Mrs. Wood said the association has discussed changing the group title, but that the problem is difficult because of a lack of synonyms for "mental health" and the necessity of distinguishing the Northwest group from other local mental health organizations.

But despite confusion, the combined community effort to stay mental and emotional disorders has met with definite success since first opening its doors on March 25, 1962.

Mrs. Wood said 307 cases were opened during the first year of operation. Of these, 222 are stillr listed as open (patients receiving treatment), and 85 have been closed (patients helped and returned to a normal way of life).

THE CASELOAD involved some 2,300 interviews by the clinic's staff psychiatrist, psychologist and psychiatric social worker. Each patient is tested and interviewed by one or all three of the staff members depending upon the seriousness of the mental disorder or emotional problem.

The three-man staff includes Dr. Anthony Pavkovic, M.D., a psychiatrist who acts as the clinic's medical director; George Malley, staff psychologist; and Don Meier, staff social worker.

Dr. Pavkovic, who currently teaches child psychiatry to resident physicians at Mt. Sinai Hospital, Chicago, and maintains a private practice in Palatine, recently passed the child psychiatry accrediting board of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. This makes the Northwest clinic one of the few in Illinois which has a "boarded psychiatrist."

Malley and Meier handle diagnostic testing, therapy (under direction of Dr. Pavkovic), and records.

Mrs. Wood says the clinic is about 50 per cent understaffed right now, but as she pointed out, there is no real way to gauge the amount of service a mental health clinic of any kind can provide. They do as much as they can, and no amount of organizational revisions could entirely eliminate a waiting list, she said.

IT IS interesting to note, however, that some 50 per cent of all intake cases at the clinic are children. Referrals come from local schools, doctors and families. Adults are normally referred to the clinic by themselves or by friends.

In the midst of national Mental Health Week, the clinic and its supporting seven-community association are making plans for the future.

Group therapy programs—including plans for both adults and children—will soon be realized. The adult group of 12 people has already met, and an adolescent group will be organized next month.

The group therapy program will allow the clinic staff to treat more people, and provide extra attention where needed. The program has proved itself helpful in many areas of mental health, providing both increased progress towards recovery for patients who benefit more from the group experiences, and giving the introvert added assurances that his/or her problem is not the only one confronting the doctor.

SEMINARS, to be taught by the clinic staff, will enable local juvenile officers, teachers, public health nurses and others who work with children to gain greater insight in recognizing signs of emotional disturbances. This will allow the clinic to catch the youngsters earlier and provide fast treatment, and restoration to normal life.

The Northwest association also is planning increased educational programs in hopes that people will be alerted to the recognition of early emotional and mental disorders, so that diagnosis and treatment may be able to help.

Mrs. Wood says volunteers for local chapters and the association's board of directors are always needed.

"We need more than your money," she emphasized. "We also need dedicated workers. Even if it is only one hour a month."

Anyone interested in joining a local chapter, or providing a few hours a month for association work, may contact Mrs. Louis Taitel of Elk Grove Village, association secretary. Mrs. Taitel's telephone is HE 7-1063.

The association's board of directors meets the second Wednesday of each month at the clinic. The meetings, open to the public, begin at 8:30 p.m. (A14

'THANK YOU' waves a patient who has been helped by the Northwest Mental Health Clinic in Arlington Heights. Don Meier, staff psychiatric social worker, reassuringly smiles goodbye. This scene has been repeated more than 80 times in the clinic's first year of operation. (A14

THE FORM BOARD, part of an individual intelligence test, is administered to this child by George Malley, staff psychologist. The test consists of placing various shaped blocks into identical forms on the board. Such diagnostic equipment allows the clinic's staff to form overall character observations about patients so that treatment may be applied to help cure a particular mental or emotional disorder. It is interesting to note that about one-half of the clinic's patients are children. (A14

82,601 Take Polio Vaccine

Total Below Doctors' Goal

A total of 82,601 residents of the northwest suburban area gained permanent immunity to one of the three types of polio last Sunday, May 5.

They were those who attended one of the 16 area "clinics" set up to dispense Type I Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine.

The estimated near 60 per cent turnout was short of the figure doctors had set for total elimination of polio "forever" in the area.

A special makeup "clinic" next Sunday, May 12, has been slated from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst Roads, Mount Prospect. The number of people who attend the makeup clinic could change the near success of the vaccination program to a resounding victory over polio, Chairman Donald G. Ewald, M. D., said this week.

DOCTORS HAD stated that a turnout of more than 60 per cent was vital for a successful clinic many weeks ago. Spokesmen for Northwest Community Hospital and its medical staff, who sponsored the vaccine program, are hoping to raise the ratio of persons immunized from Type I polio to 70 or 80 per cent.

The estimated 57.2 per cent participation is based on a population projection of 145,000 for Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships. This is the figure which resulted in recent university population and enrollment studies conducted by the two high school districts which serve the four townships.

In the age bracket of 6 to 14, where doctors and laymen express the most concern about polio cases, the turnout was about 61 per cent. This should provide a real eventual total immunity for this group of children, doctors say. There were 24,960 children in the six to 14 category at the "clinics" Sunday, with an elementary school enrollment in both public and parochial schools of 40,998.

NO CHARGE was made for the vaccine, but donations of 25 cents were requested. The gross amount received was $22,052, which is more than the cost of the vaccine and miscellaneous charges for promoting and conducting the "clinics."

The surplus money will be added to the hospital expansion fund drive which is being announced today.

With the exception of lines before the opening of the Hoffman School "clinic" in Hoffman Estates, the massive vaccine program was conducted in an atmosphere of almost leisure and without crowding. The stream of people remained at an even pace throughout the day.

Hospital spokesmen credited the ample number of volunteers and the organization work done by local Jaycees with the smooth operation of the clinics. Members of the hospital nursing staff, local nurses clubs, hospital "pink lady" volunteers and community residents joined the medical staff in donating time to the Oral Polio Sunday program.

WORD STUDY

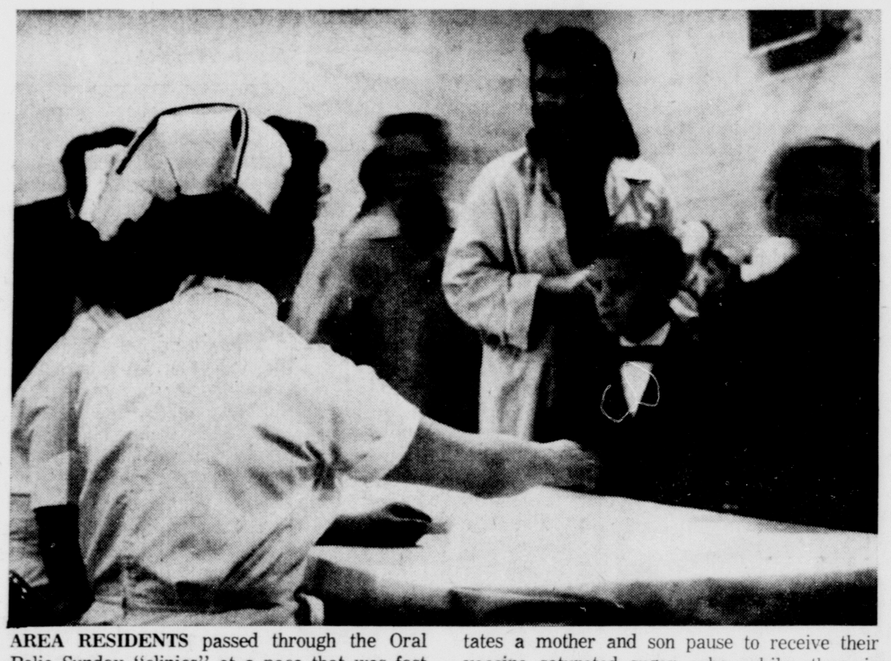
"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

THE NEXT Oral Polio Sunday will be held June 16 when Type III vaccine will be distributed. Since five to six weeks must elapse between the immunization by each type, the third Oral Polio Sunday would run beyond the July 4 "summer stop" recommended by health authorities.

The third Oral Polio Sunday has been postponed to September 8, when the Type II vaccine — the least common form of polio — will be distributed.

General rules for the makeup "clinic" next Sunday and the Type II and III "clinics" remain the same. The vaccine is to be given to everyone six weeks and older. Unmarried minors under 21 must have permission slips signed by their parents.

The vaccine is tasteless and given by dropper to infants or on a sugar cubs to children and adults. A member of the hospital staff is in attendance at all times. (B-9



AREA RESIDENTS passed through the Oral Polio Sunday "clinics" at a pace that was fast enough to blur the camera in some areas. Here at the Hoffman School center in Hoffman Estates a mother and son pause to receive their vaccine saturated sugar cube, while others in line walk rapidly through. (B9

Gremlins who waylay the best laid plans of almost everyone sometimes go to work in newspaper offices, too. Two weeks ago they carted off a nice, long square dance news column after it had been written and delivered to your editor's editor. Nobody saw it after that, not the printers, nor the proofreaders, and especially not you, the square dance news reading public.

The gremlins won't admit they did it, much less apologize for their antics, so we'll have to. We are sorry and would promise that it would never happen again if we could get a guarantee from the gremlins.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

The last open dance of the pre-summer season for this club will be tomorrow night in Miner School, Miner and Dryden Streets, Arlington Heights. Caller Bill Clarke and his wife, Marie, will cue the round dances between squares and a fine, final evening of dancing is promised. Bill squares 'em up at 8:30. Everyone is welcome.

MUSIC BOX SQUARES

The first three dances of this brand new club are past happy history by now, and club members join caller "Tib" Tibbetts in urging everyone to come on out to the Music Box and dance with them next time, Wednesday night, May 15, Tib will get things going at 8 o'clock and between squares he and his wife, Nina, will lead round dancing.

Music Box Squares meet in the Music Box, Lake Street (Route 20), 1½ miles east of Route 53, just west of Addison. Area dancers familiar with the ballroom are enthusiastic about its excellent acoustics and "square dancers' " floor. There is convenient off-the-floor seating for spectators and breathcatchers.

The club plans to continue through the summer and they'll be getting together at the Music Box the first and third Wednesday nights of each month to dance from 8 to 11 o'clock. Join them anytime.

SUMMER PLANS

There'll be dancing under the stars this summer in the Rolling Meadows shopping center. Most of the clubs have already ended their regular schedule of dancing and for real dance enthusiasts the summer is too long without an occasional do-ci-do.

Plans are not complete as yet, but it is certain that there will be dancing opportunities in the coming months. As dates and other details are worked out, they'll be announced here. In the meantime, keep your dancing shoes ready to go.

BENEFIT DANCE

At a recent Palatine Squares dance, the Grandparents Club of Westchester was well represented and all hopped up about their coming benefit dance, May 26. They have "adopted" for one afternoon a 22-month old girl, Denise White, whose right foot was severed last year in a power mower accident.

Their dance, to be held in Willowbrook High School in Villa Park and featuring Johnny Wykoff of Indianapolis, will add to the many donations made to the White family by various civic and church groups.

SQUARES FOR FUN

Wood Dale gang meets tomorrow night in Highland School on Wood Dale Road for their regular second Friday dance. Everybody's welcome to join the bunch for a cool evening of relaxed, easy-going dancing to the calls of relaxed, easy-going Bob Lewis. He'll square 'em up at 8 o'clock. Everybody come!

PALATINE SQUARES

Palatiners get together Saturday night for their next-to-the-last dance of the pre-vacation season. Everyone's invited to join the dancers in Paddock School, Palatine, where caller Art Mathews will square 'em up at 8:30. As always, Dot and Jerry Daniels will be there too, leading the rounds between tips.

Final fling of the season will be May 25 and club members are extending an advance and wide-open invitation to come help them finish off the spring season with the best dance of the year. (A14

Clinic Aided By Community

No volunteer organization could exist without community support. In the accompaning pictures, all posed by Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association staff members, workers and their children, a good deal of equipment — used by the clinic for diagnostic testing purposes — is shown.

The doll house, for example, was donated by the Schaumburg Junior Woman's club. A similar doll house and toy family was contributed to the clinic by the Mount Prospect Newcomer's Club.

Mrs. Evelyn Wood, association publicity director, said the clinic could not possibly list all donations of equipment, books, magazines or money

"Many clubs, individuals and other organizations have given equipment and money to the clinic," she said. "Support like this will keep our clinic open. Without it, we could not exist."

(Editor's Note: All of the photographs shown with this story are posed. Because of the extremely delicate nature of emotional disorders, Northwest clinic personnel feel it is unwise to take pictures of actual patients. Paddock Publications wishes to thank association volunteers, their children and the clinic staff for cooperating in the making of these photos).

2 Remap Bills in Lap of House

THE NORTHWEST SUBURBAN area Realtors are particij ing with other realtors of the nation in observing National Realt Week, May 12 through 18. The slogan adopted for the event i: "A Home Means Happiness — Happiness With a Home Means A Realtor." Mrs. Jo Good, left, a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and Ralph Bruns, treasurer of the board last week showed a home to a prospective buyer which they felt met all the requirements of a home for that particular customer. (A story giving details of National Realtor Week appears in the Design for Living Section of today's paper.) (B8

South Loses Bid To Keep 6 Seats

From UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Two reapportionment bills — one sponsored by each political party — were pushed up to passage stage Tuesday in the Illinois House of Reresentatives, highlighting a busy week of law-making.

The GOP bill, which would eliminate 12 seated legislators, would create 30 Cook County districts and 29 in downstate Illinois. Nine of the Cook County districts would be in suburban areas and 21 would be in Chicago.

The Democratic bill also would provide for 30 districts in Cook County and 29 downstate. However, some of the Cook County districts would overlap to include parts of both the city of Chicago and the suburbs.

SOME 17 amendments from southern Illinois to boost the representation of their area in the GOP map suffered an overwhelming defeat.

Under the proposed GOP bill, sponsored by House Speaker John Lewis, Marshall, southern and southeastern Illinois would have five districts.

A determined attempt to increase this to six districts was led by Rep. Joseph R. Hale, R-Shawneetown. Hale's amendment would have given Lake County in northeastern Illinois one district instead of two.

For the first time this session, Speaker Lewis took the floor to lead the fight against the measure. Also opposing the measure was Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna.

The vote against Hale's proposal was 133-32.

THE ILLINOIS Senate License and Judiciary Committee Tuesday voted 6-5 to recommend passage of a bill prohibiting sales of most goods on Sunday. The vote followed testimony that retail businesses today operate in a competitive "jungle."

Testifying for the bill was James F. Tobin, representing Wieboldt's Department Store in Chicago.

"If this law doesn't pass, in my opinion every important business establishment will be open on Sunday before 1963 is over," Tobin said.

THE HOUSE committee on motor vehicles earlier this week reported out favorably a bill that would cancel a minor's driving permit if he were involved in a serious traffic accident.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier opposed the bill.

He said it would "invoke the harshest penalties against those with the best driving records."

THE HOUSE Education Committee voted to withhold recommendation from a bill to keep high school students in school until they are 18 years old.

Supt. of Public Instruction Ray Page said the bill would create "a serious strain on the teachers in Illinois." The bill has the backing of Gov. Otto Kerner.

The Illinois Senate killed, 28-15, a bill which would have prohibited display of gasoline prices anywhere other than on the individual pumps at service stations.

The measure, according to sponsoring Sen. Frank M. Ozinga, R-Evergreen Park, was designed to eliminate deceptive advertising.

THE ILLINOIS House Executive Committee voted not to approve a bill that would classify pinball machines as gambling devices, despite a contention by Rep. James Loukas, D-Chicago, that he had known "school boys to spend their money on these pinball machines instead of eating."

A bill to require seat belts on all new cars sold after June 30, 1964, was passed in the Illinois Senate. The measure now goes to the House.

A School Problems Commission-endorsed measure to raise state aid for schools from $253 to $297 annually per student was introduced in the Illinois House.

The measure would provide for an appropriation of $48 million more than called for in Gov. Otto Kerner's budget.

AN ADMINISTRATION-backed bill to cut off state payments to provide purse for races involving Illinois-bred horses was introduced in the House.

Other measures introduced in the legislative houses would:

—give school boards authority to buy or lease sites for schools by condemnation proceedings if necessary.

—give local communities authority to operate mental health centers.

—permit establishment of a branch of Northern Illinois University in the northern half of the state to provide vocational and technical training.

—permit principals of schools to suspend pupils guilty of gross disobedience or misconduct for seven days.

—require cars to carry warning lights or flares.

—tighten educational requirements for non-medical "doctors."

—authorize the Cook County Board to establish a drainage district within the county but outside the Chicago city limits.

—call for retirement of state employees at age 65. Excluded would be elected state officials, judges and judicial clerks, legislative employees and university employees. (A-14

Business Seminar To Convene Today

Approximately 40 business firms representing Northwest Suburban communities will convene in a small business opportunity seminar today at the Maitre d' Restaurant in the Elk Grove Park 'n' Shop center.

The seminar, sponsored by the Centex industrial Park Assn. in cooperation with the federal Small Business Administration, will host from 50 to 60 business representatives.

The purpose of the seminar is to provide counseling by eight agencies of the federal government to businessmen concerning procedures in acquiring government contracts.

The assembly will draw business representatives from Des Plaines, Skokie, Bartlett, Forest Park, Elk Grove Village, Schiller Park, Bensenville, Evanston, Bellwood, Glenview, Wood Dale, Franklin Park, and Chicago.

THE ALL-DAY seminar will begin with a 9 a.m. registration, followed by a welcoming address by Major Lawrence, Centex vice - president.

The following season will consist of various talks on technical assistance, the General Services Administration, and general policies of the Small Business Administration.

After a luncheon break, individual consultation will be conducted by various government agency representatives.

The seminar is the first of its kind in the Northwest area.

Veterans Hospital Slates Open House

To most people the Veterans Administration Hospital at Hines is a group of large buildings. They know that many hundreds of veterans are treated there, but for the most part the buildings seem like any other hospital — somewhat mysterious and associated with the unhappiness of pain and illness.

"Our hospital is far more than that," declared Lee H. Schlesinger, M.D., Hines Hospital Director, and he offered to demonstrate it to everyone interested in the hospital May 16 when the hospital will hold Open House from 2 - 4 p.m. and 7 - 9 p.m., as a part of National Hospital Week, May 12 - 18.

Special group tours may also be arranged for any weekday during Hospital Week by calling CO 1-6700 or FI 3-7200, Ext. 677 or 678, between the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Open House will include visits to many hospital departments, including the Plastic Eye Clinic, Pharmacy, Chaplaincy, Rehabilitation areas, etc.

Children, 10 years of age or older, accompanied by an adult may tour the hospital.

May Potluck

Faith Ladies Society, Arlington Heights, will hold its May meeting Wednesday, May 15, at 6:30 p.m. May is the month of the annual potluck supper and the menu this year is fried chicken, potato salad, gelatine molds and dessert. During supper the ladies will be entertained by a kitchen band.

Election of officers will be held that evening. Nominees for president and Mrs. W. Jackson and Mrs. W. H. Mueller; for second vice president Mrs. J. Hurley and Mrs. R. Roths; and for corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Gruenes and Mrs. J. Brown.

The final Bible Study Group will be held May 22 at 9 a.m. in the Ladies Lounge. Mrs. F. Dargatz will lead the discussion of the study of Sarah. (A

Labeled 'Nuisance'

A house at the northeast corner of Ridge Avenue and Campbell Street was declared a public nuisance Monday by the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees.

Village Atty. Jack Siegel told trustees that five of the house's six owners are currently in Europe, and that the sixth lives in Wheeling.

THE HOUSE, at 518 W. Campbell St., was posted "do not occupy" several months ago after village inspectors found hazardous front and rear steps, windows and doors missing, floors and ceilings sagging and dangerous electrical wiring.

Efforts are being made to have the house demolished or removed. (A

Chicago Motor Club's N. W. Council to Meet

The spring meeting of the Chicago Motor Club's Northwest Area Council will be held Monday, May 20, at Henrici's Restaurant, O'Hare Inn, Mannheim and Higgins Roads, Des Plaines.

Council Chairman Willis F. Jones, assistant vice president, Citizen's Bank and Trust Company, Park Ridge, said that 16 projects would be on the agenda of the traffic safety group when it convenes on May 20. They are:

—ADDITIONAL controls needed at intersection of Overhill and Touhy Avenues due to hazardous movements of CTA buses.

—Crosstown expressway proposed by the Chicago Motor Club to relieve west side congestion.

—Request widening of Dundee Road between Milwaukee and Elmhurst Roads, and throat widening at intersection of Dundee and Wolf Roads.

—Delayed left turn arrow requested for intersection of U.S. 14 and Arlington Heights Road.

—Install left turn arrows at Peterson and Cicero Avenues.

Request traffic lights instead of stop signs at Milwaukee, Wolf, and Lake - Cook Roads.

—LARGER sign needed and better lighting on curve at Northwest expressway entrance at Madison Street.

—Hedges on southwest corner of Mobile and Carmen obstruct view of traffic.

—Guard rail on Mannheim Road bridge over North Avenue obstructs view of motorists entering Mannheim from North Avenue exit ramps.

—Improve signals for pedestrian crossing at Lincoln, Belmont and Ashland.

—Request Laramie Avenue be made one-way southbound from Lawrence Avenue to Milwaukee Avenue.

—MOVE BUS stop sign further west on Gunnison at Austin Avenue.

—Add "Walk" and "Don't Walk" pedestrian signals at Lawrence and Milwaukee Avenues.

—Viaduct clearance sign on Keeler Avenue off ramp for Northwest Expressway should be moved to top of ramp.

—Remove "No right turn" signs on Cicero at Balmoral and Berwyn. (B8

At Little City

Now Volunteers Can Choose Their Hours

An opportunity for volunteers to select their own preferred hours is being offered by Little City, residential community for retarded children on Algonquin Road west of Roselle Road, Palatine.

Donald Becker, superintendent of Little City, said: "We need volunteers around the clock, not just during the day. This is a chance for women who cannot devote daytime hours to give us some evening and nighttime when their schedules permit.

Persons having volunteer hours to devote are asked by Becker to call him at FLanders 8-5510.

Little City, devoted to the training and rehabilitation of mentally handicapped children, from infants to older youngsters, is non-sectarian and non-profit.

The children for whom it is responsible require a great deal more supervision and care than do normal ones. "In most cases, they must never be left alone without the nursing custodial care and watchful supervision of qualified adults," Becker explained.

There are five levels of mental handicaps at Little City, Becker said. They range from the completely helpless child for whom hospitalization is vital for physical survival, to children who have been trained to hold jobs which are within the range of their skills.

But the work with all these retarded children goes on around the clock and Little City needs the help of all the volunteers possible. (B8

Jurist Recommends 'Y' Measured Mile

Support for the YMCA "Measured Mile" came today from one of the world's foremost walkers, U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

In a statement released by Charles McClellan, executive secretary of Northwest Suburban YMCA, the noted jurist said that "walking is man's most natural form of exercise."

THE YMCA Measured Mile, a program being sponsored by the local "Y" together with hundreds of other YMCA's throughout the country, was launched here April 20. It's aim, said McClellan, is to help restore the habit of beneficial walking among citizens of the northwest suburban communities.

Seventeen Measured Miles have been marked off in local communities by the YMCA.

JUSTICE DOUGLAS not only talks about the benefits of walking, he has covered uncounted hundreds of miles on foot in every part of the world. His statement follows:

"I hope that the YMCA Measured Mile will re-introduce millions of Americans to the joys of walking. Walking is a man's most natural form of exercise. A young Marine can walk 50 miles. An oldster may reach the limits of his endurance in one mile. Walking as exercise can be adapted to each individual's needs.

"Walking not only restores the rhythm of the body. It is good for the spirit as well. When man is on foot he is once more a part of the earth from which he came. Man on foot can re-discover all of nature's glory and beauty." (B9

SUSIE SCOUT Says

Eleanor Rives — CLearbrook 5-2280

WHEELING

Senior Troop 609 met April 10 in the home of Mrs. Aki Kay, leader, to make 21 green curtains for Camp Pine, and late in the afternoon the girls drove to the camp and hung the curtains. Girls participating in this service project were Elvera Belpulsi, Jo Anne Esp, Karen Gross, Sandra Hammer, Patti Hanson, Sharon Johnson, Fran Seeber, Sue Seeber and Kathy Steffenson.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE

Troop 860 and leaders, Mrs. R. Dick and Mrs. J. Babb, enjoyed an all-day hike and cookout in Busse Woods April 20. Each patrol built its own fire and cooked lunch. Compass problems, trail blazing and games, led by R. Dick, made the day complete. April 27, the girls saw "The Pied Piper" at the Goodman Theatre.

Scout troops led by Mrs. N. Lueck, Mrs. A. W. Caldwell, Mrs. R. Patzer and Mrs. Walter Carlson have been engaged the past several meetings in making 1,000 tissue carnations of various hues to be used with favor bags to be given out at the Alexian Brothers Hospital Auxiliary Spring Card Party May 24.

HOFFMAN ESTATES

More than 600 Scouts and their mothers enjoyed the first Hoffman Estates - Schaumburg Mother - Daughter Banquet last week in the Pure Oil Building. Fried chicken dinners were served. Mrs. R. W. Smith, who recently resigned as neighborhood chairman, was presented with a gift in appreciation for her work the past three years.

Fourth grade Troop 800, Fairview School, recently welcomed nine new girls as Junior Girl Scouts. Formerly Formerly Brownies at Twinbrook, the girls are Becky Brems, Wanda Dick, Holly Thorsen, Linda Hughes, Patty Greaney, Terry Charleston, Linda Goranson, Karen Reid and Joan Skoneczka.

Taking advantage of Easter vacation week for a hike were Scouts of Troop 877. With leaders Mrs. A. Peterson and Mrs. W. Reynolds, they hiked to Deer Grove for a breakfast cookout, followed by games and singing.

TWO BLACKHAWK School Brownie troops held a splash party May 4 at Northwest Suburban YMCA. These second and third graders are under the leadership of Mrs. L. Simonetti, Mrs. J. Eisenhauer, Mrs. E. Dimberg, Mrs. J. W. Padian and Mrs. P. Vom Brack.

Nineteen girls from Troop 796 held a 2-night stay at Camp Pine April 19-20. They completed Adventurer Badge, as well as work on whittling and Morse code. Recently the troop made place cards for the Lakeview School teachers' luncheon.

MARINER SHIP 65

At a Court of Awards May 7, the U.S.S. Enterprise presented to its crew: 10 Mariner Pins, 4 Midshipmate Pins, 5 Senior Pins, 3 Five-Year Pins, 2 Jack Tar Patches, 2 Hospital Aid Bars, 2 Library Aid Bars, 1 Program Aid Bar, 2 Curved Bars and 11 Stars.

Linda Crandall of this Senior troop has been accepted for the 3-week Counsellor-in-Training course at Camp Norwesco this summer. After further screening, a second course is given the following summer. Girls completing both periods are eligible to become camp counsellors.

To pool resources of all Mariner troops of Northwest Cook County, skippers of each troop are meeting twice monthly. Representing the U.S.S. Enterprise is Mrs. R. A. Balkey,

NORTHEAST ARLINGTON

The second annual father and daughter banquet for girls of Northeast Arlington was held at the Pure Oil Co. April 24.

Theme of the dinner was "Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding Around the World." Each troop made its own invitations, name tags, and place cards as well as a display depicting the country it had selected.

Senior Troop 406 led the group of more than 400 girls and their fathers in community singing and, with Intermediate Troop 504, served as hostesses during the evening. Brownies of Troop 63 closed the program with the Pledge to the Flag and the singing of "Taps."

PROSPECT HEIGHTS

Troop 790, with leader Mrs. G. Hensley, held its Fly-up Ceremony April 30, in the home of Mrs. E. Stavros. The program consisted of a flag ceremony, Brownie and Scout candle - lighting ceremony, songs sung by the troop, and a candle-lighting ceremony, Brownies made the transition to Junior Girl Scouts by walking under a flower - covered trellis. Scouts' mothers, sisters and brothers were present and celebrated the occasion by having cookies, brownies, punch and coffee.

The play, "That's the Spirit," which was scheduled for April 24, was postponed and will now be presented by Troop 94 May 15 in the All-pudpose Room of Prospect Heights Community Church. Leader is Mrs. R. Van Petten.

Proceeds will be used for a Colorado trip in June, a project which the girls have been working on for some time. It is suggested that Scouts in the area make this evening a troop activity.

SOUTH MOUNT PROSPECT

Highlight of the year for South Mount Prospect Brownies was their annual Father-Daughter Banquet, held at Prospect High School the evening of May 7 and attended by more than 540.

"Holidays USA" was the prevailing theme of the evening both for the dinner in the school cafeteria and for the program of troop skits which followed in the Little Theatre across the hall.

The program opened with a Brownie flag ceremony. Mrs. Leslie Sweet was presented with a corsage in recognition of her work as neighborhood chairman. Each troop presented its Juliette Low gift.

FATHERS enjoyed the girls' originality and enthusiasm. Skits, in chronological order, opened with New Year's Day by Troop 19. Troop 219 depicted Valentine's Day, Troop 743 International Friendship Day, Troop 30 St. Patrick's Day with an Irish jig. For Arbor Day, Troop 534 became trees, for Easter Troop 411 modeled hats, and for May Day USA Troop 792 danced around the maypole.

Troop 876 interpreted Memorial Day, Troop 53 Father's Day, Troop 8 the Fourth of July and, for a change of pace, Troop 742 Sadie Hawkins' Day. Halloween with Troop 56, Thanksgiving with Troop 47 and Christmas with Troop 744 concluded the holidays.

"Now the party's over," parodied Troop 219. All Scouts then stood to sing "Taps" and Troop 792, with Susie Sumner on the saxophone, echoed this traditional Scout goodnight.

NORTH PALATINE

Brownie Scouts of Troop 501 held their Fly-up Ceremony April 28 at Deer Grove Forest Preserve as part of the North Palatine outing for Scouts and their families.

The following girls received their wings and Girl Scout pins in the ceremony: Mary Kay Bogaerts, Karen Bordenkircher, Joanne Buchmiller, Joy Belle Burtis, Mary Ellen Eirling, Ellen Erickson, Jane Gavigan, Linda Goodyear, Catherine Green, Mary Henkels, Gena Haman, Donna Hermann, Debbie Karst, Barbara Kuh, Debbie Lacher, Barbara Lammers, Carol LeBeau, Patti Lewis.

Also Janet Lynch, Jane Mick, Geri Nicklas, Linda Neidwick, Margaret Neumann, Nancy Pankanin, Mary Beth Quinn, Diane Rankins, Denise Sargol, Martha Smith, Jane Southard, Ellen Stefanik, Mary Stevens, Janina Wilkening. Mrs. D. V. Sargol is the troop leader; assistants are Mrs. A. Bogaerts, Mrs. L. S. Burtis, Mrs. K. Erickson and Mrs. S. Lewis.

'Natural' Ways of Lawn Care Are Advocated

Explains Logic Of 8-Point Plan

by TOM EDWARDS

For an everlasting carpet of green grass, the obedient homeowner who puts his faith and trust in the lawn "experts" and odctors degrees, will be guided to a menagerie of items on which to spend money.

Innumerable fertilizers, insecticides, herbicides, fungicides, and combinations of all of these. And one must have a power mower to go with his green thumb — like everyone else.

Whether it be advice from some university extension office, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, or a manufacturer of lawn products, they all expound on ducts, they all expound on ways to spend money and time on your lawn.

For your consideration, here are some extemporaneous suggestions and reasonings to the contrary:

1) Don't remove the grass clippings from your lawn—and don't worry about fertilizing it.

2) In general, forget about raking. Accumulations of whole leaves will kill grass. But if you have a mower that masticates the leaves, it will be more beneficial to leave them on the lawn. Or sweep them into a compost pile, and later spread the compost on the lawn. Don't bother raking the grass under any circumstances.

3) IF THERE is a drought, water the lawn. Otherwise don't worry about that either.

4) Don't waste energy or money combating insects in your lawn. Instead, encourage a few birds to nest in your yrad, and any bugs will have to scurry to survive.

5) Plant mixtures of upright grasses, with perhaps clover thrown in, too. Don't plant a pure strain of grass—unless you are looking for trouble and work. And choose grasses which are adapted to the soil and light conditions of your yard, and the climate of your region.

6) Be careful of mowing your grass too short (most people do), and always avoid cutting off more than one-third of the leaf blade at a time. Keep your mower blade sharp. For most situations, set your mower to cut the grass two or three inches high, and rarely shorter than one inch.

7) Let the grass go into the hot summer season and into the winter relatively undisturbed. Both are dormant periods, and a healthy, well rooted turf has the best chance of surviving through them.

8) Fungus diseases and crab grass? If you follow the above seven points, relax. Your lawn has about as much chance of being harmed by fungi as wild grass in a meadow. And for reasons which are explained at the end of this article, crab grass will disappear.

WHAT THE above recommendations boil down to is following a natural method of lawn care as much as possible. (They may draw the ire of those who write or follow pamphlets on lawn care—as John Faulkner's book, "Plowman's Folly," irked many recognized agricultural authorities.)

Below is the logic for the above suggestions. Use your own judgment as to the merits of the thinking. (And you might ask yourself if you have been using judgment in caring for your lawn to date—or blindly following some handbook.)

Through long evolution grass, as other forms of life, has adapted to live under natural conditions.

And grass appears to be one of the toughtest, hardiest members of the plant world. It is one of the few plants that can stand mowing, grazing, sun or shade, wet or dry soils. It will grow under most any soil conditions, akaline or acid, fertile or submarginal soil. The best growth results from the optimum conditions, of course, as even humans respond to their environment).

About the only thing that grass has difficulty surviving, it seems, is man's loving care. Man perhaps just wears out his lawn with handling, and by inadvertently starving and artificially stimulating it, and even poisoning it.

LAWN GRASSES have a fibrous root system, that is, roots with many filaments rather than a tap root such as a carrot. Plants with such fibrous root systems seem to thrive best in rich topsoil (an observation). Plants with coarse root systems can survive in coarse soils better than plants with fine, hair-like root systems. A rich topsoil is fine in grade, and contains plenty of organic matter and nutrients.

A plant absorbs minerals and nutrients from the soil. When the leaves fall off, or the plants die, they gradually decompose, and the minerals are gradually released back to the soil. In other words, the minerals are constantly being fed back to the new plants.

The decomposing plants are the organic matter that gives the soil a rich, black color.

IT IS CYCLIC. Life builds builds upon death. It took weathering and thousands of years of plant action to form the original lush prairie topsoil of the northwest suburban area, which is a segment of a vast midwest prairie, one of the world's most fertile areas, originally.

Removing the grass clippings interrupts this cycle. It is the same as cropping land over and over—and nearly every school child has been acquainted with what happened in the South from repeated crops of cotton, continual harvesting without return to the soil.

For normal lawns, if one cuts his grass after it has grown about a half-inch or inch above the level it is kept at, the clippings will usually quickly settle the two or three inches down to the roots of the grass. (Creeping grasses are not included in this dissertation.)

There they form an organic mulch. The mulch insulates the roots from temperatire extremes and exposure to the sun. It breaks the fall of rain. Porous, it absorbs water like a sponge, and helps preserve soil moisture by slowing evaporation.

PLANTS NEED air, too, and organic matter helps keep the soil loose and porous, allowing air in. At the same time, it holds moisture in the soil and slows evaporation, according to "Plowman's Folly."

If there is a constant supply of organic matter returned to the soil, there will be an abundance of active decay organisms constantly ready to go to work on the new grass clippings, it seems logical. The organisms will "break down" the clippings before they can accumulate into a smothering "mat" so often warned about.

Although relatively little is known about the micro-organisms of the soil, these decay organisms introduce vital nitrogen into he soil, it has been told.

Through the life-and-death cycle, the grass concentrates the nutrients it needs in the topsoil, within easy reach of itself, thereby fostering its own health.

Trees bring up additional elements from deep in the soil to its leaves, and therefore it seems reasonable to return the annual crop of leaves to the lawn.

Take the clippings and leaves away from the lawn and apply any one of most fertilizers: You are taking away the organic matter and replacing the total range of nutrient elements with the three or four that may be contained in the commercial fertilizer.

Of course, certain soils may be deficient in certain elements. Which ones these are can usually be discovered by a call to a local agricultural extension agency, (there is one in Arlington Heights) and the right fertilizer can be then occasionally applied if the lawn shows some deficiency.

Another factor in local subdivisions: the topsoil may have been lost or buried under subsoil, meaning that one has to start from he very ecological beginning to establish a lawn.

SINCE AN obvious function of roots is to get water, frequent shallow wetting of the lawn causes a more shallow root system than would otherwise result. Further, it promotes the "disease" organisms that must have a high humidity environment to exist.

In the absence of surface water, grass would logically send its roots down deep for ground water—which will make for a deep-rooted turf.

An additional source of water is to arrange the roof downspouts so that they empty onto the lawn. (This helps to alleviate community drainage problems, also)

But upon occasion, watering the lawn will help. When it is necessary, soak rather than sprinkle it (according to the experts, too). During the severest drought, one soaking every 10 days should be plenty adequate, it is expertly advised.

Bugs? Pshaw. Worry more about the dead birds that are being found in number in various communities, and teach your children to leave bird nests alone. One nesting pair of robins will scour your topsoil daily for grubs, worms and bugs.

Various plants have since time began grown in close association with each other, even developing interdependent relationships. But under mowing conditions, if not clipped too short, hardly a plant can compete successfully with grass. Even dandelions (a tap root plant) have great difficulty existing in a lawn if the soil is good.

Since different varieties of grasses have various susceptibilities and immunities, planting a variety of kinds is a protective measure against disease. Perhaps the different varieties even get along in a mixed society better than they do with their own kind only.

CLOVER HAS fallen into disfavor during the past decade for aesthetic reasons. Once its intermingling was desired. It is a legume, and legumes are reported to bring nitrogen from the air into the soil, if the soil is deficient in nitrogen.

But in a complete soil, it appears grass will take over even from clover. In deficient soils, vice versa.

Roots feed the upper plant, and the leafy part supplies the roots. For grass, the spear-like leaf blade is its food manufacturing plant, where nutrients from the soil and air are synthesized by photosynthesis, every product of American school systems is no doubt aware of.

So if you let the grass grow relatively tall, whereupon it will develop a long stem, and then cut it back severely—you have virtually knocked out its food manufacturing plant. The stem will probably then die back to the roots (usually quite evident in the brown color of most area lawns in midsummer), and the root system is forced to drain its resources to send out new green shoots. Result: A shallow, weak turf, easy prey for weeds and fungi.

To shorten a lawn, do it over a period of several nowings. Mowers are easily adjustable up and down.

A dull mower is liable to bruise, pull and tear leaf blades. A clean cut leaves little to heal and less of a scar. A surgeon doesn't operate with a butcher knife.

During hot summer spells, when grass maintains a status quo, a deep rooted grass should survive the best, it seems reasonable to assume. Won't stimulating growth during this period by mowing, fertilizing, or other means, perhaps overtax th the plant, causing it to turn brown or die back?

With approaching cold, grass goes into a dormant state again, and the same would hold true. (Forcing the grass into active growth in the late fall is cited as a contributing cause of "snow mold.") Again, fall seems to be a period when grass roots should be allowed to store as much energy and to go as deep as possible. To do this, the roots are going to have to be receiving more food from their leaves than they are supplying.

ABOUT DISEASES: Lawn care booklets seem to contain debilitating contradictions. The control measure for one disease provides ideal conditions for another, and so on.

Grass clippings harbor disease organisms, it is often asserted. Yet in the same authoritative accounts, it is optimum temperature and humidity which are the essential factors for disease organisms. One disease, fairy ring, is even the reresult of a depletion of organic matter so removal of clippings would abet it, it seems obvious.

About another disease, brown patch, two U.S. Agriculture Department research personnel write that either cold or dry weather will do away with it. ("The more often grass is wet, and the longer it remains wet, the greater will be the chance of a disease problem.") Yet they recommend extensive watering in conjunction with the application of a fungicide about three times weekly.

It seems logical again, that if the grass is not cut during hot weather, the time for the activity of most disease organisms, dryness and dormancy (and a few other correlative factors not mentioned here) will keep their activity and reproduction to a bare minimum.

Grass is not immune to chemical weed eradicators. It just survives them. They can be detrimental to the health of the grass for a period of time.

Chemical fertilizers and pesticides can also "burn" the lawn. And several fungus diseases are reported to flourish best after application of nitrogen fertilizer.

And what about the effect upon these chemicals upon the soil's micro-organisms and worms?

Nematodes (minute roundworms) are named as an occasional lawn problem. But they prefer to feed upon decomposing organic material and other soil organisms, and some varieties are beneficial, one expert account indicates. It follows from this that if the clippings are removed, and organic matter becomes short in supply, the nematodes may have to turn to live plants for food.

ANOTHER THOUGHT: Can't chemical stimulation of grass be likened to caffeine or narcotic stimulation in humans?

One thing is certain: A healthy lawn best withstands deprivations of one sort or another, just as other forms of life.

On crab grass, consider this: Cutting grass short abets crab grass; raking promotes it; removing clippings is wonderful for it; and pulling crab grass up by hand probably will only turn up more crab grass seeds to the surface to sprout.

Because according to Dr. R. Milton Carleton in his book, "New Way to Kill Weeds," (referring to chemicals), crab grass "is practically alone (among plants) in requiring direct sunlight on the seed before it is ready to grow. Shade it ever so lightly and it refuses to sprout. Cover it with dirt and it remains dormant."

Direct sunlight and a high temperature (it sprouts in midsummer) is evidently all crab grass needs to grow. Since it is an annual, it dies each winter and relies on its seeds to continue the species. And Dr. Carleton estimates that one crab grass plant is able to produce about a million seeds.

Grass clippings would keep sunlight from hitting the seed, as would a thick, tall turf. Raking "to let plenty of air and light get to the grass" is made to order for crab grass.

An easy experiment for lawn enthusiasts would be to divide their yards to strips or sections, and use different methods of care. See which works out the best over a period of several years (it would take this long to ascertain results.)

And look about you. All of our environment is one big show case of nature's own experiments and workings. (A-14

"IN THE MIDWEST alone there is probably more than a billion dollar investment in lawns and a likely $300 to $500 million spent annually for maintenance. When totaled, lawns are big business and compare in economic importance with our major midwest field crops," according to North Central Regional Extension Publication No. 12. (A14

Prospect High Lists Honor Roll Students

The third quarter honor roll for Prospect High School students was released by the school recently.

To achieve standing on the senior honor roll a student must maintain a grade point average of 4.5 with no grade lower than "B". In computing honor-roll points, an "A" is given five points, a "B", four points, and a "C", 3 points.

A junior honor roll is also prepared for students with a grade points average of 4.0 with no grade lower than a "C".

Senior honor roll members, listed alphabetically by class, are:

AFTER WALKING THEIR first YMCA Measured Mile, two village officials are presented with lapel pins to record their fitness march. Dave Sheldon, left, Northwest Suburban YMCA Indian Guide leader, gives Mayor Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines his pin, while Mrs. William Busse of Mount Prospect, right, 'Y' public relations chairman, decorates Village Manager Harold Appleby of Mount Prospect. More than 60 'Y' members joined the two men in the kick-off of the mile walk, one of 16 such miles marked in the neighboring communities to encourage walking in keeping with President Kennedy's fitness program. The YMCA has a winged foot pin for anyone who walks a total of 50 miles over the next 60 days. Cards are available at the 'Y' to record the accumulation. (AM

TOP HONORS in the third annual Junior Stamp Collectors show are presented by Rolling Meadows Mayor John J. Woods to Dave Peters, 414 N. Calls Past Freedom Of Religion 'Myth'

HOUSTON, TEX., (UPI)—The idea that colonial America enjoyed religious liberty is a myth, a Chicago seminary professor said Monday.

"Religious liberty is something we are moving toward, not something we had in the past," said Dr. Franklin Littell, of the Chicago Theological Seminary. He spoke at a Houston conference on religion's role in education.

THE BELIEF that the nation once had religious freedom which now is being threatened by the Supreme Court's recent prayer decision is a myth, Littell said.

The public schools have really been Protestant institutions, he said, and some Protestants think they ought to stay that way. (A-14

Ex-Waitress Walks Roof

FORT WAYNE, (UPI)—A just-fired restaurant scrubwoman, who teetered at the edge of the penthouse roof of a downtown office building for 30 minutes last week, was held in protective custody here.

Mrs. Lola Holland, 50, finally was coaxed away from the edge of the roof by Mrs. Millicent Balsamo, wife of the restaurant operator who fired her. As she left the edge of the roof, firemen mounted an aerial ladder to the roof and grabbed her.

Mrs. Holland pirouetted on the edge of the roof for 30 minutes, throwing cigarettes to the crowd gathered in the street eight stories below her.

Mrs. Holland was first taken to Parkview Memorial Hospital for an examination and then was jailed pending further investigation.

Peter Balsamo, operator of a restaurant a block from the office building, said he had fired Mrs. Holland earlier. (B8

Rev. Gipson To Address Fellowship

The Northwest Suburban Young Adult Fellowship will hold its next meeting on Sunday, May 12, 1963, at 7:30 p.m., at the First Methodist Church of Des Plaines. The Rev. Joe Gipson, of the Garrett Theological Seminary, will be the speaker. The Rev. Mr. Gipson Wis., for young adults of the Chicago area. Refreshments was a co-leader of a recent retreat held in Williams Bay, will be served.

The Northwest Suburban Young Adult Fellowship has been organized for single Protestant young adults in the northwest suburban area, from the ages of 18 to 30. Many activities are now being planned for the summer months for the young adults. For further information, contact Edie Helfers, CL 3-1876, Lois Larson, FL 8-0947, or Barb Wraas, VA 4-1591. (B8

Lilacs in Bloom at Mt. Emblem

It's lilac time at Mount Emblem.

Located at Grand Avenue west of Mannheim Road-Route 45, Mount Emblem is famous for the largest collection of lilacs and flowering shrubs in the midwest. The lilacs are now in full bloom and attracting visitors from throughout metropolitan Chicago.

Mount Emblem is also site of the Old Dutch Mill built in 1850 and maintained by the cemetery as an educational and historic exhibit. Open to the public, the mill prompted the DuPage County Historical Society to present its 1956 Award of Honor to Mount Emblem. (A14

ITEM: The manufacturer claims "convenient, sure and safe" as qualities of a new briquette for "starting" charcoal in outdoor grills which does away with the use of old newspapers and inflammable liquids. The briquette has a wood-fibre base and is impregnated with a candle-like paraffin. The briquettes are excellent for lighting logs as well as charcoal.

ITEM: "Relaxed" is the word they use to describe summer apparel. Skirts, blouses and slacks are finding more popularity with women, misses and juniors. Dresses in higher priced lines are more popular, suits less popular. Men are taking to woven and knit sport shirts (about two-thirds of all shirts purchased) and short-sleeved dress shirts. Popularity of suits, overcoats, work shirts and overalls on the decline.

ITEM: The U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued instructions on how to control such household pests as flies, fleas, lice, mosquitoes, ants, cockroaches — and cleanliness is the first recommendation.

ITEM: An insurance association has warned owners of new automobiles their car might roll backward if parking brake is not set correctly. The condition arises because of changes in design of parking and emergency brake systems. If the parking brake is set without simultaneous application of the hydraulic service (foot) brakes, the bottom of the brake shoes are brought into contact with the drums on the rear wheels but the shoes are not fully engaged. With the parking brake in this condition, the car will not roll forward, but it can move freely to the rear.

Forest Hospital Series

How Nuclear Crisis Affects Mental Health Lecture Topic

How mental health is affected by the "nuclear crisis" will be one of the topics discussed at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines by Dr. Leo Rangell, immediate past president of the American Psychoanalytic Association, on Wednesday evening, May 22.

Dr. Rangell, a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, Stanford University, Calif., will deliver the final lecture in the 1962-63 monthly scientific lecture series conducted at the psychiatric treatment center.

THE EIGHT lectures given this year dealt with the "structure of mental illness," tracing the growth of the mind from infancy through maturity, with particular reference to life conditions which lead to abnormal behavior and a "malfunctioning of the human personality," it was stated.

"The Ego in its Maturity" will be the topic of Dr. Rangell's paper. The speaker will "de-emphasize the fallacy" that the personality of the individual is irrevocably set in the early years of life, as is commonly believed in psychiatric circles.

"New eras of human existence bring new problems," Dr. Rangell states, "as well as new possibilities of expression and adaptation." His presentation will evaluate emotional growth from the end of adolescence into old age. The manner in which the "ego crystallizes into the final stamp and character of the adult personality" will be described.

DR. RANGELL is clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine and training analyst at the Los Angeles Institute of Psychoanalysis. He is chairman of the Committee on Post Graduate Development of the American Psychoanalytic Association.

The May 22 lecture will wind up the present series of monthly discussions, which have been attended by more than 2,000 psychiatrists, social workers, school counselors and others professionally engaged in the prevention and treatment of mental illness.

Dr. Clifton Rhead, the program chairman, announced that the aim of the lecture program has been to "further professional understanding of problems of psychological development as an aid in the practice of dynamic psychiatry."

Graham Silent On Bid

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI) — Sen. John Graham said last Thursday, May 2, he is not an active candidate for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor for 1964 but "I'm available."

"It's too early to make any real determination," the Barrington lawmaker said when queried about reports that he was interested in entering the race.

"I'm certainly not running away from it," he said. "It depends on the situation — the other candidates, the geographical distribution, and so forth. I'm making no announcement."

BETH TIKVAH TEMPLE, for which ground was broken Sunday, is shown in this architect's drawing. The building in Hoffman Estates serves 150 Jewish families in 15 northwest suburban communities.

Beth Tikvah Breaks Ground; Hope for Completion Sept. 1

Beth Tikvah Congregation, composed of Jewish families in 15 suburban communities, broke ground Sunday for its new temple in Hoffman Estates.

Rabbi Hillel Gamoran and Congregation President Elliott Rosenberg in conducting the ceremony were assisted by the bulder, architect, neighboring clergymen and representatives of the congregation.

Rabbi Gamoran said a target date of Sept. 1 has been set for completion of the building. Covering 8,500 square feet of floor area, the structure is being erected on a three-acre tract on Hillcrest Boulevard, with room for possible future expansion.

THE BUILDING will have a combined sanctuary and social hall seating 350 persons, eight classrooms, a library, kitchen, rabbi's study and an office.

Of the Reform branch of Judaism, Beth Tikvah is the only Jewish congregation in the area. It was organized six years ago and now has about 150 families as members. The congregation is holding services in the Twinbrook Elementary School in Hoffman Estates and conducting its religious school in the Rupley School of Elk Grove Village on Sundays, Tuesdays and Saturdays.

Invocation for the ground breaking was given by the Rev. William Herman of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows. Music was led by Cantor Robert Stein. Greetings were read from Edward Pinger, village president of Hoffman Estates.

AMONG THE persons who turned over a shovel of earth were Ralph Gold and Seymour Pearlman, both past presidents of the congregation; Richard Donatoni of Del Bianco and Associates, the architects; Arthur Schuessler of Slezak Construction Co., the builder; Jack Hoffman of F & S Construction Co.; the Rev. Kenneth Robinson of the Presbyterian Church of Hoffman Estates; the Rev. Donald Niswander of Our Savour's Methodist Church of Hoffman Estates.

Also Emil Gluck, president of the congregation's Men's club; Mrs. Jack Matin, president of the sisterhood; and Richard Chanzit, representing the religious school.

Officers of the congregation, in addition to Rosenberg, are Jack Dauber, first vice president; Harold Blechman, second vice president; Mrs. Seymour Footlik, recording secretary; Mrs. Norman Marcovitch, corresponding secretary; David Hillman, financial secretary; Melvin Feldman, assistant financial secretary; and Merwyn Dan, treasurer.

Serving on the board of directors are Bernard Masler, Herschel Oliff, Melvin Abrams, Sam Sakansky, Ralph Kaplan, Louis Robinson, Lester Bernstein, Marvin Zamutt, Leonard Ivanhoe, Abraham Bernstein, Leonard Goodman, Hyman DeWoskin, Sanford Gass, Seymour Pearlman, Joseph Hauptman, Mrs. Jack Matin, David Alter, Al Gluck and Ralph Gold. Judd Will Speak At GOP Workshop

Dr. Walter H. Judd, former Minnesota congressman and keynoter of the GOP 1960 National Convention, will be speaker at the annual meeting and forum luncheon of the United Republican Fund of Illinois in the Grand Ballroom of Chicago's Palmer House, Thursday, May 16, at noon.

At the annual meeting which will precede the luncheon, Fund members will elect members to the board of governors for three-year terms and Fund officers for the year ahead. William F. Gerdes, Quincy industrialist, is chairman of the nominating committee.

The meeting also will launch the membership drive for 1963 to provide funds needed to win a Republican victory in 1964. Samuel W. Witwer, Chicago attorney and Republican nominee for U. S. Senator in 1963, will head the membership drive.

AS A FIRST step in the campaign, Fund members are being asked to renew their memberships for 1963 before the drive for new members gets under way.

Among prominent Illinois Republicans expected to attend the Fund's annual meeting and forum luncheon are Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier, State Treasurer William J. Scott, Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Page, Mrs. Earle B. Searcy, clerk of the Supreme Court.

Victor L. Smith, state chairman, and Mrs. Audrey Peak, state chairwoman; James S. Kemper, national committeeman, and Mrs. Mary Brooks, national committeewoman; Marguerite Stitt Church, former member of Congress.

Hayes Robertson, Cook County chairman; and Richard Ogilvie, Cook County sheriff.

The Fund is the official fund-raising agency of the Republican Party in Illinois. It provides funds for the support of the party organization at the county, state, and national levels. (A14

Revoke 2 Drivers' Licenses

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier this week announced two drivers license revocations, four license suspensions, and three probationary permit issuances to area residents.

Jack A. Blanchard, 2513 E. Oak St., Elk Grove, and John Roderick 411 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, were issued revoation notices.

SUSPENSIONS were given to John Amato, 607 S. Candota, Mount Prospect; Gunnard Carlson, 523 S. Donald Ave., Arlington Heights; Theodore Messner, Bob o'Link Road, Mount Prospect; Raymond Olson, 1715 Boundary Boad, Mount Prospect; and Camiele Van Durme, 559 S. Hicks Road, Palatine.

Probationary permits were issued to Norbert Blaskey, 375 Park, Wheeling; John Galivan, 1905 Kensington Road, Arlington Heights; and Robert Pearlman, 380 Marvin Plaza, Wheeling. (A14

Beer Jingle Tips Police

EAST ALTON, (UPI) — Police heard jingling in the case of beer Louis Webb, Jr., 30, was carrying on the street early Monday and arrested him after a search.

Police found the beer case contained not only the brew, but also a small crowbar, screwdriver and a loaded revolver.

Webb also had a paper bag containing $103 in coins on top of the beer case. He said he bought the beer, won the money in a poker game and knew nothing about the gun and tools he carried.

Webb was booked suspected of burglary and stealing and carrying a concealed weapon after a report came in on a tavern burglary. (A14

Announce New Feature

Column to Spotlight Randhurst Activities

"Inside Randhurst," a new feature column of news and comment by Barbara Ann Davis, will be introduced in the May 16 issues of Paddock Publicatons' 14 suburban newspapers.

Announcement of the column was made this week by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications.

The editor said Miss Davis "news beat" will be the world's largest shopping center located under one roof.

"Randhurst plays a unique role in our community life," explained Hayes. "In addition to attracting millions of visitors and shoppers to this area, it is becoming an important civic and cultural center for northwest suburbs."

THE COLUMN will be devoted to personal news and feature events from Randhurst that are of general interest to northwest area residents. The giant center is located at Routes 12 and 83 and Foundry Rd. in Mount Prospect.

Author of the weekly column, Barbara Ann Davis, will bring to her new reportorial post a varied background in retailing, promotion, and public relations.

As chief assistant to Randhurst's advertising promotion director, she works with all promotion events, supervises tours, directs all Town Hall activities, processes news releases, and helps with merchant association activities.

"Her widespread daily contact with businessmen, visitors, and civic leaders at Randhurst make Miss Davis especially qualified to keep our readers posted on items of interest," said Hayes. He stressed that the column was not a commercial venture or "shoppers guide" but would be restricted to public service and general interest material.

BARBARA ANN DAVIS

PRIOR TO HER current position with Randhurst Corporation, Miss Davis was assistant to the manager and promotion director for Seven Countries Restaurant in Wheeling. She was formerly associated with Westmoreland Country Club and Chevy Chase Country Club as assistnat to the manager and head of catering.

Her retail experience includes sales and customer service work with Wieboldt's, Henry C. Lytton, and Marshall Field. She was also associated with the extension service of Northwestern Traffic Institute and Golf Digest Magazine.

A graduate of Evanston High School, she attended Carthage College and Evanston Business College.

Among special talents, the new columnist lists speaking Spanish and gourmet cooking (her specialties are beef stroganoff and flambe).

LEISURE TIME activities for Miss Davis are as varied as her professional background. She is a volunteer worker for the VFW and YMCA. And for relaxation, she relies on flying lessons, advanced bridge classes, community theatre work, boating, water skiing, ping pong and bowling.

"Inside Randhurst" will appear in all editions of Paddock Publications. (Rh

C. Virgil Martin, president and treasurer of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., has announced the appointment of Herbert G. Schchtschneider as his special assistant on financial matters, effective June 1.

SCHACHTSCHNEID E R is treasurer of Olson Rug Co. He was treasurer and assistant secretary of Schuster and Co., Milwaukee, at the time of their merger last fall with Gimbel Brothers and had been with Schuster's 39 years.

He is recent past chairman of the Controller's Congress of the National Retail Merchants Association; past president of the Financial Executives Institute of Milwaukee and the Milwaukee chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

'King and I' Will Aid Children

The Summer Camp for Diabetic Children will benefit from the performance of "The King And I," starring Jane Morgan, on Sunday, June 23, at 7:30 p.m. at Melody Top Theatre, Hillside, Congress Expressway and Wolf Road.

The service unit of the Diabetes Association of Greater Chicago has taken over the evening's performance as a fundraising project to help meet the annual deficit in the operation of the Summer Camp for Diabetic Children at Lake Geneva, Wis., where no child is turned away for lack of funds.

TICKETS may be obtained from local chairman or from the Diabetes Association offices at 620 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, SU 7-8842.

Chairman for this area are Mrs. F. Vernon Schlexer, 1518 N Walnut, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. James Payne, 520 Brynhaven, Elk Grove Village.

Latin Tour By Illinois Band Set

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — The University of Illinois concert band has been chosen for a State Department - sponsored tour of Central and South America next spring, it was announced last Friday.

The department notified Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., that the Illinois band, together with band and choral groups from five other schools, were selected.

Dates and itinerary of the tour will be announced later, probably next week, the department said. (A-14

Syndicate Gathers For Suburb Wedding

(UPI)—A juke box racketeer's son and a crime syndicate bookie's daughter were off on their honeymoon Monday after a big wedding attended by a glittering array of syndicate bosses and a rather surprised group of policemen and undercover agents.

The newlyweds are Ronald J. English, 23, son of top west side hoodlum and juke box racketeer Sam English; and Diane Geraldine Altier, 20, daughter of a Cicero gambler. The wedding took place Saturday night.

THE SYNDICATE heads threw police and undercover agents, waiting outside the posh suburban Northbrook night spa, a curve when they extended them an invitation to come in, have some food and join the celebration.

However, the miffed lawmen declined, choosing to stay outside in the rain.

Guests included Sam (Teets) Battaglia, John Lardino, Jimmy (The Bomber) Cautura, Jackie (The Lackey) Cerone, Fred (Juke Box) Smith and Sam De Stefano.

Marshall Caifano, arrested last Thursday in Las Vegas in an alleged extortion plot against a multimillionaire oil tycoon, also was present. (A-14

Traffic Deaths Show Increase

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI)—Traffic deaths in Illinois the first four months of the year are running 6 per cent higher than during the same period last year.

Francis S. Lorenz, director of the department of public works and buildings, said deaths so far in 1963 total 504.

He said 125 persons lost their lives to highway fatalities during the last month alone. (A14

Review Asked

Seek Draft Alternatives

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — Legislation which would "explore alternatives to the draft" was introduced into the House of Representatives Monday by Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Watertown, Wis.

The bill provides for an impartial and comprehensive review of military conscription methods.

"For years military officials have insisted that the draft is necessary," Kastenmeier said, "But whenever its renewal comes before Congress, we find that we have no alternative but to accept the Pentagon's own figures on the number of men required and its own evaluation of the fairness and effectiveness of the selective service system.

THE PROPOSAL would call for the Secretary of Labor to carry out the survey as part of the over-all manpower study provided for in the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962.

"We should have an impartial report of what the military's manpower requirements really are," he said.

Kastenmeier called the draft a "wasteful and ineffective way of meeting our military manpower needs" and called for an approach based on positive incentives rather than on compulsion.

"Our nation needs a military force made up of men who are motivated by a desire to make a career of military service, men who take pride in being good soldiers," he said.

THE BILL would have the Secretary of Labor also consider the following:

1. Whether tasks now performed by servicemen could be better handled by civilians.
2. The kind and quality of training now being provided servicemen.
3. The number of men required by the armed services.
4. The effects of the draft on our civilian economy.
5. The psychological effects of the draft on those waiting to be called, those who are called and those who have served and have returned to civilian employment. (A-14

Attorney General Ruling

Fallout Shelter's Behavior Defined

A person licensed by the owner of a fallout shelter to enter that shelter has authority to do only those things specified in the license, Attorney General William G. Clark held this week.

Clark's opinion answered a question submitted by Col. Donovan M. Vance, director of the Illinois Civil Defense Agency, who asked what assurance a building owner has for protection from pilfering and damage by shelterees.

WITH HIS QUERY Colonel Vance submitted a copy of a fallout shelter license.

"A license in respect to real property merely is permission to do an act or a series of acts upon the land of another without creating any estate or interest in such land," Clark's opinion advised Colonel Vance.

"A license excuses the licensee from liability for acts within the scope of the license but it does not justify acts exceeding the authority granted. Thus it is my opinion that when the form of fallout shelter license submitted is used, a licensee would not be excused from liability to the owner for acts exceeding the authority granted by the license."

Brief Grassroots Press on Foreign Policy

State Department Conducts Sessions

by DICK HOFFMANN
Associate Editor

SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Rusk: A concern for the spread of nuclear weapons.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — From the bridge which coils across the Potomac like a broken spring you could see canoeists dipping paddles in the water as Indians must have before the birth of the Republic.

Trees were lush in green finery on small islands and enclaves carved from the banks of the river; the surface of the water shimmered in the sunlight. It was an almost pastoral counterpoint to the notion which strikes you that this is one of the great power centers of the world where men's words are backed by an immense force of still inconceivable dimensions.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY: His talk was off-the-record.

I WAS IN Washington, D. C., to attend a national foreign policy conference for editors and broadcasters. I had been forewarned that the spring season in the nation's capital could be infatuating, having visited once before as a schoolboy. This time was no exception. The city has a charm unparalleled in any other American mertopolis, with well attended squares and parks on an average of every five or six blocks and many trees scattered along the boulevards as if they were sown by the wind. It is also supposed to harbor some of the worst slums in the country.

Washington, like the country generally, has succumbed to the international influence borne witness to in its sidewalk cafes (where coffee and beer are sold at tourist prices), in the sari-wrapped women walking the streets, in the Africans looking uncomfortable in tight - fitting suits.

International concerns also seem to order the thinking and orientation of its inhabitants from the White House on down. The importance attached to briefing the "grassroots" press on foreign policy matters was apparent in the number of invitations sent out and answered by between 300 and 400 press and electronic journalists for the two-day conference held April 22 and 23 in the Department of State's new auditorium.

THE GATHERING concluded with an off-the-record address by President Kennedy. Flanked by secret service agents and his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, the President painted a somber picture of the world's predicaments, although occasionally when responding to questions his Irish humor beamed through.

Salinger drew the biggest round of laughter, however, when he said the President's remarks could not be referred to or alluded to in any way, glaring at his audience as if trying to stare them into obedience, and then turning on his heel at the conclusion of this brief admonishment.

Other participants included Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking in that precise, clipped style of his, looking amused all the while; G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, dressed as if prepared to attend a fraternity dance; William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency ("We're one of the smallest agencies with one of the biggest jobs."); Walt W. Rostow, chairman of the Policy Planning Council, and Paul Nitze, Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs, two of the chessmen engaged in world checkmate strategies.

PART OF the sessions were held for background in which ground rules stated remarks could not be attributed to a particular source. Other briefings were on-the-record. Only the President's comments were designated "off-the-record."

But from the top of the power pyramid on down, concern was expressed over the proliferation of nuclear weapons to an increasing number of countries. Between 18 and 20 nations now have the technical capacity to produce nuclear weaponry, and the cost of production is going down all the wihle, it was pointed out.

The danger, as one speaker put it, was having an irresponsible leader in possession of nuclear weapons — someone of Hitler's psychology — who would "pull the temple down around him."

The Administration's current answer to the weapons spread is a multi-national NATO defense force operating surface ships manned with polaris-type weapons and mixed crews. Speakers thought this would curtail development of national nuclear weapons systems in at least European countries while still satisfying national pride with membership in the nuclear ownership club.

A more difficult attempt is a test ban treaty with the Soviet Union as a start toward meaningful disarmament steps. William Foster, the disarmament agency director said, "One hundred nations around the world have indicated a willingness to join in a test ban treaty." Once achieved, he thought pressures could be brought to bear to include Red China in such agreements.

In the meantime, a buildup of conventional forces in Europe and elsewhere is sought to add to the responses in the West's arsenal to possible Soviet thrusts. The Administration emphasized it does not want its tactics limited to nuclear retaliation. The explanation recalled the alliterative phrase of President Kennedy who had identified this conventional force as a response resting between "holocaust and humiliation."

AT THE SAME time, Administration officials expressed the confidence that a great Communist offense launched with Sputnik and the branishing of nuclear weapons to achieve their ends in Berlin has been blunted.

"We feel the Soviet Union is in the process of reappraisal of its policies," is the way a speaker put it. "We think Premier Khrushchev has suffered setbacks in Iraq, Syria and Cuba."

Some doubt still seems to exist as to how many nations would maintain a finger on the nuclear trigger of a multinational NATO force and how many would be permitted a veto over use of such weapons, although it is apparent the United States would retain the right to vote down these applications.

ANOTHER high government source said three options were available to the Administration to answer the nuclear weapons spead to other nations: 1) To leave the nuclear monopoly in the hands of U.S. forces, although he said this wouldn't reply to France's determination to secure an independent force. 2) To let nature take its course. In this instance, he said, a German nuclear deterrent would impose a "terrific strain on the Western alliance" since Germany had instigated three European wars and "the Soviet Union would not stand still for a German deterrent. They're almost pathological about it." 3) A multi-lateral nuclear force in NATO, the option being exercised.

I asked the official if a fourth option might not be atom-free nuclear zones. This, he answered, would not satisfy the national pride of highly industrialized European nations.

The Cuban crisis was still very much in the minds of Administration officials, and there were a number of allusions to it, as if this had been the catalyst which had wielded them together.

Harlan Cleveland, Assistant Secretary of State for International Organization Affairs, refered to an aide's description of the Cuban flareup as "A little like trying to nail Jello to a tree trunk."

Cleveland said use of the United Nations in the fray swung world opinion from the view that a "David" (Castro) was fighting a "Goliath" (Keenedy) to one of the "Outlaw" Castro who refused to cooperate with the UN in permitting inspection teams on Cuban soil.

There was also talk of a "Cuban pathology" and "fixation." Said Robert J. Manning, Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs: "Let's not exaggerate something 90 miles away when something is only 15 minutes away by rocket" in obvious reference to Russian missile capability.

MANNING defended the Administrations's new policies, saying: "I'm utterly convinced the issue is not one of news management but one of access." He said James Reston, New York Times Washington bureau chief, has so identified it. "And Reston says access is greater now than in all the years he has been in Washington."

The looming shadow cast by Red China also fell across the thoughts of State Department officials. Its 6 to 8 million people, its bellicose nature and unyielding policies were discussed. "The invasion of India by China," an official considered, "was a geopolitical slap in the Soviet face. India was a symbol of the Soviet policy of co-existence."

Following the conference, a reception was held on the eighth floor of the new State department building. The drinks were good, and the view from the terrace, which took in the sweep of the Lincoln and Washington memorials, impressive. The Potomac was still in view, its course sidestepping buildings and roads and other artifacts of civilization, flowing impassively beyond the sound and the fury. The view and the drinks had a mellow effect. Then I realized that I, along with several million other taxpayers, was helping to pay for the drinks and the new building.

I turned to my companion, a broadcaster from Clinton, Iowa. "You mix a pretty good drink, Ernie," I told him.

Washington's Current Views

Here are some of the concerns touched on by State Department officials at a national foreign policy conference conducted for editors and broadcasters April 22 and 23:

—LAOS: The recent crisis might be a result of the ideological conflict between Moscow and Peking;

—SPREAD OF NUCLEAR WEAPONS: Eighteen to 20 countries now have the technical capacity to develop these weapons;

—RECOGNITION OF RED CHINA: "In the eight years Washington has been in touch with Peking, the Red Chinese have made it repeatedly clear they will not negotiate until Formosa is surrendered"; —CONVENTIONAL FORCES: "In Berlin, what might start as a limited incident could escalate. Conventional forces would be used to stop the escalation to nuclear weapons until a poltical agreement could be reached";

—LATIN AMERICA: "The national product increased 4 to 5 per cent last year, although this gain was cut to 2 per cent by population increases";

—UNDERGROUND NUCLEAR TESTING: "The military judgment is that such tests yield few rewards";

—U. S. SUPPORT OF THE UNITED NATIONS: "The $235,000,000 we spend annually with the UN would buy only half an aircraft carrier and is less than one half of 1 per cent of our total defense budget."

HOFFMAN ESTATES—

Odakonyah group of Camp Fire Girls in Hoffman Estates, led by Hoffman School fourth grade teacher, Miss Martha Burris, took their candy selling activities to Roselle State Bank for successful Saturday morning sales.

Odakonyahs are also participating in the needlework guild, making bean bags for donation to nearby charitable institutions. Another group activity is a study of the proper ways of folding and unfurling flags.

Group member, Gail Lozzi, has been named reporter of group activities with the assignment of turning out written reports periodically for publication.

A Bluebird group, named by unanimous consent of the members, the Blue Angels, is completing its first year of Camp Fire in Hoffman Estates.

Led by Mrs. Patricia Splitt, the girls have begun learning home-making skills and have on their parents with pies and cookies made at meetings.

The girls made their own Bluebird hankies with cross-stitched Bluebirds and monogram which they wear attached to the inside of their vest pockets.

A current project is the construction of Bluebird dolls, stuffed with cotton and wearing yarn coiffures, clad in felt replicas of Bluebird costumes.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS—

Junior Hi Camp Fire groups participating in the April 29 inter-group tea at Pioneer Park were treated to a variety of program highlights outlining the various areas of the organization's new third level.

Welcoming guests of honor and the teenage members were greeters from the district's three junior high groups. Rose Marie Kelly, president of the eighth grade Okiciyapis, acted as mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon and introduced the speakers. William Appleby, superintendent of recreation for the Arlington Heights Park District gave pointers on conducting a successful Sports Day, in explaining the "whys and wheres" of the Sports and Games field.

Community Service was brought to light in new ways as Mrs. Wilbur Sedlak spoke to the girls. Emphasis on the glories of the home and the Camp Fire Girl's part as a future homemaker was Mrs. Glen Rubenking's offering on the hearthstone picture. As consultants to the new Junior Hi program, these people will serve in their chosen fields for the coming year.

To complete the Junior Hi outlook, a word painting of the coming high school years was given by Tina Hansen, member of the Mount Prospect Horizon Club.

SEVERAL pantomine numbers were performed of seventh grade Wicaka group and the singing of Camp Fire songs was led by the Okiciyapi group. A planned skit on "Hair Care" did not take place due to illness of one of the seventh grade Tacinca members.

The tea table, with wreaths of yellow and brown flowers circling the crystal punch bowl and candleholders, was the work of the Wicakas, while the decorated diamond-shaped tea cakes were the result of an earlier Tacinca baking session. The berry-bright punch was made and served by girls in the eighth grade group. (B9

Glue Sniffing Causes Death

WHITEFISH BAY, WIS., (UPI)—A Marquette University freshman, who "liked to try things," died last Thursday, May 2, apparently as a result of sniffing glue from a 10 cent tube of airplane cement.

"He was apt to do crazy things like this," John G. Blanton, father of the victim, Bruce Blanton, 18, said when he was told an autopsy showed the youth died of asphyxiation from the glue fumes.

BRUCE, A part-time radio announcer and hi-fi addict who frequently worked all night on his hobby of electronics, was found by his mother when she went to the basement in the morning.

The youth was slumped in a chair next to his hi-fi set, a plastic bag over his head with glue residue inside and an empty tube of airplane cement on the floor.

Printed in red on the back of the tube was a warning:

"Do not take internally or breathe vapors."

The mother said the boy had gone to bed about 12:30 a.m., but he frequently had risen before to go to the basement and work on his electronics equipment.

The youth was a part-time engineer and announcer for Milwaukee FM Station WFMR, his parents said.

"PERHAPS HE thought he might get a jolt to wake up to continue his studies. That's why he sniffed the glue," the father said. He said to his knowledge the boy had never done any glue sniffing or associated with youths who did.

Dr. L. J. Van Hecke, county medical examiner, performed the autopsy and said as far as he knew the death was the first from glue sniffing in the county.

"Health authorities have been aware of the dangers of glue sniffing for a long time and have publicly called attention to its dangers," Van Hecke said. "Unfortunately, the margin of safety which the solvents of the glue have is very narrow. At any time, inhalation of the vapors can be fatal."

Van Hecke described the results of the sniffing as a feeling of intoxication, dizziness, euphoria, confusion, fatigue, lack of co-ordination and sometimes hallucinations.

He said the fumes can have a degenerative effect on the liver, brains, kidneys and bone marrow. (A-14

Find Drunk Drivers Mostly Alcoholics

ST. LOUIS, (UPI)—Boozing drivers cause more than their share of highway accidents, Dr. Melvin L. Selzer of the University of Michigan Medical Center said Monday. He felt they should be required to take psychiatric examinations and seek treatment.

Selzer spoke at a meeting of the American Psychiatric Association. He said a study by the University of Michigan of 67 persons convicted of drunken driving found 38 were alcoholics, 10 probably were and four more were on their way.

HE SAID other studies, in Sweden, Toronto and New York, confirmed that alcoholics were a major cause of highway accidents.

"Stringent drunken driving laws have been passed," the doctor noted, but "these increasingly severe penalties do not appear to have had a deterrent effect, suggesting that many intoxicated drivers are addicted to alcohol and find driving unavoidable or irresistable." (A-14

AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

SECTION ONE: The Comprehenseive Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights adopted December 21, 1959, as amended, is hereby further amended by adding thereto following Section 12, the following additional section to be designated "Section 12 B P-Off-Street Parking District":

"SECTION 12-B P-OFF STREET PARKING DISTRICTS.

12B.1 Purpose. The off-street parking districts established herein are provided for the purpose of securing adequate parking facilities for business districts which attract a large volume of transient vehicular traffic. Districts so designated are restricted to public and private parking areas which serve a concentration of business uses. By providing off-street parking facilities, congestion in the streets is lessened and avoided and a necessary convenience is provided for customers of business and commercial facilities. The provision of such districts enhances the desirability of the commercial development, and protects the taxable value of the business and commercial property in the village. By providing required open space, adequate light and air is provided in and about business and commercial districts. The provisions of off-street parking districts protects and promotes the public health, safety, comfort and convenience and protects the value of taxable properties and the economic base of the Village.

12B.2 General Conditions

12B.2-1 A P-Parking District may be established only on a tract of land lying contiguous to or within 100 feet of, or across a street or alley from a Business District established and classified under the provisions of this ordinance.

12B.2-2 No permanent structures or buildings except buildings accessory to parking facilities may be erected or constructed in such districts except that parking meters, parking control signs, lights, gates or traffic control devices may be installed to facilitate the operation of parking lots and parking facilities.

12B.2-3 All parking lots and areas shall be improved with the construction of a base course consisting of seven inches of waterbound macadam or five and one-half inches of pozylanic material and a surface course of 1½ inches of bituminous concrete surface course, subclass I-11, or Portland cement concrete of equivalent strength and durability. The perimeter of the pavement shall be curbed with a concrete curb six inches wide and extending at least six inches above and 12 inches below the surface of the parking area. Where necessary, storm inlets shall be installed together with the necessary outlet pipe to properly drain the paved areas. Parking spaces and traffic lanes shall be clearly delineated on the surface of such parking lots and areas. Parking areas shall not exceed twenty (20) car stalls in any continuous row of 90 degrees or angle parking. Terminals of parking rows shall have proper radius with concrete curbing at each end of each row and shall have soil for planting, minimum size 10 ft. x 10 ft. of open soil. Cross drives shall be provided at each bank of twenty parking stalls.

12B.2-4 All parking areas shall be effectively screened on each side adjoining or fronting on any property situated in a Residence District or any institutional premises, by a wall, fence or densely planted, compact hedge not less than six (6) feet nor more than nine (9) feet in height. All parking areas shall be appropriately landscaped and lighted with an illumination standard of approximately 0.3 to 0.5 of a lumen per square foot. Such lighting shall be directed away from residential properties in such a way as not to create a nuisance. One tree of a minimum diameter of two inches shall be planted in each planting bed to be located at each end of all rows of car stalls. The following trees shall not be permitted: Fruit, Nut, American Elms, Chinese Elms, Box Elders, Poplars in variety, Willows in variety, or any trees with excessive seeds or producing other debris. Fruitless flowering trees are permitted. All parking areas fronting public streets shall have in the 6 foot space one tree as defined in Section 12B.2-4 planted every 50 feet across the lot lines between parking and pubilc property.

12B.2-5 No parking lot may be established in a P Off-Street Parking District unless the plan for such lot has been approved by the President and Board of Trustees after a hearing by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission. The plan shall show the number and location of parking spaces, traffic lanes, ingress and egress and the type of surfacing, landscaping and improvements to be provided. The Plan Commission shall approve such plans only upon finding that the proposed lot conforms with the requirements of the ordinance and that the resulting traffic pattern will not create a hazardous or dangerous condition in and about the area in which the parking facility is located. The entrance and/or exit shall be located at a sufficient distance beyond the right-of-way of an existing street or projected extension thereof to provide adequate safety of vehicles and of pedestrians.

12B.2-6 Parking facilities located in a P Off-Street Parking District may be utilized to satisfy the requirements of Section 10 of this ordinance if such facilities meet the other requirements of that section.

12B.3 Permitted Uses. The following uses and no other are permitted in P Off-Street Parking Districts, and no building except buildings accessory to parking facilities or structure except parking meters, parking control signs, gates, illuminating lights, bumpers, or other traffic control devices shall be erected, altered or enlarged:

12B.3-1 Municipal parking facilities owned, operated or maintained by the Village of Arlington Heights.

12B.3-2 Parking Area, Public, as defined in Section 3 of this ordinance.

12B.3-3 Parking Area, Private, as defined in Section 3 of this ordinance.

12B.4 Yard Requirements: There shall be minimum front, side and rear yards of six (6) feet between the back of the curb and the lot line, except where a lot line adjoins a residence district, in which case a minimum of ten (10) ft. setback shall be required."

SECTION TWO: Any person, firm or corporation violating the terms of this ordinance shall be fined not more than $200.00 for each such offense.

SECTION THREE: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

An Ordinance

AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS:

SECTION ONE: Section 11.4-4.2 of the 1959 Comprehensive Amendment of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights is hereby amended to read as follows:

"11.4-4.2 Side Yard. On each lot upon which a dwelling is constructed, there shall be a side yard on each side equal to not less than ten per cent of the width of the lot; provided, however, that an attached garage may be built at a distance of not less than three feet from the side lot line when such garage is an accessory use to a single family dwelling built pursuant to a building permit issued prior to December 21, 1959, if such garage could have lawfully been erected in that location at the time the permit was issued for the principal building.

Nothing herein contained, however, shall permit a side yard on each side equal to less than ten per cent of the width of the lot on reversed corner lots."

SECTION TWO: Section 14.4-3 of the 1959 Comprehensive Amendment of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights is hereby amended by adding after the first paragraph of said section, the following paragraph:

"In its consideration of the standards of practical difficulties or particular hardship, the board of appeals shall require evidence that (1) the property in question cannot yield a reasonable return if permitted to be used only under the conditions allowed by the regulations in that zone; and (2) the plight of the owner is due to unique circumstances; and (3) the variation, if granted, will not alter the essential character of the locality. A variation shall be permitted only if the evidence, in the judgment of the Board of Appeals, sustains each of the three conditions enumerated."

Section 14.4-3 is further amended by deleting therefrom the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"The concurring vote of four members of the Board is necessary to reverse any order, requirement, decision or determination of the Building Commissioner or Administrative Officer, or to decide in favor of the applicant any matter upon which it is required to pass under this ordinance or to effect any variation in this ordinance. Every variation shall be accompanied by findings of fact specifying the reason or reasons for making the variation."

SECTION THREE: Section 5.4 of the 1959 Comprehensive Amendment of the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights is amended by adding thereto the following paragraph:

"The Building Commissioner may, however, issue building permits or certificates of occupancy for residential structures erected on lots having less than the required width and/or area when such lots are part of a subdivision approved by the President and Board of Trustees subsequent to the passage of this ordinance if the lot width and/or area is no less than 90 per cent of the requirement imposed by this ordinance and the structure conforms in all other respects with the provisions of this code."

SECTION FOUR: Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be fined not less than Five Dollars ($5.00) nor more than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) for each offense. Each day that a violation is permitted to exist shall constitute a separate offense.

SECTION FIVE: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

Notice

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS SPECIAL ASSESSMENT No. 147

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights have heretofore passed an ordinance for the construction of a local improvement to be paid for by special assessment, which improvement consists of the construction of a sanitary sewer district.

Pursuant to said Ordinance, a petition for the levy of a special assessment to pay the cost of said improvement has heretofore been filed in the County Court of Cook County, Docket Arlington Heights 147 of said court, and an assessment therefor has been duly confirmed by the court and a contract for the construction of the same has been duly let and the work completed as required by law.

A certificate has been filed by the Board of Local Improvements, showing the completion of the work in substantial compliance with the ordinance for the construction of the same, the cost of the improvement, together with the amount estimated to be required to pay accruing interest on bonds and vouchers issued to anticipate the collection of the assessment, and an application has been made to said County Court to consider and determine whether or not the facts stated in the Certificate of Cost and Completion of Improvement are true.

A hearing will be held by the County Court of Cook County on the 4th day of June, 1963 at 10:00 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as the Court's business will permit, and the Court will hear and determine any objections that may be filed before that time and enter an order according to the facts.

Ceremony at Church

The cornerstone for the Congregation Church of Arlington Heights building was officially laid at a brief service - ceremony last Sunday.

W. Rowland Koch, minister, was assisted by members of the church and its choir. Among the guests were Walter Kroeber, architect, and Ray Lantz, general contractor.

Significant church documents and copies of front sections from the Arlington Heights Herald and Chicago papers were gathered by Everett Huff, church historian. They were sealed in a copper time capsule box. which was then placed in the 1963 dated stone.

The new building, now past midway in construction, was toured by members and friends of the congregation.

Completion date is scheduled for late summer. The new building is located on Kirchoff Road at Kennicott Avenue. (A

Piano Comeback

Since its comeback, the player piano's used market is almost saturated. New ones are now selling at the rate of about 7,500 a year.

Plan French Room At Rummage Sale

Members and friends of St. James Catholic Church of Arlington Heights are set to tackle a building project without fear of hammer blows on their fingers or mortar splashes on their ears.

Many of them will come up with household and outdoor items, clothing and toys, while others will break their piggy banks.

All this for the rummage sale sponsored by the Church's Christian Family Movement group Saturday, May 11, in the school basement, 821 N. State Road.

HOURS WILL be between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Proceeds from this sale will be given to the Msgr. George Stier Junior High School Building Fund, reported Mr. and Mrs. John J. Walsh Jr., 404 E. Marshall St., CFM leader couple.

They said the highlight of the event will be the French Room, where patrons will be able to select from a complete line of items "with the continent a l flavor."

The Christian Family Movement is formed of married couples who work together to promote happier family life. The groups, of five and six couples each, meet every two weeks in each others' homes (A

A Correction

In an article in the April 25 edition of the Harold, it was erroneously stated that Dr. Henry Neumann, 315 N. Dunton Ave., maintains the village is responsible for replacing water pipe running from the buffalo box (turn-off valve) to private buildings.

In fact, Dr. Neumann contends the village is responsible for the pipe running from the street water main to the buffalo box. (A

Church Looks at The Task It Faces

The Rev. Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen of Washington, D. C., secretary of the division of public relations of the National Lutheran Council, led the congregation of Lutheran Church of the Cross last Sunday, in a self-study of congregational aims and future action at the congregation's Retreat for Family Renewal held at Camp Augustana at Lake Geneva, Wis.

The self-study was made with the assistance of Ken Wall of Mount Prospect.

After pointing to the center of the circle, being the new church building at 2025 S. Goebert Road next to Forest View High School, he drew a two-mile "area of concern" which includes south Mount Prospect and south Arlington Heights.

This area is expected to double its population within [illegible] years and triple within 10 years.

The Elk Grove School District, in which the church lies, expects a sharp increase in families with few children due to the rise in apartment living, but that there will be a rise in teen-agers with the number of high schools expected in the area to increase.

Within one mile of the church, 2,000 apartment units are either under construction or on the drawing boards and 1,165 homes are projected. Mail delivery rates for the area show a 10 per cent increase in the last two years. Telephone installations in the area show an average of 2,800 installations each year for the last six years in High School District 214.

Indications are that District 214 will have a steady increase in population in the next few years which might amount to 6,000 or 7,000 people per year. with the influx of mainly South of Central Road to the Tollway.

Ned Ellefson of Arlington Heights and Ed Olson of Des Plaines assisted in the self-study.

In the light of the above figures, the congregation was encouraged by Dr. Van Deusen to attend more diligently to the task of providing a "center for Christian witness" in these new areas to be established.

The evangelism committee is considering several suggestions made in brainstorming sessions at the retreat, such as the possibility of serving the area by intense survey coverage, joining together with other churches in continuous survey work as new families enter the area, using public media more actively and using the new church building to provide a center for serving the needs of the youth of our surrounding territory.

Lutheran Church of the Cross is planning its dedication of the new church building for 3 p.m. on Pentecost Sunday, June 2, with an open house for the community being held from 4 to 6 p.m. on that day, Pastor Bruce Benander reported. (A

Hearing May 23 On Four Streets

An informal public hearing on proposed improvements to portions of four Arlington Heights streets will be held Thursday, May 23, at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 33 S. State Road.

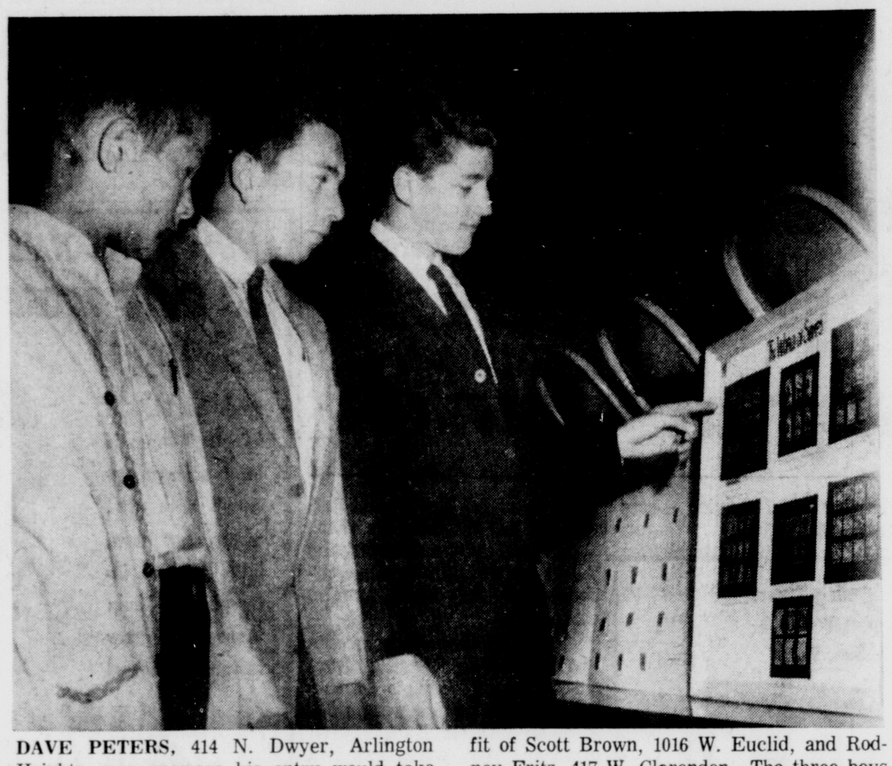
The hearing, conducted by the board of local improvements, involves discussion of paving Kennicott, Salem, Kaspar and Fernandez Avenues between Northwest Highway and Oakton Street.

The hearing had been scheduled for tonight, but technical problems necessitated the postponement, it was reported at the BOLI meeting last Thursday.

PROPERTY owners in the affected area met March 21 with village officials in order to ask questions about the project.

Also at last Thursday's meeting, the BOLI heard a report from William Cadigan, consulting engineer, saying plans, estimates of cost and specifications for the improvement of West Campbell Street will be presented May 23.

Plans are being made to pave and widen Campbell west to Wilke Road. (A



DAVE PETERS, 414 N. Dwyer, Arlington Heights, was unaware his entry would take top honors in the third annual show sponsored by the Junior Stamp Collectors of Rolling Meadows, as he pointed to it for the benefit of Scott Brown, 1016 W. Congregational Women Elect New Officers

Officers for the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church of Arlington Heights have been elected for the year 1963 - 64. They are: president, Mrs. Richard Lanigan, 1525 N. Patton Ave.; vice president and program chairman, Mrs. John E. Taylor, 119 South Pine Ave.; secretary, Mrs. Robert Staley, 1525 N. Kennicott; treasurer, Mrs. Ronald Hulka, 101 N. Waverly, Mount Prospect.

NEXT MEETING of the Fellowship will be held Tuesday, May 14 at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. William Koch, 204 S. Harvard, with Mrs. William Walker, 414 S. Ridge, in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Gordon H. Winsor, Christian Education and Family Life Chairman for the Chicago District, will be speaker on the program. The newly-elected officers will be installed. Mrs. Charles Aldag, 101 N. Yale, is in charge of devotions.

Co-hostesses are Mrs. Kenneth Price, 112 N. Yale, and Mrs. Donald Swanson, 316 S. Yale. (A

Guitar Students Capture Trophy

The Arlington Guitarists, a student group from the El Rey Music Center at 7 W. Eastman, was awarded the championship trophy in its division for performance at the recent Olympic Contest held at the Morrison Hotel. The group was directed by Ray Gaitsch.

The contest was sponsored by the Illinois Associated Band Activities (IABA) and was managed by Elmer Herrick, co-owner of the El Rey Music Center. About 500 students from Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana participated in the two-day affair, which included solos, combos and bands.

The official award was made Sunday at the regular meeting of the IABA in Geneva.

THE IABA is a group of studio operators and teachers who are working for the advancement of music in the state. They act in an advisory capacity to the state fair music contests, hold the Olympic contests annually and conduct other educational programs in Illinois.

The El Rey Accordion Band from Chicago, which includes Sandy Vischer from Arlington Heights, won a first division trophy also.

Members of the Arlington Guitarists include Jane Bruner, Tom Weirich, Gary Walden, Gary Steinberg, George Wurtz, Ken Swobada, Jeff Schneider, Don Hubert and Debbie Reiss.

Rev. Jones At Meeting In Galesburg

Illinois churchmen were urged to become "Alive in Christ" as over 1,200 people registered for the 113th annual convention of the Illinois Disciples of Christ, which met in the First Christian Church of Galesburg last week.

The Rev. Don L. Jones, pastor of the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, attended as a delegate of one of the 300 Illinois Christian Churches. He gave a reading and talk to assembly on the scriptures.

Others who gave addresses were Dr. George Davis, pastor of National City Christian Church of Washington, D. C.; pastor-author Harold Blake Walker of the First Presbyterian Church in Evanston; and Dr. Ira Langston, president of Eureka College.

Charge Failure To Yield

A 38-year-old Arlington Heights motorist was ticketed Monday for failure to yield the right of way after his auto was involved in a two-car accident at Wilke and Palatine Roads.

Receiving the ticket was Anthony Lentine, 1215 E. Maple St., whose auto was northbound on Wilke when it struck another westbound on Palatine Road driven by William C. Cooley Jr. of Evanston.

Lentine told police a truck obstructed his vision so that he did not see Cooley's oncoming auto.

Q. When a man is leaving his name with a business friend's secretary so that she can have her employer phone him, should he give it as Mr. John Gordon, as John Gordon, or as just plain Gordon?

A. Properly he gives the full name with the title.

LITIGIOUS; inclined to judicial contest; contentious. (Pronounce li-tij-uss, accent second syllable). "Their argument had litigious aspects."

WANT ADS are for EVERYBODY
I'm one of those little people with big ears that grown ups are always talking about. I keep quiet and listen. That is how I learned about advertising. I know all about how my parents use Want Ads. Like the time they ran an ad to sell my outgrown playpen, bathinette and baby bed. Then they used the money to buy me a good used bike for my birthday. They saw it advertised in another Want Ad. When I see one of these ads that says "Want Ads Are For Everybody," I know what it means and I believe it.

Educators Share Problems

PRINCIPALS FROM THE 12 high schools in the six districts forming the Interim Conference have formed an association to discuss mutual issues involving their schools. During a recent tour of Glenbrook South High School for some of the new association members, Dr. Sydney Salt, principal, pointed out an oscilloscope in the distillation center of the science seminar area to four visiting principals and sophomore Pam Nelson, student guide. Other principals shown are (l. to r.) Lawrence S. Jenness, Forest View High School, Arlington Heights; Orville Sayers, East Leyden High School, Franklin Park; V. Rowe, West Leyden High School, Northlake; Alvin L. Kulieke, Prospect High School in Mount Prospect, and Pam. (ACM-EG

Arlington Women Named Chairmen

At a committee meeting of St. Philip Episcopal Church of Palatine last Friday, Mrs. Richard Bulinski, 725 N. Kaspar, and Mrs. Calvin McClinton, 802 S. Chestnut, were named co-chairmen of Arlington Heights to take advance reservations for the performance of the play, "The Golden Fleecing."

Starring Bob Newhart, the play will be presented Sunday evening, June 9, in the Melody Top Theatre in Hillside.

Anyone wishing further information may call Mrs. Bulinski, CL 5-4586, or Mrs. McClinton, CL 9-1770. (A

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Now that we are approaching the heavy-driving season, let's review a few not-too-happy statistics: Seven out of eight accidents are the rear-end collision variety . . . Cuts and bruises are the most common injuries, followed closely by neck or back — whiplash — type of injuries . . . Any accident is distressing to contemplate, but they do happen, and broken auto glass is inevitable. Fast, efficient glass replacement can be counted on at PALATINE PAINT & GLASS CO., 9-11 N. Arlington To Ring 'Bells for Freedom'

"Bells for Freedom" will ring in Arlington Heights July 4.

The village board voted 5-0 Monday to draw a proclamation supporting a project of the Arlington Heights Community Council.

The project involves the ringing of bells and chimes throughout the village from 2 to 2:04 p.m. July 4.

"It is a simple project, and yet is one that will remind every American of his heritage," Community Council president A. J. Tomaso, 635 E. Clarendon Court, told trustees.

HE SAID THE project was initiated by two men in Connecticut and that it has received national recognition.

Radio and television stations are being asked to ring bells over the air July 4 from 2 to 2:02 p.m., and then read the Declaration of Independence.

The Council, under the leadership of Roger J. Burke, 438 S. Vail Ave., is asking local churches and others with bells to ring them July 4.

Tomaso reported interest in the project has been "enthusiastic." (A

Students Win History Medals

Two history-minded Arlington Heights teenagers were announced this week as medal winners in the third Student Historian regional meeting held at Springfield.

Announcement of winners was made by Mrs. Olive S. Foster, editor of Illinois History magazine, sponsor of the day-long meeting attended by 450 students from 11 Chicago-area counties.

LOCAL WINNERS were Ellen Lepinski, 706 Mayfair Road, who took the red ribbon medal for the second best essay, and James Hillenmayer, 220 S. Yale Ave., who was tied for third place.

Both are students at Our Lady of the Wayside School. Ellen is a seventh grader and James is in sixth grade.

Ellen's entry was a general history of the State of Illinois, and James wrote on the great Chicago fire. (A

District 25 Takes Bids on New School

Arlington Heights School District 25 officials will receive bids for the construction of the Thomas Junior High School until 2 p. m. on Thursday, May 29, in the district's offices, 301 W. South St.

The school, the district's third junior high, will be located at Thomas Street and State Road.

THE WORK is divided into four categories: general contract, plumbing, heating and ventilating, and electrical.

Contract documents including plans and specifications are on file at the school district office and at the office of district architects Ganster and Hennighausen, 222 Washington St., Waukegan.

Bids will be opened May 29 in the school district office.

Zoning Change Approved

A petition by several Arlington Heights residents asking for the rezoning of three lots from commercial to single - family was referred to the plan commission Monday by village trustees.

The lots are located on the east side of Wilke Road and north of the Sinclair Service Station at the northeast corner of Wilke and Campbell Street.

Atty. Thomas H. Hanlon, 610 N. Wilshire Lane, told trustees single-family zoning on the property would be more in keeping with the village master plan.

A proposal to erect a service station on the property in question was recently rejected by the village. (A

Archers Warned

Arlington Heights police issued a warning Monday to two teenage boys reported hunting with bow and arrows in the vicinity of Miner and Derbyshire.

Red Oaks Shop Starts Anew; Clings to Rustic Background

The old has been used to recreate the new at the Robert McNitts' Red Oaks Shop which opened its doors May 2, five months after the fire that overnight had gutted the thriving business into a hollow shell. The help of neighbors and the McNitts' plucky persistence, ingenuity and steady hard work have brought results.

Though still clinging to the rustic, features of the one-time Herschberger land mark have been partied up to provide an appropriate setting for the McNitts' merchandise.

The old kitchen pump, still pumping water, remains; its sink spills over with artificial greenery in a room painted an eye-catching red. Old wardrobes and ceiling-high cupboards, of the kind commonly seen in old Long Grove farmhouses, have had their new coats hued to the color of newly hung Williamsburg wall papers.

Mrs. James Webster's new shop, which opened May 1, seems to have given "Freddie," its owner, a new look of adventure. All the items are on consignment, whether it be an imported bird cage, a carriage light, a Sheffield cocoa server or some Romer wine glasses, dated from 1675 to 1825, true collectors' items. Helping Mrs. Webster on busy days will be Mrs. Andrew Sim.

"TAKE A SPRING view of churches old and new," is the inviting jingle Women's Guild members are using to induce Long Grovers to their May 16 Spring Luncheon, set for 11:30 at the Long Grove Church social room. Virginia Suter, who last spring gave a series of travel and flower lectures here, will show colored slides of various types of churches she has visited throughout the world. Mrs. Alfred Gies has generously volunteered to provide a baby sitter service at the church.

Mrs. Edward Wachs' morning circle is in charge of the event. Mrs. Jay Neubauer is chairman of the food committee; Mrs. Jules Colas heads the decorations; clean-up crew will be made up of Mrs. Leslie Schauffler, Mrs. James Webster and Mrs. Alfred Williams and invitation committee includes Mrs. Andrew Sim, Mrs. David Edmunds and Mrs. Walter Saunders.

To make reservations, please call Mrs. Charles Johnson, NE 4-3681 or Mrs. Edward Wachs. The Wachses have a new number 438-1790. Mrs. Charlotte Wachs' new number is 438-1534.

AT THE MAY 1 afternoon circle meeting held in Mrs. Otto Damgaard's home, members continued their discussion of Fosdick's book, "Dear Mr. Brown." Also included on the program was a report by Mrs. Orville Held on Ela-Vernon's American Field Service program. "Each year our country sends 700 American students abroad and receives 2,000 for study here," Dorothy told the group, informing them it costs Ela-Vernon $700 to bring a student here and $700 to send one across. The student receives room and board from his "adopting family." The school provides books and bus fare; and $14 per month for up-keep comes from AFS headquarters. The program does much for our youth to promote understanding in the world and develops their ability to work by themselves for a common cause, according to Dorothy. "Watching teenagers work for AFS has destroyed all my qualms about their ability," she said.

Big moments are in store for Kildeer School's athletes, cheerleaders and their dads at the annual banquet May 17 at Kildeer. Mrs. Robert Kenan is general chairman. Following the dinner, with its toasts and presentations, the diners will go on to the Rick Casares Bowl for bowling.

GOOD NEWS for the David McCartneys is that David has been accepted as a participant in the Counseling and Guidance Training Institute, a program provided through the National Defense Education Act. He is one of the few applicants across the nation to be selected for the study. Working for his master's in advanced guidance, the Ela-Vernon counselor will attend classes at Mississippi College in Clinton for a six-week period, from June 10 to July 20. All the McCartneys will share the experience, Kelly Lou planning to take a course in elementary education.

Chairman Sue Nickl reminds Long Grovers to send in their contributions to fight cancer as soon as possible, making checks payable to The American Cancer Society. Present returns show this area to be lagging behind in its usual quota.

Discussions on Long Grove Church's program for the coming year have been taking place throughout the community, as members gathered in the homes of host families; the Donald Armstrongs, David Edmunds, Albert Kaufmans, Richard Irelands and the David McCartneys. Mrs. Doris Dombrow and the Edward Wachses held their meetings together.

The Rev. Robert Hoetelling from Elmhurst, was the speaker, at last Friday night's program at Long Grove Church. The United Church of Christ's Christian Education leader led a discussion following his talk. The controversy probed the true meaning of the church, its mission and the meaning of reconciliation, emphasizing man's need for genuine daily communication with his fellow man. He quoted often from Reuel Howe's book, "Herein is Love," discussed last year at circle sessions. Mrs. Milton Wingquist's evening circle provided refreshments; hostesses were Mrs. Donald Armstrong and Mrs. Harry Oppegaard.

MRS. NICHOLAS Nickl, Mrs. Robert Loudon and Mrs. John Kruger attended the Eastern Star luncheon at the Lake Zurich Masonic hall on May 1.

To Pleasant alley, a camp near Woodstock, drove the Charles Trzynas last Friday to visit Paul Wall and have a look at its program. James Mason has taken up his new post at the camp.

Members of Long Grove Church's Saturday Morning Discussion group hosted a potluck supper for their friends of Chicago's Church of the Good Shepherd. The Sunday gathering was at the Orville Keilers'. Gale Livengood served as discussion leader.

"The waters of the Caribbean are blue as ink and Jamaica's bougainvillea and hybiscus are unbelievably colorful and beautiful —" according to Mrs. Howard Taylor. The Taylors are home from a five-day Jamaica jamboree, taking the trip as part of an IGA retailers' and wholesalers' holiday. Staying at a hotel at Montego Bay, they were fascinated by the Oxford English of the natives and despite the threat of sharks and barracudas, enjoyed water skiing. Other diversions were deep sea fishing, sailing and tours via glass bottomed boat. Land trips took them through banana plantations and rain forests. Also included in the "quick fun trip" was a first-time look at a mongoose.

Special honor at Southern Illinois University for Karen Taylor was to be initiated into Kappa Delta Pi, a national honor society in education. She received the honor on the basis of her high scholastic average.

IF THE MEN'S section of the Long Grove Church choir sounded a bit weak on April 28 it may have been because some of the men had sung themselves out the night before. Tony Berg, Stewart Richmond, Ron Crawford and Harry Oppegaard, as members of the Barbershop Quartette, performed at a card party benefit sponsored by Mundelein women at the Countryside Fire Station. Later husbands and wives gathered at the Richmonds'.

Among bridge get-togethers was the Saturday potluck at the Joe Klemeyers', the Marshall Greens, Don Davisons, James Cummins and the John Petersons shared the fun.

As part of the couples' bridge group that evening, the Howard Taylors, James Websters and the Jules Colases made it a foursome at the Tony Bergs'. This Saturday the A. W. Schoenkes will be hosting a similar occasion.

Rushton Williamson and Earnest, Rich Ireland and Scott were among the 30 members of Troop 92 who drove to Camp Napowan at Wildrose, Wis., last Saturday and Sunday to take part in Fix-it Weekend. They repaired faulty wiring, planted trees and did a general cleaning.

Melvin Towner was re-appointed fire chief and Edwin Rodewald, assistant chief, at the firemen's annual meeting held Monday at the fire station. Orville Held, Gus Salmen and John Cook were voted in as delegates who will represent the department at county meetings. Alternates will be Dick Weber, Gus Salmen and Marty Kuzlouh. Notice was released that firemen will own a 1,000 gallon collapsible water tank, purchased by the district.

FOREMOST in firemen's minds is the coming dance, May 18. Mel Towner will be in charge of the bar; Ray Wagner and George Spoerlein, sandwiches; John Raupp and Ed Rodewald, tickets; and Harry Umbdenstock, Al Williams and Orv Held will park cars.

Sunday toasts were in order at the birthday gathering the Bergs gave for Gwen's mother, Mrs. H. V. Mailland. Among guests were the Norman Elliotts of Mount Prospect.

On Sunday the Edwin Bradshaw home on Cuba Road was the scene of a surprise party for Edwin Jr. and wife and family of Streamwood, in honor of their 10th wedding anniversary.

Seeing a blue heron in flight, a close-up of a Baltimore oriole and a dickcissel were among the high points of the bird walk which Mrs. Edwin Bradshaw and Mrs. Donald Riek took recently. They've been participating in the weekly nature walks sponsored by the Barrington Woman's Club.

A craft work shop for the summer migrant program, carried on by the Arlington Heights Migrant Ministry Committee of the Illinois Church Council for Migrant Aid, will be held at Barrington Community Church, 301 E. Lincoln, on June 3 at 9:30 a.m. Volunteers are needed for Long Grove's recreational program, scheduled for three weeks in June for three mornings per week. Volunteers willing to give one or more morning's help are asked to call Mrs. Leslie Schauffler, GE 8-7822, or this reporter.

On April 30 this reporter attended the Spring Rally of The Council for Lay Life and Work at Deerfield's Trinity Church and presented departmental goals for the year.

Get well wishes go to former Long Grover, Mrs. Henry Zoellner, discharged from St. Therese Hospital. Recently she received four broken ribs in a car accident. Back at home, her address is 1265 N. Linden Ave., Palatine.

Happy wedding anniversary wishes go to the Harry Paines, May 15 and birthday wishes to "Stew" Richmond, May 3; Kathy Gustafson, Eileen Jungbluth and Micky Weidner, 10th; John Coffin, Penny Miles and Gloria Stade, 11th; Lucy Miller and Chris Parson, 14th; Ethel Potts and Claudia and Claudette Hultquist, 15th. CARLA KNICKREHM, 24 W. 410 Lake St., Roselle, Betty Jane Martin, 527 Shadywood lane, Elk Grove Village, and Errol Pearlman of Chicago are pictured above deep in rehearsals for "Silk Stockings." Along with Merle Colmer of Arlington Heights, these three are engaged in choreography for the May 17, 18, and 19 production at Barrington High School Auditorium. Pearlman is pianist for the Prime Rib of Chicago and producer and director of Spotlight Music Theatre, Chicago. Knickrehm, Martin and Colmer have danced professionally for years.

'Silk Stockings' Coming May 17-19

Barrington's "Best-off-Broadway" theatrical group is currently preparing Cole Porter's musical comedy "Silk Stockings" for performances May 17, 18, and 19 at the Barrington High School Auditorium.

The show will be directed by drama coach Priscilla Winkler of Hanover Park and by music director Errol Pearlman, a professional pianist from Chicago.

Among the show's leading characters are Marge Collins (Ninotchka), who has played several romantic and character roles since the organization was formed; three "mad Russians": Chuck Edwards of Elgin, Neil Doren of Rolling Meadows, and Fred Schiave of Arlington Heights.

Mary Jane Miller (Janice Dayton) and Wally Williams (Canfield), both of Arlington Heights, will portray frolicksome Americans; Palatine residents Don Heyden and Floyd Collins will appear as French Hosts.

JERRY WEISS, a newcomer to B-O-B from Wauconda, will play the role of Boroff, a Russian Composer.

Other "Russians" in the cast include Pat Lemker, Barrington; Ellen Janda, Arlington Heights; Bill Hall and Larae Biesterfeld, both from Des Plaines.

Characters rounding out the cast are George Bull, Cary; Laurnell Marten, Arlington Heights; May Bovich, Hoffman Estates; Kathy Anderson, Barrington; George Palmer and Ray Postweiler, Palatine; and Allan Shield, and Lyn Jessen, Arlington Heights.

Tickets for "Silk Stockings" may be obtained at the B-O-B Players ticket booths at either Marsala's Finer Foods, 21 W. Railroad, Palatine, or at Randhurst Shopping Center at Rand and Central Roads, Mount Prospect.

Prospect Net Teams Split

Prospect's tennis squad was shutout by Willowbrook last week, but came back strong Tuesday to whip East Leyden, 4-1.

Lothar Hanson and Bob Gewecke turned in singles wins for Prospect. Doubles victories were supplied by Scott Campbell—Bob Laechelt, and Scott Paris—Larry White.

The frosh-soph team lost to Willowbrook, 3-2, and beat East Leyden, 5-0.

As Knights Win

Glass Pole Improves Vaulting

Prospect picked up 12 firsts, including slams in both hurdle events, to demolish East Leyden, 88-30, for its fifth straight dual meet track victory this season.

Tom Bremner turned in a 14.8 clocking for the high hurdles, and teammates Larry Bogart (14.9) and Ron Koepke (15.0) were right behind.

Bogart took the low hurdles in 19.6, with Bremner taking second this time in 20 seconds flat. Koepke was third (20.2).

"Our fibre glass pole finally arrived," said coach Dick Calisch. "And our boys showed improvement right away."

Dick Westergaard took the pole vault with a leap of 11-feet, six-inches, some six-inches better than he has ever done before. Newcomer Jim Cashmore also recorded an 11-6, but finished second because he missed his mark more often than Westergaard.

Other Prospect winners were Jim Renner (10.2) in the 100 yard dash; Mike Witters (19' 3") in the broad jump; Ralph Stone (136' 6½") in the discus; Mike York (4:59.2) in the mile; and Dave Gobeille (5' 8") in the high jump.

The Knights 880 and mile relay teams also turned in victories.

The frosh-soph team, also undefeated in five meets, whipped East Leyden, 65-53. Ray Kick, Wayne Kuklinski, Jack Pollard, Andy Kargacos and Rick McMahon turned in wins for Prospect.

Kuklinski had a 10.9 clocking in the 100 yard dash, and teamed with Kargacos, Bill Lytle and Jim Bowker to take the 880 relay. McMahon did a 10' 6" in the pole vault.

Strange Spooksville Light Beckons Curious

Eerie Glow Dates Back to Indians

by JOSEPH CARTER and WILLIAM COOK
United Press International

SPOOKSVILLE, MO., (UPI) — This town is marked by a small store, a deadend intersection and a "spook light" across the stateline in Oklahoma.

Population varies from one to several score, depending on whether the "spook light" is shining.

Local historians take great delight in the eerie light. White men say it dates back to 1886. Indian lore pushes it back many winters before then. Legend has it that grandfather Indians told their grandchildren about it for generations.

THE LIGHT is a glowing blob in the middle of a dirt road that stretches from the stateline westward into Oklahoma. It rests just above the horizon, dancing about slightly. It glows every night.

L. W. Robertson, who runs the tiny store at the intersection, said the army sent soldiers in to try to solve the riddle of the light shortly before World War II. No answer was announced.

"Surveyors, geologists and scientists have been here," he said, "and the soldiers shot at it with high-powered rifles. Nobody has told me what it is.

"When I look at it with this telescope," Robertson said, pointing to a $500 instrument he rents to the curious for 10 cents a peek, "It seems to be about 16 different lights all bunched together."

It doesn't take a telescope to see the light. It looks like it may be a mile or two down the road and changes colors from white to yellow to red — all within minutes. You drive toward it and it disappears until it shows up behind you.

The light is formally called the "Hornet Spook Light" for the nearby town of Hornet, Mo. This dirt road intersection is 14 miles southwest of Joplin, Mo., four miles south of the Kansas line and 40 miles from Arkansas in the Ozark Mountains.

"It's harmless, mind you," Roberton said. "All it has ever done is scare a few people. I have no idea what it is, and I've looked at it as much as any living man."

OTHERS IN the area claim the light has come within varying close distances. Robertson said it has never appeared closer than a half mile, "But my imagination doesn't run way with me, like a lot of people."

"I'll tell you," another oldtimer said, "I've read a newspaper by that light . . . it was plain as day."

Two legends are tied to the light. Robertson said they were as plausible as some of the scientific theories he has heard.

One is that a Civil War sergeant had his head blown off in the area and his headless spirit was hunting for that portion of the body with a lantern. Another was that a torch-carrying Indian maiden was searching for her lover who ran off a nearby bluff called "Lovers' Leap" during a tribal war.

ROBERTSON said a man who identified himself as a representative of the army from Arlington Heights, Ill., recently was in the area and said the military investigation into the light would be reopened.

The owner of the Spooksville store said he was not too concerned about the cause of the light. He also is undaunted by unbelievers.

"I don't tell them anything," he said crustily. "If they don't believe it, it's here for them to see for themselves."

A writer for the St. Louis Globe—Democrat, after investigating the light, once wrote, " . . . it could be an interplanetary filling station for flying saucers." (A14

Public Aid Stalemate Continues

Can't Agree on Relief Ceilings

FROM UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The seven-week-old stalemate in the appropriation of funds for the Illinois Public Aid Commission continued this week despite attempts at compromise, picketing, and desperate cries from relief workers.

Another House-Senate conference committee tried fortwo hours Tuesday to find a solution but recessed without a recommendation.

Members of the 10-man committee refused to say what had gone on at the afternoon session.

However, they did say that they were hopeful for a settlement soon.

WHILE THE committee met, hundreds of sign-carrying pickets marched outside the Capitol. Steps near the door of the conference room were thronged with persons — many of them wearing little white cards in the lapels; the cards read "Vote ADC Funds."

The conference committee is the fourth to tackle the problem. Pressure mounted on the legislators after the IPAC Monday stopped sending out relief checks to persons on its Aid to Dependent Children category.

At issue in the dispute is the question of limits. Republicans originally maintained that any appropriation to carry the IPAC through until the end of the current biennium must contain legal limits on individual aid payments.

Democrats oppose such limits.

EARLIER THIS week both sides gave ground — but now the issue has become the size of limits for the two-year period which starts July 1.

The Capitol demonstrators hoped "to impress upon the people of Illinois that many children in Chicago are virtually on the verge of starvation."

The groups were made up of clergymen, social workers, teachers, students, and housewives. Both Negroes and whites were represented.

One organization called itself the "Chicago Citizens' Public Aid Protest Committee." Others said they belonged to the Chicago chapter of the National Association of Social and Welfare Workers.

A spokesman of the group, Alan D. Wade of the school of social service at the University of Chicago, attacked Republican members of the Senate for their "willingness to let children go hungry."

THE IPAC, IN a "borrow from Peter to pay Paul" move Tuesday amended its rules so that an estimated 10,000 families on Aid to Dependent Children relief rolls may receive emergency payments from local general assistance funds.

Moments after the afternoon emergency meeting ended, Republican State Treasurer William J. Scott, and ex-officio IPAC member, emerged from a meeting with Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner to announce that both agreed to work toward ceilings in the next regular two-year IPAC appropriation.

Kerner confirmed Scott's announcement: "I am hopeful that the Republican side of the legislature will see fit to move promptly to aid the people on relief."

WORRIED welfare agencies warned earlier that week that a cutoff in relief payments could spark a crime wave.

In southern Illinois neighborhood grocers tightened their belts and advised aid recipients to do likewise.

With the legislature deadlocked over the emergency public aid appropriation, it appeared that the trail for groceries for the recipients would lead from the streamlined cash and carry chain stores to the man of many hats in the corner grocery.

One chain store manager in Williamson County said the delay in aid checks would have the same effect as a large industry shutting down.

"IT'S SURPRISING how many of the aid checks show up here," said the manager of a chain food store in Williamson County. He estimated that some 60 per cent of the aid payment goes for food purchases. "But we have no provision for credit."

A neighborhood grocer in Marion said, "It will hurt. I don't have too many aid customers, and I can't afford to have too many. It will just be a case of having to tell a lot of people who ask for credit 'no' when you hate to but have to."

The official newspaper of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago said earlier this week that the Illinois Senate did not settle the Anti-Negro allegations against it by ousting Arnold H. Maremont as head of the IPAC.

"THE CHARGES he (Maremont) made were extremely serious, and they were not settled by the Illinois Senate's withdrawel of his confirmation," the New World said in an editorial.

"The attitude of this state's legislature toward the poor of the community ought to be a matter of deep concern for every citizen of Illinois," it said.

Maremont, meanwhile, appeared as a "private citizen" Tuesday to urge a House committee to turn down proposed restrictions on the IPAC's birth control policy.

The Chicago manufacturer read a 15-minute statement to the House policy welfare committee, in which he urged continuation of the practice of furnishing contraceptives and birth control information to mothers on the aid rolls.

Under consideration was a measure introduced by Rep. Ralph Smith, R-Alton, to ban the program. Smith has indicated he will amend the measure to allow such information for married women living with their husbands, bringing it in line with a bill already passed by the Senate. (A14

State Police Academy Enrolls Mother of 3

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI)—A 38-year-old mother of three children enrolled Monday in the Illinois State Police Training Academy here.

Mrs. Joanne G. Mariani, Evanston, who boasts eight years background with the Evanston police force as a juvenile officer, joins male candidates for a 10-week indoctrination course.

After completing the course, Mrs. Mariani will not drive a state police car. She will receive a special assignment to the force's newly formed crime section.

THE STATE police will not issue her a uniform but she will carry a badge and sidearm as she assists the state in "undercover assignments." Her first assignments probably will be as a clerk-stenographer.

L. F. Tomlinson, West Frankfort, chairman of the State Police Merit Board, ruled last summer women who had backgrounds in social work, nursing or policing would be eligible to join the state police.

Mrs. Mariana worked three years as a clerk on the Evanston force before being assigned to working with youths. She was required to run through the usual screening a male applicant does, including aptitude tests, lie detector tests, and physical examinations.

TOMLINSON SAID other women will be enrolled by the state police if they meet the various requirements. They must be between 5 feet 2 to 5 feet 9 inches tall and between 25 and 41 years old.

State Police Chief William H. Morris, said Mrs. Mariana probably would be first assigned to duty in Northern Illinois as a clerk stenographer July 15. She will be available for special assignments. (A-14

Training Completed

Police Chief L. W. Calderwood announced the following police department developments for the month of March:

Cadet officer trainees Gerlad Inch and Edward Rabe have completed basic police training and Red Cross first aid courses.

OFFICER HAROLD Dieball has completed a course at Northwestern University, "Chemical Tests for Intoxication," held March 20-29.

Officer Allan Martinson has tendered his resignation, to be effective May 11.

Chief Calderwood said that two aggravated assaults, three burglaries, 29 larcenies, two auto thefts, five forgeries, and two sex offenses were reported last month in Arlington Heights.

Suburban News of the Week

ROLLING MEADOWS — Illinois Commerce Commission has issued a certificate of convenience and necessity for a water and sewer utility company to serve the John Philippe development adjacent to Rolling Meadows. The city now furnishes water for the homes and apartments under a contract. Philippe evaded commenting on the proposed utility company to a reporter. Details in Rolling Meadows Herald.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS — Three new village trustees — Carl F. Mees, John J. Walsh Jr. and George C. Beacham Jr. — were officially seated Monday night. Installed for second terms were Trustee Eugene F. Schlickman and Police Magistrate Robert C. Buckley.

Considerable progress was made last Thursday in village attempts to launch the mammoth Park Manor Subdivision redevelopment plan. For details, see Arlington Heights Herald.

MOUNT PROSPECT — A standing-room-only crowd of parents and teachers from Mount Prospect School District 57 attended a meeting of the board Monday night to express opinions both for and against recent actions by the board in rescinding pay raises for the school superintendent and two top administrators. Two letters from faculty members bearing 103 signatures, including all but one principal, voiced confidence in Supt. L. R. Murphy and the administration. A standing ovation was given Murphy during the meeting. Details in the Mount Prospect Herald.

PALATINE — A $52,000 appropriation for a new police building will be included in the 1963-64 budget which is being drafted. Consoer and Morgan, Chicago architectural firm, Thursday revealed plans for the police building and renovation of the village hall. Total cost of the project is estimated at $126,000 to be spread over a period of years and paid out of current funds. Details in Palatine Enterprise.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE — A citizens committee was authorized to encourage the location of additional commercial development in the village following Centex Construction Company's delay in beginning construction on a second shopping center. For details, see Elk Grove Herald.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS — A referendum for increases in in school tax rates will be discussed at the May 13 meeting of The District 23 Board of Education. Progress on the West School addition continues to lag. See the Prospect Heights Herald for details.

SCHAUMBURG — Homeowners in Lexington Fields, where the lowest value on a residence is $40,000, are trying to block announced plans for running Interstate 90 either near or through their development. Illinois Highway Department engineers are vague about the proposed route, except that it has been switched to the west side of Route 53, away from land recently acquired for forest preserve on the east side. Details in Hoffman Herald.

HANOVER PARK — The village board has split 4-2 in favor of allowing construction to be completed on a ready-mix plant, which both sides admit was started in violation of the existing village zoning code. Emil Rinne, chairman of the zoning board, calls the plant illegal and says the board knew nothing of it until it was half-completed. Supporters of the plant say it will give the village needed taxes and explain that a building permit originally was issued in error by Police Chief Sam Polotto, who also is building inspector. The majority plans to amend the code as soon as possible.

STREAMWOOD — An inquest by the Cook County coroner's office is being held today into the fatal shooting of Vincent Jankowski, 30, at his home in Streamwood at 3:15 a.m. last Thursday, in the presence of his estranged wife, Marilyn, 35, and Donald Robinson, 36, a milkman from Carpentersville. Mrs. Jankowski and Robinson, who say the shooting was self-inflicted were released last week after voluntarily taking a lie detector test. Robinson said he had stopped by the house because he feared for Mrs. Jankowski's safety. Details in Hoffman Herald.

WHEELING — A public "Recognition Dinner" for elected village officials will be sponsored by the Rotary Club Wednesday, May 15, at the Hartman House in the village. Former county state's attorney, Benjamin Adamowski, is slated to be the guest speaker. The affair is part of a community endeavor to elicit a salutory atmosphere and attitude toward operation and participation in government. Last month the Junior Woman's Club conducted a public reception for newly elected park, school and village officials. The village board also voted this week to award plagues and certificates to village officials upon retiring from service. Details in Wheeling Herald.

BUFFALO GROVE — The village board rather testily recalled copies of a proposed pre-annexation agreement for a 964-acre development. Reason given was that they were not to have been publicly circulated. Two copies of the proposal had been included with various documents that had been turned over to the plan commission. Details in Wheeling Herald. (B8

Psychiatrist Warns Of Overpopulation

ST. LOUIS, (UPI)—"Cultists, beatniks and the lunatic fringe" are increasing in numbers because of big-city style togetherness, a Denver, Colo., psychiatrist said here Monday.

Dr. Rene A. Spitz of the University of Colorado Medical Center, Denver, said this "togetherness," which "rapidly approaches conditions of overpopulation" is a threat to man's sanity and well being. He spoke at a meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

Overcrowding exposes man to more stimulations than he can react to, he said, noting, "Over the last century we have progressed from tobacco and alcohol to heroin and lately to glue sniffing."

URBAN PROBLEMS such as water supply, sewage disposal, transportation and smog, Spitz felt, might be nature's safeguards against overpopulation.

Spitz said experiments produced erratic behavior traits in rats allowed to multiply double the number adequate for the space they were in.

Males became withdrawn or frantically active and the females raised their young so poorly they did not survive, he said.

Spitz urged psychiatrists to warn about the dangers of overpopulation. (A14

Variety in Room Air Conditioners

Room air conditioners offer the quick and ready solution to the home comfort problem during hot weather.

Models are available for installation in virtually any type of window, or through a wall. Some can be carried or rolled from room to room to serve where needed most.

The compact window and wall units not only cool the air but dehumidify and filter it. The removal of excess moisture and airborne impurities improves over-all comfort conditions and keeps rooms cleaner. Allergy victims are particularly helped by the air filtering.

EVEN ON COOL days a room air conditioner may be used to exhaust stale, smoky air from a room and to circulate fresh air. Air movement is regulated by the unit's adjustable grilles or deflectors.

Room conditioners are available in a wide range of cooling capacities. For good performance, householders should select a unit that has cooling power fitted to a room's needs. A unit rated at 6000-7000 btu's might be suitable for a bedroom, but one with twice the capacity may be needed for the living room.

S&H Green Stamps Seeking 'Courtesy Queen' via Contest

Savers of S & H Green Stamps can expect red carpet treatment at the local S & H redemption center as a result of a unique courtesy training program being conducted throughout the country for S & H redemption center employees, according to Mrs. Minnie F. Murawski, manager of the center in Randhurst, Mount Prospect. The program in more than 800 S & H redemption centers is built around eight discussion sessions ranging from "How To Say Good Morning" to the proper handling of a difficult customer.

"We have thought of at least a dozen friendly and courteous ways of greeting customers," Mrs. Murawski said; "'good morning' 'how do you do,' 'may I help you please,' 'welcome to S & H' and 'it's nice to see you again Mrs. York, how are you today.' These are just a few of the greetings that have been suggested," Mrs. Murawski reports.

She explained that the Sperry and Hutchinson Co. is particularly interested in employee courtesy because people who come into S & H redemption centers are also patrons of the company's customers — department stores, super markets, filling stations and other local establishments that give S & H Green Stamps.

"Their attitude toward S & H is quite likely to influence their attitudes toward the stores where they received their trading stamps," she pointed out.

In addition to the training program, employees of the Randhurst Mount Prospect store will also compete for the title of National S & H Courtesy Queen. Customers will be asked to vote for the S & H hostess they feel has given them the most courteous service. Winners will in turn compete for "Courtesy Queen" regional and National honors, Mrs. Murawski said. (BB

Air Conditioning Benefits Detailed by Homemakers

Air conditioning is almost always bought to relieve conditions of excess heat or humidity, but once installed, it is appreciated for reasons seldom contemplated by the purchaser. That is the gist of a report recently received by Circle-Aire.

The report tells of an experiment conducted by Lennox Industries Inc. in which the company invited three random groups of homemakers, all of whom had experienced Lennox air conditioning for at least one summer, to meet with company officials and relate their experiences. The first such luncheon was held in Chicago, the second in Los Angeles and the third in New York.

WITH THE company president as moderator, these women were asked to comment at will on what they liked and disliked about air conditioning; why they had bought it, and what it had meant to their living patterns. Substantially similar comments were received from the ladies, regardless of their geography and climate.

With a few exceptions, these typical air conditioning owners had bought their equipment to escape heat and humidity. In some cases, the motivating factor was an allergy such as asthma or hay fever. The interesting response was the unanticipated benefits they observed after having air conditioning installed.

Probably the most frequently mentioned supplementary benefit was freedom from dirt. Time after time the luncheon guests remarked that draperies, slipcovers, carpets and rugs, and especially their own clothing seemed to enjoy a new lease on life after air conditioning had been installed.

ONE WOMAN who had changed slipcovers every spring and fall reported that she had not even removed them for two years and added that she would not have to have them cleaned any oftener than that, if as often. Another came up with the interesting point that she used to buy cheap summer frocks because dirt and perspiration called for such frequent laundry as to make more costly clothing unwise. With air conditioning, she found that a good dress would stay fresh, need less frequent laundry and end up a better buy than the cheaper models.

Hot heals all summer long was another favorite topic of homemakers. Especially those with children, and they outnumbered the others by a large margin, said that the children ate better when offered hot meals, and, of course, the small nap-size youngsters enjoyed measurably longer daytime rest periods as well as better night-time sleeping.

The comfort of the adults were markedly improved by the addition of air conditioning, and it was not surprising, too, to learn that the comfort of sleeping under a blanket was a prominent comment.

Entertainment habits were changed by the comfort of staying home instead of seeking cool air at theatres, night clubs, and restaurants. People with air conditioning found (sometimes to their dismay) that their friends dropped in with increased frequency. And the gals loved to be able to dress up in real party frocks instead of having to meet the heat with "hot weather" dresses. (BB

Electricity Sales Rise 13 Per Cent

Public Service Company set new sales records again in 1962, Harold W. Otto, Northern division vice president, said recently in a report of the division's activities for the year.

Northern division's 1962 electricity sales reached an all-time peak of 3,198,034,000 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 13.6 per cent over 1961.

The number of residential customers in the division during the year climbed from 258,500 to 272,050, an increase of 5.3 per cent. Meanwhile, the average annual use per residential customer rose from 4,458 kilowatt-hours to 4,606.

NORTHERN is one of seven divisions comprising the Commonwealth Edison-Public Service Company system.

It serves electricity in an area of about 1,100 square miles extending from Chicago's northern limits to the Wisconsin state line, and from Lake Michigan west to include about half of McHenry County. It has major headquarters at Northbrook, with area or district headquarters at Waukegan, Mount Prospect and Crystal Lake.

Otto said that recent reductions in charges to its customers are expected to produce even great sales in the future.

On March 5, 1962 the utility adjusted several of its commercial and residential rates. Residential charges for space heating were reduced from 1.6 cents per kilowatt-hour to 1.5 cents, for water heating from 1.25 cents to 1.05 and for kilowatt-hours used in excess of 350 a month from 2.25 cents to 2.0.

ON MARCH 1, 1963 the utility's fuel adjustment clause, which has applied to all of its rates since 1954, was lowered from two cents per 100 kilowatt-hours to one cent to reflect declining fuel costs.

The 1962 rate adjustments, together with the lower fuel adjustment charge, brought the total annual savings to customers in the Edison-Public Service system to approximately $7,000,000.

To meet the increasing demand for electricity, two new 340,000 kilowatt generating units were placed in service in 1962, one at the utility's State Line Station near Chicago and the other at its Waukegan Station. The Waukegan addition increased that plant's net capability to 1,063,000 kilowatts, making it the first million-kilowatt station in the Chicago area.

The Waukegan and State Line units are part of the utility's major construction program. Included in the program are three new units with a total net capability of 1,630,000 kilowatts—a 510,000 kilowatt unit for service in the near future at Will County Station near Lockport, and two 560,000 kilowatt units for service in 1965 and 1966, respectively, at Joliet Station.

Cost of the construction program for the five years 1963 through 1967 is estimated at $640,000,000. By the end of 1968, the net generating capability of the Edison-Public Service system is expected to increase to 8,734,000 kilowatts. (BB

Promotes Managers

The Zayre Corp., has announced the appointment of new managers for two of its four stores in the greater Chicago area.

Haskell Kaizerman, who once served in the Des Plaines store, is now manager of the Forest Park unit. And Harry Veren assumes his first managerial post with Zayre at the Des Plaines store.

Kaizerman has served in managerial capacities at several Zayre stores in Massachusetts and at the Zayre store in Columbia, S. C. For a time last year when Zayre opened 20 stores he was on special assignment for store openings. He is a graduate of Northeastern University in Boston.

Veren brings to Zayre 14 years experience in suburban department store selling and management. Prior to joining the Zayre manager training program, he was employed by firms in Chicago and Niles.

'A Home Means Happiness' Is National Realtor Week Theme

Sunday, May 12 marks the opening of Realtor Week, which will continu through May 18, according to Charles K. Burval, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Realtors from this area will join with the more than 73,000 across the country thiis year under the slogan "A Home Means a Realtor" in an effort to emphasize their services and to make clearer the distinction between a Realtor and others in the real estate business.

"A Realtor," Burval said, "is pledged to follow a strict code of ethics that is enforced through the local board of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of which he is a member. The primary obligation of the Realtor under this code is to keep the interests of both the buyer and the seller uppermost in mind during a transaction."

By the motto, "A Home Means Happiness," Realtors are stating that security, freedom to live in the manner chosen, and room to live that way are all an accepted part of home ownership. But home ownership is not available to all people in every country. "In fact," he said, "the ease of owning a home in the United States is unique throughout the world.

"By adding the phrase 'Happiness with a Home Means a Realtor' we are explaining that by doing business through a Realtor, with his background of experience, integrity, and competence, the public is assured of superior service and satisfaction," he explained. The term Realtor was adopted by NAREB in 1916, and members have exclusive right to use the term, which is registered as a collective mark (similar to a trademark) in the United States Patent Office. The parent organization, founded in 1908 in Minneapolis, Minn., has offices in Chicago, and Washington, D. C. Realtors are kept aware of changes in real estate law, mortgage rates, buying trends, and innumerable other business factors, through publications of the association's professional staff which maintains close contact with developments throughout the country. The Northwest Suburban Board joined NAREB in 1944. (BB

Kroger Co. Promotes Two in Chicago Area

Robert J. Soderholm, formerly grocery merchandiser for the Chicago division of the Kroger Co., has been named a zone manager. He will be succeeded by Arthur R. Blair, who has been field representative for the company's processed foods manufacturing division.

Soderholm joined Kroger in Madison, Wis., in 1948 after attending the University of Wisconsin. He was assistant grocery buyer in Madison and Indianapolis, Ind., and in 1955 moved to Peoria in charge of grocery sales promotion. He was grocery merchandiser for four years in Peoria before moving to the larger division in Chicago.

Soderholm and Blair attended Michigan State University's food distribution course, Soderholm during the 1952-53 school year and Blair in 1956-57.

Blair attended Baldwin-Wallace College. He began with the retail food company in 1953 in Cleveland, Ohio, as assistant grocery buyer. Since 1957 he has been associated with the company's processed foods division in several marketing positions.

Kroger operates 74 supermarkets in and around Chicago from its Northlake headquarters. (BB

G. E. Sellstrom Mfg. Company Shows Wares Internationally

American made safety equipment for the protection of face and eyes received worldwide attention at the recent Lyons, France International Trade Fair March 31 through April 8. Sellstrom Manufacturing Co. Palatine was one of 50 firms selected by the U.S. Department of Commerce to participate in the 45th annual renewal of the fair which attracted buyers from all over the world.

THE COMPLETE line of "Sellstrom Safeguards"—safety goggles and glasses, welding helmets, face shields and other products—were displayed in the 25,000 sq. ft. U.S. Exhibition Hall at the fair, one of three showings being staged overseas this spring by the Commerce Department's Bureau of International Commerce.

The new program, according to that department, was authorized by Congress last year to increase the sales potentia for American goods. Although 127 trade fairs have been sponsored by the U.S. government and operated by the Commerce Department since 1954, primarily to reflect the American way of life, the emphasis is now on creating direct business results and developing channels for sales representation abroad.

ON HAND TO direct his firm's participation in the International Trade Fair in Lyons, France, was G. E. Sellstrom, right, founder and board chairman of Sellstrom Mfg. Co. located in Palatine. Sellstrom, a resident of Arlington Heights, greeted Crawford H. Greenwalt, chairman of the E. I. DuPont DeNemours Co., left, at the Sellstrom booth at the fair during "American Day" ceremonies. (BB

Residents Attend Sessions

Approximately 900 participants from gas and gas-related industries attended the 38th annual southwestern gas measurement short course, held recently at the University of Oklahoma.

Classes were conducted in the Oklahoma center for continuing education by 90 speakers representing the university and various companies. Also included were educational exhibits furnished by manufacturers.

Cash prizes will be awarded this summer for the best essays on knowledge gained during the short course.

Attending from Elk Grove Village was A. A. Hudnall with Cutler Hammar, Inc. and from Arlington Heights, William E. Phares of the Pure Oil Co.

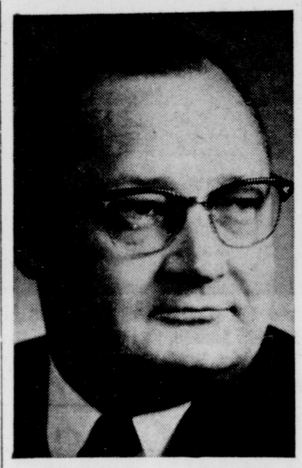
Lester A. Hertel was appointed central region sales manager for Allis-Chalmers construction machinery division. He will headquarter at the company's Milwaukee home office.

Working with the manager of the region, Hertel will direct sales efforts of the firm's dealers in Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and parts of Indiana, New Mexico and Kansas.

HERTEL HAD been manager of the division's branch at Denver.

He joined the Tractomotive Corp. of Deerfield, Ill., in 1949. He held numerous positions in the firm's sales and service organization and continued with Allis-Chalmers when it acquired Tractomotive in 1953. He was appointed sales manager at the division's Harrisburg branch before moving to Denver.

He is a native of Palatine, and a graduate of the Bryant & Stratton Business College at Chicago. Hertel served in the Navy during World War II.



LESTER A. HERTEL

D. W. May Elected

Donald W. May was elected treasurer of General Outdoor Advertising Co. during a recent board of directors meeting. May moves up from the position of secretary, assistant treasurer and counsel. He will serve in the capacity of treasurer, secretary and counsel.

DONALD MAY

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin May holds LL.B and B.B.A. degrees. He has been with General Outdoor for 9 years having first joined the company as tax counsel.

He is a member of the American, Illinois, Wisconsin and Chicago Bar Associations, the American Society of Corporate Secretaries and the Chicago Tax Executive Institute. (BB

Rotary International Plans New Addition

Rotary International, 1600 Ridge Ave., Evanston, plans to erect an addition to its present headquarters building at Ridge Avenue and Davis Street in the suburb by constructing a $1.25 million wing on the Asbury side of its property.

The new addition, which will follow the same architectural design and be of the same limestone material as the present building, will present a handsome facade along the Asbury Avenue frontage of the property.

THE NEW construction also calls for enlarged parking facilities underground, permitting the development of larger lawn and landscape areas than at present on both the Davis Street and Asbury Avenue frontages.

The underground parking facilities will be on two levels, and will provide 103 parking stalls.

The Evanston zoning board has been petitioned for approval of the necessary zoning variation in use of the land on which the addition is to be built. (BB

Dehumidifiers Can Remedy Problems

High humidity, a common home ailment during the hot summer months, can be brought under control by an electric dehumidifier.

The appliance wrings moisture out of the air to eliminate the problems of rust, mildew, warping wood and dripping pipes.

The dehumidifier's work is done by a combination of air circulation and refrigeration. Air is drawn into the unit by a fan, excessive moisture condenses on refrigerated coils and water is run off into a container or floor drain.

STANDARD models of dehumidifiers remove four to five gallons of water from the air each day and can dry out up to 16,000 cubic feet of space.

The new models have humidistats, automatic shut-offs and signal lights to show when containers are filled. Some are equipped with auxiliary heating elements or air filters.

One manufacturer this year features a filter flask to collect the condensed soft water. The filtered water can be used in several ways in steam irons and car batteries, for example.

Modern dehumidifiers are neatly styled and usually mounted on casters for easy mobility. There are no installation or maintenance problems. The units operate on 120 volts and most have sealed refrigeration mechanisms and permanently oiled fan motors. (BB

Springtime Clean-Up Effort Means Homeowner Gyp Season

In the spring a con man's fancy fondly turns to thoughts of greed and "how can I gyp homowners." Unfortunately it's not too difficult, since so many rackets are a natural for springtime clean-up and repair work, says A. B. Johnston of Mount Prospect, vice president of the Chicago Better Business Bureau.

Some of these operators are fly-by-nighters, traveling in vans from city to city. Others are local talent. In either case the result is usually the same — the public gets taken, Johnston reports.

Most concerns engaged in home repair or remodeling services are trustworthy and can be relied upon to complete their work satisfactorily. However, there are others with a bag of tricks against which the public should be alerted. Take for example the old, but still prevalent barnyard fertilizer routine.

PEDDLERS operating from trucks and carrying a basket of what appears to be barnyard fertilizer, knock at your door and say they have a few baskets left from a delivery down the street which they will spread over the bald spots on your lawn for only 35 cents a basket. If consent is given, the homeowner then is shocked with a bill for $50. Of course the fertilizer is sweepings, of little value, and the peddler will settle for any sum you will pay.

So-called asphalt driveway contractors, operating in traveling crews, are another headache. "Guarantees" are usually given, but they are worthless because the workmen are long gone. The asphalt is thin, of improper mixture and usually cracks and crumbles, following spring thaws.

Accompanying the springtime urge to clean up, remodel or add a breezeway, comes the "demonstration home" pitch. In these deals the salesman quotes you a "special" price for his work if you'll permit a sign advertising his company and say a good word to other prospective customers. He will even promise you sufficient number of $100 to $200 commissions for other jobs he will sell in your neighborhood to pay for your job.

The facts are, the same deal is promised to everyone. Your "special" price is above prevailing prices and seldom will you earn even one commission. Usually you'll pay the entire amount of your contract.

The sales approach for chimney repair or electrical rewiring jobs is more ingenious and funnier. Often the salesman poses as an inspector and asks to see your chimney. After cursory examination he shows you what appears to be a dedicated mouse and asks "Did you know you had mortar mice —they have eaten the mortar from between your bricks and your chimney is a fire hazard."

IT'S DIFFICULT to believe, but some homeowners have fallen for this "old wives' tale." Another technique is to spray lighter fluid around the chimney, then say he smells gas. Lighting a match there is a slight explosion and the homeowner is convinced he has been living in a dangerous fire trap.

The rewiring salesman also mumbles something about an inspector, asks to look at the wiring, comes running back with a short length of wire from which the insulation has rotted and claims he was just in time to avoid a serious short and probable fire. Needless to say he brought the wire gimmick with him.

Referral selling, while a year round operation, is accentuated in springtime. In these transactions the salesman asks for names of 10 or 20 friends to whom he can probably make a sale of the product being offered. Here again the probability of commissions is held out — sufficient, he says, that your article won't cost you anything. Complainants report their commissions, if any, seldom exceed one. The price for such commodities sometimes ranges upward from 50 per cent above that for similar merchandise in retail stores.

Homeowners interested in remodeling work may ask the Better Business Bureau for the behavior pattern of any company with which they contemplate doing business. If available, it will be given gratis. The Bureau does not, however, provide a list of recommended firms.

Homeowners may also obtain, upon request, a copy of its "Do Nots" for home repairing, which will serve as a guide in preventing serious losses.

Oakbrook Center Sets Mother's Day Fete

Sunday afternoon, May 12, Oakbrook Center will stage a gala event in honor of Mother's Day.

Between 2 and 5 p.m., the public is invited to a Mother's Day Promenade — to stroll with their families on the malls where thousands of tulips and spring flowers will be in bloom, amid a background of rushing and splashing waters in the nine fountains.

STORE windows will be decorated to have particular appeal to mothers, including displays of "fashions through the years" designed to bring back fond memories to many a mother.

A musical background will be provided during the afternoon by "Frank York and his strolling violins." Hostesses will be on hand to greet each arrival and present special favors to all mothers as a token of the significance of the important day.

Stores in Oakbrook, located at Hwy. 83 and Cermack Road, will not be open unless it has been their prior policy to do so. (BB

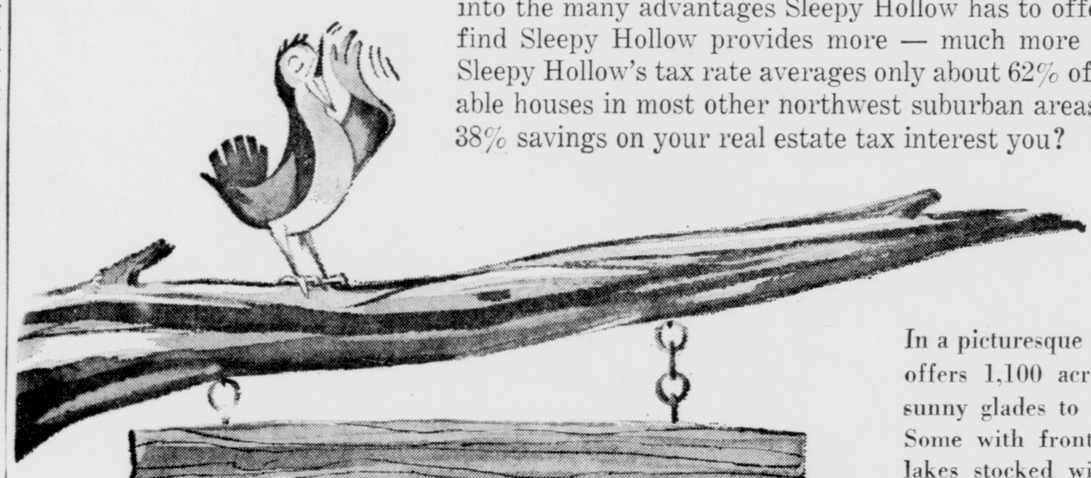
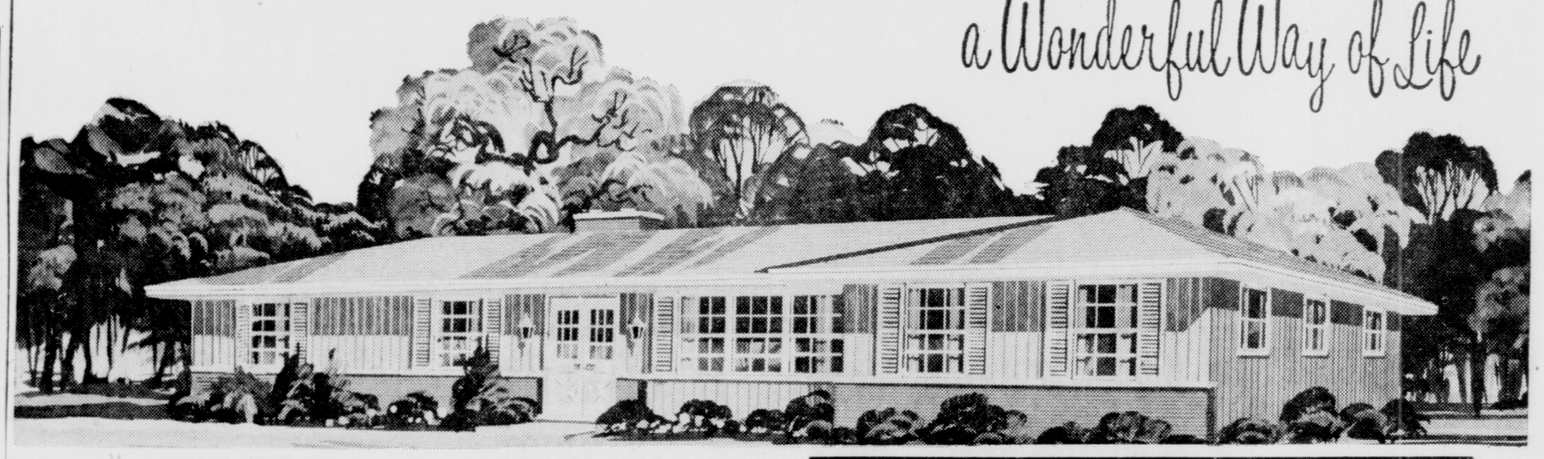
HAS YOUR REAL ESTATE TAX GONE ?

The important point is not whether your taxes have gone up or not — but rather how much does your community offer you and your family in return. If you are interested in getting the most out of your tax dollar, we suggest that you look into the many advantages Sleepy Hollow has to offer. You'll find Sleepy Hollow provides more — much more for less! Sleepy Hollow's tax rate averages only about 62% of comparable houses in most other northwest suburban areas. Does a 38% savings on your real estate tax interest you?



In a picturesque valley all its own, Sleepy Hollow offers 1,100 acres of home sites ranging from sunny glades to rustic wooded hills and valleys. Some with frontage on spring fed streams and lakes stocked with trout and pan fish. Sleepy Hollow helps you get more fun out of life with abundant, private recreational facilities and parks. Nearby are some of Chicagoland's best restaurants, golf courses and shopping centers. A moderate cost community center offers excellent swimming pool facilities and club house activities for all age groups. Drive out soon, we're sure you'll agree — Sleepy Hollow is more than just houses — it's . . .

a Wonderful Way of Life



Among Sleepy Hollow's private recreational facilities are many small lakes and spring fed brooks stocked with trout and pan fish . . . excellent for fishing; Ski and toboggan runs; Ice skating; Horseback riding (we have our own stables); Athletic fields and courts. There are many parks and even wooded campsites. But so much for words, come on out and treat yourself to an adventure in good living.

Sleepy Hollow is a well planned, incorporated village with: Ample fire protection; A full time police department; Stringent building codes; Nearby churches, schools and shopping; City utilities; Reasonable tax rates and last but not least — No Jets! Typical of the outstanding home values Sleepy Hollow offers is the "President" (shown above), a custom designed three-bedroom home with 2½ baths and 2,000 sq. feet of living space. The exterior is brick and cedar. $24,900* Other homes from $23,000 to $60,000. Lots from ½ to 3 acres — $4,000 and up.

Humphreys Carry On A Palatine Tradition

Older Palatine residents can remember Atty. Gordon Humphrey's weekly Friday or Saturday evening trip to Palatine for office hours.

During the war gas and rubber rationing meant the trip had to be cut to once a month.

Son Jim Humphrey, an attorney, now handles many Palatine clients since he lives at 276 N. Ashland Ave., Palatine.

The two Humphreys and George Hilgendorf, members of a Chicago law firm, will carry on the tradition of serving Palatine residents which Humphrey began 30 years ago. They are setting up a law office in Room 101 at 19 S. Bothwell St., Palatine.

PREVIOUSLY the three attorneys used the office of Roy LaLonde, realtor, or young Humphrey's home when they handled legal cases in Palatine.

"We feel there is a need in a growing community such as Palatine for attorneys with broader experience in Loop practice," said the senior Humphrey. This office also will give Palatine clients greater convenience so they will not have to travel to the Loop for a 15 minute consultation, he added.

The three attorneys will have a general practice but will exclude bankruptcy or criminal law cases.

Humphrey lived in Palatine until he went to the University of Illinois and the University of Chicago from which he received his doctor of law degree in 1922. Licensed to practice in all courts of Illinois as well as the U. S. District, Court of Appeals, and Supreme Court, Humphrey belongs to the Chicago Bar Association.

A VICE-chairman for three terms and chairman for two years on the bar association's committee on probate practice, Humphrey also has been a member of the grievance committee whose members sit as commissioners of Illinois Supreme Courts in trials of attorneys accused of professional misconduct. He has served one year on law office management.

Humphrey also belongs to the Chicago Law Institute and the Illinois State Bar Association.

Married and the father of two sons, Humphrey has been in active law practice in Chicago for 40 years, starting as a law clerk and becoming a senior member of the same firm.

Humphrey, who has lived in Highland Park since 1928 has been a member of the city council for four years and mayor from 1951 to 1955. At one time he was village attorney for Palatine.

Young Humphrey graduated from the University of Illinois with an L.L.B. degree in 1959. Able to practice in all Illinois courts and the U. S. District Court, Humphrey is a member of the Illinois Bar Association and the Chicago Bar Association.

HUMPHREY and his wife moved to Palatine shortly after he graduated from law school. In April he was elected trustee of Palatine High School District 211.

Father of two children, Humphrey is a member of the Palatine Presbyterian Church where he is on the church board of stewards and executive committee of the session.

A Winnetka resident, Hilgendorf received his L.L.B. in 1948 from Chicago Kent College of Law. Licensed to practice in all Illinois courts as well as the U. S. District, Court of Appeals, and Court of Claims, Hilgendorf is a member of the Illinois State Bar association, Chicago Bar Association, American Bar Association, National Lawyer's Club, and Executive Club. He has been on the committee on corporation law since 1961.

Father of two children, Hilgendorf belongs to the Wilmette Presbyterian Church and the Masonic Order. (BB

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

Weeds are usually the result of and not the cause of a poor lawn. The best way to keep them from getting established is to fertilize at least twice a year, never mow shorter than 1½ inches, and to water to a 6-inch depth. These treatments will produce a thick, healthy turf which will prevent light from getting down to the weed seedlings.

If weeds do appear in the lawn it is best to get rid of them while they are still small. Once they get a good start, it doesn't take them long to crowd out the desirable grasses. When large weeds are removed, they leave bare areas that allow more weeds to grow.

Weeds can be removed from small lawns with a knife or weed digger. Chemical weed killers can be used in larger lawns. 2, 4-D will kill broad-leaved weeds such as dandelion and plantain. For more persistant broadleaf weeds, such as chickweed, knotweek, or creeping ivy, use 2, 4, 5-T or 2, 4, 5-TP.

CRABGRASS can best be controlled by killing the seed as it germinates. Several good materials to do this job have been developed. Those which we have consistantly found to give good results are Dacthal, Zytron, Trifluralin and calcium arsenate or lead arsenate. These materials are incorporated into the products you can buy from your garden supply stores. Look for the names on the label. Other promising materials are being tested. Crabgrass seed germinates in May. Apply pre-emergent controls now, but be sure to apply them carefully in accord with directions on the package.

DSMA (di-sodium methyl arsonate) and AMA (amine methyl arsonate) are post-emergent materials that destroy plants after they appear above ground. These compounds are most effective when plants are small. Much of the above information is included in the new University of Illinois publication "A Dozen Weeds In Your Lawn." Get your copy by writing Cooperative Extension Service, 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights, Ill.

IRIS BORERS cause more more damage to iris plants than any other pest. First symptoms of borers are tear stains and chewed leaf edges that appear on leaves in early spring. Irises later develop loose, rotted bases and holes in rhizomes.

Borers hatch from overwintering eggs — pierce the leaves and bore into the underground stems. There they feed and grow to maturity.

Spray or dust your iris now to control this pest. Use DDT and treat every ten days until Memorial Day. In fall remove and burn all dead leaves and trash on which the adult borer moth might lay eggs.

IF YOU WANT to be sure of king size peonies, a little attention now will pay off a little later this spring.

Peonies require lots of water to fill out their flowers. If your plants don't receive at least one inch of natural water weekly be sure to soak them thoroughly.

A light application of commercial fertilizer is often beneficial. Work a handful of 5-10-5 or 10-10-10 into the soil around each plant.

Disbud your plants early in the season to allow only one bud per stem.

Since peonies have a habit of falling over, particularly after rains when they are in bloom, arrange to stake or support the plants while they are still small. A wire hoop supported 15 inches above the ground on wire or wooden supports is commonly available from garden stores.

To prevent botrytis which kills the flower buds just before they open, spray with zineb. Finally, don't worry about the ants on peonies. They cause no injury to the plants. (BB

Ground Broken For Woolworth Office

Ground breaking ceremonies were held May 3, for a new office building to house the North Central Regional offices of the F. W. Woolworth Co. in Des Plaines. Site of the two-story structure is the old Central School property on Lee Street between Thacker and Ashland Streets.

Attending the ground breaking ceremonies and luncheon following in the Des Plaines Elks Club hosted by Charles Burgess, president of Des Plaines National Bank, were T. G. Adams, 421 We-Go, Mount Prospect, vice president of the North Central Region of F. W. Woolworth Co., other company officials, Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel, Chamber of Commerce president Robert Spiegler, other Des Plaines city officials and business leaders.

Estimated cost of the new regional office building is $300,000, with completion expected by Feb. 15, 1964, according to Adams. It will provide expanded offices for the regional vice president, assistant regional manager, sales manager, personnel director, co-ordinator and 11 merchandise managers.

The second floor will house the real estate and construction departments, lunch operation office, traffic, mail room, office detail and employes' lounge. The office, now located in the Builders' Building at 228 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, presently employs 120 people, and directs operations in 220 Woolworth stores located in Illinois, Indiana and Michigan. It is one of the 10 regional offices in the United States.

House Hunters Look For Special Features

by JOSEPH H. ANDERSON
President,
Home Builders Association of Chicagoland
(Fourth in a Series)

When Jim and Doris, our imaginary house-hunters, found the house for their family what prompted them to their decision that it was the one?

Perhaps it was the sum of many good features. Perhaps it was something that cannot be put in words. But consumer surveys throw interesting lights on people's house requirements. And Jim and Doris, being a typical couple, are included in the surveys.

The surveys disclose that there are four basic reasons why families decide to buy a new home. They want increased living space, modern interior features, an attractive and convenient floor plan and a good neighborhood.

In addition to these basic desires which all families share, house-hunters have special wants, dictated largely by the size of the family and the ages.

A young couple with no children will seek a new home that is convenient to their jobs and shopping. They have their eye out for an attractive, modern kitchen and a glamorous bathroom, according to the surveys. They want a newly-built home so they will not have to bother with repairs.

THE SLIGHTLY older couple with pre-school-aged children look for a home with outdoor living and indoor recreation space. Since they are buying, they want a home convenient to the schools their children will soon be attending. They ask for a home with good-sized rooms. The head of the household wants a new home because it will be so easy to maintain.

The couple with school-aged children puts other things first in the list of their special interests.

They want a home with more than one bathroom. If they are in the middle income bracket or above, they look for a bedroom for each child.

They are seeking a home that will provide a measure of adult privacy on occasion. They want outdoor living space, for easy entertainment by children or parents and for family enjoyment when there is no company.

THE OLDER couple is apt to split on their reasons for wanting a new home. "Freedom from repairs," says the man.

"A modern kitchen. . .with a wall oven," says his wife. If they have been living in an older home, she explains that she has put in enough years with kitchen inconveniences and now she wants all the kitchen comforts.

Consumer surveys are important tools for builders. They want to construct the kind of homes people prefer. Market surveys, including questionnaires distributed at model homes, are among the ways they keep themselves informed.

Considering the surveys, studies and planning that go into today's homes, it is obviously no accident that better living begins when you own your home.

THE FOUR-BEDROOM (expandable to five) 2½ bath centrally air conditioned Monte Carlo in Brentwood, Des Plaines, is priced at $31,600 including two-car garage and U-shaped dream kitchen. Other models are priced from $25,250. Brentwood, a Miller Builders development, is located on Golf Road-Route 58 a half mile east of Elmhurst Road-Route 83. Five model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dark. (BB

Richard J. Hewitt Promoted by Company

RICHARD J. HEWITT

Appointment of Richard J. Hewitt, 1616 W. Fremont, Arlington Heights, a veteran of more than 26 years in the hotel business, to the newely-elected position of vice president-marketing of the Pick Hotels Corp. was announced this week by Albert Pick, Jr., president.

In his new post, which he will assume May 15, Hewitt will direct the general marketing strategy of the company which operates 17 hotels and 15 motels in 16 states, and will coordinate the activities of the sales, promotion, advertising and public relations departments.

PRIOR TO joining the Pick organization, Hewitt served as convention and exhibit manager, as well as promotion and publicity manager, for the American Foundrymen's Society, Des Plaines. He also was executive assistant manager of the Master Photo Dealers' and Finishers' Association, headquartered in Jackson, Mich., and was director of that association's trade shows and conventions.

His twenty years of experience in the hotel field included service as western division sales manager of the Hilton Hotels Corp. with headquarters in Los Angeles, Calif.; sales manager of the Hotel Statler in Los Angeles; sales manager of the Hotel Statler in Buffalo, N. Y.; and executive offices sales representative of the Hotels Statler Co., Inc., in New York City.

Previous to that he served in various sales capacities at the Hotel Statler in Buffalo and at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City, where he started in 1937, and the Hotel Statler in Cleveland, interrupting his career to serve in World War II as a First Lieutenant.

He attended the Univers Buffalo, New York University and Cleveland College.

He is a member of the American Society of Association Executives and the National Association of Exhibit Managers.

Hawaiian Vacation Contest Offered by Bowen Hardware

No, they haven't flipped their lids at Bowen Hardware by offering a chance at a prize vacation to the rainiest spot on earth. (It's in the Hawaiian Islands.) A new national sweepstakes, sponsored by True Temper lawn sprinklers, provides two weeks at fabulous Waikiki Beach, with a side trip to Mt. Waialeale on the Island of Kauai, where rainfall averages 471 inches a year!

Anyone may register at Boen's, 121 E. Davis, Arlington Heights, by writing his or her name and address on an entry blank at the store. Top prize is round-trip jet air fare for two to Honolulu, plus a two-week stay at a luxury beach hotel. An exciting expedition during the two-week stay will provide the winners with a once-in-a-lifetime view of Mt. Waialeale's verdant slopes and rain forest.

All this fun introduces a brand-new line of "rainiest" sprinklers made by the well-known maker of lawn and garden tools. Especially designed by True Temper to avoid "puddling," the new sprinklers apply a uniform pattern of rainlike droplets over the full area in the proper amount for maximum watering with a minimum of water runoff.

Four basic sprinkler models include a modern adjustable wave-type held by the pretty wahine in the picture, a unique, rotating "golf ball" sprinkler and another which is adjustable for any diameter between five and 50 feet. Carefully engineered for trouble-free operation with rust- and corrosion-resistant materials throughout, the new sprinklers incorporate tough Teflon bearings on moving parts to run smoothly and steadily, even with very low water pressure.

All four sprinkler models are available now at Bowen Hardware along with entry forms for the "rainiest, zaniest sweepstakes in the world."

THIS LOVELY WAHINE waters foliage found on the rainiest spot on earth (the windward side of Mt. Waialeale in the Hawaiian Islands, with 471 inches a year) using new "rainiest" sprinkler made by True Temper, sponsor of a zany two-week vacation to this wet place — and to fabulous Waikiki Beach.

With Uncle Sam Shaw Completes Survival Course

Armadillo, rattlesnake or raccoon might have been on the menu for Pfc. Richard L. Shaw, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell B. Shaw, Itasca, if he could have caught one.

Shaw, with other members of the 2d Armored Division, recently completed seven weeks training in guerrilla fighting and survival techniques on a special reaction course at Fort Hood, Tex.

THE SOLDIERS spent a week on the course in turns. The 60 hours of training included bridge demolition, cliff climbing, hand-to-hand combat and survival techniques like catching dinner.

A driver in Company B of the 58th Infantry's 2d Armored Rifle Battalion at Fort Hood, Shaw entered the Army in December 1961 and completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. (WUS

In Germany

Army Spec. 4 Michael L. Misker, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Misker, 220 N. Oak, Itasca, recently completed a two-week training exercise with other members of the 8th Infantry Division's 12th Engineer Battalion in Germany.

The exercise included employment of infantry tactics and aggressor action as well as range firing and day and night exercises.

Specialist Misker, a truck driver in the battalion's Company E in Germany, entered the Army in October 1960 and arrived overseas in March 1961.

He attended Lake Park High School in Medinah. (WUS

Secretary Attends Seminar

Doris Kendzie, Executive Secretary, Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, attended the 20th annual Seminar of Real Estate Board Administration conducted by the Executive Officers Council of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in Chicago.

During the seminar the executives studied new methods of improving the services of real estate boards to the public and to board members.

Informal interchange of personal experiences through discussion groups and workshop sessions was the principal form of study, and additional information was presented in classroom meetings. Top authorities in the field offered training designed to help registrants find solutions to day-to-day problems in real estate board operation.

Speakers included Daniel F. Sheehan, St. Louis, president of NAREB, and Dr. Tennyson Guyer, public relations director of Cooper Tire and Rubber Co., Findley, Ohio.

Robert H. Schott, San Jose, Calif., is president of EOC, and Charles W. Welch, Louisville, Ky., is dean of the seminar.

Modern Etiquette

ask my best friend to serve as my maid-of-honor, and my sister to be one of my bridesmaids?

A. Although it is usually the sister who gets "first choice," there is no ironclad rule about this. Of course, it is true that choosing a friend seems to imply that she is more in "sympathy" than the sister, especially if the ages are nearly the same.

Organist to Give Randhurst Recital

Adele Scott, TV and radio artist, will be guest soloist Tuesday at 8 p.m. for the Northwest chapter of the Hammond Organ Society in Town Hall, Randhurst, Mount Prospect.

A teacher, arranger, and choral director as well as soloist in pipe organ, electric organ, piano and harp, Miss Scott has appeared on the Arthur Godfrey Show in New York and numerous radio and TV programs for CBS, NBC, and ABC in Chicago as well as WGN radio and television.

HER PROGRAM credits include the Lee Phillip Show, Elmer the Elephant, Adele Scott at the Pipe Organ, Super Circus, Breakfast Club, Ron Terry Show, Fran Allison Show, Polka Time, and others.

She earned the bachelor of music degree from the University of Illinois, where she won the Kate Neal Kinley fellowship for study abroad and was a Schirmer Award scholar.

Personal appearances in Chicago include the Ambassador Hotels, Edgewater Beach Hotel, Pick-Congress, Conrad Hilton, Drake, and Sheraton-Blackstone. In addition to the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, she has performed in San Francisco, Beverly Hills, Dallas, Miami Beach, and New Orleans.

MISS SCOTT has created musical scores for motion picture, slide, and industrial films. She is author of several instruction books on the organ.

Her organ concert is open to the public.

Wilma Kups, chapter secretary, said the May 14 meeting will be the last opportunity for guests to become members of the society. Additional information is available from her at CL 3-1599.

The June meeting will be a party for chapter members and their families. Main attraction will be a mystery guest soloist.

ADELE SCOTT, radio-TV organist, will be guest soloist Tuesday night at the monthly meeting of the Northwest chapter of the Hammond Organ Society. The public has been invited to the program in Randhurst Town Hall. (Bill

Bolte to Exhibit at Art Fair

Orville G. Bolte, 1314 W. Euclid St., Arlington Heights, will be one of 240 artists exhibiting at the 57th Street Art Fair on Chicago's South Side Memorial Day weekend.

The art fair, Chicago's oldest, was organized in 1948 by Mary Louise Womer who wanted to give more artists a chance to exhibit and sell than her 'Little Gallery' could accommodate.

THE FAIR, which runs from noon until dusk June 1 and 2, will be on 57th Street between Kenwood and Kimbark.

A 'Craftsmen's Court' in the Ray School schoolyard will be the display area for potters and jewelers from as far away as Ohio and Wisconsin.

Bolte will exhibit sculpture at the fair. (Bill

CAPRIOLE — A white Lipizzan stallion performs a classic maneuver in Walt Disney's Technicolor feature, MIRACLE OF THE WHITE STALLIONS. The Buena Vista release stars Robert Taylor, Lilli Palmer, Curt Jurgens, Eddie Albert and James Franciscus. Starts Friday at the Catlow.

Prize Photographs Displayed at Bank

Award-winning salon prints by Fabian of Park Ridge are on exhibit during the month of May at Citizens Bank & Trust Company, Park Ridge.

Most of the photographs on display have won awards in one or more exhibits, several taking best of category or show honors.

FABIAN began his art career in the theatre, then devoted several years of his life to study with the late master, Joseph Thalman, whose studios in Mississippi were a mecca for artists and photographers.

Returning from a European tour, Fabian became a protege of this great artist.

Shirley Freeman Chosen For Lead in 'Auntie Mame'

Village Theatre patrons who applauded Shirley Freeman's portrayal of a middle-aged housewife in a recent production will see her in a complete reversal of roles when she plays the lead in "Auntie Mame," final show of the season for the Arlington Heights group.

The two-act comedy, based on Patrick Dennis' best - seller, will be presented May 29, 30, 31 and June 1, under the direction of Richard Tyler at Prospect High School, Mount Prospect.

As Aunti Mame, Mrs. Freeman faces an entirely different challenge from her last role in "Majority of One." In that play she was a wise, gentle homebody. Auntie Mame is brilliant, a bit bizaare and a world traveler in search of excitement.

THE PART of young Patrick Dennis, the youngster plummeted into the sophisticated world of Auntie Mame, was awarded to Mikel Moses, an eighth grade student at South Junior High in Arlington.

Mr. Babcock, befuddled guardian of young Patrick, will be played by Herb Braden. Braden, who played Captain Norcross in "A Majority of One" brings to this second appearance with Village Theatre a backlog of experience in the acting, directing and writing fields.

Ann Hume, who plays the role of Vera, "British actress from Connecticut," was the female lead in last year's "We Must Kill Toni." She has also appeared in "Third Best Sport," "Man in the Dog Suit" and numerous cuttings.

NORAH, loyal protector of young Pat, will be played by Kay Hawley, who has not only appeared in some twenty Village Theatre productions, but also headed crews and scripted special material.

As Beauregard Jackson Pickett Burnside, John Grayson adds to his leading roles in "Desperate Hours," "We Must Kill Toni," "Solid Gold Cadillac," and others.

John Lobenhofer, who also has mass credits to his name, will appear in another specialty role, that of Ito, Japanese houseboy to Auntie Mame.

While Rosemary Barry will make her debut with this group as Agnes Gooch, over-eager secretary, she has been acting "almost forever." As a senior in Arlington High School she appeared in "Madwoman of Chaillot" and continued with the Marquette University Players, Goodman Theatre and Repertory Theatre in Chicago.'

In a play with a cast of forty, several actors have been called upon to enact multiple roles. Dave Shaughnessy who is Older Patrick towards the end of the play will also appear in bit parts. Jack Andreani doubles as Lindsey Woolsey, perpetual suitor of Auntie Mame and the announcer at the play's opening.

Bob Hawley plays triple roles —Brian O'Bannion, Lord Dudley and Dr. Fuchtwanger.

Versatility will be the watchword for Marsh Moses, who appears in five parts, including those of Ralph Devine and Mr. Loomis.

Al Wilcox will be Mr. Upson as well as Uncle Moultrie and a paper-hanger. Mrs. Upson will be played by Betty Brooks and Gloria Upson by Connie Beckway.

PEGEEN, the girl who finally marries the grown-up Patrick, will be Rickie Robbins. Their son will be played by David Ulrich.

The southern clan which jeopardizes Auntie Mame's chances with Beauregard will be: Randy Moses, Sally Cato; Harriet Smith, Mother Burnside; Alice Linde, Cousin Fan; Gladys Pownall, Aunt Euphinia; Jack Kline, Emery; Mel Freeman, Cousin Jeff; and Joan Wilcox, Lizzy Beaufort.

Rounding out the play with other multiple roles are Al Estrella, Bruce Meyer, Glenn Erickson, Betty Weber, Vivian Meyer, Arlene Nemecek, Barbara Lobenhofer, Janice Lobenhofer and Alice Linde.

Tickets for Auntie Mame may be reserved by calling the Village Theatre box-office, CL 9-3200. (Bill

"NOW, AGNES, just think mink," Auntie Mame advises her secretary, as she prepares her for the glamour bit. The scene is from Village Theatre's "Auntie Mame" to be presented at Prospect High School the nights of May 29, 30, 31 and June 1. Pictured, l. to r., are Shirley Freeman, Rosemary Barry and Ann Hume.

Theatre to Open With 'Music Man'

"Summer Theatre" will open at the Polar Dome in Dundee, Ill., on May 24, 25, 26 when "Music Man" is presented by the Divine Infant Variety Club.

The Polar Dome is a unique air-supported building standing 87 feet high just off the Northwest Tollway near Dundee in the midst of Santa's Village, an amusement park.

Its first try at the theatre crowd comes with the Variety Club from Westchester presenting a cast of more than 100.

"MUSIC MAN" first plays at the St. Joseph High School in Westchester May 10, 11, 12 and May 17, 18, 19 with the next stop at the Polar Dome. The huge Dome is scaled to an intimate 1,600 seat set-up.

Randy Avery, vice president of Barnes Carruthers and one of Chicago's leading talent men, will produce the show. He is a member of the Divine Infant parish in Westchester, and all proceeds will go to that parish.

Among his credits are the auto show presentations over the past several years which has been handled by Barnes Carruthers, State Fairs in Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Mississippi, and Texas over the past 10 years as well as the Cole Bros. Circus in the years when it played the Chicago dium. (Bill

A Review

'The Tender Trap' Is Pleasant Comedy

by JOAN REDDY
Drama Critic

The suburbs' growing professional theatres call for comfortable surroundings, the proximity of liquor, and pleasant little sex comedies that amuse without taxing. The Country Club Theatre's presentation of "The Tender Trap" at Old Orchard Country Club fills the requisites.

"The Tender Trap" is based on the premise that any bachelor in New York is pursued, coddled, and pampered by coveys of beauteus career girls in search of a husband.

As the spoiled male, Gordon Oas-Heim has the proper devilish gleam in his eye for the joys and double - take grimaces for the depths of this bachelor existence.

DOUBLING as director, Oas-Heim keeps the pace going at break-neck speed. It leaves the audience a bit breathless, but the play certainly doesn't drag.

The pace detracts, too, from the performances of the leading ladies. Patricia Ferris, as the older career woman, and Jeri Jensen, as the guilefully guileless girl, both come on like gangbusters.

It isn't until her second scene that Miss Ferris is able to overcome that unrelenting pace and bring out the needed warmth of the character.

MISS JENSEN suffers from miscasting. Even that long, blond pony tail can't convince me that she is an ingenue. Sophistication shows through.

Norman Rice, as the married friend who falls prey to the wiles of the bachelor life, gives a particularly steady and likable performance. He gives good counter - point to Oas-Heim's frenzy.

Edward Albrecht has some good scenes as the ineffectual loser in the love game. (He is such a hopeless case, the girls don't even bother to pursue him.)

AND IN ONE of those cameo comedy roles that call for traditional applause on exit, Bill Harris receives it on cue.

As additions to the bachelor's retinue, Ann Folke and Ann Gordon are properly glamorous and seductive, but unbelievable as competent career women. But that's playwrights' Max Shulman's and Robert Paul Smith's fault.

(You've simply got to accept their premise that all career women are a bit insane when it comes to men or you're lost.)

But for those of us who can accept, it is a pleasant evening. And the availability of the bar between the acts makes a theatre goer feel practically continental. (Bill

Feminine Touch at Theatre

Famous for its policies directed toward ladies, the Clark Theatre, 11 N. Clark, Chicago, has become a haven for feminine film fans — especially on Fridays which is Ladies Day at the Clark.

This unique policy admits all ladies for 25 cents throughout the day and evening each Friday.

Another attraction for the ladies is the Clark's "Little Gallery for Gals Only," a section colorfully decorated and set aside for ladies only.

FRIDAY movies at the Clark are also scheduled with the ladies' favorites in mind.

The ladies' favorite, Cary Grant, will appear with Deborah Kerr in "The Grass is Greener" plus "Marriage-Co-Round" starring Julie Newmar, on Friday, May 17. (Bill

'Tipsy Rebellion' Splendid, Despite Varied Mishaps

by JIM PHILLIPS

They were out to get Des Plaines Theatre Guild Friday night. Who? I don't know. All I know is that a power failure just about clobbered the third act of the Guild's play.

And as if that wasn't enough, DPTG's "ol' pro" Ed Sauer just barely missed becoming the "ex-ol' pro," no thanks to a heavy chuck of metal which dropped from one of the flats and nearly split a few hairs on the back of his head. Then there was the noise of the kids outside Rand Park — but that's an old story.

Actually, it would probably have taken 10 power failures, 40 chunks of metal, and an invasion by the Youth Clubs of America to put a dent in DPTG's splendid offering, "The Tipsy Rebellion."

Jon Jory's Irish answer to "One Man's Family — jungle style" is an extremely funny play. It is not only well-constructed, but tastefully-sprinkled with a blend of outright clowning and warmheartedly-light dramatics. It is simply a fine satire on many subjects, from religion to the poor human being trying to escape from his everyday doldrums.

Mr. Jory should do well with this sturdy piece of comedy writing as he points it toward the full professional circuit.

AS TO THE Guild's performances, there was little if anything to snarl about.

Julie Beall and Barbara Beckman were well-characterized colleens, and there's no doubt in my mind that Wilhelm Levander gave the finest performance of his entire Guild career as the crazy, but not-so-mixed-up bourbonaire gun-smuggler.

Ed Sauer was a very believable Tippy O'Shea, and Ed himself still remains the master of the timed comic line. Bill Buckner (Dublin) was the looniest Nicaraguan native that ever graced a revolution, and from his smile, there was no doubt that his group was the one with 21 per cent fewer cavities. Chuck Sule, though showing a little stiffness in line delivery (he needs more inflection and work with the highs and lows of his voice) was a good-looking addition to the romantic theme department.

In the roles of Sister Leanda and Sister Jude, Louise Yanover and Mary Fisk were easy to listen to, and managed to successfully bring forth the two separate personalities of the nuns.

There were a host of Indians in "Tipsy Rebellion," and from the looks of them, I am certain that a law suit is now pending on behalf of the real Nicaraguan jungle-dwellers — this isn't to say that the boys weren't good. They were. And their appearance was a perfect comic (and colorful) addition to the play.

I DON'T WANT to miss the banana boat on technical production. DPTG's set construction and design for "Tipsy" should get some sort of an award. It was the crew's greatest accomplishment this year.

I'm continually amazed at how solid and attractive most of their sets are, despite the claustrophobic conditions of the Rand Park "upstairs." In particular, the painting of the jungle scene and the use of shades of green and gray were a great contribution to the "get that visual empathy" goal.

Probably the greatest help playwright Jon Jory and the Guild performers had was a sensitive and thoroughly competent direction by Tom Ventriss. Mr. Ventriss played his characters for all they were worth and disciplined the comedy to a point where it was genuinely funny instead of "just plain silly."

He was obviously quite concerned with pace. And the forward-moving pattern of "Tipsy Rebellion" showed it. The play was smooth and rapidly-run.

Of course, here's where some of the credit should go to Mr. Jory himself. The man who wrote "Tipsy Rebellion" is a tight writer!

DPTG'S FINAL offering of the dramatic year was good taste to leave in its patrons' mouths.

Judging by future plans, there are more good things in store: the Guild is planning to open its fall season in a new home. A complete remodeling job is being undertaken on the second floor of the Masonic Temple building, right in the heart of Des Plaines (on Lee Street), and by the time the walls are painted and the new theatre seats are put in, DPTG will be ready to begin their first "new home" season.

So, all that's needed is an eager - to - be - entertained audience, which I'm sure will come forth in '63-'64. (Bill

Art Center Elects Mrs. Wayne Harmon

Newly elected president of the Countryside Art Center is Mrs. Wayne Harmon, 1125 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Harmon, who took office following her election on last Thursday, succeeds Carole Komarek as president of the art organization.

Other new officers, all of whom were elected by a unanimous vote, include Darrill Connelly of Arlington Heights, vice president; Margot Morris of Des Plaines, corresponding secretary; Shirley Schneberger of Arlington Heights, recording secretary; and Robin Sylvester of Palatine, treasurer.

Mrs. Harmon has been active in the Countryside Art Center since moving to Arlington Heights three years ago, and has served as vice president during the past year.

A GRADUATE of the University of Minnesota, the new president is the mother of three children and works as an interior decorator for The Chandelier in Arlington Heights.

Membership in the art center has tripled during the 1962-63 year, and the new art gallery sponsored by the center has attracted extensive publicity in the Chicagoland area. The gallery is located in Arlington Heights at 10 W. Miner Street.

Evanston Artist to Give Demonstration

Des Plaines Art Guild will present its last demonstration program of the season Monday at 8 p.m. in West Park Fieldhouse, 651 S. Wolf Road, Des Plaines, when Evanston artist Virginia Matthews Clark will give an oil painting demonstration.

In June, the Art Guild will hold a critique of members' work.

Mrs. Clark will be assisted in her program Monday night by her husband, Robert, also an artist, who will give a commentary on her paintings while she demonstrates. Clark appeared before the Des Plaines art group last June as judge of the critique.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Clark are natives of Cleveland and attended the Cleveland Institute of Art. Mrs. Clark also studied at John Huntington School of Art in Cleveland, took private lessons from Jean and Paul Ulen, attended Chicago Institute of Art and Evanston Art Center.

TWO OF MRS. Clark's paintings utilizing sand, glue, cement and paint-crust will also be presented to the Art Guild audience as examples of the artist's enjoyment of constant experimentation.

A short business meeting will preced Mrs. Clark's oil painting demonstration, and refreshments will be served after the program. Visitors are welcome.

Watercolors and Pastels Displayed

JULIE (Mrs. James) Beall, 211 Winston, Palatine, plays the leading feminine role in "The Tipsy Rebellion," Des Plaines Theatre Guild comedy continuing tomorrow and Saturday nights, and May 17 and 18, at Rand Park Fieldhouse, 2025 Miner St., Des Plaines. This is Mrs. Beall's first major role for the Theatre Guild. (Bill

Harold F. Glandt, vice president and cashier of Des Plaines National Bank, this week announced the bank's new Art Corner display which this month features a collection of pastels and watercolors by Mrs. Jan Coventry of Des Plaines.

The Art Corner will present monthly one-man shows by Chicago area artists who have been invited to display their paintings in the bank building at Lee and Ellinwood in Des Plaines as a contribution to the cultural life of the community.

MRS. COVENTRY exhibits her work in group and one-man shows in Chicago and neighboring communities, and her oils and watercolors are represented in the Art Rental Gallery of the Fort Wayne Art Museum (where she had a one-man show in September, 1962) and in private collections throughout the midwest.

During May, in addition to her Des Plaines National Bank exhibit, she has a collection of oils on display in the M & M Club Gallery of Chicago's Merchandise Mart. (Bill

Ex-Ink Spot Sings At Hyatt's Chalet

Ace Harris, one of the original members of the famed Ink Spots singing group, began a prolonged engagement April 30 in the cocktail lounge of the Hyatt Chalet Restaurant at Higgins Road and Oakton Street in Elk Grove Village.

ACE HARRIS

Harris is featured at the piano bar nightly Tuesday through Saturday from 7:30 p.m. until closing.

A NATIVE of Philadelphia, Harris also arranged for the Ink Spots until he left the group in 1942. His arrangements included such all-time favorites as "Whispering Grass," "Do I Worry?" and "We Three."

He toured the country with his own band during the 30s, was with the Erskine Hawkins band after leaving the Ink Spots and arranged for Glen Gray's famous Casa Loma orchestra before specializing as a "single" at various night spots.

A successful recording artist, Harris' biggest album was "Zonky," a dual piano jazz classic he made with Buddy Charles.

However, he will not concentrate on jazz when he plays and sings for patrons of the restaurant and its companion Hyatt Chalet Motel. Harris will feature all the popular songs of today and most of yesterday's favorites.

A SCENE FROM "DIAMOND HEAD," the giant story of modern Hawaii with a giant cast opens at the Des Plaines Theatre this Friday. Featured in this story of America's newest state is Charlton Heston, Yvette Mimieux, George Chakiris, France Nuyen and James Darren. The film story is based on the Peter Gilman best seller of the same name. Completing the double bill is the mad cap Danny Kaye in "The Man From The Diners' Club," one of the funniest screen plays since money went out of style. There is a special children's program on Saturday matinee when one of the greatest adventure stories of all time will be presented, Jules Verne's "MYSTERIOUS ISLAND," filmed in color and Dynamation.

Film Has Hawaiian Background

Lush, spectacular modern Hawaii backgrounds "Diamond Head," which opens Friday at the Golf Mill Theatre with Charlton Heston topping a cast that includes George Chakiris and France Nuyen.

The film is a story of America's newest state, a drama that involves both the people and the tempestuous history of the romantic islands.

As a special treat for the children, the Golf Mill will run a children's show Saturday matinee at 1 p.m. There will be an hour of cartoons plus the children's feature, "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea." The show starts at 1:30 and ends at 4 p.m.

Free coffee is served every evening in the color TV lounge which shares the lobby with the theatre's Art Gallery. The current exhibit of paintings is by Miss Ruth Meyers. (Bill

Young Republicans Hold Dance Friday

The Wheeling Township Young Republican Club will hold its second annual spring dance this Friday, May 10, at the Northbrook American Legion Hall located on Pfingsten Road, south of Dundee Road in Northbrook.

Dance committee chairman, Bud Matt of Arlington Heights, announced invitations have been sent to the following Republican celebrities: Cook County Sheriff Richard Ogilvie, State Treasurer William Scott, Cook County Central Committee Chairman Hayes Robertson, U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, State Central Committeeman Ralph Church, Charles Percy, chairman of the board of Bell & Howell Co., and other prominent GOP personalities.

PREPARATIONS for decorations are being made by committee chairman Justine Moe and committee members Shirley Matt, Bernice Vrablick, Ann Gillen and Helen Kilfoy.

Music for the evening festivities will be provided by Jim McGahan's C-Notes.

Ticket Chairman Gloria Pfister announced that tickets will be available at the hall beginning at 8:30 p.m. or may be obtained from any YR club member or by calling LE 7-5390.

Bigger Houses

Today's new one-family homes are larger, have more floor area, more bedrooms, more baths and more garages than five years ago. About $18,000 is the medium average selling price today, up $3,500 since 1956.

Rumsfeld Appoints 4 to Air Academy

U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R 13th, announced this week that the following young men, nominated for admission to the Air Force Academy by former Congresswoman Marguerite Stitt Church, will be offered appointments by the academy for the class entering this summer:

John Joseph Egan III, 51 Brinker Road, Barrington; James P. Hogarty, 511 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect; Kenton LeRoy Knoppel, 201 S. Owen St., Mount Prospect, and Ronald Edward Dressler, 4115 Church St., Skokie.

Rumsfeld also stated that he is now accepting applications for nominations to all of the military academies—Air Force, Army, Navy, and Merchant Marine—for the classes entering in 1964.

Application blanks may be secured by writing U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, Room 241, Cannon House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C.

ACADEMY candidates must be legal residents of the 13th Congressional District of Illinois, be United States citizens, and be at least 17 years of age but not past their 22nd birthday by July 1, 1964.

The congressman stated that his nominations will be based on a combination of the following: grades received in a Civil Service Placement Examination, satisfactory results in a preliminary physical exam, transcript of high school grades, and demonstrated leadership ability.

Rumsfeld urged all interested students, who will complete their junior year or higher, to request application forms immediately in order to take the Civil Service exam to be given in July.

They Miss Mother

Collegians Face Domestic Crises

How They Cope With 'Tasks'

by KAY BLACKWOOD

"But I've never ironed a blouse before!" is the anguished cry of a new college freshman as she is faced with a laundry problem for the first time away from "mother's guiding iron."

Many students find that tasks they have always taken for granted are major problems when they go to college untrained in all domestic duties. Women students are as guilty as men in this respect, although perhaps the students are not the guilty parties. They are untrained because their parents have not trained them!

Washings are not really too much of a problem, thanks to automation, but unfortunately automatic devices have not yet been invented or at least have not been made available to the average college student, that will make one's bed before 1 o'clock room check, iron one's laundry before a big date, or sew on one's buttons before the first blizzard.

INGENUITY prevails among many students, as they find ways around their problems rather than solving them. As suggested by Tim Hunter, sophomore at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., there are usually four modes of action when it comes to washing clothes. The first is to completely evade the issue and wear them dirty. The second is to send them home to Mother.

Another is to take them to a laundromat and spend hours laboring over an ironing board. The last method is to elect one member of the fraternity house or other housing unit to take the laundries of several people to the laundromat and then deliver them later for a nominal fee.

Still another method suggested by members of the male population is to find a nice gullible girl who will perform the tasks out of pure "love."

WHEN SOMETHING rips or another catastrophe such as losing a button occurs, most fraternity men will take the injured item to the housemother for repairs.

Many people learn how to handle their problems the hard way. A brightly colored sweatshirt, though an extremely important part of any college student's wardrobe, has its disadvantages. Anyone who has put one in a washer with the rest of his light-colored clothes will testify to this fact. Many now have blouses, socks, and countless other garments to match their brightly colored sweatshirt! One student is trying to coordinate a wardrobe with a weird shade of pink tennis shoes.

Reading the labels, although it may sound trite, would also save many a laundry. Students have wondered why an article faded so much . . . until they read that the soap they were using contained the famous (and effective!) "beads of bleach" or similar ingredient.

MANY STUDENTS just face the cold winter weather with buttonless coats or coats with huge safety pins holding on the buttons just because they have not acquired the skill needed to sew on the necessary items.

The number of students who have never had to do anything for themselves is unbelievable. A sophomore woman at Purdue surprised her roommate one day by saying that she had as yet never washed a sweater!

A contrast to this is the student who, out of necessity, devises countless short cuts to get around his duties. Most would be frowned upon by any conscientious housekeeper, but nevertheless are effective in emergencies.

WHEN ONE is planning to wear a sweater over one's blouse anyway, for example, there is no use ironing it completely. The front and collar is enough. The problem arises when something happens to the heating in the classrooms and the short cut artist is forced to keep her sweater on in the 90-degree room!

Students have blessed the recent popularity of "madras" which no matter how much ironing it receives, still looks wrinkled. When ordinary drip dry cotton plaids are not ironed they give the same effect! Dark plaids are also practical in that they don't require as frequent launderings as pastels.

Despite the humor that appears in the many situations that arise from a lack of domestic skills, there is an even greater amount of difficulty that could easily be remedied by a "briefing" before classes begin.

(Miss Blackwood is a sophomore journalism student at Purdue University and a summer reporter for Paddock Publications newspapers.)

AMBITIOUS LYNN MILLER, home economics freshman at Purdue University and a 1962 graduate of Prospect High School, doesn't have to run to her housemother when she needs a seam repaired (left). Ironing a dress while wearing it is a neat trick (center) if you can do it, according to Teddy Popp, 1961 graduate of Prospect High and a sophomore at Purdue. An effective emergency measure, the trick is only one of many "domestic" short-cuts employed by students away from home. At right, dusting floors may be new to some collegians, but unless they like "dust bunnies" rolling under their desks, this is one of the chores that must be performed. Rozanne Wittek, 1961 Arlington High School graduate and Purdue sophomore, believes in attacking the job from the nearest angle.

Week's Best Food Values

For the market week of May 6-11 the University of Illinois reports the following: Pork and beef promotions continue, heavy supplies and continued drop in costs expected. Lamb is scarce; fryers weak for another few weeks on seasonal peak supplies.

Eggs are little changed from week-ago lows; southern vegetable production increases as costs drop for major items.

Chicago-area food values in poultry: fryers, large eggs; meats: pork loin roasts, chops, steaks, rib and chuck roasts, ground beef; produce: new potatoes, lettuce, radishes, sweetcorn, cucumbers, cabbage, asparagus, dry onions, strawberries, bananas, rhubarb, and cantaloupe.

SURPRISE MOTHER on her day with a luxurious breakfast tray. Make a perky Spring basket with grapefruit and daisies, and prepare luscious French toast, Florida style, with plump, juicy Valencia oranges.

Designed for May 12

Perky Breakfast Tray For Mom on 'Her Day'

Probably the nicest way to start "her day" off brightly is to serve mother breakfast in bed. Whoever deemed a lovely Sunday in May as Mother's Day knew what he (or more likely she!) was doing, for it's a perfect non-school day for the children to shower mother with loving care and attention.

A prettily set tray, a thoughtful gift or two, the paper to read at leisure, and a tasty breakfast would give her real pleasure.

BIG JUICY Florida grapefruit are reasonably priced during May, and you can easily make a basket effect with the grapefruit half by cutting handles and tying them with a pretty posy.

Squeeze fresh Florida orange juice for another helping of golden goodness, prepare a soft-boiled egg and a pot of freshly brewed coffee, and an extra-special treat of luscious French Toast, Florida style, with orange juice, rind and sections. You may as well make up four servings of this luxurious breakfast dish so the rest of the family can enjoy it too!

GRAPEFRUIT BASKETS

Cut grapefruit in half. Insert two toothpicks ½ inch apart on opposite sides of grapefruit. To make handle, cut through the peel ¼ inch below the top of the half; do not cut between the toothpicks.

Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Cut around entire edge of grapefruit. Lift handles and tie together. Attach flower to handle.

FLORIDA FRENCH TOAST

1 egg
¼ cup Florida orange juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons grated Florida orange rind
4 slices day old bread
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 oranges, sectioned*
Confectioners' sugar

Beat egg with orange juice in shallow dish. Add sugar and grated orange rind; mix thoroughly. Leave bread slices whole or cut in half, if desired. Dip bread in egg mixture. Brown on both sides in butter in skillet over low heat.

Place orange sections on each slice of toast. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Serve immediately. Yield: four servings.

*To section oranges, cut off peel in circular motion, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Go over fruit again to remove any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section, over bowl, to retain juice from fruit.

Quite Contrary by Mary

New Woman In the House

Another milestone has come into my life. A milestone is like when you enter your last child in school. But, this one is a first for me. It is a haircut.

There honestly isn't anything earth shattering about a haircut but this one was almost 13 years overdue. Little Doll, the last of the daughter department, was fast approaching teenhood and nary a scissor had been put to her locks. In fact she had achieved the distinction of winning a ribbon at the State Fair for the third longest pigtail in Illinois.

But, lately I got to thinking that the mop of hair wasn't looking as adorable as in the past. I mean she was sort of outgrowing it. But Dear Father was adamant. So I hushed. Little did I know what Little Doll was cooking. Unbeknownst to any of us, she called the beauty parlor and arranged for a shearing.

Then we all fell apart at the seams. You would have thought that the world was going to be affected by her rashness. She was nervous. I was nervous. Dear Father was full of misgivings. And, I think the beauty operator was nervous. I mean, poor fellow, if we didn't like it, how was he going to glue the stuff back?

When the first chop was made and the locks were handed to me, we all breathed easier. The thing was then an accomplished fact and there was nowhere to go but forward. So the mission was accomplished to the tune of the clicking of my camera and the snip of the scissors.

I didn't cry but the woman in the chair next to Little Doll turned to me reproachfully and allowed as how if I wasn't going to get weepy, she would be glad to do it for me. And you know what? There she was with the tears streaming down her cheeks.

It all turned out beautifully. But, I get the feeling I have lost a little girl and acquired a strange young lady. Also arises the problem of what to to with my twisty hands in the morning. I've been braiding someone for nigh onto 22 years and I'm lonesome.

MARY'S YOUNGEST daughter, Rebecca, holds her braid —final symbol of her "little girlhood." She's officially ready to enter teenhood.

LWV Delegates Attend Conference

The League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights sent a full complement of delegates to the 31st convention of the League of Women Voters of Illinois held April 30 - May 2 at the Hilton Inn, Aurora. Those attending were Mrs. O. K. Burrows Jr., Mrs. Keith Atkins, Mrs. S. L. Caruso, Mrs. Gerald M. Chapman, Mrs. Seth S. Grossman, Mrs. Ted L. LaPin, Mrs. C. D. Raths and Mrs. John J. Solon.

Banquet speaker May 1 was Elbert N. Carvel, governor of Delaware, whose topic was "States Must Be Strong." At luncheon May 2, there were four league speakers, women now holding elected or appointed public office. They were Mrs. Horace Dawson of Evansont, member of the Illinois House of Representatives, Mrs. Orville N. Foreman of Jacksonville, member of the Illinois Fair Employmen. Practices Commission, Mrs. Gerald M. Almy of Champaign, member of the Illinois Election Laws Commission, and Mrs. Harper Andrews of Kewanee, member of President Kennedy's commission on the Status of Women.

THE DELEGATE body in convention chose for study and concerted action in 1963-65 to "evaluate the structure and financing of Illinois Welfare services to children and their families."

Mrs. E. V. Carlson Is New AAUW President

Installation of officers and a "dialogue" program will be the highlights of the May dinner meeting of the Northwest Suburban Branch of American Association of University Women. Reservations for the annual dinner, slated for Thursday, May 16, at 6:30 p.m. in Nielsen's Restaurant, Mannheim near Higgins, should be mailed to Mrs. Thomas Dodds, 253 Washington, Des Plaines, before Friday, May 10.

Miss Joan J. Shaw, retiring branch president, and Mrs. G. E. Bailey of Arlington Heights, AAUW northeast central regional vice president, will present "A Dialogue on the Proposed Structural Changes of AAUW." This discussion is timely since these changes will be voted on at the national convention in Denver in June.

MRS. E. V. Carlson of Prospect Heights will be installed as the 1963-64 branch president. Mrs. Carlson was graduated from the University of Arkansas with a BS in home economics and Drexel Institute of Technology with an MS in nutrition. Chairman of the International Relations study group and first vice president are her previous offices in the local branch.

A graduate of Lake Forest College, Mrs. R. C. Cooper of Mount Prospect will assume the office of first vice president. Mrs. W. C. Childs, Park Ridge, graduate of Cornell University, and Mrs. L. A. Wright, Des Plaines, graduate of the University of Illinois, will be installed as recording secretary and treasurer, respectively.

It's 'Breath of Spring' May 18 for Hoffman Club

Approximately 100 members and guests of the Hoffman Estates' Woman's Club are expected to participate in the sixth annual luncheon and fashion show to be presented by the club Saturday, May 18, in Old Orchard Country Club.

The "Breath of Spring" affair will feature sportswear, afternoon and cocktail fashions by Mr. Marty of Colf Mill, with commentary by Margo.

Margo is a freelance commentator who appears extensively in Chicago, according to Mrs. Janet Takahashi, luncheon committee chairman.

MRS. TAKAHASHI said 11 club members will model the fashions. Their hair styles are to be done by "Josephs" of Bloomingdale.

Officers of the club will be installed after the fashion show by Mrs. Harold Northway, president of Seventh District of Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Tickets for "Breath of Spring," which is scheduled to begin at noon, can be obtained by telephoning TW 4-6915, TW 4-3927, TW 4-3963 or LA 9-6640.

Reservations should be made no later than May 16.

May Day Luncheon for Arlington Heights Woman's Club

THURS., MAY 9, 1963

Suburban Living
Especially for Women

FUR STYLE SHOW was one of the highlights of Arlington Heights Woman's Club's 23rd annual spring luncheon held May 1 in Ray Foley's Restaurant, Lincolnwood. Mrs. Edward R. Klamm of Arlington Heights served as one of the models for the furs from Senne's.

GOLDEN TREE, one of the many beautiful decorations for which the Hyatt House is becoming famous, intrigued Mrs. W. Markshausen of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Ed Shervey of Prospect Heights, guests at the May 1 spring luncheon sponsored by Arlington Heights Woman's Club. Luncheon, attended by more than 400 smartly dressed women, was held in Ray Foley's Restaurant. (S DAISIES AND ORGANZA flower petals were the choice in hats of Mrs. Robert Frankenberg of Mount Prospect and her friend, Mrs. J. R. Bernier of Wilmette, both guests at the Arlington Heights Woman's Club spring luncheon. Affair was held in Ray Foley's Restaurant in the Hyatt House, Lincolnwood. Program included a fur style show and singing by a barbershop quartet. (S

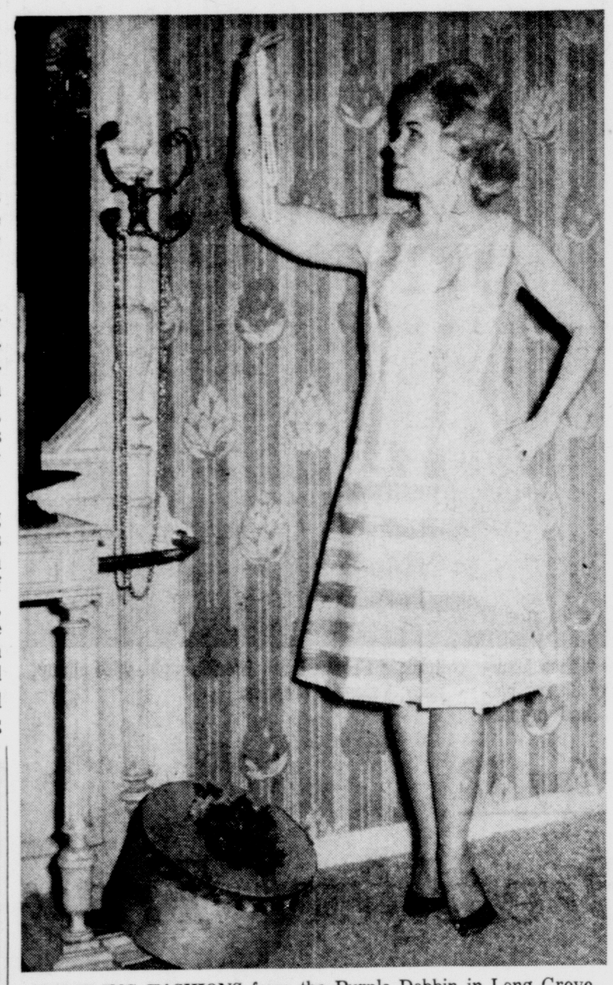
Bethel Churchwomen Set Lunch, Fashions

A showing of fashions from the Purple Dobbin in Long Grove will highlight the annual mother-daughter luncheon of Bethel Lutheran Church to be held Saturday, May 11, in the Plum Grove Club, Palatine.

Luncheon will be prepared and served by the women's circles, and members of the Bethel Churchwomen and their children will serve as models.

MODELS WILL include Mrs. Edward Walters, Mrs. Roger Sullivan and Mrs. James Wickline of Palatine, and Mrs. Edward Wilson, Mrs. Lynn Hughes, Mrs. Perry Mann, Miss Cheryl Arnemann, Miss Nancy Esch and Miss Sandy Maszk, all of Rolling Meadows.

Seven little models, modeling fashions sewn by their mothers or grandmothers, will each represent a women's circle of the church. Colleen Sullivan, Denise Roberts, Kimberlee Swartz, Nancy Meyer, Faith Olson, Pamela Brankin and Nancy Cole are the pint sized models. (S



MODELING FASHIONS from the Purple Dobbin in Long Grove for the Mother-Daughter Luncheon and Fashion Show of Bethel Lutheran Church will be Mrs. Edward Sullivan of Palatine. The event will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 11, in the Plum Grove Country Club.

Mrs. Schindeldecker Is New PH Club President

Installation of officers was the highlight of the final meeting of Prospect Heights Woman's Club, May 1, in the Old Orchard Country Club. Mrs. Lois Smith, historian, installed Mrs. E. M. Schindeldecker, president; Mrs. H. B. Green, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Carson, second vice-president; Mrs. F. M. Krempel, treasurer; Mrs. Don McGowan, recording secretary; Mrs. Alfred Roth, financial secretary; Mrs. William Kuhns, corresponding secretary.

New members who had joined the club in the last year were honored with corsages, and welcomed by the president.

Also honored were Mrs. Fred Barney, who was given a certificate of award for her work work in mental health; Mrs. Ida Dautel and Mrs. Robert Lusk certificates of award for library service.

CORSAGES WERE also presented to the standing committee chairmen.

During the business meeting the membership voted the raising of funds to build a permanent library for Prospect Heights as the club's major project. "The Woman's Club has been the major force behind the library, starting with its conception," commented the new president, who explained the space now being used is on a rental basis. (S

Moms to Entertain Diabetic Children

The northwest suburban group of Mothers of Diabetic Children will hold a meeting expressly for their children on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Richard Johnson, 504 S. Pine St., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Anna Boller Beach, former director of the Nutrition Clinic at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital, who is now working on a diabetic research project at the hospital, will be the guest speaker.

SHE WILL teach these children how to order their food or serve themselves by sight even though they might be on a measured or gram-weight diet. She will use teaching aids and charts which she originated and have proven successful over many years.

Refreshments (all sugar free, of course) will be served by Mrs. James Payne of Elk Grove Village and Mrs. Francois Palmatier and Mrs. F. V. Schlexer of Arlington Heights.

Models Hear Cosmetologist

Mrs. Mary Maury, teacher of cosmotology, was speaker at a recent meeting of Wieboldt's High School Fashion Board, Randhurst. A question and answer period followed her talk and appropriate hair styles were suggested too for many of the board members.

Donna Weidner, board member from Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows, Cathy Zito and Sue Moore modeled at the store's April 27 show.

Q. Are correspondence cards considered in good taste?

A. Yes; they are very popular and in good taste for the short, informal kind of note. It is becoming more and more customary for men and women to use these cards. However, they should be used only for strictly informal correspondence.

Home Safety Is Slighted, Prof Says

Minneapolis, (UPI) — The home, the place where most accidents occur, is receiving the least amount of attention from safety researchers, a University of Wisconsin professor said over the weekend.

Dr. C. Frazier Damron, director of safety research and education at the UW campus in Madison, said 27,000 persons in the United States will be killed and four million injured in home accidents this year.

"When classified by place, accidents in the home lead," he told persons attending the annual meeting of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Yet studies concerned with home safety are "pitifully few," despite the fact that five times as many persons are injured in the home as in motor vehicles, he said.

Damron criticized the small amount of home safety research being done as monotonously following old patterns and resulting in few fresh ideas. (S

Jackie Top 'Boon' for Fashiondom

ST. LOUIS, (UPI) Dress designer Oleg Cassini said here Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's "exquisite taste is more a credit to her than to me."

Cassini, on a visit recently, said Mrs. Kennedy's impact on fashion is a boon to the gross national product.

He said Mrs. Kennedy's use of American designers since she moved into the White House has made New York a fashion center second to none. Cassini said the President's wife has set Seventh Avenue sewing machines whirring as never before.

Asked if he was her "favored" or "official" designer, Cassini said "Merely say I am her designer." (S

Wisconsin 'Shanty' Specializes in Fish

by JEANNE WELCH
Travel Editor

Half-way between Milwaukee and Sheboygan, on the shores of Lake Michigan, is the little town of Port Washington, Wis. and its famed Smith Brothers Fish Shanty. A leisurely drive north along the lake for dinner at Smith's makes for a pleasant spring day's outing.

"Shanty" is a definite misnomer now, for the original restaurant, destroyed by fire in 1953, was replaced by a $300,000 building.

The decor is definitely marine, with captains' chairs at the tables, ships' running lights on the walls along with mounted lake perch of record size. The end result is an atmosphere which is warm and casually comfortable.

Perch and fish chowders are featured items on the menu along with "domers."

Domer refers not to a species of fish but to the method of cooking, and has an interesting history.

YEARS AGO lake fishermen used steam engines on their tugs. Coming in with a big catch and feeling the pangs of hunger, they would take a fish from the catch, wrap it in newspaper and stick it on top of the boiler dome to steam. The name is retained on the Smith menu but domers are now prepared in fancy commercial steamers.

The restaurant is only a part of the Smith Brothers business which has been for 100 years that of commercial fishing. With the decimation of lake trout by lampreys many commercial fishermen in the area were forced out of business.

The Smith Brothers, almost by accident, got into the restaurant business by setting up a fish market in a waterfront shanty, buying a French fryer and selling cooked fish. From that tiny beginning came the large and successful restaurant of today.

On the commercial side today's first fish is the chub. The Smiths in the days of the lake trout operated four tugs. They now have only two, one operating out of Port Washington, the other out of Sheboygan. Those two tugs and their crews, however, bring in nearly 400,000 pounds of chub annually.

THE FISH are smoked over hickory chips, packed in five-pound cartons and shipped all over the country. They are also for sale in the retail market adjoining the restaurant and you'll probably wish to take home some of the firm white fish with the smoke flavor for your snack tray.

Both the state of Wisconsin and the federal government are spending a lot of money trying to control the lampreys which destroyed Wisconsin's lake trout. They are meeting with some success.

The Smith tugs occasionally find young trout in their nets these days and the Smiths believe that in 10 years or so the lake trout will be back. If so, it's a pretty good bet that Smith Brothers tugs will be bringing them in, and their restaurant will be serving them to hungry customers. (T

Tax Freeze Urged To Aid Resorts

MADISON, (UPI) — A "tax freeze" on capital improvements by resort owners to spur modernization of facilities was among several recommendations made today in a study of the tourist accommodation industry in the state.

The report was the fifth in a series of research publications by the state department of Resource Development to provide information for the development of the tourist-vacation industry.

I. V. Fine and Roy Tuttle, of the University of Wisconsin School of Commerce, who conducted the study, reported that "Much of the problem of declining or stagnant business can be attributed to the lack of modern facilities. Approximately half of all facilities were built prior to World War II."

THEY recommended some method of assisting operators in meeting their capital requirements for modernization, either through some sort of mortgage insurance program or "temporary remission of taxes because of capital improvements — a concept that has been adopted in the federal accelerated tax writeoff programs."

In a cover letter submitted with the report to Gov. John Reynolds, Resource Department Director Frank Zeidler said legislation may be sought to permit the state to assist in capital financing for industry, including the tourist-recreation industry. "Modernization of many tourist accommodation businesses has been restricted by a lack of investment capital," Zeidler said.

Other recommendations from the study included:

— Compilation of a resort facility directory.

—A more complete licensing system for tourist overnight accommodations.

—Extension of the tourist season through increased promotion of skiing and autumn vacations.

Creation of a central research information system to provide information as to the type of capital improvements and expansions that should be made.

THE REPORT pointed out that many of the operators do not avail themselves of professional services and guidance which can be obtained at little or no cost. Such services, it pointed out, included University of Wisconsin extension programs, trade association membership and activities and professional accounting and business advisory services.

Other highlights of the 35-page survey indicated that many of the resorts and motels have "less than sufficient size to provide the necessary room rental income to yield a net profit" and that the high proportion of "seasonal" operations limits the income potential of the overnight accommodation business of a substantial part of Wisconsin.

The bulk of the research was conducted with questionnaires sent to registered operators of almost all commercial facilities accommodiating tourists. Of the 4,795 questionnaires mailed a little more than one fourth were usable.

"THE FACT that no greater positive response was received is in itself an indicator of one of the problems facing this industry," the researchers said.

The survey indicated that the number of tourist accommodation establishments dropped from 7,842 in 1958 to 7,635 last year, but the number of rooms increased by 1,376 during that period and totaled 80,486. (T

New Bills Give Boost To Tourism

SPRINGFIELD, (UPI)—Administration-backed bills designed to boost tourism and new industry in Illinois were introduced in the state Senate today.

One measure would appropriate $500,000 for the Board of Economic Development to promote tourism. Of the total, 20 per cent would be spent by the board. The rest would be available to cities, counties, and tourist promotion groups, providing they made matching funds available.

The second proposal would create an industrial development commission. It would be authorized to issue revenue bonds to build plants for new industry, ,with the bonds to be paid off by rent from the firms.

A similar commission was set up by legislation two years ago but ruled unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court. This proposal, according to sponsor Paul Simon, D-Troy, is believed to be legal.

Simon introduced both proposals. (T

Explain Lung Condition That Afflicts Millions

One of the fastest growing health problems in America today is a chronic lung condition called pulmonary emphysema, reports the Illinois State Medical Society.

Though most people have never heard of the disease, it's second only to heart disease as a cause of disability among workers in their 50's and 60's and afflicts more than 10 million Americans of all ages.

Emphysema is a loss of elasticity of the small air sacs of the lungs resulting in difficult breathing and other serious complications. Here's what happens:

WHEN YOU exhale, you expel a considerable volume of "used air" or carbon dioxide. Then you inhale and replace it with an equal amount of fresh air.

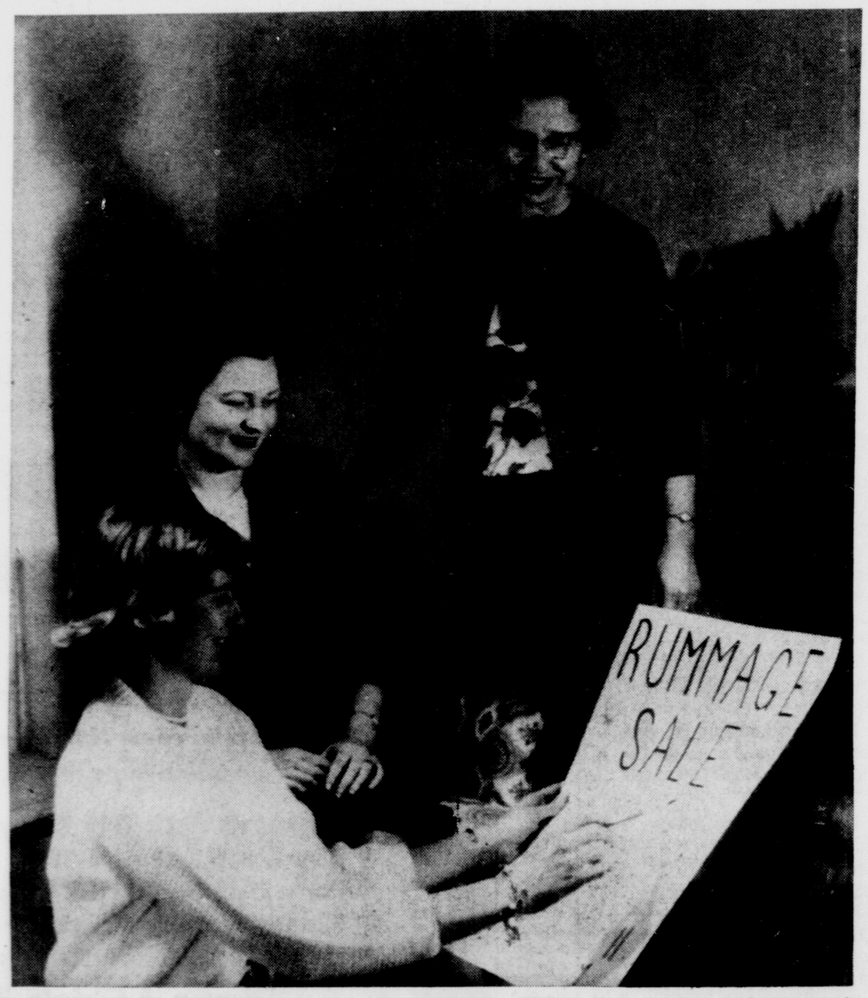
This fresh air passes over numerous small blood vessels which absorb the oxygen into the blood stream. The normal saturation of oxygen in the blood is 95 per cent.

But when a person has emphysema he no longer can exhale as much. Too much "used air" remains in the lungs and there is less room for inhaling fresh air, resulting in incomplete oxygenation of the blood, reducing the oxygen saturation of the blood to 80 or even 60 per cent. The lungs, then, remain puffed up with air the victim cannot expel.

While the normal person breathes about 14 times a minute, the emphysematous patient breathes 20 to 30 times and still doesn't get enough oxygen. He constantly feels sluggish and irritable, and adding to this discomfort is his inability to cough up mucous. He may cough violently, but the results are futile.

EMPHYSEMA usually afflicts one at about the age of 40, with polluted air and smoking—in any form—suspected as major causes. Though no cure has yet been found for this disease, there is much research under way with one major project now going on at Cook County Hospital.

The Medical Society suggests seeking prompt medical treatment for any shortness of breath, sinus infection, prolonged or repeated chest colds and particularly chronic coughs.



RUMMAGE ITEMS ranging from cooking utensils to furs will go on sale at St. Simon Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights, Saturday, May 11, 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Chairman of the sale is Mrs. William Banta, center, and on committees are Mrs. Ralph McCullagh, left, and Mrs. John Sagal. (S

Democratic Women to Discuss Peace Corps

"Applied Idealism" is the theme embracing the Peace Corps and the Literacy and Learning Program in Illinois, both to be described and discussed at the May 15 Spring Luncheon of the Democratic Women's Club of the 13th Congressional District.

Thomas E. Gause, chairman of the Chicago-area Peace Corps Service Organization, will address the meeting at La Maisonette, 3445 Dempster, Skokie, on the Peace Corps.

Gause, an alumnus of the University of Illinois, Chicago University and Valparaiso University, operates his own public relations and sales consulting firm in Chicago.

His experience includes service in the economics division of the U.S. Military Government in Berlin. He is a member of the board of the American Association for the United Nations.

DEAN B. J. Chandler of the Northwestern University school of education will speak on Governor Kerner's Literacy and Learning Program designed to aid school drop-outs in Illinois.

Dean Chandler, author of numerous articles and texts on education and school administration, will explain the program designed to increase the earning power as well as enrich the lives of those who will benefit from it.

Tickets to the noon luncheon are $4.25 each, available from the club's treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Tiernan, 802 S. I-Oka Ave., Mount Prospect. (S

Hat Contest, Skit for Elk Grove Juniors

A comical skit and a crazy hat contest will highlight the May 15 meeting of Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Church of the Good Shepherd and all women of the village are invited.

The skit will be presented by the board of directors and the hat contest is open to all. Prizes of two $25 savings bonds, donated by E. Stebbins of Centex, will be awarded for the most original and funniest creations.

Newcomers to the village are especially urged to attend this meeting, and also the annual installation luncheon scheduled for Saturday, May 18, in Nordic Hills Country Club. (S

Panhellenic Closes Season With Hairstyling Program

Panhellenic members will wind up their current season with a dessert meeting and hair styling demonstration Monday, May 13, at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Robert G. Savage, 36 Wildwood Drive, Prospect Heights.

Following dessert, Charles Huege of The Pamper Shoppe, 1673 Oakton, Des Plaines, will entertain the sorority women with a demonstration of hairdos for hot weather in a program he calls "Give Yourself a Head Start on Summer."

At the business meeting following Charles' program, new officers for the coming year will be installed, and plans for the coming year will be discussed. All NPC sorority alumnae in the area are invited to join the Northwest Suburban Panhellenic Association, and should call the hostess, Mrs. Savage, LE 7-1644, for dessert reservations by May 10 for this May 13 gathering.

CHARLES HUEGE'S program will use a live model to show how women with various hair problems can wear the modern new hairdos. The youthful hair stylist is the official hairdresser for Des Plaines Theatre Guild and Estelle Comptom modeling agency.

He is reported to be the first Des Plaines beauty shop proprietor to feature the new human hair wigs, and will discuss their use in his program for the Panhellenic group.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

An original poem by Mrs. Al Lane has been mailed to area Tri Deltas to invite them to the annual pansy luncheon, which this year is being held May 15 in the Mount Prospect home of Mrs. Clifford Cooper, 209 S. George St.

Gourmet ideas and a recipe exchange, as well as installation of officers for the new year will fill the afternoon. The pansy luncheon will be the last activity of the group until the summer party in June.

DELTA ZETA

An interior decorating movie will be featured at the May meeting of the Delta Zeta Alumnae to be held May 14 in the home of Mrs. Warren Karlsen, 315 W. Prospect Avenue, Mount Prospect, at 8 p.m.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Kappas are readying their spring finery for their annual May luncheon, which brings to a close the 1962-63 season.

The luncheon is being held at Old Orchard Country Club Tuesday, May 14 at 1 p.m. Cocktails will be served at noon.

Business at hand will be the installation of officers for 1963-64: Mrs. Fred D. Empkie, president; Mrs. Robert D. Bjork vice-president; Mrs. H. W. Grooman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John L. Frieburg Jr., recording secretary; and Mrs. Joseph W. Tolson, treasurer. Mrs. Empkie, Mrs. Frieburg and Mrs. Tolson are from Arlington Heights; Mrs. Bjork from Park Ridge and Mrs. Grooman from Des Plaines.

Recommendations chairmen for the coming rush season include Mrs. Paul Splittorff of Arlington Heights.

Kappas new to the area who would like to attend the luncheon may call Mrs. William Van Dyck, CL 9-3584, before Friday, May 10.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Charles Perrin of Arlington Heights, former investigator with the FBI whose duties dealt with matters of internal security and the Communist party in the U.S.A., will be featured speaker at the Tuesday, May 14, meeting of the Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club of Alpha Gamma Delta.

The 8 p.m. meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Thomas Crouch, 2055 Brookdale Lane, Plum Grove, Palatine. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. J. Venning, Mrs. M. Prelberg and Mrs. J. Fleming, all of Arlington Heights.

HIGHLIGHTING THE closing meeting for the 1962-1963 season will be a candlelight ceremony in which the newly-elected officers will be installed by the past president, Mrs. H. Barker of Mount Prospect. Mrs. J. Messmer of Arlington Heights is the new president and first vice president is Mrs. F. Buchanan of Arlington Heights. Other officers elected are: second vice president, Mrs. W. Davis, Buffalo Grove; secretary, Mrs. J. Smith, Mount Prospect; treasurer, Mrs. W. Cryor, Mount Prospect; editor, Mrs. E. Dagenhardt, Des Plaines; Pan-Hellenic representative, Mrs. C. Morey, Mount Prospect; social chairman, Mrs. F. Gutowsky, Arlington Heights; altruistic chairman, Mrs. D. Hanna, Mount Prospect; and ways and means chairman, Mrs. B. Markwell, Mount Prospect.

New Alpha Gams in the area may attend the meeting and are urged to call Mrs. W. Davis, LE 7-4204.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Members of Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club of Kappa Alpha Theta will learn some of the problems and pleasures of a foreign exchange high school student at their next meeting, Thursday, May 16. The meeting will be held in the Des Plaines home of Mrs. Frank Svoboda and speaker will be an exchange student from Arlington Heights High School.

Mrs. Charles Swanson, who was in charge of the benefit salad bar bridge luncheon April 18 at the Northwest Suburban YMCA will report to the group. Proceeds will go to Kappa Alpha Theta philanthropies.

Thetas who wish to attend the meeting may telephone the co-hostesses, Mrs. Robert MacKimm, CL 9-4282, or Mrs. E. J. Cole, CL 5-7953. (S

"THERE'S NO BACKTALK from this customer" commented Charles Huege of the Pamper Shoppe who will present a demonstration of hairdos for hot weather and discuss the use of wigs when he appears before Northwest Suburban Panhellenic Association's dessert meeting Monday, May 13. (S KAPPA ALPHA THETA'S bridge luncheon held last month in Northwest Suburban YMCA was attended by 150 women, including Mrs. Harold Vaughn, and Mrs. Elton Herrick of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Jack Dowling of Barrington and Mrs. Al Dunham, also of Arlington Heights. Proceeds of the affair will go toward the sorority's philanthropies. (S

Do not say, "All of us do not think we shall succeed." It is better to say. "NOT ALL OF US think we shall succeed."

Do not confuse the verb INTIMATE (to hint; to suggest) with INTIMIDATE (to frighten; to induce fear; to overawe). Thus: "I wish to intimate that you are growing rude," and, "Don't try to intimidate me with big words and a loud voice."

You Get Fresh Lean Meat From Jewel's Smaller Loins!

Jewel Food Stores

Freshness is more than a word at Jewel! It takes just one glance at the rich rosy coloring of Jewel Meats to know how true this is — for this is the sign of true freshness in pork.

We know you want lean pork too. That's why Jewel buys only the smaller leaner pork loins. This means you get less fat and more meat per pound because you get more of the heart of the loin. Then Jewel Market Men skillfully and quickly carve a roast from the rib or loin, and hurridly wrap and place it in the refrigerated case to seal in all that freshness.

Come to Jewel—a store full of freshness—and get a roast you're proud to serve!

Palatine Couple Is Married In First Methodist Church

White bird cages with flowers and ivy cascading from a lighted center candle complemented the ensembles worn by Miss Sheila Rae Glade's attendants March 30 when she became the bride of Raymond John Nelson in First Methodist Church of Palatine.

The fanciful bouquets, which featured pumpkin-orange, feathered carnations, were a product of the bride's imagination. The flowers blended with their apricot nylon sheer over taffeta gowns which were fashioned with fitted bodices, boat necklines and elbow-length sleeves. The skirts of the gowns were made with unpressed pleats in the butterfly-type backs and their circle veils each held a large petaled rose in matching color.

The bride, daughter of the Raymond Glades, 205 N. Mozart, Palatine, wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta with fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and boat neckline edged in venice lace. The skirt was accented at the waist with the same lace and the fullness of the skirt was carried over the hipline and into the chapel train.

HER 3-TIERED, imported silk illusion veil fell from a crown of aurora borealis crystals and she carried a cascade of stephanotis with two white center orchids. Her father gave her in marriage.

Serving as her maid of honor was her sister, Jacquelyn Glade, and bridesmaids were Claudia Langhorst and Sally Heidenblut of Palatine and Gail Shoemaker of Arlington Heights. The bride's attendants also included a junior bridesmaid, Pamela Wood of Barrington, a flower girl, Susan Krambeer of Rolling Meadows, a cousin of the bride, and a ring bearer, Lee Langhorst of Palatine.

Susan was also in a gown of apricot sheer and she carried a basket of pumpkin carnations and orange petals. Lee was dressed in a white linen suit and carried the rings on a double heart pillow of white satin. The pillow was also designed by the bride. Both Susan and Lee are 4 years old.

THE GROOM, son of the John Nelsons, 679 N. Franklin Road, Palatine, was attended by his brother, Donald Nelson of Arlington Heights, as best man and by Richard Oslund, Robert Harder and John Simone, all of Palatine, as ushers.

REV. CHILDRESS officiated at the 7:30 o'clock service during which Miss Mercie Heise served as organist and George Palmer as soloist. Mr. Palmer's selections were "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love Thee." Altar vases of white pompons and snaps decorated the altar.

Following the service, 125 guests attended the buffet dinner held in the Ten Pin Bowl in Barrington. The bride's mother received in a pastel green sheath of embroidered nylon sheer over taffeta, matching green accessories and a corsage of pink cypripedium orchids. Mrs. Nelson chose a beige lace dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow cypripedium.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson are now residing at 429 N. Hicks Road, Palatine. Both are employed locally, the bride with Randhill Park Cemetery Association, and the groom with Charles Bruning Company. (S

Sox Invite Hospital Employes

The Chicago White Sox, on the occasion of Hospital Week, May 12 to May 18, in cooperation with the Chicago Hospital Council today announced that they have issued an invitation to the more than 50,000 Chicago area hospital employees to attend either one of two Sox games, May 5 and May 13.

In making the announcement Ed Short, Sox general manager, stated "We are delighted to make this gesture of appreciation to the men and women who work so diligently to provide the best possible hospital care and service to patients."

The medical, nursing, administrative and maintenance staffs of all 81 Chicago Hospital Council member hospitals will have special identification cards which when presented at Gate 2 at White Sox Park on either Sunday, May 5 or the evening of May 13 will admit them to a special section in the grandstand that will be reserved for Chicago hospital personnel. Newcomers Parade Newest Spring Fashions

Especially for Women

ANTICIPATING THE luncheon and fashion show Thursday in Old Orchard Country Club were Mrs. R. Mancini and Mrs. Hick Rowe, both of Mount Prospect. Affair was sponsored by Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club of Mount Prospect with fashions from Mr. Marty's of Golf Mill. (S

HAT TREE OFFERS choice of sports chapeaux for the informal ensemblies modeled by Mrs. Donald Byro and Mrs. Donald Hellickson at last week's luncheon and fashion show presented by Welcome Wagon Newcomer's Club of Mount Prospect. Fashions for "Summer Silhouettes" were from Mr. Marty's of Golf Mill.

NEWEST IN SUMMER FASHIONS were modeled May 2 in Old Orchard Country Club when Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club of Mount Prospect played hostess to members and friends. Members modeling fashions following the luncheon included Mrs. Roy Abel and Mrs. Gray Strachan.

Junior Women Tour City Art Galleries

A group of Juniors of the Seventh District, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, spent April 27 in Chicago, visiting the North Side Art Galleries, as part of the "art emphasis" program the Juniors have been stressing throughout the club year.

The tour was arranged by Mrs. Harold Greaves of Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club. Mrs. Greaves is chairman of the Seventh District Junior state department of art and, as such, has encouraged the eight junior clubs in the area to participate in many phases of art appreciation.

THE JUNIORS viewed art works in seven galleries, beginning with Fairweather Hardin, B. C. Holland and the Frumkin Allen Galleries which all specialized in modern art forms. Devorah-Sherman Gallery was limited to modern metal sculptor. All types of art were shown in the Main Street Art Gallery, while ancient Chinese art was predominate at the Art Club of Chicago.

The group ended its tour by looking at the more famous paintings shown at the Findlay Gallery.

The group had luncheon at La Petite Gourmet, which allowed them to view the work of a local artist, Christl Hansen, who currently has a display there. (S

Country Chords 2nd In Regional Meet

Country Chords Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., from Mount Prospect attended the Region Three meeting in Peoria the weekend of April 27 and 28. Highlight of the weekend was the announcement that the "Country Chords," under direction of Miss Phyllis Haeger, were second place winners in the chorus competition.

Fourteen choruses competed, with West Suburban Chorus taking first place honors.

CHORUS MEMBERS had a busy schedule while in Peoria. Saturday they attended a business meeting, an installation dinner and then the regional quartet competition. The chorus competition followed on Sunday.

The Country Chords rehearse every Tuesday evening at 8:30 in the Town Hall of Randhurst Shopping Center. Any area women interested in singing barbershop harmony are invited to attend. (S

A Midwest Special—Burgers with Corn

CANNED CORNED BEEF and whole wheat bread form these tasty casserole burgers, which provide a new flavor treat for family dining. (SH

When it's moving day for your neighbors, or there's a new family on the block, it's a thoughtful custom to take over a simpler lunch or supper as a welcome.

Here's a hospitality gesture from the friendly Midwest—a hearty casserole dish called "Corned Beef Burgers with Corn."

IT'S EASY TO make these tasty burgers with canned corned beef, which flakes with a fork for mixing with soft bread crumbs and egg.

The corned beef burger casserole is a wonderfully good meal, for it combines the high protein of canned corned beef with the vitamins, minerals, and flavor of vegetables — kernel corn, onion, green pepper, and a tomato soup sauce. Canned corned beef, you'll find, is an inspired item for the pantry shelf, because it combines with so many foods so well.

At the same time you're preparing this casserole for a neighbor, it's no trouble to make a second for your own dinner. Tall glasses of cool lemonade and chocolate cup cakes round out the menu.

CORNED BEEF BURGERS, CORN

1 can (12 ounces) corned beef, unchilled
1 slice whole wheat bread
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 medium onion, sliced
½ green pepper, cut in rings
1 can (12 ounces) vacuum pack whole kernel corn, undrained
1 can tomato soup

Flake corned beef with a fork. Separate bread into soft crumbs; add to corned beef with egg; mix well. Shape into four patties. Cook onion and green pepper a minute or two in a little fat. Season corn with a little salt and pepper, if necessary, and place in a buttered casserole.

Top with corned beef burgers. Cover with onion and green pepper rings and pour tomato soup over burgers. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.(SH

Broccoli Combo Made with Ham

Ham leftovers from Sunday dinner needn't be a problem . . . at least, not with such a delectable recipe as Ham and Broccoli Combo.

THIS "SECOND day" dish combines broccoli, a zippy cheese sauce and pimiento in a baking dish. The ham slices are arranged on top and the dish bakes about ½ hour. What a simple and tasty manner of dressing up the remainder of the ham!

After preparing this dish once, you may decide to schedule it on your menu without waiting for leftovers. Cooked ham can easily be purchased at your meat retailers, states Reba Staggs, meat authority.

In the season of plentiful fresh broccoli, you could substitute fresh for the frozen kind called for in the recipe.

HAM AND BROCCOLI COMBO

4 slices cooked ham, cut ¼-inch thick (approximately 1¼ pounds)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup chopped pimiento
½ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen chopped broccoli, cooked and drained

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Stir in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add Worcestershire sauce, pimiento, and grated cheese.

Cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Add broccoli and pour into a 1½-quart baking dish. Arrange ham slice on top.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Four servings. (SH

Young America Bakes Yugoslavian 'Poteca'

Nut-filled Yugoslaviarn Poteca (pronounced Po-teet-za) is a rich, yeast-raised bread with "old country" goodness. Each slice has a triple-scallop top, swirly filling and delectable flavor—a nice accompaniment for ice cream or fresh fruit.

If you're new at yeast baking, don't pass up Poteca because of its elegant good looks. It's easy to turn out a beautifully professional loaf by following the easy directions given here. Try it and see!

POTECA
(Makes 2 loaves)

½ cup of milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup (1 stick) margarine
½ cup warm water (105 to 155 degrees F.)
2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
2 eggs
3¼ cups unsifted flour (about)
½ cup dark brown sugar
2 cups ground or finely grated pecans or walnuts
½ teaspoon lemon extract
Confectioners' sugar

Scald milk; add sugar, salt and ¼ cup margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved.

Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, 1 egg and half the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour to make soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes.

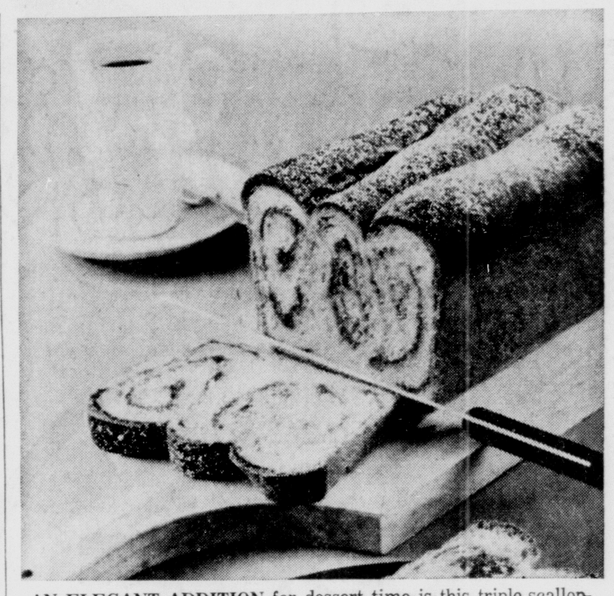
Place in greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile, make filling; combine remaining ¼ cup margarine, brown sugar, remaining egg, nuts and extract.

Punch dough down, turn out onto lightly floured board; divide in half. Roll ½ of dough out into an oblong 20 by 10 inches. Spread evenly with half of filling. Roll up as for jelly roll, starting from long side.

SEAL EDGE firmly. Cut into 3 equal pieces, side by side, with seam side down, in greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Repeat with remaining dough and filling. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack. Dust with confectioners' sugar before serving. Courtesy Fleischmann Yeast Co. (SH



AN ELEGANT ADDITION for dessert time is this triple-scalloped Poteca, featuring crunchy walnut filling. (SH

You and Your Problems

Elderly Parents Ask To Join Peace Corps

By DR. GERARD G. NEUMAN

Dear Dr. Neuman:

My sister and I don't know how to handle the problem of our parents, who have decided to apply for the Peace Corps. My father is an executive in a small manufacturing plant. He will be retired next year when he reaches 65. I know he would rather go on working, but company policy won't allow it. My mother has been doing volunteer work at the hospital. They both feel they have something to offer in the Peace Corps and that their knowledge and the experience the years have given them will be appreciated.

DR. NEUMAN

We hate to see them do anything foolish. They have everything anyone could want at their age—a home of their own, a secure income, children who are married and doing well, and grandchildren who think they're the greatest. They could relax and enjoy life.

I wonder if it isn't "sour grapes" on their part. Getting old and facing retirement, they feel pushed aside, and they want to prove they're still young and lseful. How can we help them see what a foolish mistake they will be making?

Mr. Y.

As people grow older, their children often seem to have the same problems as parents whose children are becoming adults. In growing up we claim the right to live our own lives, but it is much more difficult to allow our parents the same right.

Naturally where parents need protection because they are no longer competent, we would have to step in. Otherwise, our relationship is more like that of good friends, who are concerned and interested in them. We can offer advice and share our thinking with them, but the decision is theirs.

THERE IS A tendency to think of "old people" as a group, with the same mannerisms and difficulties. Actually they are individuals who differ as much among themselves as any other group of individuals. Even "old age" is different for each. Some are already showing signs of aging in their forties, while others continue to be vigorous through their seventies and even into their eighties.

Older people also differ in how they age. As they lose some of their flexibility, they become more like themselves than like other older people. You can pretty well guess what they will be like when they're older by knowing what they are like now. Their individual characteristics tend to come out more markedly.

MAYBE YOUR parents are making a mistake in talking about joining the Peace Corp, Mr. Y., but this is something they will have time to explore and consider carefully. As you know, there are tests they will have to take. They will not be selected unless they are considered able to work effectively in the Peace Corps.

If they are selected and they feel this is what they want to do, they will have an opportunity to contribute something important and meaningful for their country and the world.

Illinois League OKs State Welfare Study

The League of Women Voters of Illinois adopted a study of state welfare services to children and their families as a new part of their program for 1963-65. Northwest suburban members met with nearly 500 other League women from throughout the state at the recent 31st biennial convention in the Hilton Inn, Aurora.

The wording of the item adopted by the delegates was: "Evaluate the structure and financing of Illinois Welfare Services to children and their families."

Mrs. Donald Fiske, Chicago, who presented the item to the convention explained that the League would undertake a study of tax supported welfare services including the proposed Department of Children and Family services, ADC programs, mental health services available to children, General Assistance, correctional services, and the welfare functions of the courts.

DISCUSSION BY delegates centered around two main points: the need for adequate financing and effective administration of welfare services and the role of the League as a nonpartisan citizens group working in the general public interest. Co-ordinated planning for needy and dependent children was also stressed. The welfare item received the most votes of all items presented to the convention for the League's current program.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware was the speaker at the banquet Wednesday evening. Now serving his second term, Governor Carvel said: "States must be strong. Unless there is strong state leadership, a vacuum is created which the federal government will fill. Active participation by citizens in state affairs is also necessary." He stressed the importance of states facing their responsibility for finding sources of revenue to finance state services.

THE CONVENTION also voted to continue active work in the legislature and in the community on:

1. Work for a convention to provide an improved constitution for Illinois.

2. Support of a new Revenue Article giving the legislature board power to levy the taxes needed to provide an equitable and flexible tax structure. As a minimum: (a) opposition to any constitutional prohibition of a corporation or individual income tax and (b) support of classification of real and personal property for tax purposes. Under the present Revenue Article: (a) support of a corporation franchise tax based on net income; (b) support of a broadening of the base of the Retailer's Occupation Tax; but (c) opposition to any increase in the rate of the Retailer's Occupation Tax. Support of uniform assessment practice.

3. Support of judicial reform through statutory provisions.

4. Support of statutory and constitutional revision to (a) clarify and improve election laws and procedures; (b) establish a central election authority; (c) require certification of election judges; (d) shorten the ballot; (e) reduce residence requirements for voting for President and Vice-President; and (f) support and protect permanent registration.

5. Protection of the citizen in his civil rights and liberties including: (a) preservation of constitutional liberties; (b) protection of minority groups against discrimination; (c) suppprt of a law to equalize employment opportunity in Illinois.

AT THE concluding luncheon of the convention, four League members now active in government affairs spoke of their experiences in going "From League Life to Public Life." Participants were: Mrs. Horace Dawson, Evanston, State Representative; Mrs. Orville N. Foreman, Jacksonville, member of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission; Mrs. Gerald M. Almy, member of the Illinois Election Laws Commission; and Mrs. Harper Andrews, Kewanee, member of the civil and political rights committee of the President's Commission of the Status of Women.

Mrs. Erza Levin, Champaign, was elected president of the Illinois League for the next two years. (SF

Chinese Theme Is Feature Of St. James Spring Luncheon

A Chinese theme will be in evidence Wednesday, May 15, in Old Orchard Country Club when St. James Women's Guild, Arlington Heights, holds its annual spring luncheon.

Highlight of the event will be the fashion show, "Fashion Fantasia by the House of Eurasia," of which Miss Lili Chin, a former foreign exchange student from Formosa, is owner. Mrs. Chin attended St. Mary-of-the-Woods College and remained in the United States to open her Park Ridge shop which specializes not only in fashions from the Orient, but also from Europe and America.

CHAIRMAN OF the luncheon, Mrs. James Murphy, reveals that hand-printed Chinese programs will be at each luncheon place. Assisting Mrs. Murphy are Mrs. William Knight, ticket chairman; Mrs. John Bosshart, programs chairman; Mrs. Robert Ponter and Mrs. James Foy, decorating; and Mrs. Albert Puccetti. (S

GIFT SLIPPERS . . . . MAIN FLOOR

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Blossoms, Anyone?

Der Peg:

I planted several bright red geraniums in a bare spot left when we removed a dead evergreen and ever since, Patrick has been begging me to buy some more for him to plant in his garden. Isn't that a sort of funny thing for a little 6-year-old boy to want? But to tell the truth, he has had a flower garden next to mine for the past couple of years and has watered and cared for it quite faithfully. I think it strikes me funny because it's such a paradox in his nature. Of the two boys, Patrick and Joseph, Patrick is much the more boyish (whatever that really is) and always has been. His interests have always been in toy cars and trucks, in building with blocks and now with hammer and nails and old wood that he can find and in tinkering with his bicycle. But he has a real passion for flowers—especially those in his own garden.

McARDLE

So, yesterday afternoon we drove over to the nursery to buy a few geraniums for him. The idea caught on, as it usually does in this family, and pretty soon all the children wanted certain flowers to plant for their own gardens! Bridget and Megan wanted a flat of pansies. Deirdre chose a flat of tiny white-flowered elysium plants and Joseph wanted the marigold plants. After Patrick selected his geraniums, he too wanted marigolds, remembering how beautifully they blossomed in his garden, all last summer.

On the way home, I got to wondering just how enthusiastic they all would be by the time they had planted about 75 plants—in fact I got to wondering if they'd even stick with a few of the 75 plants. I was happily surprised. Each one found him or herself a nice digging spoon (like right out of the silverware drawer) and went to work. All 75 plants were in in a matter of a half an hour!

Now, I wouldn't say that the garden is very artistically arranged, since each McArdle wanted his own personal garden—in fact it looks a little like the nursery from which the plants came.

We have a flat of pansies planted here, a group of marigolds planted there and a small grove of geraniums right over there. Deirdre was the only one I could talk into making a border with her elysium. Oh well, we have flowers anyway—like all over the place!

My love,
Patty

Chinese Dish Makes Use of Budget Beef

Chinese dishes are becoming more and more popular with the tastes of the American people. In China, however, meat is scarce and must be stretched to serve everyone. Meat dishes generally call for the meat to be cut into thin strips.

FORTUNATELY, in our country meat is abundant and we can serve hearty meat dishes every day. This recipe is one that adapts the delicious Chinese-style cookery to our plentiful supply of beef.

Zesty Chinese Pepper Steak with rice will certainly be a pleasant surprise at a family supper. It's budget-wise, too, for it calls for economical beef arm steak.

Remember that the Chinese chef never over-cooks the vegtables. Rather, they are served on the crisp side.

CHINESE PEPPER STEAK

1 beef arm or blade steak, cut 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 large green peppers, cut into strips
½ cup celery, sliced crosswise
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, if desired
½ cup consomme or stock
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon soy sauce
3 cups cooked rice

Cut steak into thin strips. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add onion, garlic, green peppers, celery, pimiento and consomme or stock.

Cover tightly and cook slowly 20 minutes. Mix together cornstarch, water and soy sauce. Add to meat-vegetable mixture and cook, stiring constantly, until thickened. Serve with cooked rice. Four servings. (SH

For Spring Buffets, Teas

Regal Desserts Enhanced By Citrus Fruit Flavors

As the old saying goes, "You never miss the water 'til the well goes dry!" Ditto our normally beautiful abundance of oranges. The bitterly cold weather which plagued the entire country this past winter caused great damage to the orange crop. Suddenly, we realized how much oranges mean to us.

The situation now is that supplies will be lower for some time to come. But the growers in all areas are already looking forward to recovery and a future orange supply that will adequately meet our needs.

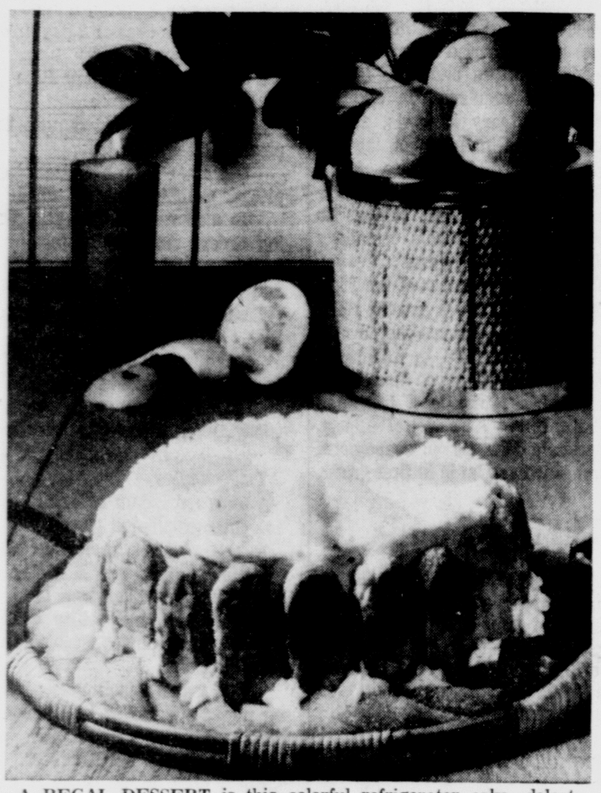
MEANTIME, TO consider the bright side of the picture, there are respectable supplies of oranges right now and these are still golden treasuries of nutrients. Oranges and all citrus fruits are especially famous for their fabulous vitamin C content.

That's just the beginning, though, for an orange is a very complex fruit, an all-in-one of what may prove to be some 250 different substances once chemists have finished analyzing it.

Fresh oranges or orange juice or other foods high in vitamin C should be consumed every day. Some food elements, such as vitamins A and D, can be stored by the body in large quantities, relatively speaking, but the amount of vitamin C retained is small and should be renewed daily.

In other words, it is not wise to drink a quart of orange juice one day and then not touch an orange or other similar food for the remainder of the week.

Not only are oranges very, very healthful, but those 250 substances in an orange add up to a wondrously fragrant and delicious treat. Here, from the test kitchens of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, are four dessert recipes, all flavored with orange.



A REGAL DESSERT is this colorful refrigerator cake, delectably flavored with fresh oranges, lemon juice and rind. The 9-inch confection, piled high with coconut, will glorify Spring buffets, luncheons or teas. (SH

ORANGE REFRIGERATOR CAKE

1¼ cups sugar
3 cups water
3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 cup fresh orange juice
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 cup fresh orange sections
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
3 packages lady fingers (about 24)
1/3 cup heavy cream, whipped
Flaked coconut
Fresh orange sections

Cook sugar and 2 cups of the water together until a syrup has formed. Cool. Soften gelatin in the remaining 1 cup water and mix with sugar syrup. Stir in orange and lemon juices, salt and pure vanilla extract. Chill until mixture begins to thicken.

Fold in orange sections and whipped cream. In the meantime, line the bottom and sides of an 8-inch spring form pan with lady fingers, having the sides buttered very lightly to hold the lady fingers in place. Fill with the orange mixture.

Chill until firm and ready to serve. Just before serving, remove sides of pan and place cake on a serving plate. Spread top with the 1/3 cup whipped cream. Sprinkle with coconut garnish with fresh orange sections. Yield: One 9-inch cake.

ORANGE, DATE AND NUT CAKE

1 medium-large orange
1 cup pitted dried dates
1/3 cup pecans
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup milk
1/3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup chopped pecans

Squeeze juice from orange and reserve it for later use. Put orange rind, pulp, dates and pecans through a food chopper, using the medium blade. Blend together the next 5 ingredients. Beat in one egg at a time. Add flour alternately with milk.

Stir in chopped orange-date mixture. Turn into a well-greased, lightly floured 8 by 8 by 2½-inch pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour and 15 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean.

Spoon 1/3 cup of the orange juice over cake while warm. Mix the 1/3 cup sugar with cinnamon and pecans. Sprinkle over cake. Cool before cutting. Yield: One 8-inch square cake.

DIVINITY ORANGE PIE

3 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1/3 cup fresh orange juice
2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground mace
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
9-inch pastry shell
Grated orange rind for garnish

Beat egg yolks until they are very light and lemon-colored in top of a double boiler. Add lemon juice, orange juice, gelatin and ½ cup of the sugar and salt. Stir and cook over hot water (not boiling) until thick. Cool. Stir in mace, pure vanilla extract, lemon and orange rinds.

Beat egg whites until they stand in stiff, soft peaks. Gradually beat in the remaining ½ cup sugar. Fold into the custard. Turn into a cold baked 9-inch pastry shell. Garnish with grated fresh orange rind sprinkled over the top, if desired. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

FROZEN ORANGE CUSTARD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 cup hot water
4 eggs, separated
¾ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 small package vanilla wafers or 24 cookies

Soften gelatin in orange and lemon juices in top of a double boiler. Add hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Mix yolks and sugar and add to gelatin mixture. Stir and cook over hot water (not boiling) until mixture has thickened. Cook over ice water.

Fold in whipped cream, pure vanilla extract and egg whites beaten until they stand in soft, stiff peaks. Crush vanilla wafers to make ¾ cup fine crumbs. Save ½ cup to sprinkle over top.

Sprinkle remaining crumbs lightly over bottoms and sides of 2 lightly buttered ice cube trays. Fill with the mixture. Sprinkle tops with reserved crumbs. Freeze until firm. Remove from freezer and let stand 10 minutes or until slightly softened. Cut into squares. Yield: 12 servings.

Peaches 'n Cream Fill 'Heavenly' Dream Cake

A Festive Recipe For Summer Menus

by LOIS SEILER

If you are looking for something different and delicious to serve to a large group of people, you'll want to try Mrs. Wilbur Daeschner's Ham and Chicken Gumbo.

This unusual casserole can be prepared days in advance, is easy to serve and there is no last-minute fuss.

The recipe is designed to serve eight, so you will want to try it for the family, but it can easily be tripled to serve 25.

"This is really a one-dish meal," Mrs. Daeschner explained, "and a relish tray and rolls are ample as accompaniments. It is easy for guests to cope with when eating on trays, and a fork is the only utensil needed."

Many savory ingredients are assembled in layers to form this appealing casserole. There is rice, crispy crumbled bacon, tomatoes, cooked chicken, okra, ham and onion, all moistened with chicken broth. It need only be popped into the oven and hour before serving.

Mrs. Daeschner prefers a finger dessert such as cookies or brownies for a buffet dinner, but she does have a favorite fancy dessert which she will use often during the coming summer months.

CALLED A Heavenly Dream Cake, this light and refreshing dessert is made of two meringue layers with a filling of whipped cream and fresh peaches. Because it is rich and a little fussy, this good cook prefers to use this cake as a bridge dessert and its festive appearance makes it delightful party fare.

"I'm partial to peaches," Mrs. Daeschner admits, "but any fresh berry may be used in the filling."

Because she loves to cook, Mrs. Daeschner readily admits that she gets "carried away" when reading recipes and likes to try new ones regularly. In addition to her culinary interests, she is active as a member of the advisory board for Kappa Alpha Theta's state project for handicapped children and belongs to the Arlington Heights Auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity Center. She is also a member of the First Presbyterian church and the PTA.

Mr. and Mrs. Daeschner live at 310 E. Mayfair in Arlington Heights. They have three children: Dick, who is a freshman at the University of Illinois, Becky, a high school sophomore, and Martha, who is in first grade.

DURING THE COMING summer months Mrs. Wilbur Daeschner will often make one of her favorite party recipes, a Heavenly Dream cake. Her daughter, Martha, looks forward to sampling a piece of this delightful meringue dessert which features a filling of fresh peaches and whipped cream. This and another of this good cook's specialties, ham and chicken gumbo, are featured in the adjoining column. (SH

HAM AND CHICKEN GUMBO

1 large stewing chicken
1½ pounds smoked ham
⅓ pound bacon
2 No. 2 cans tomatoes, chopped
2 large cloves garlic, minced
2 No. 2 cans okra or 2 pkg. frozen
1½ cups chopped onion
2 cups uncooked Minute Rice
2 cups chicken broth

Cook chicken and remove bones and skin; cut into bite-size pieces. Reserve broth.

Cut ham into bite-size pieces. Fry bacon and break into pieces. Combine minced garlic with tomatoes.

In a four-quart casserole assemble ingredients in the following order: rice, bacon, tomato garlic mixture, a sprinkling of freshly-ground pepper (do NOT use salt), chicken, okra, onion and ham. Pour chicken broth over all and cover casserole. (When finished, casserole should be filled to ¾ inch from the top).

Bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour. When cooking time is almost up, remove cover and taste to see if rice is tender and add more broth if needed. Consistency should be moist, but not runny. Keep warm in a very low oven until served. Serves 8.

HEAVENLY DREAM CAKE

7 egg whites
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ cups granulated sugar
4 large peaches, peeled and sliced
½ pint whipping cream, whipped

Beat egg whites in a mixing bowl until foamy. Add cream of tartar and continue to beat until whites are stiff and dry. Gradually add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating until whites form peaks.

Butter two 8-inch cake pans. Line both with a circle of waxed paper 8½ inches in diameter. Press paper flat against pan sides and butter waxed paper.

SPOON IN MERINGUE, dividing equally between pans. Smooth over evenly. Bake in a slow oven, 275 degrees, for one hour or until light golden brown. Remove from oven and cool. (Don't be alarmed by decrease in volume during cooling).

After cool, remove from pans, gently easing spatula around edge and under the paper. Peel off paper and place first layer bottom side down on a serving plate.

Combine sliced peaches and whipped cream. Spread over first layer and cover with other layer, bottom side down; frost with additional whipped cream.

Thrifty Spuds

Flavory Savory

Savory, "the bean herb" is not only delightful with green beans, lima beans and dried beans, but a quarter or half teaspoon of savory is good with turnips, cabbage or Brussels sprouts.

Brazil Nuts Add Exotic Touch to Company Buffet

When guests come for dinner, it is fun to serve a dish unusual in flavor and appearance. Brazil Nut Pilaf serves the purpose admirably. It is delectable, economical, and requires only about a half hour of cooking time.

Pilaf comes from the Middle East and has a free-wheeling character—the only invariable ingredient is the rice. Pilaf is generally cooked in a skillet rather than a saucepan. For the rest, a pilaf can be made with chicken, beef, fish, or what you will. The elegant American translation below calls for meat of the cook's choice.

BRAZIL NUT Pilaf provides the basic rice and combines it with mushrooms, celery, meat, and, as its name implies, Brazil nuts. The last named ingredient comes as a surprise in a pilaf, but the large snowy nut may turn up just about anywhere—and be certain of a warm welcome. In the pilaf, it adds not only mellow flavor but a pleasingly crisp texture.

They are used much in the same way water chestnuts are used in Oriental cookery.

Brazil nuts may be cracked easily with this simple method. Leave the nuts in the freezer or in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator for several hours or overnight. Once brittle, the nuts lose their resistance to the nutcracker.

While Brazil Nut Pilaf may appear gracefully at the company dinner, it is fine for a "just family" dinner, too, because it is so simple to prepare and so kind to the budget. Or, without meat, it may come to the table as an interesting meat accompaniment, providing a pleasant change from potatoes or from plain boiled rice.

The Brazil Nut Pilaf can be made entirely on top of the range in a heavy skillet. It is an agreeable example of the fashion in which a little left-over cooked meat can assume fancy dress and be guest of honor at the company dinner.

BRAZIL NUT PILAF

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup coarsely chopped Brazil nuts
1 can (3 or 4 ounces) mushrooms
1 cup diced celery
2 bouillon cubes
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup raw rice
2 cups diced cooked chicken, turkey or ham (optional)

Melt butter in heavy saucepan or skillet. Add Brazil nuts and cook slowly, stirring occasionally, until the nuts are toasted a delicate brown. Drain mushrooms; measure liquid; add water to make 2½ cups. Add liquid and mushrooms to skillet along with celery, bouillon cubes and salt; bring to a boil.

Add rice slowly. Cover; reduce heat and simmer 25 minutes. When used as a main dish, add chicken last 10 minutes of cooking time. Yield: Six servings. (SH

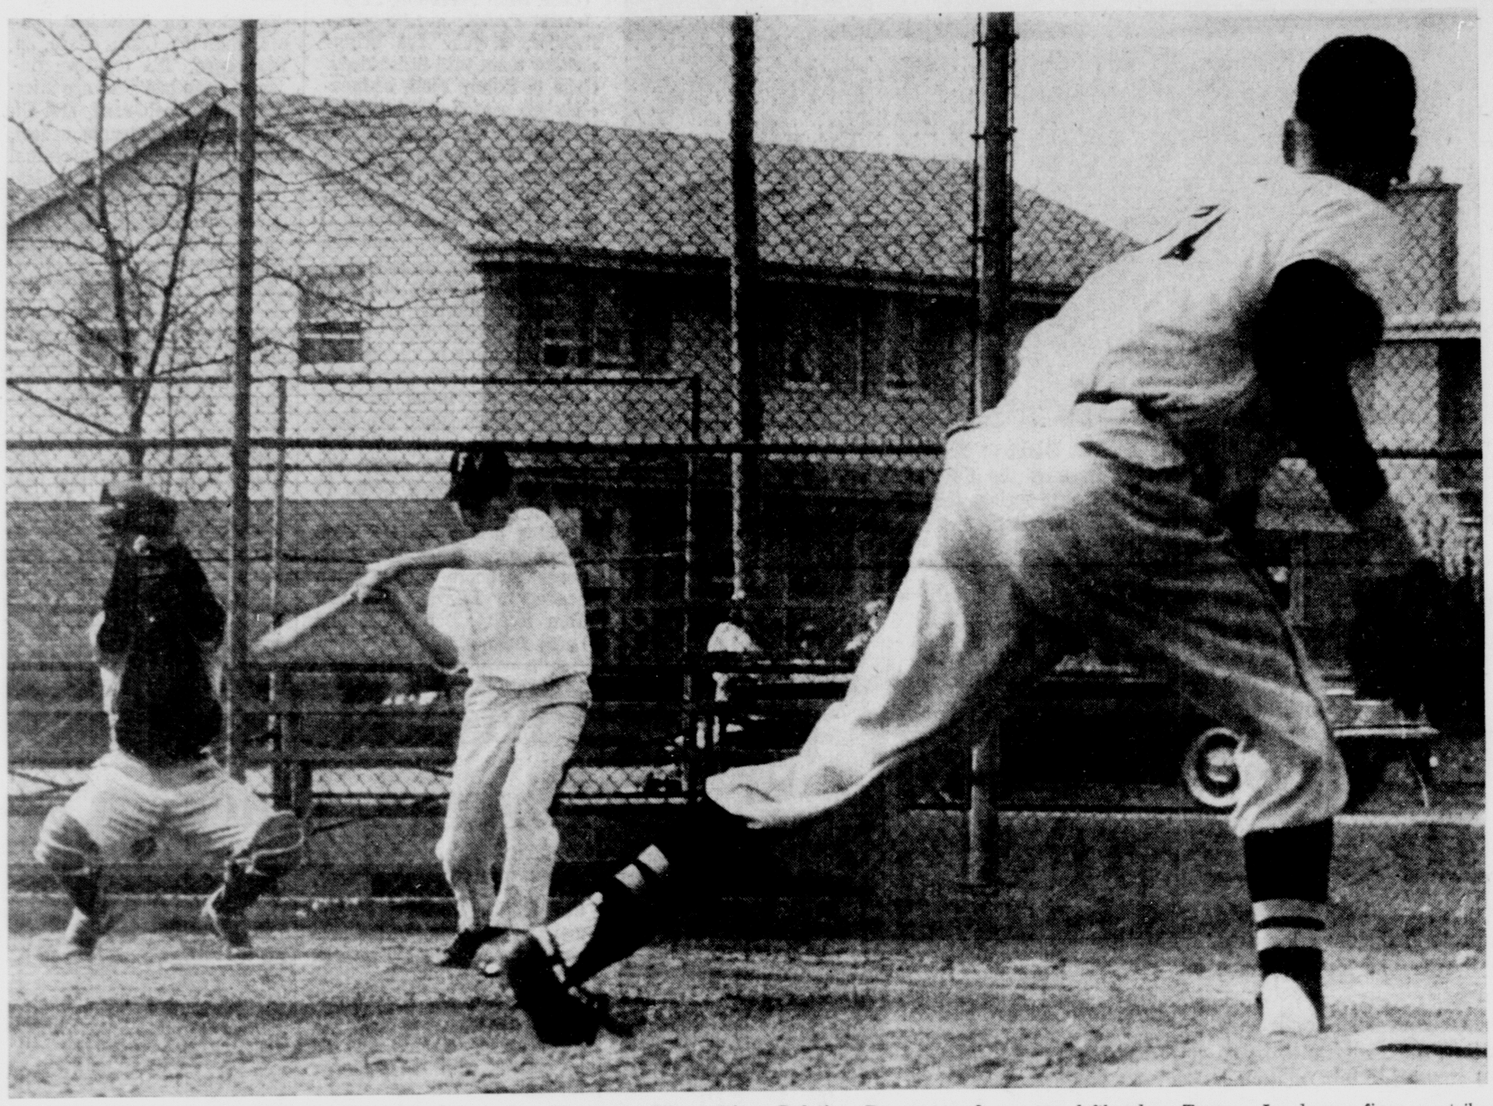
DISTRICT BASEBALL TOSS-UP



PIONEER PARK, home of Forest View's Falcons, will be the local site of one of 112 state district baseball tournaments, start of the Illinois High School Association state championship playoffs. Some 434 downstate and suburban schools are entered in the tournament. Play begins about 4 p.m., Monday, May 13, for all schools. Forest View, Palatine, Prospect and Arlington high schools are entered in the Falcon district. Pioneer Park is located at Grove and Kennicott, Arlington Heights, about nine blocks west of State (Arlington Heights) Road, and just East of Kirchoff Road. Pictured above, Forest View's sophomore lefthander, Tommy Lundgren, fires a strike passed an unidentified teammate during a recent batting practice session. The catcher is Ralph Kaspari. Play Opens Monday At Pioneer Diamond

by BILL HALLS

The local version of the 1963 Illinois High School Association state baseball tournament will open Monday at Pioneer Park.

Some 434 prep teams are entered in the tournament which has been going on for 23 years.

The Forest View district, one of 112 starting Monday, will be held at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights. The Falcons — who were selected as host team despite the fact that they do not have a diamond of their own — will open against Palatine on Tuesday. Arlington will play Prospect in the opener on Monday. All games will be played at 4:30 p.m. Admission is free.

WINNERS OF the first two games will meet Wednesday to decide the district championship.

District winners will move on to 28 four-team regional centers the following week. The Forest View district winner will move on to Waukegan regional on Monday, May 20. State finals will be held at Peoria on June 6-7.

Arlington (7-4-1) and Palatine (9-6) appear to have stronger teams than either Prospect (5-7) or Forest View (4-8), but if pitching plays as strong a role as it should, anyone of the four clubs could win it all.

The Cardinals' Bob Baker has junior Paul Splittorff (6-3) who will probably go against Prospect.

BECAUSE OF the unexpected death of his father, Prospect coach Chuck Aldrich was not available for comment this week. However, he most likely will go with either Hank LaRocco or Jim Hogarty. Junior Grant Gentry, who pitched well against Deerfield last week, is the number three man.

The Cards are hot, winning six of their last seven games, and Prospect is cold, losing six of their last seven.

But baseball is one of the games that depends on a complicated set of circumstances known as "luck" before determining a winner.

Ken Layden, Rog Lindstrom and Russ Ward lead the Cardinal attack. Layden, senior rightfielder, is currently leading the team in batting with a robust .473 average through 12 games.

LINDSTROM, senior third baseman, has three homers and 14 runs batted in this year. He is hitting .291. Ward is sailing along at a .357 clip. Baker has two righthanders, Steve Martin and Dave Christensen, to back Splittorff. Gary Spencer is the number one man in the bull pen.

Prospect's biggest weakness this year has been defense. LaRocco and Hogarty have pitched well enough to win most of the games they have pitched, but a lack of "good hands" has prevented a reversal of the current 5-7 record.

Dave Leekley, a senior outfielder, and Bob Geller, a lanky first baseman are the club's two best hitters. A pair of sophs, Rick Lytle and Greg Kowal, have been installed in the starting lineup at catcher and shortstop, respectively, to bolster the defense.

THE MOVE enabled Aldrich to move Ed Massof from short to the outfield. However, Kowal, although hitting well

Trackmen Seek State Berths

BY BOB FRISK

KICKIN' IT AROUND

WHEN THE PHONE RINGS in the summer months, you get prepared for a verbal attack from some irate reader.

Johnny's name either has been misspelled or the paper only credited him with a double when "it was a triple all the way."

Why is it that the paper is so full of errors, they ask, and can't we ever get those names spelled right? And the Oaks didn't beat the Larks, 23-15. The Larks won, 25-19.

Bobby Smith gets all the publicity, but he isn't any better than "my boy." (Ed. note: Bobby is one of those boys who goes four-for four, fans 18, and hits the game-winning home run. "My boy" goes one-for-four but is a real holler boy in the infield.

The rattling of the phone in the summer months means only one thing. Little League baseball is in full swing.

In a matter of days another Little League season will be launched in some parts with most of the area programs under way by June.

With this in mind we present our annual plea to all Little League officials. PLEASE ELECT a responsible publicity man. Your decision in this respect determines how much time we spend on the phone in the week's "crucial period," the period encompassing the forty-eight hours immediately after the newspapers arrive at the newsstands or are delivered to homes.

In the summer months it is physically impossible for Paddock's sports staff to personally cover the multitude of baseball programs in the vast area the papers serve. We must rely on the league publicity men and when these men fail to submit any material, we're in trouble.

Each league — boys' baseball, men's softball, etc., etc. — should have an assigned publicity chairman to report all events to the newspaper if the league desires publicity.

We imagine it is common knowledge that if every person in Paddock Publications' news staff room were assigned to a boys baseball league, there still wouldn't be enough people to get the job done. It follows then, that persons interested in the league must turn in the news if it is to get in the paper.

There are many publicity chairmen who do more than their share of work. Arlington Heights' extensive Little League program is exceptionally well-organized and this division never fails to cooperate in the publicity department although it certainly is the biggest operation our chain of papers cover in the summer.

In several instances we find regular contributions awaiting us each morning, as if it were clock work, from certain parties, and, in turn, those leagues receive acceptable coverage in the paper.

A common practice, however, is for a league publicity chairman to flood us with copy for the first few weeks of the season and then gradually limit his contributions to a paragraph or two for the remainder of the summer. In some instances the publicity man fails to turn in any copy, and then the phone never stops ringing at the end of the week.

We also plead with these publicity men to give us legible reports, but on far too many occasions the names are scrawled on a piece of paper and we can't tell who went four-for-four or hit three home runs.

Generally speaking, we print all sports material contributed from the various summer baseball leagues. In regard to actual scores or individual achievements, we must take as accurate the information supplied by the publicity man.

We're sure that managers and parents of the players enjoy seeing the achievements of "their boys" in the paper. And it can be done, too.

All a league has to do is appoint an active publicity chairman.

by BOB FRISK

They'll be handing out free trips to Champaign-Urbana this Saturday at Prospect High School.

The trips are scheduled for the weekend of May 17-18.

All you have to do is finish first or second in one of fourteen events in the district track and field competition.

And if you aren't capable of a first or second finish, you may still earn that trip by meeting certain pre-determined standards of time, height, or distance.

High school trackmen throughout Illinois will be seeking coveted slots in the state championship scheduled for May 17-18 at Memorial Stadium in Champaign when they hook up in fifteen district meets this weekend.

The Prospect attraction will get under way at 12 noon at the track southwest of the school on Foundry Road.

TWENTY-FIVE schools will vie at Prospect with defending champ Palatine accorded a good chance at a repeat.

Joining the Pirates and host Prospect, another power to consider, will be Arlington, Forest View, Barrington, Dundee, Cary-Grove, Chicago St. Mel, Chicago St. Patrick, Crystal Lake, Maine West, Elgin, Elgin Larkin, Elgin St. Edward, Grayslake.

Grant, Ela-Vernon, McHenry, Lake Park, Mundelein, Maine East, Round Lake, Wauconda, Woodstock (Marian), and Woodstock (Comm.).

The four area schools all boast capable performers and should land several slots in the state finals with any kind of break from the weatherman.

PROSPECT'S DAVE GOBEILLE

HOST Prospect is equipped with hurdle standouts Tom Bremner and Larry Bogart, a fine discus man in Ralph Stone, high jumper Dave Gobeille, and two crack relay teams among others. The Knights should be in the battle for team honors. Bogart and Bremner have been vital cogs on the brilliant hurdle shuttle teams with both flirting with the 15 flat mark in the highs. Larry has covered the 180 yard lows in :19.6 with Bremner right behind at :19.8.

Stone reached 150-plus in the discus last Friday at the Evanston Relays, and Gobeille cleared 6-2 in the high jump.

Prospect's mile relay team (3:25.7) currently sports the eighth best clocking in the state, and the half-mile unit (1:31.7) is ninth.

COACH DICK Calisch also plans to use Dan Johnson and John Carsello in the 100, Terry Sietmann and Ron Koepke in the 220, Koepke and Jim McMillan in the 440, and Ed Schneider and Jack Pollard in the 880. Gary York and Dave Thomas will vie in the mile.

In addition to Stone and Gobeille in the field events, Calisch will use Bob Hope in the high jump, Dick Westergaard and John Zasadny in the pole vault, and George Morris and Mike Witters in the broad jump.

Westergaard tied for first in the pole vault at last spring's district.

VERSATILE Duane Brooks is a key man in Palatine's title hopes with coach Joe Johnson still undecided at where he'll use the fleet junior. Brooks and Don Yokas are definite entries in the 100 yard dash, but Johnson is debating whether to use Duane in the 220 or 440.

Fourth in the district 220 as a soph after copping the century in a nifty 10 flat, Brooks ran his first 440 in a dual last week and turned in a creditable :51.8. He has done :49.8 on a leadoff leg of the mile relay.

Palatine has lost the services of distance ace Ron Frost with hairline fractures in both feet. Ron had a 4:32.5 mile and 2:01.6 880 this spring.

Brother Bob will work in the 880 with Stew Rogers, and Frost has a fine 1:58.9.

Jerry Kusek and soph Gordon Dreyfus will represent Palatine in the mile run with Kusek owning a fine 4:31.4 clocking.

Mike Leifer will be the only Palatine entry in both hurdles.

WORKING in the field events for the Pirates will be Bob McWilliams, Palatine Relays champ, in the broad jump; Gary Lewis and Ron Smith in

ARLINGTON'S BILL TRUAX

District Golf at Golden Acres

by TOM TULLY

One of the evenest fields in years converges on Gold Acres in Roselle tomorrow morning (Friday) in search of a berth in the state golf meet to be held at the University of Illinois course on May 17-18.

Twelve area schools have been assigned to the Arlington District, and they'll take aim at Golden Acres' par 72 bright and early. First tee off is slated for 8 a.m. in the one-day, 18 hole elimination.

Entrants include Forest View, Barrington, Fenton, Maine West, Elmwood Park, East Leyden, Ela-Vernon, Lake Park, Prospect, Ridgewood, Palatine and the host Cardinals. Based on the individual averages, turned in by the coaches, there is no clear cut favorite.

PERENNIAL powers Palatine, Lake Park and Barrington will, of course, rate a long look along with Prospect. Arlington, playing on its home course, will also have to be reckoned with.

Palatine won the meet a year ago with a 312, fired on the Mount Prospect Country Club course. That figure doesn't figure to be matched this time.

The Lake Park Invitational, played early in the year on Golden Acres, attracted much the same field that will be competing tomorrow. That meet produced winning scores of 324 turned in by Palatine and Glenbard West.

SINCE THAT time, both the course and the teams have improved, but, based on dual season performances, the teams entered will have trouble beating the 316 that Hinsdale turned in on the course earlier in the season. The Red Devils' total is the lowest team score turned in at Golden Acres this spring.

If Palatine is to defend successfully, it will have to be without the number one and two men who played a major role in the title a year ago. John Seehausen and Norm Olson, authors of 76's in the meet last year, have graduated.

The other half of the scoring foursome, Way Thompson and Jimmy Arendt, figure prominently in any championship plans the Pirates may have. Joining them in the seven man entry are Scott Young, Bruce McIntosh, Greg Godbout, Bob Fernstrom and Bruce Hayhurst.

Prospect finished seventh last year and looks for better results this time. Warren Collier has veterans Warren Luebke and Mike Seleski plus a talented sophomore in Dave Huntley.

Arlington is just 1-3 in duals, but it is indicative that the one win was against Palatine and came on the course where they will be playing tomorrow. Their cause can't be damaged any by the fact that they play this course daily.

TOP MAN on Gary Clendenny's team is junior Fred Devin and Devin's underclass status typifies the Cardinal youth. Regulars Bob Armour and Darryl Burkett are sophomores, and Rog O'Neill is a junior. The rest of the district squad will be chosen from seniors George Brinke, Ken Seeger and Chuck Friedlander, and junior Pete Johnson.

WSC Pennant Chase Enters Crucial Week

Maine East Holds Top Rung in Varsity Class

The week of decision is just ahead for eight varsity baseball teams in the West Suburban Conference.

Weather permitting (isn't that always the case?) the eight league outfits will engage in a final card of four games on Friday, May 17.

Although the end is just around the corner, the outcome still is very much in doubt. Maine East rests alone atop the varsity ladder but has not clinched the flag.

HEADING INTO the week's action, Maine boasted an 8-2 record and Arlington and Downers Grove were deadlocked for second at 6-3-1. A full card of games was scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) with the league-leading Blue Demons entertaining hot-and-cold York.

A banner card of doubleheaders will be staged at four sites Saturday with Hinsdlae at York, Riverside at Glenbard West, Downers Grove at Maine East, and LaGrange at Arlington.

The Cards' twin-bill with LaGrange will get under way at 10 a.m. Saturday at the field west of the high school.

HINSDALE'S UPSET win over Maine East last Saturday, a one-hitter at that, only served to emphasize what Arlington's head coach Bob Baker said from the outset.

In looking over the 1963 title scramble Baker indicated that he expected a "tight race with the last place team capable of beating the leader." He also felt the champion could lose as many as three or four games.

Last place Hinsdale did beat first place Maine East with Ed Sienko twirling a neat one-hitter, and the loss was the second for the pace-setting Blue Demons with four games remaining.

ARLINGTON carried some title aspirations into yesterday's game with Glenbard West, but Baker's Cards could not afford to lose again in the stretch drive.

Senior Ken Layden continued as the locals' top swinger with a healthy .474 average on 18 hits in 38 trips to the plate. Russ Ward, who missed Saturday's doubleheader, was next in line at .337.

Senior Rog Lindstrom slipped a little over the weekend and now rests six points under .500 at .294. But Rog still carried the most productive bat with three homers and 14 runs batted-in.

RIGHTHANDER TOM WILKES fires to first baseman Mike Griesman in an attempt to pick teammate Ken Peters (right) off of first base during a practice session this week at Pioneer Park. In the background, just above Peters' cap, is Jim Humphrey, Falcon third sacker. Forest View will host the State District Baseball Tournament, starting at 4:30 p. m., Monday. Because the Falcons' home diamond will not be ready until next spring, they have been playing all home games at Pioneer Park. (Staff photo by Don Vickery)

LAKE PARK, a fifth place finisher, a year ago brings another team with titlist ideas. Gone is Randy Wolf, co-medalist last season, but back are Dan DeMay and Dave Shellenbarger. Joining them are regulars Bob Barnum, Jack Bauerle and Ed Bartz, squadman Mike O'Keefe. Jim Rosenthal has been called up from the sophs to fill the seventh slot.

Two local schools are newcomers in district play. Al Kintzle's Forest View squad is participating in varsity golf for the first time and is not expected to do much. Top men on the Falcon squad are Russ Barger, Chip Julin and Don Campbell. Kintzle might dip into his sophomore talent to fill out the squad.

Fenton brings a 5-2 dual squad to the meet. Lee Crain hopes to score with a team headed by Dennis Jacobsen, Tom Hock, Bob Vick and Louis Dokmo.

The race for individual honors, like the team chase, is wide open. The top four finishers from last year are missing. Wolf, Seehausen, and Olson are no longer in school, and Jim Kedzie, the eventual medalist by virtue of a playoff victory over Wolf, was a member of the St. Patrick of Chicago team that is not in this year's field.

If dual season averages can be indicative in a one round meet, then the man to watch is Bob Augustine, who carries a 75 average through the dual phase of the Ridgewood season.

BOB NAVRATIL, of Elmwood Park, boasts the next best average, a neat 77. Bunched at 78 are DeMay, Thompson and Huntley. Bob Kerr and Steve Blatnik of Barrington, and Luebcke round out the sub-80 shooters with 79 averages.

Knight Diamond Slump Shows no Sign of Letup; Drop 2 of 3

Prospect, suffering from a prolonged slump, lost two of three basball encounters last week. The Knights have lost six of their last seven games.

May 1, Jeff Browne pitched Glenbrook North to a 1-0 triumph over Prospect, limiting the Knights to three hits. Hank LaRocco pitched well enough to win, allowing only three hits himself, but did not receive the support he deserved.

The Spartans scored the winning run in the third when Browne reached first on shortstop Greg Kowal's error, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Del Mackie's single.

THE KNIGHTS had the bases loaded with one out in the second, and a similar situation with none out in the third but failed to score both times. A pair of double plays helped the Spartan cause.

Saturday, Prospect split a doubleheader with Deerfield, losing the opener, 4-2, but winning the nightcap, 6-5, on Ron Aukamp's bases-loaded double.

RON AUKAMP had an unusual day at bat for Prospect in a doubleheader split with Deerfield Saturday. Ron had only one hit, a bases-loaded double in the last of the seventh. It scored the tying and winning runs as the Knights won, 6-5, after losing the opener, 4-2. Aukamp accounted for five of Prospect's six runs in the nightcap. He scored one run, and drove in four more with the help of a squeeze bunt, ground ball and his game-winning clout. (Staff photo

Al Koehler pitched a six-hitter in the opener, but a pair of errors led to a single Deerfield run in the first and three more in the fourth.

Prospect scored in the first on Dave Leekley's single and a sacrifice fly by Ron Aukamp. In the fourth, Chuck Halverson atoned for an earlier error with a base hit, took second on a ground out by Rick Lytle, and scored on Kowal's single.

GRANT GENTRY pitched well in the nightcap, blanking the Warriors for five innings, but running into trouble in the fifth.

When it was over, Deerfield had scored five runs and led, 5-4.

Prospect won it in the last of the seventh. Leekley opened with a double, and Mike Phillips and Bob Geller walked to load the bases. Aukamp then delivered a double to bring in the tying and winning runs.

Aukamp accounted for five runs in the second game, driving in four and scoring another. He also had an RBI in the opener, although managing only one hit all day.

LaRocco won the game in relief of Gentry. Geller and Leekley each had two hits for Prospect in the nightcap.

Prospect Hosts District Track

the high jump; Seth Norton and Harv Fanning in the pole vault; soph Craig Erkfitz and Mike Lang in the shot put; and Jim Gow and Rich Weeks in the discus.

Palatine boasts two fine relay teams with the mile relay unit in particular expected to show well Saturday.

Arlington's best bets for possible firsts rest with Bob Splitberger in the 220 and 440, Robin Auld in the mile run, Bill Baumgart in the low hurdles, Bill Truax in the discus, and Jeff Hoy in the high jump.

SPLITBERGER has a :22.7 furlong, but he's also done a nifty 51 flat in the 440 and should be heard from at the district. Auld, a rangy senior, has had some interesting tussles with Palatine's Kusek in the mile run, and there may be another in the offing Saturday. Auld has a best of 4:32.4, a school record.

Baumgart has been slowed by an injury but still may be [illegible] in the low hurdles. He did a snappy :20.5 earlier and that equals the state qualifying standard.

It's becoming a habit for Truax to break records in the discus, with the strong junior currently ranking second in the state in his specialty. Bill is a heavy favorite to rule the discus Saturday.

HOY, ANOTHER junior, has cleared 6-1 in the high jump and has been a consistent point-getter in the major meets. He finished second in both the Lake Shore and Palatine Relays.

Head coach Russ Attis also plans to use Dale Stegall in the high and low hurdles, John Brunner in the mile run, Dan Bedford in the high hurdles, Bruce Conti in the shot put, Scott Somers in the high jump, Jack Lindstrom and Jeff Beckman in the broad jump, Tom Fagerson and Jim Varnado in the pole vault, Greg and Rich Whiteman in the 880, and soph Johnny Jamison in the 220.

Arlington also will enter two relay teams.

FOREST VIEW'S Dick Ohl looks at five boys as his best bets for points in the district action.

Junior Ray Geortz has been around 145-0 in the discus, and Jim O'Keefe has a 19-10½ effort in the broad jump. Jerry Potter's best mile clocking is 4:40, two seconds shy of state qualifying.

George Sladek will vie in the 880 yard run, and Scott Armstrong is entered in both hurdle events. Scott has a :20.6 clocking over the low sticks which is only one-tenth of a second shy of the pre-determined state qualifying mark.

District Play To Open Monday

enough, has a lot to learn about the infield, and may cause problems before developing his aboundant natural ability.

Ron Aukamp teams with Massof and Leekley in the outfield. Rich Beck and Chuck Halverson share third, and Mike Phillips plays second.

The Knights are capable of as good a game as anyone else, but have to prove themselves.

Palatine has strong pitching, led by Bob Carver, a righthander, Jack Frost, another righty who has control problems, and Hal Parmenter, a junior southpaw, who will get the starting call against Forest View.

COACH JIM Bragiel has only two batsmen of any note; juniors Dick Radzak and Butch Mummert. Both are hitting over .300, but Radzak is the best, recently going for 11 hits in 17 at bats over one stretch.

Palatine is young, good and erratic, but so is Forest View.

The Falcons also have strong pitching, especially sophomore Tommy Lundgren, another southpaw; Tom Wilkes, a junior righthander; and Dick Anderson, a towering lefty who beat Ridgewood on four hits last week, fanning 11 in the process.

Coach Hal Sprehe has three good hitters in shortstop Joe Mueller, second baseman Ken Peters and catcher-outfielder Ralph Kaspari, but needs more punch in order to win.

SPREHE PLANS to alternate Kaspari with Mike Herigodt behind the plate, along with Kaspari and either Mike Griesman, George Peknik, Keith Gormsen, Tom Meyers and Ken Veltri in the outfield. Jim Humphrey rounds out the infield at third, and Anderson and Lundgren will alternate at first, depending on the pitching.

Lundgren bats right, and Anderson swings from the left, so it will depend on the opposition before the starting lineup is finalized.

Cards' Frosh Triumph

Rock Prospect With 13 Hits

Exploding for 13 hits and scoring in every inning, Arlington High's frosh "A" baseball team rocked neighboring Prospect last Thursday afternoon, 15-3

Coach Art Brownell's Cardinals pushed over a single run in the first inning and never trailed.

"Butch" Pavelle worked five innings for the victors, fanning eight and yielding seven hits. Dan Agard, the first of three Prospect pitchers, was tagged with the loss.

Pavelle and Mark Frase lashed home runs for Arlington with Gary Bozee and Frase contributing doubles.

Score by innings:

Prospect	002	01— 3- 7-4
Arlington	134	16—15-13-1

Arlington also won the frosh "B" game, claiming an 8-1 decision.

Cards Post Two Wins Over Dons

Triple winners Bob Splitberger and Scott Somers paced Arlington High School's varsity and frosh-soph track squads to wins over Notre Dame Tuesday afternoon.

The Cardinals' varsity thinclads slipped by the Dons 60-58 despite picking up 10 firsts, and the frosh-sophs triumphed 74-44.

Splitberger, a junior, had to buck a strong wind in claiming the 100 yard dash at :10.8 and 220 at :24.1, and he also triumphed in the 440 at :52.6.

OTHER WINNERS for the Varsity Cards were Dan Bedford in the high hurdles (:16.2), Robin Auld in the half mile (2:05.9) and mile (4:44.5), Bill Truax in the discus (149-5), Jeff Hoy in the high jump (5-10), Tom Fagerson in the pole vault (10-6), and Bill Baumgart in the low hurdles (:21.8).

Somers won the broad jump (17-11), high jump (5-10), and pole vault (9-6) in pacing the sophs to a 30-point win.

Also claiming firsts for Arlington were Dale Stegall in the high hurdles (:16.8) and lows (:22.4), John Jamison in the 100 yard dash (:10.7), Steve Ewart in the 220 (:25.4), John Brunner in the half-mile (2:10.9) and mile (4:53), and Bob Hoban in the shot put (38-11¼).

Swimming Club Seeks Members

The Plum Grove Swimming club is looking for members.

Open to anyone in the area, the club is planning a banner summer of swimming for all ages.

Anyone interested in additional information may contact Mrs. Lois Seager, club secretary, at FLanders 8-6400 Tuesday and Thursday, 11 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.; Saturday 12:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Lebben's Bat Not Enough Of a Cushion

Mike Lebben lashed out four hits, including two doubles and a grand slam home run Saturday, but Forest View's frosh "A" baseball team still lost a 9-8 slugfest to Niles West.

Jim Rennhack and Bill Disbrow gave up nine hits, but Rennhack walked 12 Indians to provide the margin of victory. He also fanned 11.

Lebben, having his best day this year, also drove in seven runs and stole two bases. The Indians got him out only once in five at bats.

Gary Wellehan and Rennhack had two hits apiece for the Falcons. Wellehan also had two stolen bases.

Knight Frosh Tip Warriors

Prospect's frosh "A" baseball team defeated Deerfield, 7-4, Saturday behind the six-hit pitching of Tom Manderscheid. He walked won and struck out eight.

Tom Beard's triple highlighted a four-run uprising in the sixth for Prospect. Dan Agard contributed a run scoring double, and Doug Glaser helped out by squeezing home Manderscheid with another tally in the second.

Slump Bugs Prospect on Golf Links

Prospect, experiencing somewhat of a slump, took East Leyden last week, 286 to 299, in a 15-hole match at White Pines.

Thursday, Proviso West beat the Knights, 174 to 186 in a nine-hole match at Mount Prospect country club.

"We're in sort of a slump," said coach Warren Collier. "Even in beating East Leyden, our scores were way up."

Warren Luebcke took low medalist honors against East Leyden with a 68. Dave Huntley had a 71.

Norm Miller had a 39 against Proviso West.

In frosh-soph action, Bill Becker and Bob Lee fired 41s to whip East Leyden, 168 to 214. Becker came back with a 43 Thursday as the Knights bowed to Proviso West, 174 to 186.

Paraguay's Toll

Paraguay has lost more people, per capita, in war than any other country in the world.

Al Griffith Team Takes 59ers Lead

The Al Griffith team moved out to a fast start in the Hoffman 59ers Ladies golf league with an 8-6 victory over The Clothes Basket Tuesday morning in the opening action of the 1963 season at Golden Acres.

Al Griffith holds a half-point lead over runnerup The Record.

Event of the day was Blind Bogey. Winners were Erika Grover, Berneil Thornton, and Nell Robb.

The standings:

Al Griffith	8
The Record	7½
Plaza Liquors	7
Frank's Beauty Salon	7
Jupiter Cleaners	6½
The Clothes Basket	6

Helgeson New Parkway League Prexy

Harris Helgeson of Palatine was named president of the Parkway bowling league at the annual dinner-dance at Campbell's Hearthstone, Palatine, Saturday night. Cecil Baker of Palatine was elected vice president, and Bob Paddock secretary.

Ed Piepenbrink, sponsor of the championship Piepenbrink Movers team, was on hand to receive honors, as well as members of the team, Captain Clarence Piepenbrink, Herb Miller, Hank Wist, Bill Conroy and Bob Bergdahl.

Other awards went to Clarence Piepenbrink for high average, Bob Brown for high game and Jim Shaw for high series. Piepenbrink also won the most improved bowler's award.

Special trophy was given to Bob Paddock for his 20 years service as league secretary.

Radio Station To Feature Archery Club

The Wheeling Archery Club will be featured on radio station WEAW, 1330 on the dial, from 2 to 3 p.m. Thursday, May 16.

Tom Kozimor, president of the club, and registration chairman Henry Collignon will be interviewed by Dick Wasson and will discuss the club's operation and background.

Filpi Sparks Glenbrook Win

Senior Bob Filpi was the individual standout Tuesday afternoon as Glenbrook North's varsity track squad rolled past Forest View, 80-38.

Filpi won the 100 yard dash in :09.9 and the high hurdles in :14.9 and now rates spots in four events on Paddock's weekly honor roll.

Scott Armstrong turned in a fine :20.9 clocking for Forest View over the 180 yard low hurdles.

In Rolling Meadows

Triple-Headers To Launch Season

Two triple-headers will open the boys baseball season in Rolling Meadows May 26.

Three games will be played in the American League and three in the National League on the two diamonds near the swimming pool.

The Dodgers and Braves will open the National League competition at 11 a.m., while the Indians and Sox square off for the American League opener at the same time.

It will be the Pirates versus the Cardinals while the Tigers face the Yankees at 1:30 p.m.

Final games of the day will see the Cubs and Giants in action on one diamond and the Senators and Athletics on the other.

A capping ceremony and introduction of the players will be held before each game. Boy Scouts from Troop 96 will conduct a flag raising ceremony.

Umpire-in-chief Lee Jacobs reports there are openings for 15 more umpires and the first applicants will be accepted. Lee can be contacted at CL 5-5479.

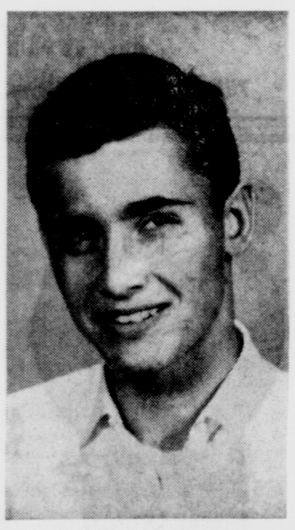
The No-Hit Corps

It's Habit-Forming

JIM VIDT



JOE SANCHEZ

JEFF HAIDUKE

THE NO-HIT FRATERNITY at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights added its third member last week when freshman Joe Sanchez twirled a hitless gem against touted St. George in a Chicagoland Prep League game. Jeff Haiduke, a junior, was the first Lion pitcher to author a no-hitter when he blanked Ridgewood, and sophomore Jim Vidt followed just twenty-four hours later against St. Francis of Wheaton. The varsity Lions are coached by Frank Mariani.

At Maine East Relays

'Frantic Foursome' Hurdles Record Book

Getting its usual record setting performance from hurdlers Larry Bogart, Tom Bremner, Terry Sietman and Ron Keopke, Prospect managed an understandable fourth place team finish at the Maine East Relays Friday.

In a wing-ding finish, Lyons of LaGrange edged New Trier, 72-70, for the team title. Evanston was a wisp away with 67 points.

The Knights garnered 37 points, thanks to a pair of firsts in the 480 yard high and low hurdle shuttle relays, and Ralph Stone's strong right arm.

ANOTHER interesting sidelight was a blistering mile relay which nearly ended in a five-way dead heat.

Only 2.7 seconds separated first place LaGrange from fifth place Prospect (John Carsello, George Morris, Jim McMillan and Jim Renner).

Naturally, LaGrange (3:23 flat) set a new record, and turned in the fastest time in the state this year, but the fifth place Knights (3:25.7) were only two-tenths of a second off of the old mark set by Maine West (3:25.5) last year.

"It was quite a race," understated Dick Calisch, Prospect mentor. But then, his sprinters and hurdlers have filled a small closet with trophies this year.

FOR EXAMPLE, Bogart, Bremner, Sietmann and Koepke set a high hurdle shuttle mark (1:00.9) in whipping tough Evanston. The old footnote was 1:04.8 by Highland Park in 1962.

The frantic foursome came back to cover the low hurdle shuttle in 53.8, cropping close to three seconds off of their old (56.1) mark set last season.

Dan Johnson, Carsello, Morris and Renner also took a fourth in the 880 relay, won by LaGrange in 1:29.8, another record. Evanston and Waukegan tied for second at 1:31 flat. Prospect did 1:31.7, and New Trier dawdled along in fifth place at 1:32.5.

Stone, the burly giant of the track squad, hurled the discus 150-feet, three and one-half inches to pick up the other Prospect first.

Dave Gobeille managed a second in the high jump, and the distance medley relay team took a fifth for the final Knight points.

Kroll Wins 3-Hitter

Card Sophs Stop Riverside Nine In Doubleheader

Arlington swept past Riverside-Brookfield in both ends of a frosh-soph doubleheader Saturday for its second straight twin-bill sweep in West Suburban action.

Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's Cardinals came up with two runs in the seventh inning of the first game for an 8-7 decision and then stopped the hosts 3-1 in the windup on Jim Kroll's three-hitter.

In the opener Arlington moved out to a 5-0 lead after four innings only to have R-B bounce back with two runs in the fifth and five in the sixth.

The young Cards pushed across a single marker in the sixth and put the game away with a pair in the seventh. Dick Miller, who came on in relief of starter John Friedl, picked up the mound decision.

Arlington banged out nine hits and played errorless ball in the field.

Score by innings:

Riverside	000 025 0—7-10-3
Arlington	221 001 2—8- 9-0

Kroll was in control in the second contest, fanning six and walking only one in the five innings.

Arlington had men on first and second with no outs in the sixth when the game was called.

Tom Jasper, who sports a fancy .400 batting average this spring after failing to register a single safety with the frosh squad in 1962, drove a shot to center field in the first inning leading off for a home run.

The Cards added single runs in both the fourth and fifth.

Arlington again played errorless baseball.

Score by innings:

Arlington	100 11—3-6-0
Riverside	000 10—1-3-1

Dick Hoppe's .444 mark headed the club going into action this week, but Jasper was right behind at .400. Also boasting .300-plus averages are Jeff Galyon (.333), Jerry Fink (.323), and Larry Wagner (.314).

Ormsbee was particularly high on the play of first sacker Fink both at bat and in the field.

"He came up with some fine plays on bad throws Saturday," Ormsbee commented, "and has been doing that all season. He shows real promise."

Close, Walters Win Doubles; Arlington Cops Tennis Crown

It's on to Champaign-Urbana and the state finals for five members of Arlington High School's crack tennis team.

Chuck Close, Russ Walters, Jim Jakubiec, Mirrel Kephart, and Rich Wollerman will be making the trip the weekend of May 17-18 thanks to impressive performances last Saturday at the Maine West District.

Close and Walters whipped teammates Wollerman and Kephart for the doubles title, both units advancing to the state, and Jakubiec rolled past three straight opponents in reaching the finals in singles. play yesterday (Wednesday) for the singles crown as a heavy in storm interrupted some of rain storm interrupted some of the action Saturday.

Arlington won its first district tennis title in history but official team results are pending Wednesday's competition.

Close and Walters, expected to be one of the state's top-ranked entries in doubles, waltzed past four straight opponents Saturday after drawing an opening round bye.

FIRST TO FALL were Prospect High's Scott Paris and Larry White 6-0, 6-1, and the strong Arlington entry then knocked over Palatine's Scott Sylvester and Franz Peterson 6-0, 6-0.

Close and Walters reached the finals with a 6-1, 6-2 conquest of Tom Roberts and Pete Heckman of Maine East.

In the title tussle between two Cardinal entries Close and Walters stopped Wollerman and Kephart 6-1, 6-1.

Wollerman and Kephart posted three wins in reaching the finals. They stopped Libertyville's Tom Nelson and Ron Kok-Albas (6-0, 6-2), Maine East's Jack Schieffer and Larry Peters (8-10, 6-3, 6-4), and Maine West's Bob Poyer and Cliff Vogel (7-5, 6-2).

JAKUBIEC drew a first round bye, then proceeded on his advancement to the title match. The Arlington junior whipped Lothar Hansen of Prospect 6-4, 6-2, Jim Gienko of Mundelein 6-0, 6-0, and Jim Gaverth of Maine West 7-5, 6-2. He was slated to play either Gary Albers of Maine West or Paul Schuerk of Maine East in the finals.

Arlington picked up one other point thanks to soph Jeff Peek in singles. Peek whipped John Cobb of Barrington in a first round match 6-4, 6-2 but fell to Albers of Maine West in the quarter-finals 8-6, 3-6, 6-3.

Prospect showed advancement points in both singles and doubles.

Bob Gewecke whipped Craig Thatcher of Mundelein 6-3, 6-0 in his first round singles match before falling to Maine West's Albers 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

SCOTT CAMPBELL and John Barr toppled Forest View's Brian Karp and Lee Timmerman 6-0, 6-1 but bowed out of competition with a 6-4, 0-6, 8-6 loss to Maine West's Bob Poyer and Cliff Vogel 6-4, 0-6, 8-6.

Palatine also picked up points in both singles and doubles with Jim Gustafson stopping Craig Hunter of Libertyville 6-1, 6-0 in a first round match. Gustafson bowed out with a 6-2, 6-3 loss to Maine East's Schuerk.

Sylvester and Peterson, stopped by Close and Walters of Arlington in the quarter-finals, whipped Barrington's Jay Condill and Eric Twerthal 6-1, 6-1 in a first round test.

Forest View's inexperienced Falcons failed to score.

Holy Cross Triumphs

St. Viator Falls In Track Debut; McNamara Stars

Holy Cross came to town Saturday to help St. Viator High School launch its first track season in history, and the visitors posted a tight 52½ to 47½ decision in a junior-varsity meet.

Twelve events were staged at the St. Viator track with no competition in either the 120 yard high or 180 yard low hurdles.

Steve McNamara was the individual standout for the Lions with a first in the 100 yard dash (:10.7), tie for first in the pole vault (7-6), and a leg on the victorious 880 yard relay.

ST. VIATOR exhibited its most strength in the mile run where Paul Larson and Jerry Blandford finished 1-2, and the Lions also registered three other firsts in the morning attraction.

John Kidd won the shot put at 39-4, and Gary Forstan ruled the discus with a flip of 119-0. Bill Roche, who cleared 6-0 in a CYO meet Sunday, reached 5-8 against Holy Cross for another first.

Claiming seconds for St. Viator were Roche in the 100 yard dash, John Smith in the 440 yard dash, and Glen Mitchell in the 880 yard run.

Doug Frait finished third in the discus, and Mike Donnelly tied for third in the high jump.

St. Viator's track squad, coached by Tom Hanson and Jim Berger, was slated to meet St. Joseph on Tuesday this week in a makeup. The Lions will journey to Immaculate Conception in Elmhurst today (Thursday) for a triangular with host IC and Fenton of Bensenville.

Niles West Tips Falcon Sophs

Niles West edged Forest View, 5-3, in soph baseball Saturday. Al Land, who relieved starter Bob Benavides, was the loser. The tying and winning Niles runs came on a tipped bat and error. Gary DeBerge had two hits, scored one run and drove in another for the

Zikes Repeats In ABC Tourney

Les Zikes, promotion manager of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, recently became the ninth man in the 60-year history of the American Bowling Congress tournament to repeat on a team event champion.

Zikes, who lives in Oak Lawn but will be moving to the northwest suburban area, registered a 660 series for the Old Fitzgerald titlists representing the Chicago Classic League.

Zikes' total was second high for the Chicago entry in the competition at Buffalo, N. Y. Jim Stefanich posted a 662.

The Old Fitzgerald team recorded a 3180 total for a 40-pin advantage over the runner-up.

First prize in the team event was worth $2500.

JOINING ZIKES and Stefanich on the champs were Harry Lippe (641), Otto Niehus (619), and Ed Kawolics (598). Lippe and Kawolics are veterans of ABC play but had never won a title before.

In the 1962 tournament at Des Moines, Iowa, Zikes bowled for the Strike 'N Spare team that posted a 3128 for the title. Strike 'N Spare represented the North End Traveling league.

Zikes registered a nifty 723 series in the 1962 tourney.

Married and the father of two children, Zikes carries averages of 198 and 195 in two fast Chicago leagues.

He will join his Old Fitzgerald teammates in Mexico City in November for the world championships.

27 Grid Wins

SOPHOMORE GEORGE MORRIS of Prospect High School strains for that extra distance in the broad jump competition at last Saturday's Hinsdale Relays. Morris reached 18-7 on this jump but failed to place in the event.

Marmor, Johnson Renew Battle at O'Hare Stadium

Defending late model Champion Erik Johnson and former champ Gene Marmor of River Grove renew their red hot convertible stock car battle this Saturday night at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park Roads, after being thwarted by the weatherman last weekend.

The two are currently deadlocked for the point rating lead at O'Hare after sharing the first two finishing spots in the season's opening 25-lap main events for the converts April 21 and 28 at O'Hare, the only speedway in the nation presenting late model convertible stock car racing every week.

This Saturday night's card will offer both the converts and the highly exciting and unpredictable amateur Cadets and there'll be 25-lap main events for both groups. There will also be Cadet action on Sunday night at O'Hare. Gates open both evenings at 6 p.m. with the first race at 8:30.

Other leading challengers entered in the convertible action are: Terry Parker and Roy Czach of Chicago's northwest side, Bill Lutz and Ron Hieber of Elmwood Park, Jerry Vandermeir of Melrose Park, Butch Linden of Buffalo Grove, Tom Armstrong of Addison, Dieter Holz of Lombard and Barry Fritsche of Glenview.

Campbell Tops Losing Golf Effort

Despite fine efforts by Don Campbell, Forest View dropped a pair of golf matches last week. Campbell fired a 39 in a loss to East Leyden Thursday, and contributed a 79 in an 18-hole match with Glenbrook North Tuesday. The Spartans won, 326 to 367.

The frosh-soph team beat East Leyden, 164 to 214, and edged Glenbrook North, 367 to 373. Jim Junkunc fired a 37 against Leyden at White Pines, and led the squad to victory Tuesday with an 87 at Glenview Park Golf Club.

Weather Cancels Opening Card at Waukegan Track

Inclement weather conditions which included wind, rain and low temperatures, forced cancellation of the scheduled opening program of modified, sportsman and late model stock car racing at the Waukegan Speedway.

The speedway was buzzing with activity from as early as 11 a.m. when cars began arriving for inspections and trial runs prior to the anticipated races set for later in the evening. A total of 73 cars and drivers braved the rain and cold to have their cars inspected and to get a few practice laps in before dark.

Fans that braved the elements did get a sneak prevue at some fine automobiles that will be challenging for the championship crowns during the 1963 campaign. Heading some 30 modified cars was John Reimer, Caledonia and Don Sorce, West Allis who turned some of the faster laps with beautiful handling ease.

DENNY BURGAN, Zion, last year's champion, toured his number one sportsman car into some hot laps, and Dan Kopsh, u keg ,o,dna es. si Kopshe, Muskego, Wis., and Len Kannie, Kenosha turned the better times among the late model entries.

The season's first roll-over occurred late in the afternoon when Clarence Strand, Kenosha, broke an accellerator spring going into the south turn, slammed the wall and rolled over onto his side. The car suffered minor damage but Strand emerged with only a few bruises.

Track manager Mike Kaishian announced that rain checks will be honored next Saturday night when the same type of program will be planned. Time trials will start at 7 p.m. with the races getting under way at 8:30.

Warriors Outrun Falcons

Maine West handed inexperienced Forest View its third straight dual track meet loss without a win last Thursday, 96-22.

Jim O'Keefe turned in the Falcon's only first with a 19-10 effort in the broad jump.

Pat Dunnigan, Scott Armstrong and Jerry Potter turned in seconds for Forest View. Dunnigan, a freshman, was clocked in 11 seconds flat in the 100 yard dash, finishing behind the Warrior's Leroy Schlegel.

Schlegel won the 220 in a whistling 21 flat, although helped by a strong tailwind.

Armstrong had a 20.7 in the low hurdles, losing to Joe Concalton by a mere one-tenth of a second.

Potter was about five seconds behind Maine's ace miler, John Schneider.

The Warriors also won the frosh-soph meet by an identical 96-22 score. Bill Wright (discus) and Bill Perrigo (high jump) were the Falcon's only winners.

Indians Repeat In Relays

Defending champion Naperville advertised its depth to Elmwood Park Relays observers last Saturday, and walked away with their second championship in a row.

Indians were convincing. The 128 points they amassed far outdistanced Oak Lawn's second place total of 75. The rest of the field was way back. Ela-Vernon had 52, West Leyden 43, Carl Sandburg 42, Lake Park 36, Thornton South 35, Evergreen Park 32, Elmwood Park 28, Grayslake 16, Reavis 11, Fenton 6, Ridgewood 4, and Thornton Fractional South 2.

In the process, the winners established three new meet records in the field events. The Indian three man teams set new standards in the pole vault, the shot put and the discus. Ela got into the record breaking act with their 880 relay team who turned the half in 1:34.

Local entry Lake Park achieved their sixth place finish with a 2nd in the two mile relay, thirds in the frosh-soph high and low hurdles and the pole vault, and fourths in the discus, the shot put, the 280 high hurdles and the low hurdle shuttle.

Kleinofen's 39 Sparks Golf Play

The Arlington Heights twilight golf league opened its season last Friday at Golden Acres in Roselle.

Scores in general showed the rigors of a long winter with only one man able to break 40. Charley Kleinofen recorded a 39.

Gene Borgeson only took 40 shots with a seven handicap which gave him low net. Russ Carlson posted a 45-9-36.

Harry Lenell holed a fairway shot for an eagle on the 330 yard second hole. He finished with a net 36.

Although Harris Pharmacy took the lead with 10 points, it appears New Emerald Cleaners has the right combination. They were able to accumulate eight points which gives them a tie for fourth. Each man on the team raised his handicap a stroke.

The standings:

Harris Pharmacy	10
Horcher Decorators	9
Crest Heating	9
New Emerald Cleaners	8
Koops Mustard	8
Parkway Liquors	6½
Complete Insurance	5½
Arl. Structural Steel	4
City Welding	4

Hansen Entry Claims Title On Final Night

In a dramatic finish Hansen Electric roared past Centex Corp. in three games and claimed the team championship in the St. John's Mixed bowling league at Rick Casares Pro Bowl.

Hansen Electric picked up three straight victories, gaining the final win by two pins, in capturing the crown. The champs tied high series for the season on the final night.

The 1962-63 titlists are sponsored by Clarence Hansen, a paraplegic who owns Hansen Electric Co., 2200 E. Higgins, Elk Grove Village. Hansen bowls for his team in the St. John's league.

Falcon Netters Drop Three More

Forest View's hapless tennis team dropped three more matches last week. Wednesday, the Falcons were shutout by Morton West; Thursday, West Leyden turned the trick, 4-1; and Tuesday, Niles West shutout Forest View. The frosh-soph also lost all three of their matches. Steve Kretschmer won the lone match against West Leyden.

Cards Push Season Net Mark to 15-2

Varsity Rolls Past Two League Foes; Sophs Win

Losses in No. 1 singles play prevented Arlington High's tennis team from blanking both Downers Grove and Glenbard West last week in West Suburban Conference competition.

The varsity Cards wrapped up 4-1 decisions in both outings to push their season mark to 15-2 and league slate to 3-1.

Arlington posted whitewashings in frosh-soph play with identical 5-0 conquests of both Downers and Glenbard.

Russ Walters, playing first singles for the varsity Cardinals, was the unwilling victim of both reversals last week.

DOWNERS' highly regarded Tony Ivins, conference runner-up last spring to Arlington's Tom Benson, stopped Walters 6-3, 6-2, and Glenbard West's Phil Coebergh triumphed 1-6, 6-0, 7-5.

Arlington had little trouble in the four other divisions although both Jim Jakubiec and Chuck Close received some stiff competition in singles against Glenbard.

Jakubiec whipped Dick Vanderlinde in two tight sets 6-3, 9-7, and Close triumphed in third singles with a 6-2, 8-6 win over John Lovelace.

ARLINGTON rounded out its victory over Glenbard with straight sets wins in both doubles encounters.

Mirrel Kephart and Rich Wollerman handled Green and Spears 6-2, 6-0, and Sophs Jeff Peek and Bobby Von Boeckmann whipped Pyle and Meacham 6-1, 6-0.

Jakubiec and Close also headed singles against Downers Grove, and the same two doubles teams came through with victories.

In frosh - soph competition, Frank Bohac's Cardinals used straight sets wins en route to both decisions.

GREG INMAN (6-4, 6-3), Jim Kunberger (6-1, 6-4), and Harley Gates (6-1, 6-2) triumphed against Downers Grove in singles. Randy Blaisdell and John Stevens stopped Hrabal and Gahlow in first doubles 6-2, 6-1, and Brian Burke and Dave Milligan came through, 6-1, 6-2.

Inman, Kunberger, and Gates swept singles against Glenbard West with Gates enjoying the easiest time at 6-0, 6-1.

Blaisdell and Stevens and Burke and Milligan registered identical 6-1, 6-0 wins in doubles.

Falcons Lose To Indians; Whip Rebels

Forest View took it on the chin May 1 as Niles West hammered Tom Wilkes for nine runs and 13 hits to take a 9-4 decision. But Dick Anderson came back Saturday to twirl a four-hitter at Ridgewood as the Falcons won a non-league game, 7-3.

The Interim League Red Division loss put Niles' Indians into second place, one-half game behind league leading Maine West. The Falcons are now fifth, just ahead of Deerfield, but within striking distance of neighboring Prospect.

The Knights lost two of three last week.

THE INDIANS put together two big innings to whip Wilkes, who otherwise pitched fairly well. Rick Kreiter's single drove in a pair in the second.

Four singles, a triple by Bill Hohs and an error helped the Indians to seven more runs in the fourth frame.

The Falcons picked up two runs in the third on a walk to Joe Mueller and a paid of Indian errors. In the fourth, Tom Lundgren and Mike Griesman drew passes, and advanced on Ken Veltri's sacrifice. Lundgren scored the third run on Tom Meyers grounder to second.

The final Falcon tally came in the fifth on base knocks by Wilkes, Ken Peters and Lundgren.

KIM HARFST was the winner for Niles but needed help in the final two frames from John Knety, who fanned three of six men he faced.

Anderson was superb Saturday, fanning 11 Ridgewood Rebels and walking only two. He also hit one man, but contributed a run and a hit to his own cause.

The Falcons drew first blood in the opening inning, scoring three quick runs on a walk, two hits and a passed ball.

Mueller opened the inning with a pass, but was out when Jim Humphrey forced him at second. Peters and Ralph Kaspari followed with singles, scoring Humphrey, the Falcon third sacker. Kaspari came in on a passed ball for the second run, and Peters scored on an error for the third.

A PAIR OF WALKS, a single and an error gave Ridgewood a run in the second, making the score 3-1, and the Rebs scored again in the third when Anderson hit one man with a pitched ball, and gave up two more hits.

But the Falcons made it 4-2 in the fifth. Mueller walked again, stole second and scored on Peters' single.

In the seventh, Forest View scored its final three runs on singles by Wilkes, Anderson, Mueller and Humphrey, and another Reb error.

The final Rebel tally came in the last of the seventh when pitcher Jim Lovkvist hit a homer.

Cards Stop Riverside In Tennis

Arlington swept past Riverside-Brookfield in both divisions Tuesday afternoon in West Suburban tennis competition.

Ken Schaller's varsity claimed a 4-1 victory for its 16th triumph of the 1963 season, and Frank Bohac's sophs administered their third straight 5-0 shutout.

Jim Jakubiec and Chuck Close won in singles for the Arlington varsity and Mirrel Kephart and Rich Wollerman and Bob VonBoeckmann and Jeff Peek ruled doubles.

Riverside's Ed Thompson stopped Russ Walters in first singles 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Greg Inman, Jim Kunberger, and Harley Gates headed singles for the Cardinal sophs. John Stevens and Randy Blaisell and Brian Burke and Dave Milligan triumphed in doubles.

Sanchez Becomes 3rd St. Viator Pitcher To Record No-Hitter

A sparkling no-hitter by freshman Joe Sanchez, the third such mound gem by a St. Viator pitcher this spring, highlighted another busy week of baseball activity for the varsity Lions.

Sanchez, who came to the Arlington Heights school amid as much ballyhoo as could be accorded a youngster, set down St. George without a single safety over seven innings in giving St. Viator a nifty 6-0 victory.

Joe's mound masterpience was the third no-hitter registered by a local hurler Jeff Haiduke and Jim Vidt also had turned in hitless stints for the Lions this season.

SANCHEZ WALKED two and struck out three and received some excellent support in the field from his teammates.

The Lions were able to muster only three hits but they were aided by seven walks and five Dragon errors.

Jim Vidt drove home three runs, and Don Knudson and Ron Bakalar also collected base hits. Bakalar drove in one run.

St. George bounced back the following day with a 4-3 decision on a costly St. Viator error.

The Lions outhit the Dragons 6-5 and St. George committed six errors, but the visitors came out on top in the important column.

Vidt started on the mound for St. Viator and hurled excellent baseball in defeat. He fanned eight and walked only four.

Bakalar paced the St. Viator offensive attack with two hits, and Jay Chaiser and Haiduke bounced balls off the right-center fence for doubles.

Haiduke, Bakalar, and Chaiser drove in the runs.

St. Viator won a slugfest with the Crusaders from Holy Cross on Friday, 12-11. Haiduke and Vidt shared pitching duties for the winners but this was not a pitcher's day.

The Lions collected 17 hits and Holy Cross banged out 10 in the wild Chicagoland Prep league encounter.

Tim Walinski rapped a home run for St. Viator in the third inning with a man on, and Sanchez and Vidt each picked up four safeties.

St. Viator put the game away with a single run in the eighth inning.

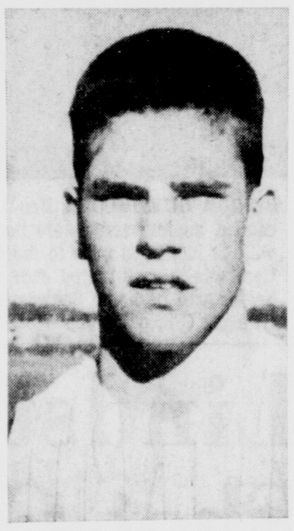
In a crucial league game with St. Mel the Lions dropped a 2-1 decision. The contest was played under protest on an interference call in the fifth inning, and St. Viator is waiting for the league board's decision.

Sanchez worked on the hill for the Lions and hurled an excellent game. However, he served up a home run ball to Rick Nania in the second inning.

Further details were unavailable.

Walinski delivered the big blow, a bases-loaded double, in St. Viator's 5-0 victory over St. Joseph Monday afternoon.



TIM WALINSKI

Vidt went the route for coach Frank Mariani's crew.

After falling behind by two runs in the first inning St. Viator bounced back with a singleton in the second and four big markers in the fours. Walinski's double drove in three.

Haiduke contributed two hits for the victors, and Tom Ostermann rapped out one.

Strong Wind Helpful

Filpi's Three Firsts Not Enough to Stop Prospect

Pushed by a strong tailwind, Glenbrook North's Bob Filpi whistled his way to three firsts last Thursday, carrying Prospect's touted hurdlers in his wake. But the superb effort wasn't enough to keep the Knights from their fourth straight dual meet win without a loss this year.

The talented Spartan speedster took the 120 yard high hurdles in a swift 14.9 seconds, ninth best time in Illinois prep ranks this year.

Filpi's low hurdles clocking was 19.4 for the 180 yard course, and was followed by a blistering 21.8 for the 220 yard dash.

"It was an astounding feat," said Spartan coach Gene Sackett, talking about Filpi's 220 clocking on the heels of his low hurdle victory. "It was only a matter of three or four minutes between the two races."

BUT DESPITE Filpi's golden legs, Prospect quickly overcame a slight deficit and went on to win the meet handily, 64½ to 53½.

Knight depth, especially in the sprints and hurdles, proved to much of an obstacle for the Spartans to overcome.

Larry Bogart finished a wisp behind Filpi in the high hurdles at 15 flat, and Tom Bremner took third (15.2). Even Terry Sietmann was clocked at 15.3 although out of the points in fourth place.

John Carsello, Jim Renner and Dan Johnson took a "slam" (one, two, three finish) in the 100 yard dash, and Renner, George Morris and Jim McMillan repeated in the 440.

CARSELLO, Johnson, Bogart and Ron Keopke took the 880 relay for Prospect, and Carsello and Johnson finished second and third respectively behind Filpi in the 220.

Filpi's low hurdles effort (19.4), second best in the state this year, carried Bogart to a 19.7 effort, and Bremner to a 19.8. Koepke was fourth at 20.3.

The Knights' Dave Thomas took the mile and Dave Gobeille won the high jump (5' 10").

In other field events, Ralph Stone tossed the discuss 145-feet, three inches to win that event, and Mike Witters won the broad jump with a leap of 18 feet, 10 and one-quarter inches.

JOHN MIDDLEBROOK of Glenbrook took the pole vault with a leap of 12-feet, six-inches, another "honor role" mark.

Prospect took the frosh-soph meet, 77-41, on the strength of eight firsts. Picking up firsts for the Knights were Ray Kick, Tom Knutson, Wayne Kuklinski, Jack Pollard, Frank Hottes, Dick McMahon, and Andy Karcagos.

The 880 relay team (Jim Bowker, Bill Lytle, Karcagos and Kuklinski) also took a first.

St. Viator Sophs Red-Hot; Record Four More Wins

The weatherman cooperated and St. Viator's red-hot sophomore baseball team responded with four victories in four days last week.

Coach Larry Nomellini's Lions swept a pair with St. George and then knocked over Holy Cross and St. Mel to push their league record to 6-1.

A no-hitter checked the St. Viator win skein Monday.

Frosh John Loughman worked on the mound, fanning 15 and walking only four, as St. Viator rolled past St. George 4-1.

The Lions only picked up four safeties, but they bunched three in the fourth inning for four runs.

Score by innings:

St. George	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	4	4
St. Viator	0	0	0	4	0	0	*	4	4	3

Another freshman pitcher sparkled for the locals the following day as Tom Collins stopped St. George 6-2 with a one-hitter.

Collins struck out 12 and had his bid for a shutout spoiled in the fifth when two errors, a walk, and double steal scored two runs for the Dragons.

Loughman and Dennis Wilkinson each collected two hits for the victors.

Score by innings:

St. Viator	0	0	2	0	2	0	0	6	10	2
St. George	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	1	1

On Friday the Lions wrapped up their fifth straight league decision with a 9-6 conquest of Holy Cross as Bill Ewald and Joe Spence combined to yield only four hits.

Mike Sheetz paced the St. Viator offensive parade with three hits, including a double, and he knocked in two runs. Ron Rose and Gary Drabant also rapped out two hits, and Dennis Wilkinson drove across three runs.

Score by innings:

Holy Cross	0	2	0	0	4	0	0	6	4	6
St. Viator	2	1	0	2	4	0	*	9	9	4

The hot Lions continued their bombardment of the Chicagoland Prep league by pounding out 13 hits in an 8-5 victory over St. Mel, one of two league teams owning a win over St. Viator.

Sheetz came through in the clutch with a fine six-hit performance, striking out ten batters. He also helped his own cause with two hits.

Jim Mikes rapped out three hits and Wilkinson and Gary Drabant posted two each.

Heading into action this week, Ron Rosem paced the St. Viator hitters with a lofty .444 mark. Sheetz was next in line at .428.

St. Viator Routs St. Francis, 8-1, In Diamond Action

St. Viator exploded for five runs in the first two innings Tuesday afternoon and shelled St. Francis, 8-1, in a non-league contest.

The victory was the 12th in 17 games for Frank Mariani's Lions.

Joe Sanchez and Jeff Haiduke worked on the mound for St. Viator and yielded nine hits over the seven innings.

Don Knudson delivered the long blow for the winners with a two-run homer in the second, but Jim Vidt rapped out two doubles.

ST. VIATOR scored three runs in the first after Don Knudson got on with a walk. An error followed and when the dust had cleared three runners had crossed the plate.

Knudson drove in a pair with his homer in the second, and the Lions tallied two more in the fourth on Vidt's double. Jim also delivered a run-scoring double in the sixth.

Vidt, Ulbrich, and Tom Nitch each banged out two hits for St. Viator.

St. Viator	3	2	0	1	0—8-9
St. Francis	0	0	0	1	0—1-9

Deer Hunters Called 'Wild'

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., (UPI)— The Illinois House today passed and sent to the Senate a bill which would allow small game hunters to go after game at the same time and in the same counties as deer hunters.

The vote was 141-8.

Opposing the measure was Rep. Orval Hittmeier, a Republican who said:

"Deer hunters are the wildest hunters there are. They'll shoot at anything that moves.

"It's not wise to let them hunt at the same time."

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

Pest Season—

This coming summer should be a bad season for insect pests that prey on dogs, what with the attention that has been given the problem in recent years by America's pharmaceutical houses.

Geigy Agricultural Chemicals, developed an organic phosphorus compound, Dipofene, which is claimed to have been extensively evaluated for effectiveness and safety in the control of brown ticks and fleas. The product is intended as a dip to control animal infestation and may also be used as a kennel spray to prevent reinfestation. Another company, Pitman-Moore came up with Ectoral, described as the first oral insecticide for the elimination of fleas, ticks and lice from dogs. The drug, which is designed for use in food, was to be made available in tablet form through veterinarians.

THERE ARE several satisfactory proprietary preparations for bathing and dusting dogs on the market, to rid dogs of fleas, ticks and lice. It should be pointed out, however, that instructions and recommended procedures be followed since many preparations will kill adult vermin but do not always destroy the eggs which hatch later. These must be destroyed before they in turn can lay eggs and start the whole problem all over again.

Keep in mind that not only the dog, but also his living quarters need attention in order to do an effective job. Many folks forget that the dog's bed or his kennel can harbor these pests, and although the dog may be rid of them, he can be re-infested very easily.

North Shore Obedience—

More than 200 of the Midwest's finest obedience trained dogs will participate in the 23rd annual obedience trial of the North Shore Dog Training Club which will be held at the Highland Park Recreation Center, 1850 Green Bay Road, Highland Park, on Sunday, May 19. On the same date, the club will sponsor its 14th Tracking Test at Bannockburn, Deerfield.

DeFOREST H. Muster of Bensenville, show chairman of the event, reports that the dogs and their owners will be competing for more than 100 trophies and ribbons in this classic among Midwestern obedience trials.

If past years are any indication, the event will really be something to see. The obedience trial at Highland Park is open to the public with judging scheduled to start at 9 a.m.

Barks & Bays—

Your editor was in Birmingham, Ala., a week ago and had a chance to talk briefly to a few people about the dogs used by their police department. Inasmuch as yours truly was judging at a show, he did not get too much of a chance to dwell on the subject, however, this past week's headlines talk about a serious problem in the city. It seems, however, that the dogs they have are more to help protect the handler . . . the fire hose seems to be the best tool to disperse crowds.

Falcon Runners Do Okay

Forest View, picking up valuable points in the hurdle shuttle relay events, finished a creditable ninth in a 12-team field in the second annual Mustang Relays held Saturday at Mundelein High.

The best Falcon showing was put on by Rusty Dowell's hurdlers, who took a pair of thirds in the 720 and 480 yard low and high hurdle shuttle relays. Dowell also developed championship hurdlers at Arlington and Prospect before coming to Forest View.

Forest View's 720 team, composed of Scott Armstrong, Larry Bleichroth and Gregg Garlisch, finished behind Mundelein — winner of the meet — and McHenry in that event.

Jeff Grismer teamed with the above-named trio to take a third in the 480 behind Wauconda and Mundelein.

Head coach Dick Ohl's milers also performed well considering his entire team has little experience.

George Sladek, Jerry Potter, Howard Hogle and Phil Valentino took a fourth in the four-mile relay, and tied Deerfield for fifth in the two-mile event.

Weight men Ray Goertz, Garron Kokai and Bill Wright picked up the other Falcon points in the discus. The three boys' combined toss gave them fifth place. Goertz had the longest throw at 145-feet, one-inch.

Baseballers Split Pair

Prospect's soph baseballers were hammered, 13-4 by Glenbrook North May 1. Saturday, they edged Deerfield, 3-2.

Bill Phillips (1) and Bob Weber (2) accounted for runs batted in the first match.

Craig Thomas, with relief help from Keith Bergen, won the Deerfield clash. Bergen came in with the bases loaded and one out in the seventh, and retired the side without further damage to preserve the victory.

Prospect scored two runs in the fifth, and won in the sixth when Greg Melzer homered.

Cards Split at R-B; Christensen Claims Opener on 3-Hitter

Those red-hot bats that have been so prominent in recent outings were held in check Saturday, but Arlington's varsity baseball Cardinals still managed to register a split in a league doubleheader at Riverside-Brookfield.

Author of 33 hits and 31 runs in three previous contests, Bob Baker's outfit had trouble launching any attack at Riverside, backing a shakey 2-0 victory with a 3-1 reversal that saw 15 hitters nailed on third strikes.

DAVE CHRISTENSEN

With the split Arlington lost its chance at gaining on league-leading Maine East. The Blue Demons were silenced in one-hit in the opener at Hinsdale but bounced back in the nightcap.

Maine East headed into the week's action with an 8-2 mark. Arlington and Downers Grove were right behind at 6-3-1.

WHILE ARLINGTON'S bats were silenced at Riverside, the Cards did receive two nifty ptiching efforts from junior right handers Dave Christensen and Steve Martin.

Christensen yielded only three hits over seven innings in setting down the host Bulldogs 2-0 in the opener. Dave joined southpaw Paul Splittorff in the shutout department at Arlington with Paul handcuffing Maine East earlier.

Martin pitched well enough to win most games in the windup but didn't receive any support at the plate and suffered a tough 3-1 setback. Steve allowed only two hits.

IT WAS unfortunate for Martin that he had to work against Riverside's Chuck Mesek. The R-B junior, who has tossed the only no-hitter in league play this spring, yielded five hits and fanned 15 in dazzling the visitors.

Christensen fanned five and walked only two in Saturday's opener and had to be superb to get the decision. He was backed with only three safeties.

ARLINGTON SCORED two runs in the first with one out. Joe Wertheimer got on via an error, and Ken Layden singled to left. Rog Lindstrom walked and an error brought in the two markers.

That was the extent of the scoring for the first game with the Cards picking up just two hits the rest of the way. Soph Mike Frase slapped out a third inning single, and Splittorff reached Ted Velk for a seventh inning safety.

Christensen had men on in six of the seven frames but managed to avoid any serious trouble.

RIVERSIDE'S Mestek had his strikeout ball working in the windup with 15 to his credit, and he caught everyone in the lineup at least once.

The Bulldogs actually decided the encounter in the first frame with two runs on only one hit. It turned out that the winning run scored on a double play grounder to Lindstrom at third.

The hosts added an insurance marker in the sixth on a walk, stolen base, and single.

ARLINGTON punched over a singleton in the sixth with Frase rapping a single behind second to kick things off. Mike advanced to second on an overthrow at first and moved to third on Wertheimer's ground ball to first.

Layden walked, and Lindstrom lifted a fly ball to left that sent Frase across with the first and only run.

Mestek made short work of the Cardinals in the final inning, nailing Gordon Keeley, Ed Staahl, and pitcher Martin on third strikes.

Hinsdale Golf Squad Handles Host Arlington

HOSTING THE DISTRICT GOLF meet Friday at Golden Acres Country Club will be the Arlington High School varsity squad. Coach Gary Clendenny poses with varsity performers (l. to r.) junior Fred Devin, sophomore Darryl Burkett, and senior George Brinke. Each squad may play seven men with the low four scores counting.

Hinsdale finished second in the state golf championships last spring and appears ready to make another determined bid for the coveted title this year.

The powerful Red Devils journeyed to Golden Acres Country Club last Thursday and hammered the host Arlington Cardinals, 316-331, in varsity competition.

Arlington came through on the frosh-soph level with a 356-367 triumph keyed by Bob Armour's fine 80.

Leith Anderson of Hinsdale toured Golden Acres in 41-36 for a 77 in pacing the Red Devils' 15 stroke triumph in the varsity action. He headed Arlington's number one man Fred Devin (41-40) by four strokes.

ANDERSON WAS the third leading individual in the state finals as a junior, covering the 36 holes at Urbana Country Club in rounds of 80-75.

Posting 79s for the victorious Red Devils were Wayne and Cheny. Mike Wise, first round leader downstate last spring with a solid 72, had to settle for an 81 Thursday with a 39 back nine.

Devin's 81 tied teammate Rog O'Neil for Arlington's honors with both boys turning in cards of 41-40.

Darryl Burkett, a sophomore, fashioned an 83 for the hosts despite a disastrous finish that saw a double bogey, bogey, and double bogey on the last three holes.

GEORGE BRINKE, a senior, chipped in with an 86 on nines of 42-44 for the Cardinals. Chuck Friedlander mushroomed to a 93 and his total didn't figure in the Arlington score.

Armour continued his consistent golf in the frosh-soph meet with identical nines of 40-40, and he earned a varsity berth according to head coach Gary Clendenny.

Also entered in the Arlington total were Roger Baer with an 89, Rick Price with a 90, and Dave Carlson with a 97.

The Cards of coach Gary Clendenny carried a 1-3 dual meet record into action this week on a varsity level with a 2-2 frosh-soph slate.

Arlington was slated to battle Prospect yesterday (Wednesday) and will journey to Downers Grove today (Thursday). District action will unfold Friday at Golden Acres.

St. Viator Sophs Fall In No-Hitter

Ralph Salvinolo hurled a no-hitter Monday afternoon as St. Joseph blanked St. Viator 6-0 in a frosh-soph baseball game.

The fast-balling right hander fanned 11 and walked only one in conquering the Lions.

Bill Ewald and Joe Spence worked on the mound for Larry Nomellini's squad.

St. Joseph tallied three runs in the second and added three in the sixth on a home run by Salvinolo.

Lindstrom Shot Gives Cards' Win

Senior Delivers Key Blow in 6-4 Victory

Revenge was sweet for Rog Lindstrom.

Victim of the strikeout pitch on three occasions in Arlington's first outing with York this spring, the solid third-sacker delivered the decisive blow in the Cards' thrilling 6-4 victory last week.

A tremendous smash to left-center in the tenth inning by the Arlington senior carried Bob Baker's varsity aggregation to its fifth straight West Suburban triumph and handed York its fourth reversal.

ROG LINDSTROM

SOUTHPAW Paul Splittorff, generally acknowledged as Arlington's No. 1 flinger this spring, went the route for his second straight league triumph. The tall junior fanned seven and walked five.

With one out in the tenth Ken Layden singled and with a two-ball, two-strike count Lindstrom caught hold of a Paul Suckow fast ball and drilled it to left-center to give Arlington the victory.

Splittorff got off to a rocky start when his leadoff delivery in the first inning was belted to center field by York's Maury Kennedy for a home run.

ARLINGTON bounced back in its half of the first against Duke starter Pat Wirball when soph shortstop Mike Frase slammed a triple to left-center leading off. After Joe Wertheimer walked, Layden slapped a single to send home Frase.

Another walk loaded the bases and Russ Ward lofted a sacrifice fly to right field, bringing in Wertheimer. A double play checked the Arlington uprising.

Baker's Cards pushed across another pair in the fifth with Splittorff slapping a homer to aid his own cause. Frase scored on Lindstrom's sacrifice fly after the soph had drilled a single to left.

York added a single run in the fifth and two in the sixth to send the game into extra innings.

Splittorff yielded only one hit over the last four frames in blanking the Dukes.

Proviso West Triumphs

Rain Hampers Track Squads at Hinsdale

Maybe the weatherman was an old record holder.

He certainly didn't show any mercy last Saturday at the 13th Annual Hinsdale Relays.

Friday was sunny and clear. It was an ideal day for a track meet.

Sunday was sunny and clear, another perfect day.

On Saturday the skies opened up at the wrong time (approximately 2:05 p.m.) and drove the athletes, coaches, and spectators to cover with a heavy downpour. Action continued later, but . . .

GIVEN DECENT track conditions, a talented field of athletes could have rewritten the record book at Hinsdale last Saturday. As it turned out, three records were broken, two in the field events and one in an event that preceded th storm.

Proviso West won the meet with 73 points with Hinsdale second with 50. Powerful LaGrange didn't use several of its talented entries and placed third with 49 markers.

Arlington's Bill Traux, the powerful Cardinal junior who only the week before had snapped the long-standing Palatine Relays discuss mark, was at it again Saturday.

TRAUX FLIPPED the discus 160-5 to break the record of 154-9 set in 1961 by Cos of Morton. However, the throw was only the third best in Bill's career.

Morton West's Rich Ellison, who is threatening to rewrite the state record books in the pole vault, surpassed the state mark for the second straight week with a nifty effort of 13-4¾, exactly one-quarter inch on top of his previous best.

Ellison snapped the record of 12-6 established by Hinsdale's Bill Keel in 1958.

GLENBARD West's swift two mile relay team of Ed Kalsbeek, Royce Husted, Ken Swanson, and Jim Isaacson covered the distance in a brilliant 7:55.5, less than six seconds shy of the national mark and the best recorded in Illinois. The Bard flyers broke the Hinsdale mark by over nine seconds.

Records were set in both the mile run and 120 yard high hurdles as neither event had previously been included on the meet card.

John Jaeger of Hinsdale won the mile in a fine, rain hampered 4:25.0, and Tom Bremner of Prospect skimmed over the high hurdles in :15.2.

THE STORM CAME at the start of the highs, and the qualifiers were hampered all the way. Downers Grove's Greg Grosrenaud, a :14.9 performer in a preliminary heat, didn't enter the finals when the track condition became so bad.

Prospect's Knights picked up 39 points in the meet with firsts by Bremner in the highs, the low hurdle shuttle team, and the 880 yard relay team.

Prospect's victory in the low hurdle shuttle was expected. After all, the Knights are making hurdle triumphs a habit this spring. But the swift local entry of Larry Bogart, Terry Seitmann, Bremner and Ron Koepke missed a new record by eight-tenths of a second because of the slow track.

THE KNIGHTS also flashed to victory in the 880 yard relay with Jim Renner, Larry Bogart, John Carsello, and Dan Johnson covering the distance in a track-hampered 1:32.7.

Also scoring for Prospect were Bogart with a second in the high hurdles, the frosh-soph 880 yard relay team with a fourth, Ralph Stone with a fourth in the discus, and Dave Gobeille with a second in the high jump.

Arlington collected 21 points with Traux contributing five on his record. Robin Auld, senior miler, finished third in his specialty behind Hinsdale's Jaeger and Proviso West's junior sensation Jim Letterer, and Jeff Hoy placed fifth in the high jump.

The Cards picked up a fourth in the mile medley relay and a second in the frosh-soph 880 yard relay.

Roche Hits 6-0 in CYO Track Test

Bill Roche of St. Viator High School cleared 6-0 Sunday in the high jump in a Catholic Youth Organization track meet at Rockne Stadium in Chicago.

Roche set a record in winning his specialty.

Pat Kennedy of St. Viator finished fifth in the broad jump with a leap of 17-1.

Both Roche and Kennedy were competing in the 14-16 age bracket in the CYO competition.

Connie Foster Sets Record

Connie Foster of the Northwest Suburban YMCA girls swimming team set a new state YMCA record for the 50-yard freestyle in the Midget Division with a time of 31.5 seconds at the Illinois Area championship.

Winners from the four state districts took part in the competition at Thornridge High School in Dolton, Ill.

Meadowdale Raceway to Open May 26

With the running of the May 25-26 Spring Classic road races, sponsored by the Midwestern Council of Sports Car Clubs, Meadowdale International Raceway opens its 1963 schedule of auto racing events.

This season's calendar of races at the Carpentersville (Ill.) circuit surpasses that of any previous year, with a minimum of six top-caliber meets already set.

Under the new management of Mid-America Auto Racing Inc., headed by Veteran Chicago publicists Ralph Banghart and Ben Bentley, Meadowdale last season enjoyed its greatest success in the track's six year history.

Letters to the Editor

Who's Next on Malign List?

I'm very curious, why did you pick on Meadowdale? Perhaps the author of "This Is Meadowdale" has a personal bone to pick with Leonard Bensinger. If so, why not take a direct slap at Mr. B.? Why take it out on those of us who live here. We do not live in slums. We cared enough to make the sacrifices that were necessary to keep our homes here. The people you write about are gone; the article doesn't affect them at all, the only ones hurt are those of us still here.

Supposing that, for some reason or other (not because we are ashamed to live here, but maybe a job transfer) we want to sell, who, after reading your article, would even consider moving here?

LISTEN, WE are growing and we have growing pains, but we are doing something about it, so don't knock it. We are a little tired of hanging our heads in shame because we live in Meadowdale—on somebody elses say so. Come out and take a good look, a good unbiased look. Take a look at our village board, our schools, parks, recreation programs, swimming pool, our clubs and organizations, our churches and our political groups. They are all working for a better community. Take a look at our newspapers, they print information that helps the community and don't waste space making derogatory remarks about sister communities.

Take a good long look at your author. Does she, or is it a he, have a personal ax to grind. It is obviously someone who knows a certain area of Meadowdale and closes his or her eyes to the rest of it. How biased can you get? If you present the negative why not present the positive side of the picture?

DID YOUR author of "This is Meadowdale" do it for personal gain or for revenge? Believe me, it certainly was a biased and nasty piece of reporting, just under the wire of legal slander, and I very much doubt if it will end there. Those of us living in Meadowdale are very much incensed over it. We will be heard from. Anyway, your circulation sure went up. Everyone who plans to make Meadowdale their permanent home wanted a copy. Those of us who had them passed them around and went into Arlington to get more. That's one way to sell papers.

Who are you going to malign next week?

Says Two Sides Story Not Told

Is it really possible that the new school board of District 57, Mount Prospect, has only been in office 20 days?

The large amount of space devoted to Mr. Marble's and Mr. Brown's opinions of the new board would lead me to one of two conclusions: That we parents had better tar and feather those "nasty" new school board members immediately, or in the alternative, pull our children from the ruins of a once fine school system.

As a parent of children in the school system, I would be pleased to heed the Herald's warnings of imminent catastrophe, but only after we are told fairly, and without prejudice on the part of your Mount Prospect editor precisely what this new board has done. Only one side has been presented.

MR. MARBLE'S remarks in his "Letter to the Editor" were difficult to understand. He questioned the legality of the new board's decision to "retract the contracts" of the superintendent and his assistant. Is he sure of his facts?

As I understand it, the contracts were tendered by the new board to the administrative personnel in question, but did not include the salary increases granted by the outgoing board. Apparently Mr. Marble was in error when he stated that the new board had no regard for the "sanctity of contracts."

Speaking of sanctity for a minute, if the old board knew that the incoming board had the power to disregard their recommendations, wouldn't the "sanctity" of all concerned been better preserved if the old board had courteously and humanely appraised the new group of their recommendations rather than ramming them down the throat of the new board in a "lame-duck" action?

Presidents, governors, the Congress, (school boards?) find it is in the country's or state's interest to release the reins of government to new officials in a "courteous" and "harmonious" manner. Referring to Mr. Brown's opinion published May 2 by the Herald, he spoke of "humiliations to the staff."

Who caused the humiliation, Mr. Brown?

CONSIDER: Is a 4 to 3 vote in favor of granting increases a vote of confidence? Didn't anyone notice that the platforms of two incoming members contained pronounced statements in favor of salary increases based upon merit reviews? Did the outgoing board members tender new contracts to the superintendent and other personnel without considering the possibility of disapproval by the new board in spite of the obvious facts mentioned above?

Mr. Marble tells us of capricious, precipitate actions. Wasn't this a "capricious, precipitate action" on the part of the old board? It's difficult to judge unless you are in possession of all the facts. Let's have them once and for all, but in a less emotionally prejudiced vein.

Now let's briefly discuss the merit review system favored by the new board members for granting salary increases. It's as old as Methusaleh and as new as yesterday. Thousands of business concerns employ this procedure every day without hysterics.

It is quite normal to refrain from granting an increase each and every year at high salary levels. Our superintendent of schools certainly is at this level. If his performance has been outstanding year after year, then let's reward him year after year. If his performance has been average, however, the knowledge that he will be rewarded only for an outstanding performance will act as an incentive toward this end. The exact opposite happens when raises become automatic and complacency sets in.

THE BOARD members of District 57 have a duty sanctioned by the voters. Let's provide them with an opportunity to put into practice the policies approved by these voters. Twenty days in office is hardly a yardstick for measuring their abilities.

If the Herald is interested in providing this community (Mount Prospect) with the services expected of a newspaper having its reputation, they will immediately assign their most skilled reporter the task of interviewing these new members and publish their goals and policies for School District 57, but as the board members see them, not as someone else interprets them.

Mr. Marble presented one side. Mr. Brown, with the Herald's approval and encouragement, presented an enlarged version of the same viewpoint. Do I hear a motion to present the other side of the story, Mr. Paddock?

William Reinhardt

Full Participation from All Parties Urged by Gillespie

The recent village election in Wheeling brought forth many interested individuals as supporters of the three slates that ran.

Now that the election is over it would be my hope that the interest generated during the election should not diminish. I would urge those that supported the three slates of candidates to continue their activity and take as large a part as possible in our village government. It is only through the efforts of individuals that are interested in Wheeling that Wheeling will progress on an even keel in the years to come.

I WOULD also urge the president and board of trustees to call upon and take advantage of the talents these individuals have to offer. I would sincerely hope that the supporters of all three slates will be called upon, and not just the supporters of the winning slate.

I believe that the village now has a core of hard working individuals, and that this group should be encouraged to remain active by our elected officials.

In times gone by it has been the custom to use only the talents of those that supported the winning slate. Were this custom to be continued, it would be a sorry waste of talent which could have been put to use in helping Wheeling forge ahead.

I WOULD also hope that the goals of all three slates will be implemented by our village board. Just because there was but one winning slate certainly does not mean that the goals of the two slates that did not win are of no value.

I would like to suggest, also, that the talents of the candidates be taken advantage of.

For instance: Mr. Ahr could certainly help promote various programs, sponsored by the village, for our younger generation. (Please bear in mind that Wheeling's high school will soon be completed and there must be a place where our teenage children can congregate in our own village rather then going to other villages where they have youth centers, etc.).

Mr. Galow and Mr. Kelm are still members of village bodies and will, I am sure, continue to help our village as such.

MR. JOHNSON could be a great asset to the village were he to be appointed to the planning commission. I would urge the village board to seriously consider appointing Mr. Johnson to this commission.

I would also strongly urge the village board to consider the appointment of Mr. Roach to the zoning board of appeals. Not only is Mr. Roach capable of such a position but it would give the western area of our village representation on the zoning board of appeals.

Also, those slates that did not win had, and I am sure still have, some definite plans for the implementation of their goals or platforms. Should the village board wish I am sure these ideas would be presented to the board.

In closing I would like to thank the many people that worked so hard and diligently for the Planned Growth Party. I would also like to thank those that voted for us. It is deeply appreciated.

U.N. Coverage Wins Praise

Here is a hearty vote of praise to Paddock Publications for its April 25th feature, "U.N.: A New Image." To take the time and trouble to prepare a first hand view of an institution frequently criticized in "suburbia" is evidence of a forthright, forward-looking policy. To present the subject so well is evidence of Larry Cameron's photographic skill and Charles Hayes' journalistic ability.

The League of Women Voters' main reason for existence is to train its members and citizens in general to form political opinion and take political action only after careful study of facts and arguments on both sides of an issue. The League supports the United Nations and is now engaged in a re-study of it. With this in mind, we welcome such a comprehensive report.

She Can't Find Doctors Sunday

I have a question. How and where are you supposed to get a doctor on Sunday in Wheeling? People get sick and have accidents at home on Sundays as well as weekdays.

There are two wonderful medical centers here; they are closed up tight on Sunday.

Something ought to be done about this. It is not fair to the public.

Express Thanks On Library Aid

The Buffalo Grove Branch Library wishes to thank all those public spirited citizens who helped us in our recent move to new quarters at Alcott School.

Many people came to the fore and helped out in an emergency situation. The details involved in the move were accomplished in one afternoon.

We wish to express our gratitude to everyone from the men who toiled that afternoon to move the books, to Cub Scout Pack 211, to Mr. Gill and the School Board of District 21, and to the Buffalo Grove Board of Trustees for their help.

Our grateful thanks to all.

Scores Rough Rail Crossing

John Q. Public of Arlington Heights certainly and surely deserves a shiny medal for sweet, silent, uncomplaining tolerance with indifferent regard for his comfort, life, limb and possessions. This concerns the incredibly rough railroad crossing at North Western Railroad and State Road. State Road is our only north-south thoroughfare. If there is a worse crossing anywhere on the North Western Line in the Chicago suburbs, this citizen has not tried it.

Now, while the crossing is blocked for other reasons, is an opportune time to rebuild the crossing If the proper agency responsible for this perpetual civic insult cannot find means to do it—I say, let's pass the hat.

Band President Enjoyed Story

I would like to express our appreciation for the pictures and story by Joan Lorenson in the May 2 issue of your papers. One or two technical inaccuracies of the most minor sort are not even worth mentioning in the face of such excellent handling.

The interest and cooperation expressed by Paddock Publications in bringing our activity to the attention of residents of the area will certainly contribute greatly to the success of our 1963 season.

She Wants Cats To be Licensed

I'd like to get up on the soap box and ask: Why is it we dog owners must keep our pets on a leash, curb 'em and have them licensed and given shots? The cat owners don't have any of these problems.

True, there are some people who keep their felines well-fed and housed. The majority, however, allow their pets to roam; free to disturb the birds, squirrels, rabbits and whatever; to dig up loose soil in gardens and even to catch their dinners.

A LICENSE for cats would be an additional source of revenue for the city, village or county. And it would discourage owners from letting cats run, because they would protect their property when money is involved.

Legislation should be passed regarding these animals. If there are laws, why aren't they enforced?

I'd really like to know.

Mrs. Joyce Mundelius

Says Editorial Aid Gratifying

Thank you very much for your editorial concerning the recommendations of this Commission. We are very gratified at the reception of the bills in the General Assembly and are confident that the new department will justify the interest and support it has received throughout the state.

Rep. Peskin and all the members of the Commission want to thank you for your help.

Donald Brieland, Ph.D.
Executive Director
Legislative Commission on Services for Children and Their Families.

Board Member Thanks Voters

I sometimes wonder why a person submits to the time-consuming, sometimes thankless, task of being a school board member. I hasten to add, however, that many people appreciate the efforts expended by the board, and there is a great satisfaction in making even a minor contribution to the benefit of our coming generation. Certainly, a board member has to be interested in the development of our youth, our community and the progress of our country. It is my hope that school board members can apply themselves to this end and to the other goals that have been set.

Thank you for the opportunity you have given me to serve you as a school board member. I am grateful to those who voted for me and I salute all who took time from their busy Easter planning to vote.

It is sad and a little frightening that so few of the eligible voters come out to vote. I know of many people who stay away because they don't know for whom or what to vote. To those folks, we might suggest that they become more interested in civic affairs since they are directly affected by the future of the community as well as by taxation.

Says Improving Community Goal

Preparing and getting the Rolling Meadows Business Directory into the community is a good idea; however, in the preparation of the booklet, we, the members of the Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes were not satisfied with the description of our civic organization.

We are not "Primarily a social group" as stated in this booklet. We do support Jaycee projects and we have been called upon to serve at civic functions.

PRIMARILY we plan projects of our own to raise money which we donate back into the community. In the last few years the Jaycee-ettes have donated to the following community groups:

Friends of the Library; Youth Commission; Jaycee Teen-Age Rodeo; Clearbrook School for the Retarded; Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association; Rolling Meadows Fire Department for various equipment; park district for picnic Commerce for fireworks; Jaytables and grills; Chamber of cee Christmas shut-in project and an ill, stricken family.

We have also sponsored a Girl Scout Troop and purchased flags for them.

THE TOTAL contributions from the Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes to the above groups amounts to over $650.

We want it known we are a group of young women who work hard for the betterment of our community. We do have social functions, but this is not our primary interest.

Raps Election 'Smear' Drive

In the few weeks before the last election in Buffalo Grove, I witnessed a campaign carried out by the Homeowner's Party that, in my opinion, contained falsehoods, half truths, and insinuations about the motives of Bud Chiappe, and other Better Buffalo Grove Party candidates.

Mr. Farrington was retained in office as village president by a margin of 93 votes. I wonder how many of these people were misled by believing the smear campaign put forth by the Homeowner's Party.

I THINK the villagers should know some of the facts behind a few of these false insinuations.

1. It was Mr. Chiappe who first agreed to work for a salary of $50 a month if elected to the village presidency, not Mr. Farrington.

2. Mr. Chiappe's brother-in-law has no personal interest in the Buffalo Utility Co. whatsoever.

3. The article in the Wheeling Independent concerning the sale of Mr. Chiappe's house sure appeared at an opportune time (for the Homeowner's Party). I think the Independent should have presented a few facts from Mr. Chiappe's side—before the election. Unless, of course, they were backing the Homeowner's Party, and if that was the case, the Independent should editorialize on the question, not present it as a general news story.

Any one who attended any "coffees" for Mr. Chiappe and the Better Buffalo Grove Party knew the story about his home being up for sale.

HE REQUESTED it be taken off the market in late November. But the contract with the real estate company had to be fulfilled; it expired last February.

Mr. Chiappe had no knowledge whatsoever of the ad offering his house for sale in the March 7 issue of the Arlington Heights newspaper.

Let's wait and see what occurs in the forthcoming years with the Homeowner's Party in control of the village. And as the management of the Chicago ball teams always says, "Wait till next time."

'Tunnel Vision Reporting' Hit

Your article "This Is Meadowdale" depicted a very clear and true picture of the shortsightedness, lazy and contemptuous actions of too many Meadowdale families. But your article is fallacious and misleading. You say "This Is Meadowdale," all of 205 homes are vacant and, how many did you say needed obvious repairs? That's right, you didn't quote any number, you just printed pictures of a few of our worst homes.

For argument's sake, let's say there are 100 or so homes that need these "obvious" repairs. We have approximately 4000 homes and 305 or so is a little more than 8 per cent, if my arithmetic isn't too far off.

ADMITTEDLY, this is a large number of homes to be empty or run down, but, Helene Bristol, your article implies that our village is 100 per cent slum area and I and many of my neighbors are quite indignant and angry about your generalities. You must have read Darrell Huff's book on "Statistics." Did you really bother looking at Meadowdale or were you too busy looking for "dirt?"

We would literally show you hundreds of homes here that have been improved far beyond their original value, or, at least have been well kept, including beautiful lawns and shrubbery.

I repeat, your article was true, as far as it went. But, it is what you left unsaid that is morally and financially damaging to the greater majority of proud Meadowdale home owners.

I personally want to thank you for this article, because your "tunnel visioned" reporting has left me sufficiently angry to start stepping on many toes of our elected civil servants and, maybe, a few of our "ills" can be corrected in due time.

Gay C. Hughes
Carpentersville.

Few Give Town Its Bad Name

After reading your article about Meadowdale, I want to take time to write you about how I see Meadowdale.

I'll grant you that in some of the sections of Meadowdale they need repair work and others have lost their homes because of added expense that they couldn't afford, and others just through no fault of their own. The five per cent that are empty according to your figures is a very small percentage as to the number of homes that are out here in Meadowdale.

I HAVE lived out here in Meadowdale for almost four years and I like it. We live in a nice area of Carpentersville. Most everyone takes pride in maintaining their homes and trying to make it a better place to live. I feel very fortunate to own a home of my own where my children can play with the freedom of their own yard and not worrying about landlords, etc.

We have one of the nicest shopping areas in Meadowdale with many lovely, well known stores. People from all over come to shop there, so if Meadowdale were as bad as your article makes it sound, I'm sure we wouldn't have these stores here.

As far as homes with no money down, perhaps these homes that are vacant would not be and perhaps they would. That's something I don't know myself. To be given the opportunity to buy a home when you are young and to build it up to something is worth a lot to me.

IT'S A SHAME to judge Meadowdale as a whole with some of the slanderous remarks made in the article for the small percentage of homes that have given our community its bad name. Every community has those few, even your Rolling Meadows, which is no different than any other community. All that I can say is, "As a whole, Meadowdale is a very nice place and I am proud to live here."

Mrs. Robert Touchette

YOU CAN KNOCK
ON EVERY DOOR . . .

Did you know that over 40,000 families in the northwest suburbs write Want Ads and place them in Paddock Publication newspapers? This proves that those little fellows really work.

The amazing thing about Want Ads is that the results are excellent and the cost is so low. It would literally be impossible to knock on every door served by Paddock Publications for the small cost of a Want Ad.

Try a Paddock Publication Want Ad this week and see for yourself why over 40,000 families know that Want Ads work for them.

'Wish He'd Take Me Into His Confidence'

The Way We See It

The Information Gap

A mutual pulse-taking between the "grassroots" press of the country and the Kennedy Administration has been taking place lately, although the disturbing thought remains that the exercise isn't mutual.

The Administration has been inviting editors and broadcasters from throughout the country to conferences on foreign policy, to Pentagon and Congressional briefings, in order to clarify and expound particular beliefs, theories and practices.

Representatives from Paddock Publications recently attended two such affairs. While it is soothing to the ego to receive the word "from the horse's mouth," and, indeed, to even view the beast, there are some serious reservations one carries away from such briefings.

The national foreign policy conference for editors and broadcasters conducted by the Department of State on April 22 and 23, for instance, included on-the-record speakers, background speakers to whom remarks could not be attributed, and off-the-record comments by President Kennedy.

First of all, one wonders why any of these sessions are conducted for "background" information since most of the material discussed has been published or uttered before. What such a designation accomplishes, it would appear, is to give newsmen the feeling they are being taken into the confidence of some august personages; they become part of the "insiders" group, a most prestigious event.

If such conferences are to be conducted on a "background only" basis, those in charge of arrangements might make an effort to present some fresh material. There are probably sensitive areas of concern which could be conveyed by officials in such a manner as to inform without embarrassment to them or the Administration.

President Kennedy's off-the-record remarks, however, did contain some new appraisals. It was disconcerting, therefore, to read them April 30 on a Chicago newspaper's editorial page under a column signed, "The Allen-Scott Report." The report has this example: "In these private talks (the conference), the President stresses, 'There are far more dangerous situations (than Cuba) facing the United States in a number of other Latin American nations.' He usually singles out Brazil and Argentina."

The Allen-Scott report also picked out this bit of new intelligence in quoting the President: " 'I have never favored an invasion of Cuba by United States troops since I became President,' he says, 'nor did former President Eisenhower.' " The report is full of reference to "complained to one group," "tells his callers." Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who participated in "background" briefings, is also quoted directly. Whether the column is a breach of confidence or releasing of information at what the Administration considered an opportune time is not apparent. But it should serve to put other newsmen on notice that they may expect to see other "off-the-record" talks in print.

Much of what the President said, he has stated before. Yet what he had to say about the increasing danger of war by miscalculation, intensified by the drift of nuclear weapons to other countries, needs repeating. Only if the people in a democracy have all the facts at their disposal can they make sound judgments as to a course of action.

The criticism here is not with "news management." It is not concerned with news influencing, which is the politician's due. What we are concerned with is the content and methods of distributing governmental information. We think official Washington, with the niagara of facts at its disposal, could do more about releasing it to the public.

We live in perilous times. There is fear of panicking populations, of the infection of hysteria. But we are also a democracy. Under such a system, the people are the final custodians of decision-making. Their voices will be better heard if Washington will consult them more.

Perfidious Performances

"Perfidy — breach of faith; treachery." — Webster Dictionary

This is the only word to describe the recent actions of some of our state legislators of both parties.

In two ways they have shamed the state and themselves.

The first instance is when Republicans refused to appropriate emergency relief funds until being permitted to place ceilings on public aid payments.

What they actually did was threaten people with starvation and possible ejection from their homes in order to bully their pet ceiling project through.

The second instance which should disgust citizens is the transfer of a bill which would place Cook County sheriff's deputies under a civil service merit system from one committee to another where Chicago's West Side Bloc has a better chance of scuttling it.

Playing politics with misery and law enforcement is a breach of the faith. Members of the General Assembly took an oath of office. Their recent actions show they did little more than pay lip service to it, go through the formalities, gesture emptily.

It is a source of bewilderment to us how a legislator like William A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, could vote with the West Side Bloc. Redmond is a respected attorney and was a staunch backer of Gov. Otto Kerner, a former county judge who once fought organized crime as a U.S. prosecutor.

We are also amazed that Bernard M. Peskin, D-Northbrook, choose not to vote on the issue. Peskin was erroneously reported to have cast his ballot with the bloc. It was later learned that he had informed the House clerk he didn't care to vote on the matter. Peskin has earned the reputation, along with other vital, young legislators in the Democratic party as being a "young turk" because of some of the forward-looking reform legislation he has authored and sponsored.

He says he did not vote on the matter because he considered it an intra-party Republican fight.

The West Side Bloc, of course, has allies in both parties. Year after year, with impunity, it beats back any measures aimed at law enforcement reform. It counts its friends in favors and money.

Those Republicans who preferred to use the unfortunate state of the poor as a fulcrum have different allies. They are called cynicism, arrogance, indifference, callousness and — perfidy.

Cherry Tiff Blossoms

Promises of 'Pie in Sky'

by BOB CUMMINS

New York and Michigan grow more cherries than any other states, I believe. Warm spring breezes blowing off Lake Michigan and Lake Ontario do wonders for cherries.

New York's Senators Keating and Javitz are so busy trying to make Nelson Rockefeller the next president that they have almost forgotten about cherries.

That leaves it up to Michigan, which hasn't let us down. Senator Philip Hart has been fighting the good fight for cherry pie lovers.

CUMMINS

Senator Hart bought a cherry pie from a store's frozen food case, and made a determination that it had only 40 cherries in it.

He also compared the number of cherries pictured in a colorful illustration on the pie box with the number of cherries actually in the pie. There was a disappointing discrepancy.

Senator Hart used this evidence as ammunition in the fight for a "truth in packaging" law.

You can get some idea of the fierceness of this conflict from the following:

DIARY OF A PIE BAKER

May 14—Baked pie with only 51 cherries today. Will try 49 tomorrow.

May 15—Noticed Senator Hart hanging around supermarkets. Had package under arm. It was wrapped. Couldn't see if it contained pie. Better play safe. Will put 60 cherries in tomorrow's pies.

May 20—Agents report Senator Hart staying away from supermarkets. Now is chance for breakthrough. Will bake pie with 49 cherries tomorrow.

May 21—I did it! I did it! Pies selling good. Hear that Hart is tied up in hearings on TFX and Skybolt contracts. Mrs. Hart doing all the shopping. What a break!

May 23—Only 45 cherries per pie today. Going after 43 tomorrow.

MAY 27—Something wrong. Pie sales dropping. Supermarkets complaining. Big inventories. Gotta do something.

May 29—Hired artist to paint new picture for pie boxes. Will show slice of pie with 75 cherries oozing out.

June 1—Still having trouble. Artist didn't pan out. Some sort of beatnik or modernist. Painted cherries that looked like Brazil nuts. Interviewing new artist today.

June 3—Have terrific pie box picture! People raving about it. Will offer copies for framing. Two labels and 25 cents.

June 5—Got the alarm about noon—"Senator Hart going to the supermarket." Beat him there somehow. Loitered in frozen food section for an hour to block him if he headed for pies. But he spent his time shaking cereal boxes. A tense afternoon. I'm beat.

JUNE 7—Today was Black Friday. Thought I had the supermarkets covered. But Hart outfoxed us. Picked up a pie in a little delicatessen. Paid for it and was on his way before I could get there. Pie only had 40 cherries in it.

June 8—Pie was on TV last night. I'm licked. Ordered basket of pumpkins for tomorrow.

The Critic's Corner

A Lawyer's Ethics

by JOAN LORENSON
Palatine News Editor

Thieves have their code of honor. Sociologists point out any "in group" has its code and even "outs" banding together have a code.

Attorneys also have a code. Violation presumably will bring them before their local bar association. The Chicago Bar Association has a grievance committee which sits in trials of attorneys accused of professional misconduct.

But sometimes it seems attorneys give lip service to the fine code of ethics they call their own. It becomes the glue which binds them together. Because they are of the brotherhood subscribing to the code, no criticism will be levied at them from within unless they commit the most flagrant violation of ethics; other attorneys will look discreetly elsewhere.

LORENSON

Attending justice of the peace courts and working with local police departments tends to make a person cynical about the men who practice the profession of law. To too many it seems a guarantee to more than $10,000 annual salary, little more.

Can you help not becoming cynical when—

In a justice of the peace court, an attorney tells the j.p. he is going to plead "not guilty" for his client. However, when he finds this will mean another court date, he changes his client's plea to "guilty." "I've come from Chicago and already wasted a couple of hours waiting for this case. It will mean another trip out here so we'll change our plea," he comments in justification.

His baffled client signs the paper directed by his attorney. He has had his day in court.

ASKED TO defend a man faced with the charge of "driving while under the influence," which means revocation of driver's license and sizeable fine upon conviction, the attorney's first question is, "Are you prepared to pay my fee?"

An attorney comes into the police station prior to court date to establish "rapport" and get a few details. He admits his client should be behind bars, shrugs his shoulders over the miscreant. This is considered permissible. Our courts operate on the theory a man is innocent until proven guilty.

All too many attorneys seem to take the attitude they are willing to sell out if they can pocket a client fee.

Attorneys shy from any behavior in court which might be labeled "obnoxious." The code seems to indicate, at least at a local level, one must not be too naively vigorous in championing one's client's cause.

Law school professors admit the idealistic young law student is a rare specimen. Most students look upon the legal profession as an investment of their time and money in so much education to guarantee them security and the better things in life.

SUCH AN OUTLOOK is not necessarily bad if these law students are imbued with desire to do a craftsman-like job —practicing law to the best of their ability. With this would go an acceptance of responsibility when they accept a client.

It has become a sad day when the little man who has gotten himself in serious difficulty has to look a long way to find someone who will defend him well. He must realize he is open prey to an attorney who may milk him for a fee but not fight to the utmost to defend him. In fact he may be safer defending himself in his own way.

I would charge it is about time attorneys look at the words they allegedly hold dear in their code of ethics and see if they practice according to them. If they don't, let them be honest and abandon lip service to the code.

It is time for the individualists in the legal profession to criticize their brethren for sloppy defense in the court, even if it is on a local level. It is time for them to speak out against taking the "easy way out" in a case or sympathizing openly with police or judges who will hear the case.

IPAC Code Change Would Invite Abuse

by SEN. PAUL SIMON

One of the major issues of this legislative session has yet to be determined—should we abolish the Public Aid Commission?

The last few months have been stormy for the Public Aid Commission. Issues have ranged from the birth control controversy to the recent crisis over the remarks of the chairman of the commission, Arnold Maremont. On top of that there is increasing dissatisfaction with the mounting costs of public aid in Illinois.

IF ALL OF these things make us believe that there is some magic in getting rid of the Public Aid Commission we are fooling ourselves.

The proposal is to drop the Public Aid Commission and make it another department directly under the governor. The theory of that is right—but the carrying out of it is another matter.

The weaknesses of this suggestion are:

1) It will not save us tax dollars. The costs of public aid have been mounting steadily under both Democrats and Republicans. A change in administrative procedure will not change this. The only thing that will change the picture is an attack on the causes which create the necessity of public aid. As Bill Boyne, editor of the East St. Louis Journal, noted recently: "We will not beat the problem until we stop thinking only in terms of how much it costs."

2) Putting public aid directly under the governor will do one thing which is now generally avoided: it will bring it under the pressures of partisan politics. Regardless of the party which is in power, this would not be a good thing. With few exceptions, those on the public aid lists today are there because there is a real need, not because they know someone of influence, or happen to belong to the party in power. We should keep it that way.

3) The theory that the governor has no power over public aid under the present setup is simply not true. When the former chairman disagreed with the governor, he resigned. The governor or members of his staff are welcome at all Public Aid Commission meetings they care to attend.

THE FACT THAT any administration which is in power generally has not wielded much influence on the Public Aid Commission is that it has not wanted to. With few exceptions, public aid is considered chiefly when budget time rolls around. It is viewed mainly as a financial problem.

In all of the current controversy over public aid, it is possible that we will move toward some solutions. By "solutions" can only be meant the reduction of present demands. Many of those receiving public aid—the disabled and the blind, for example—are not likely to be taken off the rolls, regardless of what happens.

Training and education are a major part of the answer; formulas that encourage recipients to work are part of it; more aid to ADC mothers in food rather than cash may be another part of the answer.

Other things could be mentioned.

But part of the answer most certainly should not be subjecting our public aid program to the whims of partisan politics. If Illinois were a state with a strong civil service system, the proposal to put this department under the governor would make sense. Until Illinois has such a system, however, such a change is an open invitation to abuse.

Portrait of Karl Barth

by MARTIN E. MARTY

Two experiences have led me to reflect on the ways we miss the real religious excitements of the day.

At noon I was trapped in Marshall Field's book department for 20 minutes while waiting for Mrs. M. to buy her mother's day gifts elsewhere on the third floor (in the department where men stutter and stumble).

MARTY

I amused myself by looking at the religious book displays. There are numbers of books offered, but most of them are trite, superficial inspirational and self-help books. Who buys them?

Certainly whoever does and whoever reads them must be prosaic souls who might well walk away with a low view of the excitement of the faith.

Later today I had to review two books, one about Karl Barth and one by him, for the New York Times.

Barth is perhaps the best known Protestant thinker since Luther and Calvin, the most dramatic evangelical voice of our time. Many place him with Augustine and Aquinas and the two already-mentioned thinkers as being the great Christian teachers of the ages.

Before I began writing, I put down on the little blank piece of paper, with the Times audience in view, that I must remember 1) that most have not heard of Barth 2) that they wouldn't care if they did and 3) that they might not understand if they cared.

My task, therefore, would be to introduce him, locate him, suggest why the audience should care, and show how the readers might be attracted.

I was not being condescending — I have the highest regard for the Times' audience. I was being realistic. In the modern world religion is a segregated field of specialization as remote and mysterious as are other technical fields.

This is too bad, for it forces us to discuss religion in shallow, unexciting, unworthy terms. Well, if you want a sense of the excitements try a dose of Barth. His "Evangelical Theology — An Introduction" (Holt, $4) contains the lectures he gave last year on his only visit to America (he was born in 1886). The book is profound, serious, yet humane and now and again witty.

A better, fresh introduction is "Portrait of Karl Barth," by Georges Casalis, with an introduction by Robert McAfee Brown (Doubleday, $3.50).

Here you will see his dramatic life summarized and will be introduced to his writings. You will meet a Swiss pastor, schooled in natural, optimistic, liberal theology.

He was shocked by World War I and wrote an "Epistle to the Romans" commentary which set Christian thought in a different direction.

Now God was portrayed as Other, as transcendent, as free. Man was seen again to be responsible, responsive.

The infinite distance of separation was bridged in Christ.

Barth has since written scores of volumes, including a 12-volume, 6000 page "Church Dogmatics" still in process. I am anything but a "Barthian" but I heartily recommend these wise and witty books over the inspirational "lift man by the bootstraps" junk that passes for "religion" in the book stores — because our demand puts it there.

BUYING A NEW STOVE?
If you are, no doubt you will want to get rid of your old stove.

The fastest, least expensive way for you to do this is to use a Paddock Publications Want Ad.

For as little as $2.00 you can place an ad for merchandise for sale which will appear in all fourteen of Paddock Publications.

Placing a Want Ad is easy. Simply pick up your telephone and dial CL 3-1520, ask for a Want Ad taker. The girl will be happy to assist you in wording your ad or answer any other questions that you might have.

Why not help pay for your new stove by selling the old? You can do it when you use Paddock Publications Classifield Ads.

WHY FISH AROUND?

You'll never find experienced anglers just "FISHIN' AROUND" aimlessly, hoping for a lucky catch. Fishermen soon learn that certain exact spots usually produce consistent catches and these spots are hard to find. In fact, they amount to only a small percentage of the so called "FISHIN' WATER" that meets the eye.

BUT THAT'S WHERE THE FISH ARE

and that's why fishermen, once they've had proof that the spot is a "HOT ONE" always return to the same place. Something like looking for a good home. Experienced shoppers don't go "FISHIN' AROUND" aimlessly hoping for a lucky catch. Wise shoppers go to DOVENMUEHLE . . . The one "HOT SPOT" which is a consistent producer of good values at maximum savings; they've had proof that DOVENMUEHLE gives them the limit in Savings — Every day of the week. DOVENMUEHLE CHANGES "LUCK" INTO CERTAINTY!!

Marine Corps Officer Visits Glenview Base

When Brig. Gen Ronald R. Van Stockum, national director of the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, arrived at Glenview Naval Air Station on April 25 from his headquarters in Washington, D. C., it was to have been for a two-day tour of Leatherneck activities in the Chicago area.

Instead, following an inspection tour at Glenview and attending the noon luncheon to which members of the press and radio were invited, he had to make an emergency flight back to Washington.

GEN. VAN STOCKUM had little time to speak to the group before leaving to appear in the U. S. Senate for discussion of the Appropriations Bill, but he did say that the Marine Reserve program is the backbone of the Marine Corps' part in the nation's defense program.

Accepting luncheon invitations issued by Brig. Gen. L. B. Robertshaw, director of the nation's Marine Air Reservists with headquarters at the Glenview base, were three from the Paddock area: Melda Lynn and Alice Terrill from Paddock Publications and David W. Terrill from the local radio station. WNWC.

To Amarillo

Airman Basic Fred H. Hasse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E.

FRED H. HASSE

Hasse of R.R. 1, Roselle, is being reassigned to Amarillo AFB, Tex., for technical training as a United States Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist.

Airman Hasse, who enlisted in the Air Force a short time ago, completed his initial basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

He is a 1961 graduate of Palatine Township High School.

Army Nurse Corps Offers Commissions

A critical shortage in the ranks of the Army Nurse Corps has resulted in the offering of immediate officer commissions to qualified nurses. The United States Army recruiting service announced this week that this shortage has resulted in a stepped-up recruiting drive and the opening of a number of new programs for perspective candidates.

One of the programs being offered to the registered nurses makes it possible for them to take Army sponsored courses and enter the nurse Corps with the rank of first or second lieutenant. These courses lead to specializations in operating room procedures, obstetrics, pediatrics, neuro - psychiatry and anesthesia techniques.

ANOTHER program is the registered nurse student program. Under this program certain student nurses can become officer candidates for the Army Nurse Corps and have the Army pay for their last year of schooling. They will also receive over three hundred dollars per month for expenses while in nursing school of their choice. The candidates total Army obligation under this particular program is three years, including the time spent in school.

Under these and other programs the Army Nurse is eligible for further professional schooling and on-the-job training as well as the usual Army benefits. These run from job security and retirement programs to thirty days paid vacation per year, and the opportunity for assignments in many areas of the world.

In general, male and female nurses or student nurses between the ages of 18 and 32 and unmarried, are eligible for the Army Nurse Corps. In the case of the student nurses, they will take their state board exams after graduation and then be sent along with registered nurse applicants to Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas. There the candidates take Army orientation courses leading to their commissioning.

After being commissioned either a second or first lieutenant the nurse is assigned to one of the many Army hospitals in the United States. Normally a nurse will not be sent overseas until her second tour of duty. Usually the nurse will be consulted in order to determine her preferences in the geographical area of her assignment and her clinical preference.

Some of the other benefits which Army Nurses are eligible for include post exchange and commissary privileges, free medical and dental care for the nurse and her dependents, the opportunity to join officers' clubs, the opportunity to seek higher degrees in the best universities in the world, and the chance to take part in the many recreational programs offered to Army officers. Further information on the various Army Nurse Corps programs is now available at any local Army Recruiting office. (WUS

At McConnell AFB

Airman 3.C Robert A. Pedersen of Arlington Heights is being reassigned to McConnell AFB, Kan., following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for aircraft mechanics at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

Airman Pedersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Pedersen of 705 S. Burton Place, was trained to maintain and service reciprocating engine aircraft and aircraft systems.

The airman's wife, Judith, is the daughter of Mrs. Alvin Kuhlman of 747 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights. (WUS

How to Travel for Pleasure—and Find It! BY PHILIP WYLIE Round Table: What Is Your Town Doing for Its Children?

Suburbia Today

In This Issue . . .

Big Idea . . . page 8

In 1900, Oris Paxton and Mantis James Van Swearingen, ages 21 and 19, embarked on a real-estate venture that grew to be an $80,000,000 dream-come-true. Eugene Rachlis and John E. Marqusee tell of the pioneering spirit which built Shaker Heights, Ohio, the most spectacular of early American suburbs.

Be a Tourist and Have Fun, Too! . . . page 12

Philip Wylie, author and globe-trotter, gives us his views on how to be a successful tourist. He says that you won't feel a stranger for long if you make up your mind early to like 51% of the people you meet, and if you remember, as soon as you leave the old sod, that you are the foreigner, and relax and laugh at your own blunders.

When the Last Bell Rings . . . page 34

What is there for young people to do in your town after school hours? We queried a panel of editors and publishers of suburban newspapers selected from various parts of the country, and their answers will give you a yardstick to measure what is being done or might be done for the young ones you know.

Fire—Are You a Target? . . . page 38

Why did a family of seven lose their lives when a fire broke out in a modern split-level with every room close to the ground? And why did even the dog escape another time when a rambling old two-story house went up in flames in the dead of night? Fire Chief Lewis Marshall explains the simple measures you can take to protect your family and prevent a fire from breaking out in the first place.

On the Cover

Cover artist Perry Barlow comments on the "relaxing" aspect of golf. Not only has his worried hero a water hazard to overcome, but a mother duck and her brood have suddenly appeared right in his line of fire. But patience—maybe in the time it takes the swimmers to pass, our golfer will become so relaxed he'll make the green, and the day will be saved.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

AN ENTERPRISING wife in Sharpstown, Texas, wanted her husband to be extra rested and relaxed at a gathering of her family, so she laced his bath water with what she called "some good stuff." Her husband got into the tub to bask—but then, "I began to burn and turn red," he said. The bottle of "sweet-smelling stuff" turned out to be meat tenderizer.

Jim Isaac managed to hit one magnificent long drive on an 18-hole golf course in Addison, Illinois. When the round was over, he couldn't stop boasting about it. "Wasn't that drive wonderful?" he asked his partner for the 10th time. "Yes," came the bitter reply. "It's a pity you can't have it stuffed."

The Joseph Miller family of Burbank, California, spend their evenings studying together—and at the same college, too. Mr. Miller is enrolled at Valley College in Van Nuys to take technical writing courses, while Mrs. Miller takes a liberal arts program. Their daughter Helen, 19, is a secretarial science major at the college, and their son Henry, an accounting major, was selected last semester as the outstanding business student of the year.

You can get a totem pole or a primitive dance mask or a Polynesian idol—all carved by Robert Heinmiller of Hollywood, Florida. Mr. Heinmiller, a gunnery sergeant in the Marine Corps Reserve, began his carving 12 years ago when, as a scout leader, he had to make rattles for a skit the troop was producing. From there, he became interested in the more intricate job of creating African witch doctor charms and idols, Alaskan totem poles, and Polynesian primitive art. His reproductions are authentic, and he can tell you the history and use of each piece, which he carves on coconut logs aged at least 40 years —the wood is almost as hard as steel. Prices range from $5 for a fierce mask to $23 per totem-pole foot, and his works find a ready market among the natives of the unexotic U.S.A.

Merchants in a shopping center in Arapahoe County, Colorado, have come up with an idea to give teen-agers a chance to get rid of their surplus energy and have fun at the same time. Once a month, they sponsor a dance on the mall or, if it rains, in the wing of an unfinished building. And the young people run the show. A teen-age planning committee sets the price, which may vary from 15 to 45 cents, depending on the type of music. The committee also takes charge of decorating and maintaining order at the dances, which have been drawing a crowd of more than 250 from the area. The merchants chaperon the affair and donate prizes for dance contests, and a lunchroom serves refreshments at discount prices.

Members of the congregation stop each Sunday morning to admire the beautifully colored mosaic that covers one wall of the vestibule of Trinity Presbyterian Church in North Hollywood, California. The twelve-by-six-foot mosaic is the result of two years' work by young people in the church. Begun as a project to keep high-school students busy in their spare time, the mosaic became much more than that as the boys and girls studied the Bible and other books for four months before deciding on discipleship as their theme. Then they discussed the plan with George Herbert, an artist and member of the church, who drew the design—religious symbols such as the lyre, the dove, and the olive branch around the Hand of God. The panel is made of Venetian glass tile and includes about 30,000 pieces. In addition to the painstaking work of pasting each tile in place, the young people also paid for the $100 in materials by washing cars. Coddled kids, would you say?

MANTIS JAMES VAN SWERINGEN

ORIS PAXTON VAN SWERINGEN

They Had an $80-Million Idea

The fabulous Van Sweringens lost an "empire"—but they created Shaker Heights, Ohio

BY EUGENE RACHLIS AND JOHN E. MARQUSEE

EXCEPT FOR ITS NAME, everything about Shaker Heights can be traced back to a pair of bachelor brothers from Cleveland, Oris Paxton and Mantis James Van Sweringen. Architectural writers and city planners have called their creation "the most spectacular" of the early American suburbs and the one "that probably surpasses anything of like nature in the United States." Students of American business also rate it very highly.

The Van Sweringens, or the Vans, as they came to be known, were born in Wooster, Ohio, a farm community about 50 miles southwest of Cleveland. When Oris was four and Mantis two, their mother died, and the family moved to Cleveland, where two older sisters raised the boys.

Schooling ended at the eighth grade and Oris found work as a clerk. Two years later he got Mantis a messenger's job in the same office, and no one recalls seeing them separated from then until their deaths.

After five years of working together for someone else, they decided to try to make good on their own. In 1900, following a brief ownership of a bicycle rental and repair shop, they took their first tentative step in real estate by acquiring a 24-hour option on a piece of Cleveland property, which they sold at a $100 profit. A few weeks later they did the same thing with another property. This quick turnover was the strongest argument for a career the two young men ever had heard. Oris Paxton and Mantis James Van Sweringen, 21 and 19 respectively, were embarked in the real-estate business.

Before the Vans—rough land, deserted houses.

By 1900, meantime, the original settlers, the religious sect called the Shakers, had moved on from the land they liked to call "The Valley of God's Pleasure" and which Clevelanders called Shaker Heights. The property was sold for $316,000 to a Buffalo syndicate which cut a few roads, laid out some lots, and put them on the market. But the 1,400 acres of land became grown over with weeds and brush, three real-estate agencies gave up trying to sell it, and the owners were not at all happy. Nevertheless, the means by which the Van Sweringens were to take their place among the nation's most wealthy and powerful citizens was there. The brothers were looking for undeveloped areas suitable for high-priced houses, and when they were confronted by the Shaker Heights property, all but deserted, they went to Buffalo and convinced W. H. Gratwick, the head of the syndicate, that they could do something with it. The Vans insisted on one proviso: if they took up a first option, they would then be permitted a second one for twice as much land and for twice as long a period, and, if they took that up, a third, and so on. This did not seem an especially exorbitant demand to Gratwick, and he agreed.

To the Vans it was to be the basis for expansion with a minimum use of their own funds and, with only the slightest indication of their vision of Shaker Heights, they convinced some of Cleveland's leading bankers and businessmen that the land was a good investment. With substantial backing, their ambitions grew, and after picking up the first and then the second option they decided it was a slow method for expansion, and bought the entire property.

$80-Million Idea

They divided their land into sections, each of which had its own rigid standards and prices, and separated the sections with winding roads lined with parks and lakes. It is a testimony to their skill that Shaker Heights did not break up into separate settlements but has remained a unified community with estates costing half a million not far from homes built for under $20,000.

The restrictions established by the Vans were published in a plush booklet called "Shaker Village Standards." The requirements pertained not only to the use of the land and the architectural style of the homes to be built but even to interior decoration. Depending on the section, houses had to be set back from the front-lot line 50 to 200 feet. Favored architectural styles were conservative, of course, and in practice Colonial, French, and English styles dominated.

Although their concept was magnificent and their autocratic implementation amazingly inoffensive, the land they held might have remained untenanted if the Van Sweringens had not also been determined to provide transportation for Shaker Heights. They wanted a high-speed electric railway system which, without slowdowns caused by grade crossings, could bring cars from Shaker Heights to Public Square in less than 30 minutes. In negotiating for a right of way owned by the Nickel Plate Railroad, they ended by buying the railroad, and in 1920 their Shaker Heights Rapid Transit started operations.

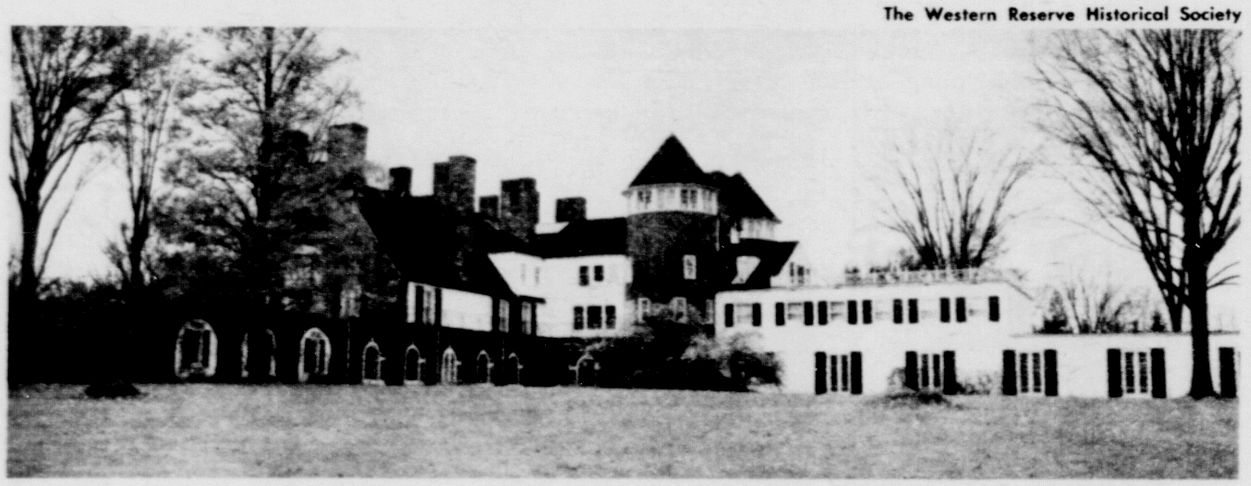
FROM 1919 to 1929 nearly 300 new homes were built each year: in 1925 alone, 556 building permits were issued for homes to cost $9,128,530. The population in that decade leaped from 1,700 to 15,500. The price of hundred-foot lots went from $20 a foot to more than $200 a foot in some sections. The valuation of the property which the Buffalo syndicate found high at $240,000 had gone to $80,000,000. By 1923, the Vans felt it necessary to keep the public from being carried away by the staggering statistics. "The dollar sign does not appear on the Shaker Village coat of arms," they wrote.

Despite their other interests, the Van Sweringens presided actively over the growth of Shaker Heights, which always remained their first love. They added 26 miles of new streets, laid pavements, water mains, gas pipes, installed new street lighting, and supervised the construction of eight public and three private schools, three churches, and four country clubs. Shaker Heights was an assured success.

In the years between the end of World War I and the stock market crash, as Shaker Heights expanded and their Terminal Tower Building rose in Cleveland, the Van Sweringens found time for other activity. The success of Nickel Plate indicated that their talents might be appreciated on the national scene. They were not well known outside Cleveland; New York bankers and businessmen were hardly aware of their accomplishments.

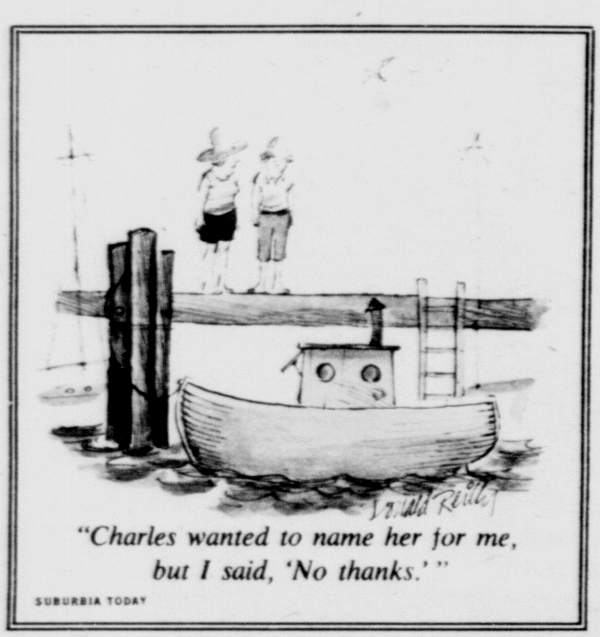
Their natural antipathy to publicity had a lot to do with this, of course. They lived quietly with their sisters at Daisy Hill, a 65-acre estate not far from the Chagrin River. One estimate was that the brothers had spent $500,000 on buildings, land, and furnishings, among which were some fine antique pieces. Friends recalled that they were entirely relaxed among their possessions, and with one or two exceptions—Oris loved automobiles and Mantis rode horses—they enjoyed and did things together for pleasure, just as they did in business. They belonged to no clubs, rarely entertained—and then only business associates—wore conservative clothes, took no vacations, ate sparingly, and went to bed early. Both men were at their offices by nine each morning, ready to act on decisions they had reached at Daisy Hill the evening before. When they left the city for business, they traveled together in one of their three Nickel Plate private cars.

The Western Reserve Historical Society



Daisy Hill, where the Vans themselves settled in Shaker Heights—house and 65 acres valued at $500,000.

At the height of their power, the assets of the companies they controlled were worth some four billion dollars. But in the face of the depression even sound management was not enough. To keep their empire going, the Vans had borrowed $48,000,000 from a syndicate formed by J. P. Morgan and Company. In 1935 the House of Morgan called in the loan, and the Vans could respond only with their collateral: their shares in all their companies. The collateral was bought by the Mid-America Corporation—a new holding company—at open auction for $3,000,000. How much control the Vans had in Mid-America is questionable; but they were retained to manage the new company because, as a Morgan partner later said, "They are the only ones who can handle this intricate situation." For the first time since they had clerked at the turn of the century, the Vans were on salary. Although they were paid $150,000 a year—just enough to meet their expenses, they estimated in a memorandum to the House of Morgan—the large personal fortune they had acquired was gone, and their stake in the real estate and railroads had gone with it.



"Charles wanted to name her for me, but I said, 'No thanks.'"

SUBURBIA TODAY

On December 12, 1935, Mantis James Van Sweringen died. Less than a year later, on November 23, 1936, Oris Paxton, who was 57, suffered a heart attack when the train which carried his private car was struck by another in Scranton, while he was on his way to a Morgan conference. He died soon afterward in the Hoboken, New Jersey, yards of the Lackawanna Railroad.

THE UNPAID DEBTS, the sufferings of thousands of people when two Cleveland banks perished in the wake of the collapse, may have been, as John T. Flynn wrote in 1934, the result of "the kind of disloyalties and betrayals by which the resources of a great city were forged into weapons for inordinately acquisitive men."

Twenty-one years later, with the bitter memories of the depression receding, a Cleveland writer could say of the same men that "whatever else, they were great—and their legacies are all about us in Cleveland today, in a tall tower, a handsome suburb, a smoothed countryside . . . better ways of doing things. Where would today's Cleveland be without their impact?"

In Shaker Heights itself, where fireworks marked the finale of a month-long 50th anniversary celebration in 1961, the community's Architectural Board—three architects, the mayor, and a city councilman—meets every Monday morning to determine whether building plans accord with restrictions established by the Van Sweringen brothers. It is likely that these meetings and their results, as they are reflected in the well-kept lawns and homes of Shaker Heights, are the memorial the Vans themselves would have appreciated most.

How to Travel for Pleasure—and Find It

Join in, the author urges. If you make mistakes, laugh at them, and you will win friends among people who will want to help you.

NOT MANY years ago I watched the Pacific from the window seat of a big airliner as its four props carried it west across the International Date Line. Presently a pretty Nisei stewardess announced on the public-address system that, whereas it had been, until a moment ago, a waning Saturday, our plane would land in Tokyo on an early Monday, Japanese time and calendar. Across the aisle, one of a pair of well-dressed and seemingly well-educated ladies exclaimed, "Isn't that funny! The Japanese don't have a Sunday!"

The lady had forgotten a lesson undoubtedly learned in school at about age 12. Since the earth is more or less globular and since it turns on its axis every 24 hours, there has to be some arbitrary spot where circumnavigators (and circumplanists) skip a day, one way, and gain a day, the other. Having long-since forgotten that geographical detail, the otherwise sensible-appearing lady was severely stunned by the experience. From it, she drew a very wrong conclusion.

And her notion that Japan had no Sunday indicated she might jump to other equally unsound conclusions in Tokyo.

Hers was one of the most commonplace faults in the traveler. Call it "disorientation." Disorientation leads to all sorts of blunders, embarrassments, and even tribulations, which might easily be prevented by a little prevoyage research and preparation.

Later, on that same trip, for instance, my wife and I emplaned at Hong Kong for Bangkok. A glance at a physical geography had shown me a fact that a little reading of any guidebook would have made yet more clear. Bangkok is a city of slight elevation situated at, roughly, 15° North Latitude. The month was March and, though it had been chilly in Hong Kong, it would obviously be warm in the Thai capital. Nevertheless, when we streamed from our plane toward Customs and Immigration, almost every one of the touring citizens of the United States was audibly appalled by a predictable circumstance: the temperature was about 90° and the humidity near 90%.

Their failure to expect in this region what they had at least endured at home led nearly every one to do what a glum official of the airline had predicted: "They make reservations here for five or 10 days. Plenty to do and see in Bangkok. Then—they get off the plane. It's hot. After about 10 minutes they panic. Even before they take a cab into town, they rearrange their flight schedules to get out of here on the earliest possible plane."

Some of those heat-stunned go-getters never even left the airport. But most of such fugitives blundered anew in their attempt to escape: they booked flights to Calcutta—noticing, perhaps, that it lay about 600 miles to the north but not reckoning that the Ganges delta on the Bay of Bengal would be hotter than Bangkok and several times more crowded.

Besides the difficulties occasioned by all species of disorientation, several other evitable discomforts of traveling will be noted by any voyager who employs common sense before and during his journeys.

The language barrier is one of them.

Language troubles lead to the tourists' most painful state: panic. And a person in panic, no matter how ardently he or she has anticipated the trip, is a person not having fun.

This matter of language difficulties is, to begin with, vastly overrated. I daresay it is important and certainly it is tactful to send as ambassadors and consuls to foreign lands persons who speak the local language. It is useful to be able, yourself, to have at your service a few alien tongues. I have a working knowledge of German. Because I lived for a year or so in France, I speak actual—not sight-seeing and hotel—French. These achievements have undoubtedly been useful to me—in Germany and France.

HOWEVER, let us say that I am in Mexico—Yucatan, for example, as I was last year. I need a certain article: bedroom slippers. By tramping the streets of Merida, I spot what is manifestly a men's shoe store. In its window, to my relief, a sign says, "English spoken." Gallantly, I enter—and make my request in polished Yankeese. It usually turns out, however, that the English-speaking clerk is out for lunch or on vacation. I speak no Spanish. However, other signs in the same store have asserted: "Mann sprecht Deutsch," and, "Ici on parle français." So—undaunted—I switch to German. The clerks smile and shake their heads. Oh, well! Triumphantly, I burst forth in my accurate and voluble French. For a moment, beguiling Mayan eyes glow with—not comprehension—but hope. The glow dies. I push eloquently ahead—to no avail. Why? Because I happen to speak French with a French accent, whereas these Latins speak it with a Spanish accent—and for all practical purposes, I might as well be talking in Martian. It is for the same reason . . . note well! . . . that the French, themselves, sometimes fail to discern the meaning of such words as, "Garrson. Ahportay-muh l'addison, silvyou plate." French spoken with the characteristic Chicago (or Los Angeles) third-year high-school accent is, actually, another language.

However, I get what I want, usually, anywhere.

For, now, I turn to an art the tourist can master if he has a bit of imagination, a pencil and paper, and fewer inhibitions than appear to weigh down most Americans abroad. In Latin countries, I call this art "hand-Spanish." But I have conversed with equal lucidity and success in hand-Japanese, hand-Thai, hand-Urdu, hand-Turkish, and many other languages with which my verbal familiarity is zero, or almost zero.

Having decided on a recent stay in Costa Rica, to visit Poas and, also, to do some jungle-river fishing in a dugout canoe, I found I needed crepe-soled shoes suitable for boat and rock wear. Confidently, at a shoe store I drew a swift picture of a mountain (two lines) in eruption (swirls) and marked it "Poas." On its summit I drew a more or less human figure, with shoes. I next swiftly sketched a boat; water and man with fish-rod—a man wearing shoes. Solemnly I tapped the mountain-scaler's shoes and the anglers and thereafter pointed to my own loafers. Then I held up my foot. The clerk showed me the very shoes I wanted. Hand-Spanish had, as often before, won the day.

IT IS A TOUCH LESS than urbane to sit down at the elegantly set table of a fine restaurant in, say, Greece, and try to get pork chops by mimicking a pig—or milk, by mooing. But hand-language carried to uncouth extremes is never necessary. One can order a fine meal in any land—a discovery I first made in Poland, in 1936—by the simple expedient of rising graciously (after making sure the menu is incomprehensible and the waiters speak only unknown languages) and accompanying the waiter to the restaurant or hotel kitchen. There, by pointing at desired components, one can arrange for one's self—and any number of hungry but helpless colleagues—as fine a repast as the place is able to provide. Simple? Yes. But—millions of Americans eat but one dish, for days, in a hundred lands—because they learned its name—or because they are too humble or too arrogant or too unresourceful to move into the kitchen and order in hand-language whatever steaks, chops, curries, cabbage, soups, breads, rolls, salads, and desserts strike their fancy. Moreover, the enkitchened customer who lifts pot lids and peers into refrigerators—if he (or she) does so with proper grace—gains an opportunity to flatter the chef (by beaming smiles), relieves the frustrated waiter, and obtains a direct look at the whole menu, an opportunity which, in some alien lands, is—alone—far more rewarding than the ability to read what the menu merely claims.

It is, of course, helpful to try to learn foreign words, and the use of hand-language provides every opportunity. If you do not know the local noun for omelet, eggs, cheese, or what-not, it probably will be supplied. If you make a polite effort to repeat it, you will be given further instruction usually in its precise pronunciation. If you then make an uninhibited effort at imitation, the results may be laughable—but, if you laugh with your would-be teachers, it lets them laugh; and in that process, everybody's spirits rise. It is not too far from truth to say that the ability to laugh without uneasiness at one's blunders in alien lands is the best possible entree. Moreover, in the verbal lessons that will be tentatively volunteered during hand-powwows, you may find now and then a word does stick in your memory and in a remarkably short time you may be ordering meals, making purchases, and reserving passage in even the most inaccessible tongues.

One further assist over the language barrier is the learning of just two phrases before entering a country with a mystifying tongue.

Pleasure—and Find It knowledge merely take money and skill. Finding it takes genius. But, of geniuses or supercivilized men the United States has produced relatively few.

No American citizen who goes abroad with the standard American headful of misconceptions will have a very good time. Why? Simply because the citizens of other nations will find it impossible to have much fun with him. In a dozen areas of the greatest significance, each such American tourist will look down on others, when, in point of fact, they are entitled to look down on him. To scorn all Frenchmen because of their less modern bathroom equipment, when France has surpassed the United States in a hundred more important matters, is not only ignorant and rude but highly vexatious to the scorned Frenchmen.

Finally, the Unknown—everything that seems strange, incomprehensible, or different—is, in essence, the stuff of which fear is made. What we understand rarely frightens us. But what we do not understand—be it a language, a custom, an artifact, or a gadget—has a potential for alarm. We are, also, innately frightened by ideas, folkways, and things we have been taught (rightly or wrongly) are inferior or in error. And it is certainly disconcerting, if not downright fearsome, to discover that one's own preconceptions are wrong.

That, in an oversimplified form, is at the bottom of most tourist anguish. It might be thought that, in the face of such obstacles, foreign travel would be almost certainly a sorry business for the ordinary person. Not so. To enjoy other lands, only a single change of programming and a few changes in attitudes are necessary. Here they are:

Before you go to another country, get a map of it, a guidebook, and a sketch of its history; with them, orient yourself so that you will know where you are going and what it will be like.

Second, be 51% ready and eager to like any foreign person. Not 100%—that's impossible, fatuous-to-imagine, and downright foolish. But if you are 1% more than half-ready to like alien people, the "foreigners" will note the fact . . . and go the other 49% of the way with a cordiality and genuineness you will never forget.

NEXT, TEACH YOURSELF before departure that any dismay, intolerance, or scorn you may feel in alien lands is likely to be caused by mere fear of something not known or something incorrectly understood. Before you act on such negative sensations, ask yourself if you are alarmed and, if so, why. Then tell your alien hosts what worries you, and nearly always you'll get a very interesting—and very calming—response. Above all, don't expect to be horrified—or robbed, cheated, gypped, clipped, and so on. Such expectations are, in themselves insulting to your hosts and, as insults, they naturally invite retaliation.

My wife and I were told before going around the world just how severely and in which nations we'd be disdained or cheated because we are Americans. Friends who'd made the same trip carefully explained where and when and why we must keep every suitcase, door, and closet locked. Friends also told us where we'd have to cope with incivility, rudeness, even actual menace.

On the last leg of that trip, as we flew from Gander toward home, my wife recalled that alarming counsel. "Can you remember," she asked, "any time when people were even rude to us? We never locked up a single bag—but—were we ever robbed of a solitary dime? Were we ever cheated?"

As I meditated on those questions, she interrupted, "Why! Twice, in Paris, I got muddled and overtipped—and the waiters gave me back, voluntarily, some of the tip!"

And finally—the greatest travel secret: look for human similarities, not differences, in other lands. When you do that—believe me!—you soon find how trivial the most bizarre-seeming differences really are and how identical is all mankind!

If that isn't the priceless reward of travel—then why travel?

How to Travel for

The two really productive phrases to learn are "Thank you," and, "If you please." Unquestionably, before you do anything, anywhere, people will be doing things for you —such as leading you through the airport or into customs, carrying your luggage, etc. If you can launch your venture into Arabia, Ceylon, Cambodia, or whatever, with a recognizable, "Thanks," you have announced yourself as a good Joe or Josephine. And if, whenever you point at something you can't name but want, you utter the native "Please," you will get it faster and with sympathy and, possibly, at a better price.

But even if the tourist is well-oriented in space and even if he is able to communicate in some manner, one further barrier stands between him and enjoyable travel. Our Department of State, on every American passport, makes a half-hearted effort at pointing out the difficulty . . . which is, actually, not real but mythical. Remember, each passport says, in effect, that in every country outside the United States, you are the foreigner.

Conduct yourself, the advice goes on, as a representative of your country and a guest in theirs.

Those words scarcely suggest the magnitude of the problem. For very few citizens of this land really feel and act in other countries as if they were foreigners. To most, Japanese, Hindus, Lebanese, or even Mexicans remain "foreigners" even when visited in their own nations! Essentially, it is the error of perpetually concentrating on the "differentness" of other people without giving any attention to our vastly greater similarities.

To the extent that people believe their ideas, customs, and ways are right—and those of others, wrong —each difference observed in a foreign land automatically will seem mistaken or inferior. The average American, because of America's material superiority to all other nations, is inclined to judge others by that factor, alone. The United States has more cars per capita, more flush-toilets, more paved highways, etc.; ergo, the U. S. is visibly and provably superior to all other nations.

SUPERFICIALLY, that is quite true. Basically, however, it is a disastrous myth. Every single technical advancement of our admittedly great society rests upon some basic finding in science. Hence the most civilized people are, clearly, those who make the largest numbers of great, intellectual discoveries—not those who, owing to mere wealth and natural resources, give those discoveries the most numerous applications. Such applications of new and now... "INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His own trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the nail-hard brawn of his teams are dramatic proof of the results he gets — not to mention the steady stream of reports from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results has been a major, if not impossible, hurdle for so many of us. But now doctors, trainers and physical educators are beginning to recommend the easy new approach to body fitness and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down to his wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

"Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's applying has the impressive support of such institutions as New York University as well as leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of professional athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg — because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute"— his XSXIM Program — built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took ¾ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you — and your children, too — can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

GEORGIA BEAUTY
Cecilia Upton recently trimmed down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

MORNING STRETCH
for Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

What's the difference between a pearl diver and a smart diner?

The pearl diver comes up with a pearl—sometimes. Smart diners can always end up with a pearl—a Cointreau On-the-Rocks Pearl. It's the new way to enjoy Cointreau Liqueur—the crowning touch to a perfect dinner.

The Cointreau Pearl:

Pour 2 ounces of Cointreau Liqueur over ice cubes in an old-fashioned glass. Et voila!

Watch Cointreau Liqueur change from crystal clearness to an elegant, delightfully appetizing pearly opalescence when you serve it the modern way...on the rocks. You may choose to add a squeeze of fresh lime for extra zest. The Cointreau Pearl is only one of the many popular, palate-pleasing drinks made with Cordials by Cointreau. What Is the Least You Should Know About Wines?

A noted connoisseur takes this page, with relish, to cover the essentials

BY VYVYAN HOLLAND
Author of "Goya," "Son of Oscar Wilde," etc.

TABLE WINES may be sparkling (fermented partly in cask and partly in bottle). Or still (fermented entirely in cask). Or fortified (fermented briefly and arrested at an early stage by the addition of a spirit, usually brandy).

Owing to accidents of soil and climate, France has become especially famous for sparkling and still wines, Germany for still white wines, and Spain and Portugal for fortified wines. Among other countries which produce good, sound, palatable wines are Italy, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Chile, Australia, and North and South Africa. And, notably, the United States, although many of the natives still seem to be unaware of it.

"Why is it," a visiting Dane asked recently, "that I don't see more American wines on American tables?"

Sparkling Wines: French champagne is, of course, the classic. It is the best pick-me-up in the world and is also one of the finest aperitifs to serve before a meal. It may be served right through any meal and is an excellent nightcap. Its medicinal qualities are unequalled. Need I say more? Certain brands of champagne are more popular than others, but this is largely a matter of the fashion of the moment; there is very little to choose among them, except in price. Champagne is best drunk when it is between eight and 12 years old, but much older vintages can be delicious. Other sparkling wines are sparkling Burgundy, Vouvray, and certain Muscatels—best left alone.

Still Wines: The most famous red wines in the world come from the Bordeaux and Burgundy districts of France. Those from Bordeaux are usually called clarets, and the label "Mis en bouteille au château" is a guarantee of origin. In clarets the four Grands Crus, or Great Growths, are Lafite Rothschild, Latour, Margaux, and Haut-Brion. There are hundreds of others, many of them charming. Of the burgundies, the most distinguished are Chambertin, Musigny, Romanée, Clos de Vougeot, Richebourg, Corton, and Volnay. Burgundies are inclined to be heavier than clarets, and the question of which is the better wine is largely a matter of individual preference.

Clarets and burgundies are best served with red meat, game, roast birds, and most made-up meat dishes and cheese. They may also accompany oily fish like salmon, mackerel, or herring.

Of other red wines, Italy is responsible for Chianti and Barolo and Spain for Rioja and Valdepenas.

The best dry white wines come from Burgundy and Germany. Burgundy is famous for Chablis, Pouilly-Fuissé, Meursault, and Montrachet. Germany provides Hocks and also Moselles, the good ones being shipped under the names of their districts and vineyards, thus: Oppenheimer (district) Goldberg (vineyard).

Sweet white wines are best reserved for dessert. However, as one expert matter-of-factly observed, "You can serve almost any good wine with any good meal, except you must have a certain kind of white wine with a certain kind of shellfish"—a combination you won't have to worry about too often. The best sweet white wines come from Bordeaux (Sauternes) and from Germany—those which bear on their labels the words "Spätlese" and "Auslese" are much sweeter than those not so described.

The pink "Rosé" wines are becoming increasingly popular. The pick of them are the French Tavel and Roussillon, and the Portuguese Mateus Rosé and Lagosta, and some of the Californias are excellent.

Fortified Wines: The principal fortified wines are sherry (Spain), port (Portugal), and Madeira (Madeira). They are seldom served in the course of a meal except in their countries of origin. Sherries range between very dry and very sweet—the paler, the drier. The drier wines are best served as an aperitif before a meal, the sweeter ones with biscuit or cake at 11 o'clock in the morning, at five in the afternoon, or after dinner.

These remarks are the scaffolding upon which a greater knowledge of wine can be built. When you find a wine that suits you, make a careful note of it and, if possible, stick to it. Still better, find a wine merchant you can trust—a merchant who is proud of his profession and eager to impart his knowledge—and stick to him. He knows what he is talking about—and very soon you will know, too.

a Variance a Man Out of Me to run up and down stairs 40 times a day, and she soon convinced me that an extra room plus what the new builders call a half-bath was the only thing—short of a sleep-in maid—that could save her life. I figured the addition would be cheaper, and a maid wouldn't have any place to sleep-in, anyway, if we didn't build it.

So I lined up some old savings bonds, got three estimates, and hired the likeliest contractor, who floored me with: "We start as soon as you get the permit."

Permit? What for? My glorified back porch was going to extend only a few feet into my own property.

The builder patted me on the head—I am mousily built, too—and told me to write a letter to the building inspector of the borough. He also told me my request would be refused because my house was built back when you needed only eight feet of side room in zone B. Now you need 15, so you're breaking the law before you start. He said my house was nonconforming.

I liked the idea of being a nonconformist after all those years, and when the building inspector wrote back to nix my plans, I felt brave enough to appeal my case to the Board of Adjustment.

First I appealed to my boss for a morning off. Then I strode over to Borough Hall with fire in my eyes.

I came home mousey again. They'd given me two over-sized sheets of single-spaced rules and 10 pages of forms to fill out, some in quadruplicate. The builder was willing to fill in the more technical information. I was faced with the affidavits—like, did I own my own property and did all my neighbors know what I was up to.

What it all boiled down to was: I'd have to break a law to get my room. The Board of Adjustment could vote me the right to break that law—called a "variance." But I'd have to convince them I needed that room badly, that it wouldn't spoil the neighborhood, and that I was a regular guy. I started thinking of myself not only as a nonconformist, but—better still—an outlaw.

AS PER INSTRUCTION I wrote some 20 letters to the 20 neighbors whose property came within 200 feet of the perimeter of my lot. I felt it was none of their business how big my half-bath was going to be and what grade knotty pine I was going to use on the porch. But any of these neighbors—most of them strangers to me—had the right to argue against my addition. So I politely delivered my polite letters personally to every door, as the rule stated. Some sport who was wintering in Florida got his letter by registered mail so I could show the receipt. Then I mailed in the works—forms, affidavits, and a five-buck cover charge.

My case came up at the next monthly meeting of the

BRINGING UP BABY,® HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF FIVE

adventures in growing up

Growing up is filled with exciting ups and frustrating downs. Year-old babies are daredevil and independent one minute . . . shy and insecure the next, reverting to the security of mother's arms at the drop of a disappointment. Reassuring to remember that these changing moods are part of your child's development and the year-old often learns more from temporary setbacks than quick success.

When babies begin to fend for themselves, there's many a fumble 'twixt the attempt and the accomplishment. But over-helping a baby on the grow often delays self-reliance. Best way to help a do-it-yourselfer: guide when he can't quite make it. Try to follow a "hands off" policy if he's on the brink of success.

Adventure in eating. Popular as you please with the high-chair set . . . that's the word on Gerber Junior Dinners. And for good reason . . . more ingredients, more flavor. For these toothsome combination dishes are made from vegetables, cereal and meat and seasoned with a knowing hand to suit the semi-grown-up tastes of toddlers. All specially processed to protect precious food values.

Menu magic. Have you treated baby to Gerber Chicken Noodle Dinner, side-dished with Green Beans and topped off with Junior Peaches? Great! Also in strained versions.

Year-end milestones. Two "giant steps" that may come around baby's first birthday and ways you can help perfect these new skills:

• When baby's babble turns to speech you can teach word meanings by pointing to objects as you talk. Gerber Cereal Boxes are good for teaching color names.

• When a rosy hand tries to make a spoon behave, you can help baby's hand-to-mouth co-ordination with finger-foods like Gerber Meat Sticks.

Just desserts. What's just about the nicest thing that could happen at the end of your baby's meal? Why, a heaping helping of one of the four Gerber Strained or Junior Desserts. Made from milk solids, egg yolks and fruit, Gerber Desserts are pleasure personified from the standpoint of flavor and texture.

For your baby's well-being: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

Getting Made

I USED TO BE an unobtrusive guy, according to my friends. Nonfriends called me a mouse. I admit I always went for the single seat in the back corner of the 8:10 bus, but I wouldn't knock anybody over to get it.

That's all changed since I built a back room onto my two-story colonial in zone B of our borough. You think zone B is next-to-best? It used to be before Bergen became the fastest growing county in the country. Now they're adding to the top: zone AA and zone AAA have relegated zone B to strictly middling. At that, they keep trading us up with new building restrictions all the time. Oh, for North Dakota where land is ample and people are scarce; tight zoning laws are the price we pay for living near the city. But it was getting around these laws that made a man out of me. I sit on the bus these days with the downtown bunch. I flew to glory on a stream of red tape.

It started when David was born, with Paul not yet out of diapers. My wife had

Board of Adjustment. I sat tense, next to a portly fellow, equally tense, from zone AAA, who was trying to build a line of lockers near his swimming pool. We whispered like school kids during the early hearings. We both looked around for neighbors who might have shown up to stick flies in our respective ointments. We didn't spot any.

When I was called up, I honestly wasn't scared. My new friend had already made his speech and was waiting around to see how I did. He was a real-estate lawyer and, to tell you the truth, I wanted to look good.

So I told the Board all about my kids and my wife's varicose veins and how we were going to use the back room as a diaper-changing station as well as a playroom. I recited all the measurements and materials as if I understood them and never once got tricked into saying I'd do a lick of office work in that room. I was particularly effective, I thought, in the question-and-answer period when they pulled this poser:

DID I FEEL the addition would enhance my property value? If I said Yes, they'd quick raise my taxes. If I said No, they'd think I was pulling down the neighborhood. Crafty, I hedged: "My purpose is not to increase the value, but it probably will. I just need more room."

I returned to my seat in triumph. Somebody slapped me on the back and the lawyer said, "Nice work, there!" We walked to the parking lot together and made a date to meet on the 8:10 bus.

When I got home, I found my wife waiting up for me with some old cognac we'd been saving for a special occasion and some wine biscuit things she'd bought in the city. She made a toast to the new room, and I had to tell her I had no idea whether or not we'd have a new room. But I took the drink anyway. Actually, I needed it.

My wife was upset. She said we weren't going to get the variance or else they'd have told me right off. She said some neighbor had probably slipped in a secret objection; maybe one of them had a friend on the Board. She said we should have picked the most expensive contractor to make it look better, and it was all her fault because she had dropped out of the Woman's Club and the Board chairman's wife was vice-president.

I said they hadn't announced a decision on anybody's case, and there was no reason to think we'd failed. But I didn't sleep that night.

Next day I phoned home five or six times to see if the Board had called. It hadn't. We spent the evening figuring out a re-appeal with maybe a note from the doctor saying my wife shouldn't climb stairs so much. I said it was my fault because I hadn't sounded distressed enough.

Day after that, I phoned home six or seven times to see if the Board had sent us a letter. It hadn't.

We mapped out our plan: we'd see the doctor, change contractors, talk personally to all the neighbors. My wife would re-join the Women's Club and, in a few months, we'd start all over.

Next day one of my wife's friends telephoned, and after she went through the usual gossip report, she said, "Oh, by the way, I see you're up for congratulations."

This friend, from two towns away, had read an article about us in the county newspaper. It was headed, "Plea Granted."

Well, I'm sophisticated enough not to believe everything I read in the papers, let alone hear about third-hand. So we got our own paper and read, "In action last Monday night, a variance was granted to . . ." And all our measurements were there for the whole county to see. We still didn't believe it.

Not more than a week later we got a letter from the Board saying the same thing in fancier language.

This we believed.

Didn't even mind paying the $12 fee they asked in exchange for permission to build a porch on my own property. After all, I'd fought City Hall. And won.

Why scrub a greasy, grimy oven . . . / when new Kelvinator Electric Ranges end this drudgery with disposable linings!

You don't have to scour, scrape and scrub a messy, greasy oven ever again.

Throw-away aluminum foil oven linings in the new Kelvinator ranges end this drudgery forever. (Note we said, end it, not just "make it easier.")

These foil linings cover the top, bottom, sides, and back of the Kelvinator oven and catch the spatters and spillovers. When they become soiled, you just whisk them out and put in shiny new ones of standard aluminum foil.

Even the oven door lifts off for quick, easy lining replacement. You have a clean oven in just seconds!

And these work-saving linings and removable oven door are found on every Kelvinator range—regardless of price—as well as such other high-priced conveniences as an automatic oven light, one-position broiling, infinite heat switches, and a new recessed top for easier stirring, mixing and blending.

But this is just part of the story.

All the automatic features you could ever want are also available on these new Kelvinator ranges: automatic "roast-ready" thermometer, automatic heat-control surface unit, automatic oven timer and clock, and automatic rotisserie.

Real improvements like these are possible because of the Kelvinator Constant Basic Improvement program. It concentrates on useful advances to bring you better appliances and better values.

APPETIZER FRIED PIES

To avoid last-minute rush before a large party, days ahead prepare a double or triple recipe of pies, then freeze them and fry when needed.

A rich pastry for 2-crust 9-in. pie, chilled thoroughly
Deviled Ham 'n' Mushroom Filling (see recipe)
Lard, hydrogenated vegetable shortening, or all-purpose shortening

1. Roll out pastry, one half at a time, ⅛ in. thick. Cut out rounds using a 3½-in. cutter.

2. Spoon about 1 tablespoon of the Deviled Ham 'n' Mushroom Filling onto each round. With water, moisten edge of each round only one half of distance around circle; fold pastry over filling, and, to seal, press edges together with a fork, or flute them. Seal tightly to avoid leakage while frying. Freeze until firm, about 2 hrs.*

3. When ready to fry the frozen pies, heat 2 to 4 tablespoons of the fat in a large, heavy fry pan over medium heat; put in as many pies as will fit uncrowded in the bottom.

4. Fry pies on one side 8 to 10 min., or until golden brown; turn and fry until other side is golden brown. Add more fat to the fry pan as necessary to keep the pies from sticking.

5. Into each pie, insert a fancy cocktail pick with one pimiento-stuffed olive. Serve warm.

About 16 appetizer pies

*If pies are not frozen, fry 4 to 5 min. on each side.

DEVILED HAM 'N' MUSHROOM FILLING

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 oz. fresh mushrooms, chopped (about 1⅓ cups)
1 4½-oz. can deviled ham
2 tablespoons dairy sour cream
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped chives or scallions

1. Heat butter or margarine in a fry pan; add mushrooms and cook until lightly browned, about 5 min., stirring occasionally.

2. Combine the mushrooms with the remaining ingredients and mix well. Chill thoroughly.

1 cup filling

STEAK DIANE

8 thin slices (1 lb.) beef tenderloin
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press
Salt
Freshly ground black pepper
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ lemon

1. Blend the butter or margarine and the garlic together and set aside 20 min.

2. Heat about 1 tablespoon of the garlic butter in a large, heavy fry pan. When very hot, add as many steaks at a time as will fit uncrowded in bottom; brown quickly on both sides.

3. Transfer steaks to a hot serving platter and season on both sides.

4. Add remaining butter and Worcestershire sauce to pan; heat until bubbly and lightly browned.

5. Holding the cut lemon over the pan, squeeze it and drizzle in some juice. Insert the tines of a fork through the peel and use to quickly blend in the juice (rubbing sides and bottom of pan with cut side).

6. Immediately pour hot sauce over steak and sprinkle with snipped chives. 4 servings

Stouffer's frozen spinach soufflé
even children love it!

Stouffer's does enchanting things with tender, leafy spinach: chops it up fine, blends it with dairy-pure eggs, butter, milk—and just the right dash of seasonings. In minutes, you and the family enjoy a soufflé so creamy-light and fluffy, you'll wonder why someone hasn't made spinach like this before. Try Stouffer's Frozen Spinach Soufflé, extra delicious with Stouffer's tangy Welsh Rarebit. Better get some soon, from your grocer's freezer.

You taste a priceless difference in Stouffer's frozen prepared foods

Carnival Snow, a bedazzling frozen fruit mold, and hot-from-the-fry-pan Petite Pancake Puffs

CARNIVAL SNOW

1 cup dark or golden raisins
1 11-oz. can mandarin oranges, drained (reserve ¾ cup sirup)
1 8¾-oz. can pineapple tidbits, drained (reserve ¼ cup sirup)
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup curacao
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
½ teaspoon almond extract
3 drops red food coloring
⅔ cup maraschino cherries, cut in halves
4 oz. marshmallows, cut in small pieces
1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped (sweetened, if desired)

1. Combine raisins and reserved sirups in a saucepan; heat to simmering. Remove from heat and cool.

2. Mix the cream cheese and the next seven ingredients together. Blend in the raisins and fruit sirup.

3. Stir in the remaining fruit and the marshmallows until well mixed. Fold in the whipped cream.

4. Turn into a 1½-qt. fancy mold which has been rinsed with cold water. Cover; freeze at least 24 hrs.

5. Unmold. Allow to stand at room temperature to soften slightly before serving. 8 to 10 servings

PETITE PANCAKE PUFFS

1¾ cups buttermilk
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted and cooled completely
1½ cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup dark or golden raisins
3 egg whites

1. Beat the first four ingredients together in a large bowl until well blended.

2. Blend the next five ingredients together and add all at one time to the egg yolk mixture; beat thoroughly. Stir in the raisins.

3. Beat the egg whites until stiff (but not dry) peaks are formed. Gently fold into the batter.

4. For each pancake, spoon 1 tablespoon batter into each round of a platt pan (Swedish pancake pan available in the housewares section of most department stores). Turn each pancake as it becomes full of bubbles; continue baking until lightly browned.

5. Transfer pancakes to a heated platter and immediately brush with melted butter; keep warm.

...FROM

6. When ready to serve, sprinkle with Vanilla Sugar* Allowing about three pancakes per serving, top each serving with sweetened whipped cream. Or serve with a scoop of Peach Ice Cream Superbe.

3 doz. pancakes

PETITE CHOCOLATE PANCAKE PUFFS

Follow recipe for Petite Pancake Puffs. Increase sugar to ⅓ cup and mix with 3 tablespoons Dutch process cocoa. Blend thoroughly with the dry ingredients. Omit brushing with melted butter. When ready to serve, sprinkle with Dutch process cocoa or drizzle with crème de cacao, and top with sweetened whipped cream.

VANILLA SUGAR—Cut a 9-in. vanilla bean into quarters lengthwise and into thirds crosswise. Poke pieces down, at irregular intervals, into a container filled with granulated or confectioners' sugar. Cover tightly and store.

PEACH ICE CREAM SUPERBE

12 medium-sized (about 3 lbs.) fully ripe peaches, peeled and pitted
2¾ cups sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ qts. chilled whipping cream
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon almond extract
Crushed ice
Rock salt

1. Wash and scald cover, container, and dasher of a 4-qt. ice cream freezer. Chill this equipment thoroughly before using freezer.

2. Force peaches through a sieve or food mill. Stir the sugar and lemon juice into peaches and set them aside for 20 min.

3. Blend the cream, salt, and extracts together. Mix with peaches until blended.

4. Fill freezer container two-thirds full with mixture. Cover tightly. Set in freezer tub. (For electric freezer, follow manufacturer's directions.) Fill tub with alternate layers of crushed ice and rock salt, using 8 parts crushed ice and 1 part rock salt. Turn handle slowly 5 min., then turn rapidly until handle becomes difficult to turn, about 15 min. Add crushed ice and rock salt as necessary.

5. Wipe cover free of ice and salt. Remove dasher and pack down ice cream. Cover with aluminum foil or other moisture-vaporproof material. Replace cover and plug opening for dasher. Repack freezer with alternate layers of ice and salt, using 4 parts ice and 1 part rock salt. Cover with heavy paper or cloth. Allow to stand 2 to 3 hrs. to ripen.

About 3 qts. ice cream

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM SUPERBE

Follow recipe for Peach Ice Cream Superbe. Substitute 1½ qts. fresh ripe strawberries, rinsed and hulled, for the peaches. Omit almond extract.

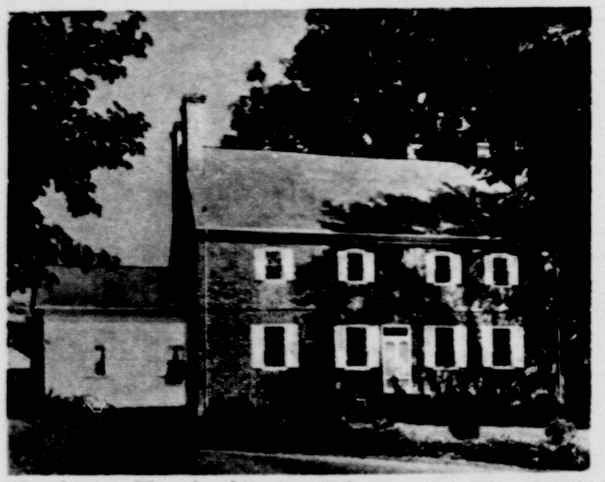
Larkin's Hundred

A hundred acres of land . . . a colonial house built of handmade brick ca. 1704 . . . Black Angus cattle and race horses . . . this is "Larkin's Hundred," an hour from Washington, D. C.



"Larkin's Hundred," in Edgewater, Maryland.

In 1704 John Larkin gave his son Thomas 100 acres of woods and pasture out of the grant Lord Baltimore had given him, hence the name, "Larkin's Hundred."

The house's outside walls are of handmade brick laid up in ornamental Flemish bond, and inside, it was designed with such care for fine materials and serene proportion that no one has ever seen fit to make any radical alterations to the original. Central heating and electricity were installed as late as the '30s, and somewhere along the way the pleasant little white clapboard kitchen wing was added.

Students of architecture are impressed by rare features like the famous "Good Morning" staircase, which divides near the top, in order to lead people out of all four bedrooms to a sociable meeting point on the landing, a scheme which gives a feeling of airy space and openness not usually associated with houses built, as "Larkin's Hundred" was, in country that was almost wilderness. Pine panelling is lavishly used, and the original wide floor boards of pine, waxed to an amber glow, add a beauty of their own.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardisty, who own the house, are also impressed, but they have made it into a frame for lively family life. Their two Lots of real beef flavor is toasted into new Gro-Pup Bar-B-Chew. When you add warm water, you set free a fragrant "secret scent" that calls your dog to dinner.

Bar-B-Chew smells as good as hamburger. It chews like hamburger, too. That's because the crunchy chunks don't turn mushy or sticky in water. Bar-B-Chew stays firm in its beef-flavor broth.

Dogs wolf it down. And they thrive on it. This new kind of food is more completely nourishing than hamburger—contains every nutrient dogs are known to need for a long and healthy life.

So, let your dog enjoy this remarkable new dog food—GRO-PUP BAR-B-CHEW. Get some soon.

children grew up there and still love to come back when they can. Mr. Hardisty is retired now, but many of their neighbors commute, and for all the "deep country" look, life is pleasantly suburban, with bridge parties and dinner parties and frequent trips to nearby Washington, Annapolis, and Baltimore. The garden, typically, is a special interest, replanted in its original English country style, with flower beds set into the grass. A venerable mahogany tree, very rare hereabouts, shades the house in summer.

"I've never felt as if I owned 'Larkin's Hundred,' " said Mr. Hardisty. "I just live in it and enjoy it and take care of it."

What more could you ask?

"Larkin's Hundred" is one of the houses featured in the Maryland House and Garden Pilgrimage, which goes on through most of this month, ending with the Chesapeake Bay Cruise, May 18th and 19th.

If you're shock treating your pool, you're making a dreadful mistake.

If you have to periodically shock treat (superchlorinate) your home pool, you're making a mistake. Even if you're using Olin's pool chlorine, HTH,® to do it. Because if you have to shock treat, you're not getting enough active chlorine into your pool on a day-to-day basis. Which means that for at least part of each week you and your family are swimming in water that is not free of bacteria and algae. And that's something you can't undo by shock treating.

There's a reason, of course, why people go on making this mistake. They think it's too much bother to chlorinate every day. And daily chlorination is the only way to avoid shock treating.

Bother? What bother?

Except that it doesn't have to be bother. It isn't when you use HTH, anyway. And the reason is that HTH contains 70% free, available chlorine. The 70% figure means that it's concentrated: you get a lot of chlorine in a small space. So you only have to pour a small amount into the pool each day. (The exact amount depends upon the pool size.) As soon as the HTH hits the water, its chlorine is released and the bacteria are destroyed. So are the algae; you don't have to buy a special algaecide when you use HTH. And, you can immediately swim in the water.

And because HTH is concentrated, a single 100-lb. drum (delivered to your garage) provides enough chlorine for the entire average swimming season. The total cost is about the same as (or less than) what it costs you to haul jugs of liquid bleach all summer.

Free or locked-up?

Of course you could use the long-lasting organic chlorine compounds. They also provide a summer's worth of chlorine in a relatively small space. But when these compounds are in your pool, they keep a large part of their chlorine "locked-up" chemically. Such chlorine is not always "free" and "available" to sanitize pool water. It will give a chlorine "residual" reading on your test kit, but will not necessarily provide an adequate bacteria-kill when needed. That's why you have to shock treat (the mistake) when you use organics. (For more information, write for Olin's free booklet: Home Pool Care.)

HTH granular is available in 100-lb. drums, 35-lb. pails and 3¾-lb. plastic bottles. Slow dissolving HTH tablets are also available by the drum, pail and bottle. Either granular or tablets will do an equally good job at saving you from your shocking habit.

Vegetables should be considered for their beauty as well as their usefulness. The leaves and fruit of some varieties harmonize nicely with flowers; others can offer your garden a bit of a contrast.

house and garage walls, bordering

BY JOHN BRIMER

Peppers are so neat and decorative, with their handsome leaves and green-to-red fruits, that they may be used in formal plantings as well as for accents in borders. And radishes and lettuces make good, quick-maturing crops alongside walks, at the edge of flower borders, or tucked in around the garden.

Stagger Your Planting

To assure long-term production, don't plant the whole packet of seeds at one time; plant every 10 days or so until mid-June and again in early autumn. Or try one of the varieties bred to endure hot weather and produce good crops.

Lettuces, whether leaf, head, or romaine types, contribute a pleasant note of bright green as well as interesting texture. Salad Bowl and Oak Leaf are attractive for their leaf shape and are excellent to eat. Buttercrunch, a compact, heavy head-lettuce that's an All-America Silver Medal Winner this year, is quite heat-resistant and doesn't go to seed quickly, either. Early lettuce, planted as an edging to beds of annual flowers, can be harvested by the time the later-maturing blossoms will need the space in which to expand.

There are other possibilities, too. Consider beets, with their red stems and curly green leaves, carrots with frothy, lacy tops, upright-growing chard and spinach, and kale with chenille-textured, spreading leaves. All vegetables are worth exploring, and all are beautiful in their own way. You'll enjoy tucking in a few, so that you can have your garden and eat it, too!

You Can Grow Vegetables Anywhere!

They'll look well—and do well—against walks and driveways, even mixed in flower beds

EVEN THOUGH your garden space may be so limited that you don't feel you can afford a sizable plot for vegetables, don't give up hope of growing them. Possibly you'll find, as others have, that the smallest gardens have likely spots that can be used to grow a few vegetables without disrupting your general scheme.

All your vegetables don't have to be planted in one place or planted in rows in oblong plots, although they may be more convenient to tend this way. You can plant a few here and a few there, wherever they will look best and make the best use of your available space.

Major requirements for most vegetables are few and simple: plenty of sun—five or six hours a day—reasonably fertile soil that is not too wet, dry, or acid (most vegetables do best in soil a little on the acid side) and, of course, water, particularly during the hottest weeks.

Some gardeners use their early bulb beds for growing late-cropping, shallow-rooted vegetables. They scratch in or apply a good quantity of plant food to insure soil fertility for the bulbs. This is done after harvesting the vegetables or in early spring. They sow seeds among the bulbs or set out already-started plants later on, so that by the time the bulb leaves have ripened and can be removed, the vegetables are coming along nicely. Quick crops can be sown, too, after the bulb leaves are gone. Radishes and lettuces are good examples.

You also can sow lettuce and radishes around tomato, pepper, or cabbage plants when you set them out. By the time the radishes and lettuces mature and are harvested, the other plants have grown and need the space. You get double use of space, important if you don't have much of it.

Have you ever thought of vegetables as being beautiful? Many are—among them tomatoes. Their thick-growing, lush leaves and sprightly blossoms are texturally interesting, and their rich red globes are certainly bright. If tomatoes weren't so firmly embedded in our minds as food, we might grow them as exotic novelties. Actually tomatoes were grown originally for decoration, when the fruit was thought to be poisonous. Climbing on poles, wall trellises, or tied up on fences, tomato vines occupy little ground and make use of vertical space that otherwise might be wasted.

Small-fruited red and yellow tomatoes of the types named for their shape—cherry, pear, and plum—are most useful for preserves and salads, livening a dinner or luncheon. (The large tomatoes often grow as high as 10 feet under favorable conditions, the individual fruits weighing up to two pounds.) For minimum space, use dwarf types such as Tiny Tim, with its compact, bushy habit of growth, loaded with clusters of bright red fruit. They may be grown in window boxes, in large pots, or set in the ground. A pot or two on the terrace will permit guests to pick their own.

Try Cucumbers on Fences

Cucumbers are also good fence subjects, perhaps producing better this way than when sprawling along the ground. Their long green fruits are most pleasant to look at as they dangle below the large leaves; and nothing compares with the crisp flavor of a cucumber rushed from the vine to your table. Small-fruited varieties are useful for pickle making. There's one novelty variety that's white-fruited.

A GIRL WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Sepier's six years of life have been cruelly tragic. Her family was deported from Turkey and would not be welcomed back, even if there were funds to get back. Her Armenian parents belong to the oldest Christian nation but it no longer exists. There is only a Russian Communist Satellite in the Caucasus. Her father was an invalid when the family was forced to leave Turkey and poor and insufficient food caused his death soon after arriving in Lebanon. For many years the family has existed in a one room hovel. The mother has tried to eke out a living working as a farm hand. Malnutrition has since incapacitated her for hard labor. Now in this one small room, bitter cold for lack of fuel in winter and blistering hot, standing in the dry sun-scorched plain in summer — evicted, unwanted, countryless, a sick mother and her four children have one constant companion—hunger.

There are hundreds of Sepiers in the Near East, born of refugee parents who, in many cases, have lived in the same temporary, make-shift shacks for over 30 years. Their parents are not worthless, good-for-nothing people. But it is hard to keep hoping for a real life for 30 years. The children themselves never asked to be born into such a miserable and hopeless existence.

Sepier is an appealing, sweet child. There is a haunting sadness about her but she is naturally affectionate and appreciative. Little girls like Sepier can be found in many other of the 55 countries listed below where CCF assists over 42,000 children in 469 orphanages and projects. Youngsters like her can be "adopted" and cared for. The cost to the contributor is the same in all countries—ten dollars a month. Could Gordon's possibly be older than the London Bobby?

Surprisingly enough, yes. It was in 1829 that Sir Robert Peel reorganized the London Metropolitan Police, who promptly became known as "Peelers" or "Bobbies". But this was sixty years after Alexander Gordon had introduced his remarkable gin to London and given it his name. Happily, the Gordon's you drink today is based on that original 1769 formula. That explains its unique dryness and delicate flavour. Explains, too, why Gordon's is the biggest selling gin in England, America, the world.

What Do Young People in Your Town Find to Do After School?

"THREE THINGS I hate," 13-year-old Oliver burst out at the dinner table, "tooth paste . . . radishes . . . and THIS TOWN."

"Oliver!" His family was shocked.

"I know there're lots of grass and trees," he went on bitterly, "and we've got a nice house and terrace—it's just fine if you're beneath six or over 20—but there's nothing for me and the rest of the kids to do here."

Even in open country children sometimes need more opportunity than they get for exercise and fun and developing their interests, and in increasingly built-up suburbs the problem is more acute.

What kind of recreation can a town provide? What programs are most successful? Who will supervise the activities? Where will they be held? How will costs be met?

To find the answers, we queried local papers and educators and parents and their children about recreation programs all across the country, from Woburn, Massachusetts, to San Mateo, California. If your children and their friends are complaining that they haven't enough to do in their free time, perhaps you can make use of some of this widespread experience.

From all over come reports of the success of the teen canteen centers. Where they do not exist, we are advised that "a drop-in recreation center" or "youth centers" are vitally needed.

The canteen at the high school in Evergreen Park, Illinois, is a good example of the kind, and truly esteemed by its young members.

"We use the school gym 26 nights of the year," a senior explained. "Our programs vary, but the one most of us like best is a movie, and after it's over we have a record hop and refreshments. School is open from 7 to 11, our parents know where we are, and we have fun."

On the other nights there are ping-pong, volleyball, swimming, and "dating." When ment had to offer. Considering the scope, it is interesting to learn that San Mateo owns very little in the way of areas set aside for recreation—only its parks and a lagoon for water sports. It has made up for what it lacks by contracting with schools for use of their facilities and by branching out where it can—to nearby Half Moon Bay, for instance, where a drag strip is operated. The recreational directors are paid professionals, and the offerings range from Tumbling Classes to Puppetry, with heavy emphasis on tennis and water sports.

When the editor of the Times was asked if there was any trouble getting teen-agers off the streets in San Mateo he answered firmly, "The problem is minimal."

MANY OTHER towns, too are making use of school facilities for after-school use.

"It makes sense," as one editor pointed out. "The town has built the school, pays taxes for it, and supports it. Why shut it up tight after school hours and put up new buildings that would duplicate the facilities? It is wise and economical to turn school buildings over to multiple-duty use to serve the community." Educators agree.

To fill out the picture, here is a sampling of current needs:

"Our teen-agers would like to have a community-civic building where they could hold dances and show movies of their own choosing." (Valley Times Today, North Hollywood, California) . . . "A drag strip is the biggest need in San Diego." (North Shores Sentinel, San Diego, California) . . . "Teen-agers in Natick need a meeting place, with game rooms, swimming pool, etc." (Suburban Free Press, Natick, Massachusetts) . . . "The first step in any successful recreation program is the employment of a full-time, paid recreation director." (The Ambler Gazette and The Sun, Ambler, Pennsylvania) . . . "We need more creative recreational programming in drama, music, and arts, which we hope to expand and improve this year." (News-Times, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin) . . . "The boys could use a baseball field within the village. However, neighboring suburbs have fields and there is great co-operation within the communities." (The Herald, Shorewood, Wisconsin.)

How will your town provide additional recreational opportunities as they are needed? The first step is take a voter survey to determine the community's needs and desires. Then, a strong voluntary organization is required to carry out the demands. It takes planning, coordinating, budgeting, and hiring the right people for supervision. Practice has proved that young people themselves cannot successfully organize and run their own programs. They must have adult help and supervision.

And how are costs to be met? Chances are that a certain part of your tax dollar is earmarked for recreation costs. Help often comes, also, from YMCA's, for instance, and churches and Moose Clubs and other civic organizations. The effort is community-wide—and so are the good effects of a generous and practical recreation program for young people.

the doors swing open at seven, some 800 students gather to fill the school with a cacophony of happy, healthy sounds. Parents are encouraged to pick up their offspring by 11 p.m. Similar canteens are held in the grammar schools for seventh- and eighth-graders.

Voluntary chaperons are always on hand to enforce simple rules and, as one teenager says, "We have to accept this archaic supervisory practice as inevitable."

From organized teen clubs many towns have gone on to find other rewarding ways for the young to occupy themselves.

The Barrington, Rhode Island, Symphony Orchestra, for instance, encourages musically minded teens to join its ranks. The Boys Choir performs locally, and last summer made a six-week European tour! The YMCA-YWCA is completing a $250,000 center with an Olympic-size swimming pool, where a well-rounded program of recreation and instruction for all ages will be offered. There is a Sea Cadet Program for teen-age boys organized in co-operation with the U. S. Navy.

THE WOBURN, MASSACHUSETTS, Daily Times applauds its supervised winter sports area—95 acres of city-owned land with two toboggan slides, a large skating area, and a ski slope with automatic tow.

"We have several athletic leagues for the boys, but," points out the editor, "our girls are neglected. Our recreation commission and school board are presently studying the matter in hopes of supplying a 'more diversified year-round program' which would give ample attention to the girls, too."

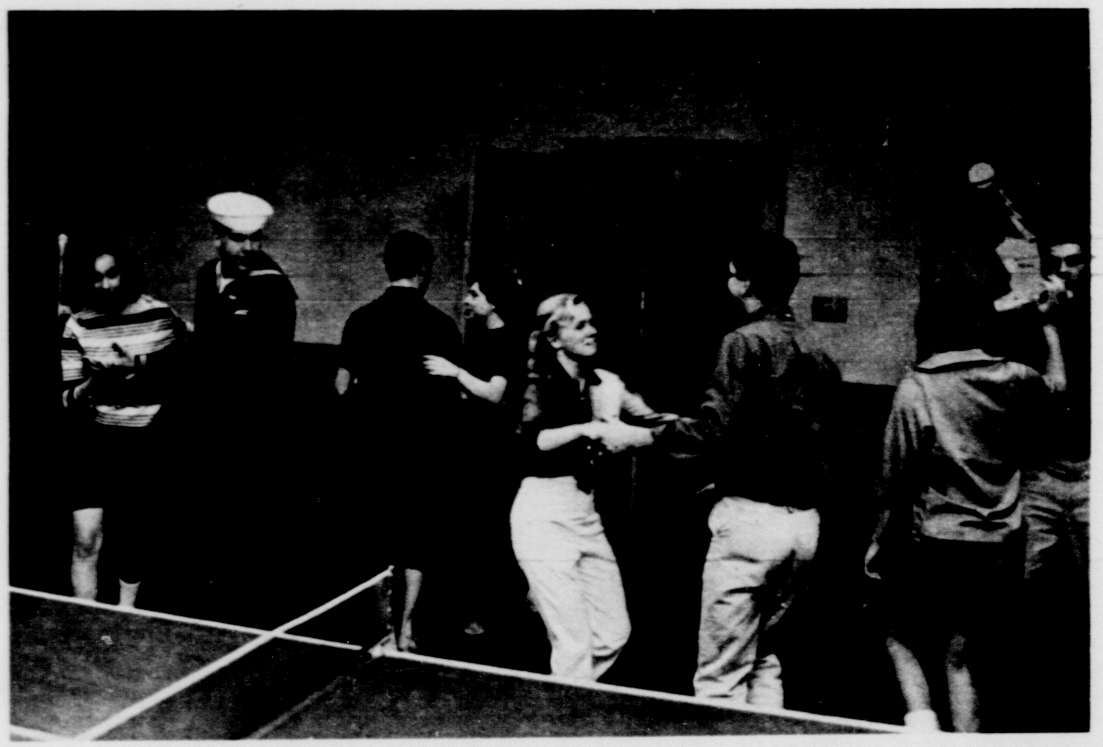
The Jefferson Reporter of Buechel, Kentucky, agrees that the girls are liable to get the short end: "Boys have Little Leagues and their clubs. Girls haven't so much once they outgrow the playground."

Virginia Beach, Virginia, reports that being a seaside resort they have excellent swimming and boating facilities and surfing has become so popular that the high-school students have formed a surfing club of their own. The summer days are full; it's in the winter that the doldrums set in.

Young people way inland in Des Plaines, Illinois, also find that summers are lively, winters dull. The park district offers unusual supervised activities on its man-made lake during the summer. Athletics are stressed. But what about youngsters who are not adept at sports? Not only does our Des Plaines reporter consider the wintertime schedule inadequate but, he adds, "We have nothing to offer the nonathlete"—a situation Des Plaines hopes to correct before long. Meantime park district and school board work together in great harmony to provide what the townspeople consider one of the finest summer-recreation programs offered in Illinois.

In year-round warm climates "winter doldrums" can be avoided. So thorough is Glendale, California's, staffed school- and park-playground program that a directory to activities is published. These include athletics and crafts for everyone from preschooler to adult.

Up the line, in San Mateo, California, the Times took four pages in a weekend edition last spring to tell its readers what the City of San Mateo Recreation Depart-



Ideal—and typical—teen-age canteen operates in a clubhouse built on school grounds by the Woodmere-Hewlett School District. Premises are shared by recreation director.

Know What to Do?

these simple rules

President, International Association of Fire Chiefs

there were no casualties. For all three members of this family, familiar with fire-safety techniques, knew better than to make any attempt to save the other car or the new English bike that was kept in the garage. They did not, in fact, make any attempt to open the garage door to investigate. Nor did the man call the fire department until his wife and son were safely out of the house. And he made the call from a telephone that was a safe distance from the front door.

THIS SPRING in Maryland, a late-evening fire, believed to have started in a raised floor, killed a man and his wife, his mother-in-law, and six children between one and 13 years old, who were found in their bedrooms. Living in a modern house didn't save them from disaster.

I am asked often if today's split-level is more firesafe than yesterday's three-story house. Where human carelessness is concerned, it cannot be so argued. Today's split-level, like any other house, is only as safe as we make it.

If this makes alarming reading, I beg you not to turn the page but to heed my urgent recommendation for the simple life-saving precaution of home fire drills.

Should fire strike in your home these drills could well save your children's lives. For home fire drills can have the same gratifying results that school fire drills have. In school fire drills hundreds of children, reassured by their familiarity with what they are doing repeatedly, march calmly to safety.

Many children who have died in home fires—from burns, smoke poisoning, and asphyxiation—could have lived had they not, in their confusion and panic, crept under a bed or bedcovers or crouched in a closet. Again and again we find children in these "protective" places although escape lay just a few feet away.

Last winter, as the direct result of a fire-safety drive undertaken by Chief John E. Butler of Providence, Rhode Island, two families made their way, calmly and safely, from burning houses.

The first of these fires, from which six persons escaped, was so severe that two firemen were overcome.

"We knew what to do," the parents of this family reported gratefully. "Because of the drive, we had already planned alternate means of escape."

Would Your Family

Your home will never be a firetrap if you follow

FIRE! Every year this cry sounds in over 600,000 American homes!

Some 6,000 people die in these fires. In addition, close to 2,000,000 are burned and maimed. Of those who die, about half are under 14 years of age, with much the highest toll being among those under five!

When we read things like this (facts quoted here come from the National Fire Protection Association, of Boston), it is, understandably, our inclination to push away the likelihood of any child of ours ever being trapped by fire. These frightful things, we tell ourselves placatingly, happen to other people's children.

But the statistics come closer to home.

Heating equipment causes about 30% of the fatalities; careless smoking, 17%; misuse of electricity about 15%; and misuse of flammable liquids, 11%. Obviously, the conditions are present anywhere. What you can never tell is how or when they'll operate to cause a fire.

This past winter, for instance, a $30,000 fire started in a doghouse when an electric heater, placed beneath a blanket to keep a pet dog warm, ignited the blanket. The blanket ignited the doghouse. The doghouse ignited a cord of wood that was piled beside a wall of the house. The blazing wood ignited the under-eaves of the house.

It was 2 a.m. when a maid, who slept in the wing over the woodpile, alerted the family. When they attempted to call for help, they discovered the telephone line was burned and dead.

While the wife drove four and a half miles to a fire station, the husband and the maid sprayed the burning house with garden hoses. There were no casualties. Even the dog escaped. But they were lucky.

Last winter, too, a beautiful new house in Connecticut was badly damaged by a fire believed to have been caused by a short circuit in a car's wiring.

An hour or more before it happened, the wife of the owner, unable to get her car started, used the station wagon to meet her commuter husband. When he got home he, too, worked on the car, also unsuccessfully.

Ten or 15 minutes later, after they had both gone into the house, there were two explosions, one shortly following the other. And by the time they and their 13-year-old son ran downstairs, the garage and the rear of the house were in flames.

In this case it was a simple matter to leave the building by the front door. And is in danger. It's much safer to wait for a fireman's ladder.

Should it become necessary to leave a second- or third-story room, instruct your family to throw a mattress out of the window to break a fall. Last winter a man saved the life of his infant son by tossing him out of a second-story window into a snowbank. He later let himself out of the same window. But his wife and two daughters, for whom he had searched and who he believed had left the house, were found dead in the "protection" of the closet in which they had sought safety.

Instruct members of your family how to knot a blanket or two sheets to a bed or some other piece of heavy furniture that can be pushed against the window so, by sliding down the blanket's or sheets' length, they will reduce considerably the distance they must drop to the ground.

To jump out of a window from a standing position can result in serious and needless injury. Have your family practice going out of a first-floor window the way they should, if necessary, go out of an upper window—backwards and on their stomachs, so they may hang to the sill briefly while they flex their legs slightly before letting go. If there's a life net to fall into, the safest procedure is to stand as erect as possible and step out boldly.

9. Once you've arrived at the best emergency plans, hold fire drills regularly. In addition to familiarizing everyone with the procedure, these drills will reveal any furniture arrangement that could prove an impediment, any windows that stick, any storm or screen windows that are held fast by paint-encrusted hooks. Trifling things, which so easily could have been rectified, too often prove dangerous hazards.

Hold fire drills both in the daytime and at night. Make certain everyone is so well-rehearsed that even though he should be confused from being waked out of a deep sleep he will function efficiently.

In night drills require everyone to proceed to the door or his emergency exit with a flashlight. Every bedroom should have one. Electric current frequently fails when the heat of a fire reaches the wires.

10. Get everyone out of the house first. Then call the fire department. If you're not wholly satisfied with your home fire-drill plans, consult with your local fire chief. He will be glad to advise you. You will find his experience and knowledge invaluable.

"FIRE!" Should that cry ever sound in your house—and I hope it never will—be sure that every member of your family knows what to do, children and older people especially.

Safety Precautions You Can Take

Many fires that have cost lives and resulted in heavy property damage could have been avoided by these simple precautions:

Inspect a heating unit before it is turned on in the fall.

Establish a rule against smoking in bed.

Provide ashtrays large enough to hold ashes and cigarette ends with safety.

Make a quick nightly inspection of the living room before retiring—especially after entertaining—to see that no live ashes or cigarettes have dropped on a chair, behind cushions, or on the rug.

Eliminate "octopus" outlets.

Replace frayed or worn extension cords.

Remove electric cords under rugs, over hooks, or through partitions or door openings where they are likely to wear and cause a short circuit.

Be sure everyone knows that the blowing of a fuse is a warning that a circuit is defective or overloaded.

Have the installation or extension of wiring done by a competent electrician. Ask his judgment as to whether additional circuits are needed with the installation of heavy-duty appliances.

Check gas-stove burners to make certain they are not turned on but unlit.

Check to be sure electric iron, deep-well cooker, or other appliance has been turned off.

If there are small children in a family, teach them that matches are for adults. This is not easily managed. Small children do not, of course, understand danger as an abstract idea. Therefore, the possible consequences of playing with fire have to be spelled out for them in terms they can understand: the loss of their home and toys and pets, maybe their mother and father.

Consider installing a home fire-alarm system in which units located all through a house sound an alarm, both inside and out, when the temperature near them reaches a danger point.

Provide fire extinguishers, especially in the kitchen and near the furnace.

Attach ladders to the outside of the house or have folding aluminum ladders handy. Or get "throw-out" rope ladders that can be attached quickly to a window sill.

Now! a better way to grow weeds

NO LONGER NEED YOU GROW LAWN WEEDS THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY... WAITING WEEKS FOR THEM TO DEVELOP FROM SEEDLINGS TO FULL-BLOWN WEEDS BEFORE THEY WITHER AWAY. ORTHO HAS FOUND A WAY TO MAKE WEEDS GROW UP, GROW OLD AND DIE... IN JUST FORTY-EIGHT HOURS!

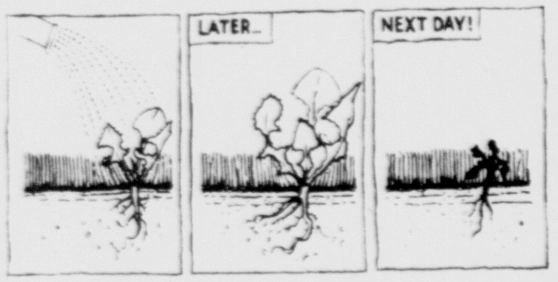
Just imagine!—the weed that flourishes in your lawn on Saturday morning will be shriveled and dead by Sunday night. And you don't bend over once; all you do is spray WEED-B-GON.

AN EARLY GRAVE

WEED-B-GON is the ingenious ORTHO compound of hormone ingredients—2,4,5-trichlorophenoxy and 2,4-dichlorophenoxy. Hormones make things grow and the hormones in WEED-B-GON make weeds grow themselves into an early grave. And not just the tops, either. WEED-B-GON kills weeds from the roots up. Which means, of course, they don't grow back.

WHO'S WHO OF THE WEED WORLD

The list of weeds reads like the Who's Who of the Weed World. Besides the common "lawn variety" dandelion and chickweed, WEED-B-GON kills plantain, dock, oxalis, Japanese clover, thistles, morning glory and wild onion. Even woody plants like poison oak, poison ivy, sumac and brambles can't resist WEED-B-GON. In fact, you can turn WEED-B-GON loose on a tree stump (soak the stump with a pint in diesel oil or kerosene) and the stump you couldn't hack out will wither and die. Now you may well wonder if something this efficient won't kill lawn grass as well as weeds. The answer is no. ORTHO formulated WEED-B-GON so that it can actually tell weeds from grass. It wipes out weeds, leaves grass free to flourish.



MEDICINE MEN, NOT MIRACLE MEN

Do bear this in mind, however: the ORTHO fellows are medicine men, not miracle men. Some weeds may take two applications. But you never bend: you simply spray. Just pour WEED-B-GON into the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer (the jar is calibrated so you put in just the right amount) and attach it to your garden hose. The sprayer automatically dilutes the liquid with hose water as it sprays. It makes weeding easy as watering. And almost as inexpensive. A pint of WEED-B-GON that costs just $1.69, diluted, covers up to 5000 square feet of lawn. What's more, you can "spot treat" weeds with this liquid spray instead of spreading your weed control all over the lawn in places where you don't need it.

NO WORK: ALL SPRAY

The ORTHO Lawn Sprayer that costs $3.95 and is guaranteed for 4 years, is invaluable for applying many other ingenious ORTHO lawn products. A lawn insect spray, for example, that destroys insects, then lingers in the soil for months, preventing a recurrence of the problem. ORTHO-KLOR 44. Or a crabgrass killer that kills the roots as well as the ugly grass itself: ORTHO Liquid Crabgrass Killer. Look for them in the rows of red-and-yellow bottles, boxes and cans at an authorized ORTHO dealer. To make a lawn story short: ORTHO has all sorts of ways to take the work out of lawn care.

Fire!

Split-levels can have their hazards, too. In a house like this one, in Maryland, fire killed a man and his wife, his mother-in-law, and six children.

In the second fire a mother, alone, led and carried her four children, who range in age from four months to four years, from her burning house. She, too, had learned what to do in an emergency.

It takes very little effort to determine the best thing for every member of a family to do in case of fire and to rehearse doing it until everyone performs perfectly:

1. Plan alternate escape routes from every room in the house, bedrooms particularly. Let children who are old enough to think constructively take part in this planning. They can be very resourceful.

2. If it's possible to walk directly to a front, rear, or side door these are the exits to use. But, in two and three story houses, stairways often become impassable because of rising smoke and heat.

3. Make it part of every drill that the exit door be closed after the family has quit the house. Open doors create drafts. The closing of bedroom doors also should be part of every drill—so they will serve as a fire wall, limit a fire's range, and reduce damage.

4. Have a prearranged meeting place, far enough away from the house to be safe no matter how severe the fire may be, where everyone can be accounted for. And have it clearly understood that no one is to re-enter the house under any circumstances. Children die because they run back to rescue a pet or a favorite toy. The fact that the way out was safe is no guarantee it will continue to be. In a fire many things can happen without warning; heating units can explode, walls and floors, ignited by wiring, can burst into flame.

5. Windows which open onto the roof of a porch or extension offer a quick and simple means of escape. Keep a ladder on such roofs.

6. Have it understood—and repeat emphatically—that in the event of fire no one is to open a door until he has tested it with the palm of his hand. A door that is hot or warm should remain closed. And even a door that is cool to the touch should be opened cautiously, no more than an inch, with the person bracing himself against it, with his eyes turned away, so if there should be smoke or gas outside or if any pressure should be exerted on the door, he can close it instantly.

7. Make certain that all members of your family understand that should they awaken in a smoke-filled room, they are to cover their nose and mouth with a pillowcase and crawl on hands and knees to a window, open it and, over and over, call "FIRE!" Because heat and toxic gases, which tend to rise, build up on higher levels, the air that is closest to the floor is the safest air to breathe. But take short breaths.

8. Stress the fact—and, again, repeat—that no one is to jump unless all means of escape are cut off and the room

- No spraying or dangerous odor.
- Perfect for motels • shopping centers • restaurants
- drive-ins • dairy barns • service stations, as well as home use.

Now You Can Enjoy "Insect Free" Outdoor Living . . . All Summer Long!

The all new Jet Control BLACK LIGHT Insect Trap is the most powerful of its kind on the market today. Actually clears a 3 acre area of all harmful insects. Sylvania 10" 22 Watt Black Light draws from grass, gardens, foliage and shrubbery killing adult insect before eggs are laid (at the height of its mating season). Its Emerson 1/20 H.P. motor is 10 times as powerful as competitive models. (Most others have 1/200 H.P. Motors) and its Jet-Control principle actually pulls the insects into the bag with such force (Creating a wind Tunnel With Over 1175 Cubic Ft. of Air per minute suction) that even powerful house flies and mosquitos are powerless against it. Ruggedly constructed of Corrosion Free baked enamel metal to insure years of trouble free operation. Shipped complete with 8 Ft. of weatherproof outdoor cord, hanging bracket and reusable mesh bag. 13" Hi + 12" diam. Wt. 16 lbs. Completely UL approved. reg. $34.95. Now only. $19.95 plus $2.00 PP & HD.
